

ANGELA DAVIS: PEOPLE'S VICTORY

After 15 months in jail and 4 months on trial, since March 27, 1972. Angela Davis has finally been acquitted of all charges against her. She has been accused of buying guns for Jonathan Jackson and the Soledad Brothers- Fleeta Drumgo, John Cluchette, and George Jackson. The case of the Soledad Brothers goes back to 1969, when a prison guard was killed in a prison riot at California's Soledad Prison. These three brothers were then accused of his death. The case of Jonathan Jackson goes back to August 7, 1970, when a group of four brothers entered court and tried to free a San Quentin inmate who was then on trial. A gun battle broke out and three brothers were killed, including Jonathan Jackson. A judge and a lot of his assistants were also killed in a gun battle. Of the four brothers Ruchell Magee is the only survivor. He is now awaiting trial. His case will probably begin now that Angela's case is over.

Angela's case can be called a victory for the people.

The enemy wants us to believe their propaganda about justice in the courts for anyone, whether you are poor, Black, or Puerto Rican. Angela is out because of the support of the poor people all around the u.s. working and organizing to keep her out. Angela is out but we still have to struggle for Ruchell Magee and all other political prisoners and prisoners of war.

It would be wrong to say that Angela's case was a show of support for the Communist Party of the united states (revisionist). When Angela was captured, poor and working people in the u.s. were faced with a problem: Do we support a member of a sell-out party who was framed by the government? Our answer was yes, we do, because the greater enemy is u.s. imperialism and not a sell-out party. But now that our fight is won, we will not go on to support the communist party.

In its opportunism and racism, the CP-USA (which has been hiding for 20 years) used Angela's case to gain support for itself. Ads appeared in their paper, the daily world, saying 'Free Angela- Subscribe to the Daily World'.

Even more, Angela Davis is losing whatever support she had by using her freedom as a means of spreading CP-USA propaganda. She's even taking a 6 week vacation in the capital of revisionism, the soviet union.

The sister should have realized what was behind our support of her case, and left the CP-USA.
