

AN ANNOUNCEMENT

This will be the final edition of the New Jersey Worker for the time being. It is with deep regret that we make this announcement. It is not because of our own desires or wishes that we are forced to call it quits. We have no other choice.

As readers of the Jersey Worker no doubt know, the Daily Worker and The Worker have been forced to make some severe cuts because of the sharp financial crisis the papers are in.

The Jersey Worker (and all State Editions) are victims of this financial crisis. All State Editions have been abolished.

From now on you will get the National Edition of The Worker. It will contain Jersey news as well as news from all around the country.

So—it's so long and good luck. We are confident that eventually we will be able to reestablish our Jersey Edition. How soon it will be depends on many things—not the least of which is the support of you, our loyal readers.

THE EDITORS.
