Says CP Committee 'Patted' Clark on Wrist

BROOKLYN, N. Y.

Editor, Daily Worker:

The Communist Party National Committee lightly and politely patted Joe Clark on the wrist, when they should have dumped this right wing opportunist months ago. So he takes up good space in the Daily to red-bait Communists and the Soviet Union and quits.

Well, it's one gone and one to go. . . .

A group of us in Brooklyn have each pledged a week's pay for the paper, payable on the day when Johnny Gates, that prize victim of the American Disorder: Right Wing Communism, is either dumped or quits.

Let's hope the day is not too far off when the staff will be throwing another farewell party for him. . . .

Since the editor professes to be liberal enough to let all kinds of flowers bloom in the Daily, it is hoped that this letter from one who ought to be "routed" will see the light of day.

And if the editor wishes a bill of particulars of what American Right Wing Communism is, and can see his way clear to provide some space (not as much as Clark got, of course) then, that can with difficulty for a rank and filer, be arranged.

Family Enjoys Alan Max Column

Editor, Daily Worker:

Ever since Alan Max's column was resumed on a more frequent basis, we've wanted to send him a bouquet for the enjoyment he has brought our family.

Today he added another hunk of pleasure with his column on Syria. I respectfully remain agog at his ability to do wonders with an "athwart stance."
