Sustaining Contributions

ALBUQUERQUE, N. Mex.
Editor, Daily Worker:

As Christmas is nearing, which probably means a cut-down in contributions, we're enclosing $50 for the sustaining fund. One of the sizeable contributions your new four-sheet paper is making is the caliber of what it now contains. The addition of A. B. Magil to the staff enhances its worth considerably. And I'm happy to note the editorial policy is improving.

Will have to admit that for a time I was not even reading the paper. Possibly the biggest lesson to come out of this upheaval is that there is no such thing as a "middle of the road" or "compromise" position. I have found that the "disillusioned" ones don't want to read any of the articles, even the ones that coincide with their views. They are still on their theme of wasting 10 years of their life (why always 10 years, I don't know). Haven't been able to discover what they thought they should have been doing instead, or what they should be doing now.

Regrets Lack Of "Best Bets"

NEW YORK
Editor, Daily Worker:

My weekly $2 contribution is enclosed. I regret that the paper no longer prints the list of recommended plays and movies ("Best Bets").

Good Coverage In Four Pages

SYRACUSE, N. Y.
Editor, Daily Worker:

Enclosed is a money order for $25 for the Daily Worker. Please credit it to Syracuse. This completes my pledge of $100 made last summer. I will try to send more next month, as we must keep our paper alive. I am pleasantly surprised at how much the four-page edition can cover about worthwhile news and views.

Congratulations and best wishes to a grand staff of people.
