Don't Forget to Plan for That Riverview Picnic, June 18th NEWSPAPER LIES OF UNION SLUGGING ARE NAILED WITH TRUTH

This Is The Truth About The Sluggers

Let it be understood that organized labor does not stand responsible for the so-called slugging war that has occupied the attention of the Chicago press for some time. Its friends will not permit certain newspapers, by inference or otherwise, to place upon union labor the odium of murders committed in purely personal quarrels.

If Moss Enright killed Vincent Altman he did not do so to further the interests of organized labor, but to satisfy a personal animosity. Likewise the Malloy and Gentleman murders had nothing to do with the unions.

If there were slugging expeditions in gray pirate autos to build-ings where members of rival unions were at work, these tactics certainly had no sanction from organized labor.

The or lack of a true conception of the scope and methods of organized labor is responsible for the stupid cartoons and editorials of capitalist papers in which organized labor is asked to torials of capitalist papers in which organized labor is asked to suppress slugging and shooting.

The average reporter knows less about the form and conduct of labor unions than he does about any other subject whatever.

To him they are queer, foreign organizations, composed of "rough necks." They sound like anarchy to him. The average editorial writer has a conception little different, and that conception is generally warped by directions from the inner office to "give those labor fellows a raking over."

One writer, under pressure of instruction to "make it strong," of the Heavet papers with M. Annenberg of the same lik, he was credited with being the most able gumman and bulldozer in the circulation wreeking are business in Chicago.

This morning two divergent stories were published in the Record Herald and in the Tribune has him captured from an automobile by four officers, who same stories were published in the Record Herald and in the Tribune has him captured from an automobile by four officers, who same stories were published in the Record Herald and in the Tribune has him captured from an automobile by four officers, who same stories were published in the Record Herald and in the Tribune has him captured from an automobile by four officers, who same stories were published in the Record Herald and in the Tribune has him captured from an automobile by four officers, who same stories were published in the Record Herald and in the Tribune has him captured from an automobile by four officers, who same stories were published in the Record Herald and in the Tribune has him captured from an automobile by four officers, who same stories were published in the Record Herald and in the Tribune has him captured from an automobile by four officers, who same stories were published in the Record Herald and in the Tribune has him captured from an automobile by four officers, who same stories were published in the Record Herald and in the Tribune has him captured from an automobile by four officers, who same stories wer without regard to niceties of justice.

And who is it that cries for the hanging of labor men because of fights of sluggers among themselves? None other than the very newspapers that once employed the greater portion of this gang of sluggers to carry on a newspaper circulation war.

Slugging has been one of the favorite methods of warfare between Chicago newspapers. Moss Enright worked for the circula-tion departments of both the Tribune and the Chicago Examiner. It is reasonable to assume that he did not write editorials or do other literary work. Moss Enright's chief earning capacity has for years lain solely in his ability to rough it with somebody else.

When the Tribune and other papers went down to one cent last October there was a great slugging war between the newsies of the different publications, assisted on each side by hired heavy men.

Enright was in this war. One sixteen-year-old newsboy's face was badly crushed by a brutal bully. Every day there were brutal attacks boys who were honestly earning their living. Die enewspapers publish anything about this slugging? Not a line. Let there was more slugging then than has occurred directly in the warfare between the junior steamfitters and the plumbers. It stopped when the publishers agreed to call it off.

In the first place, the newspapers run no chance of losing advertisers when they attack and misrepresent union labor, and they do not as yet suffer much on circulation, though they will when the union men fully understand the power they have in the Socialist

The slugging stories are good copy. They also furnish an excuse for attacks on the chief of police by papers that oppose the administration or that were not favored in the appointment of that administration or that were not favored in the appointment of that the papers is present the papers. It is present the papers is present the papers in the papers in the papers in the papers. The papers is present the papers in the papers in the papers is present the papers in the paper throwing has stopped. That is coincident with two other events, the beginning of the so-called labor slugging and the change of municipal administrations. Now the bombs, admittedly, were used in a gambling war. With that union labor has nothing to do.

Does it not appear that the gang which is responsible for the present murders and sluggings was also responsible for the gambling. Is it not possible that the change of administrations.

the reason for which the bombs were replaced. Maybe the insurgent bomb-throwing gamblers came into power. Maybe the sluggers got out of a job and started trouble in the name of organized labor. Maybe Moss Enright, who was a slugger first-a newspaper one and then a union man afterwards, got the job as business agent so as to furnish his gang employment.

Maybe the reason the police were so slow in finding sluggers was that the election of Harrison was brought about by the very element which quit bomb-throwing when he went into power. It's a queer combination all around.

The most significant bit of evidence is that the sluggers congregated in saloons that have bookmaking facilities in back rooms.

Put all the blame for all these outrages on organized labor in better. They know that their fights are fought by their own rank and file with peaceful cessation of work, boycotting and peaceful picketing.

They hire no sluggers. Sluggers did not build up the union labor movement, and union labor will not take up such methods at this late day.

It's the personal experience of Frank Hallett, the secretary of the Chicago Conference for Unemployment.

Hallett is a young man who has knocked about a good deal looking for work. He knows "things" that many a man a good deal older does not know.

Last summer—it was in June and July, to be more specific—Hallett was through Kansas and Oklahoma. It was the harvesting season in the center of the wheat district. The places forming this center were Onito, Okia, and Great Bend and Hutchinson, Kan.

Mark you, only 5,000 hands were needed in this loosiity, yet they were advestising for 15,000 men in Great Bend and Hutchinson, and for 10,000 in Onito. Needing 5,000 men, they advertised for 25,000 men.

Hear Berger at the Socialist Press. Picnic at Riverview, Sunday, June 18. MEASURE KIDS AT CAR DOOR

Here's a new device introduced in Pittsburg street cars—the height line which supplants the age limit. Pittsburg conductors had many disputes with fond mothers as to the age of children, and many seemingly over five rears old got free rides. Insurance companies reported the average height of five-year-olds at 41 inches, so now any child under that line can ride free. But all over must pay full fare.

The 41-lach line is heavily marked on the rear coors of each car.

Employers in West Seek Flood of Unemployed; Open Agencies.

BY DANA SLEETH

Portland, Ore., June 2 .- Aside from butting into politics and attempting to control the city and state elections in the interest of capital the Federation of Employers' Associations of the Pacific Coast has gone into the employ-ment office business. (Above named organization mean.ag the recently com-pleted alliance of the Citizens' Alliance workers of the coast from Los Angeles to Vancouver, B. C.)

Fight Unions

Fight Unions

In a ... secret letter to the chief union shaters of the coast the following interesting statement of the purpose of this organization was given:

"The purpose is to form an alliance between the different bodies of employers in the different communities on the open shop policy. Every city is to maintain its labor bureau, where men can obtain work, and the employer get open tain work, and the employer get oper shop men."

Now if it be und-rstood that open shop mer mean non-union men and no others; and if it further be understood that in every city of any size on the coast a secret blacklist against all union workers is being made by the local branch of this association; and then, to top it all off, if the understood that top it all off, if it be understood that isands of hapless, ignorant men are thousands of hapless, ignorant men are being brought to the coast under the lying advertisements of this organization and listed at the various "employment" bureaus of the association, something can be guessed of what sort of a struggle is going to come in the near future between this organization and the men of the coast who have trades, families, homes and ambitions to lives Americans are supposed to live.

The railroads help the game along with colonization parties, properly directed, and already hundreds of men have been listed at the Portland bureau to be called at any time as strike breakers.

The new plan of Big Business on the coast is to make its strong central body a listing agency for the herding of non-union workers and for the black listing of all union men as well.

In the free west the big trouble big employers who did not play fair with their men found in combatting a strike was the difficulty of getting workers of any sort.

New Scheme Works

With two men headed west by fancy advertising for every pob, and a coast-wide agency to take care of all these men, this stumbling block in the path of the low-wage advocate is removed.

The new scheme has only been working six weeks. At the present rate of piogress six months should see enough dead back ways.

The walkout followed the refusal of the railroad foremen to deal with the representatives of the workers.

Blowing a whistle and waving a big straw hat, B. C. Murray gave the signal which started the general walkout. For a time it appeared as if the men did not respond, but soon a big locomotive whistle blew and the men, after laying down their tools and defying the foreman's cautions, walked out of the foreman's cautions, walked out o the shop gates and formed a huge pa-rade which grew as the men passed one shop after another.

ANNE MORGAN'S CAPE IS BOYCOTTED

Brooklyn navy yard employes have already tired of Anne Morgan's "wel-fare plan." Some months ago Anne asked her father, J. BERGER_WON IN FEDERAL PROBE OF KIDNAPING

Hearing in Committee Meeting Brought Clear Proof of Burns' Lawlessness.

Washington, June 2 -- Socialists and sahor men who attended the hearings on the McNamara kidnaping case recently held before the house committee on rules are indignant over the way the capitalist newspapers reported the out-tome of Representative Berger's resolu-

Probe Did Not Fail

Much Evidence Heard

All the evidence that representatives of the Structural Iron Workers' union rould procure has been submitted. Also they have been authorized to supplement sheir testimony with additional facts and affidavits.

The members of the rules committee, without a dissenting voice, declared that Representative Berger, Attorney Rappapert and President Ryan had trappapert and President Ryan had proved their case; that a special investigation would probably add nothing of value to the testimony already presents of and that the presentation of this testimony before the judiciary committee would probably result in a reform of the extradition laws. and that the presentation of this serious before the judiclary commisse would probably result in a reform the extradition laws.

Power of Congress

Since congress cannot pass an ex post facto law which would bring about the return of McNamara to Indiana, the next best thing it can do is to make kidnaping impossible in the future. Instead of suppressing the testimony and shelving Berger's resolution, the rules committee has ordered the printing of all the evidence as a house document. While Berger would originally have preferred an exhaustive speeds investigation, it must be understood that our capitalist congress would probably mover have authorized one.

Action Was a Gain

Action Was a Gain

Action Was a Gain

In fact, the action of the committee has been more satisfactory than was expected. The action of the committee is considered here as an important step towards securing federal anti-kidnaping legislation.

The quick action of the committee will also allow Berger to use the present wave of public indignation against kidnaping in favor of his bill amending the extradition laws, which, if passed, will stop kidnaping forever in this country.

Had the rules committee acted as it usually does in such cases, the present session would no doubt have adjourned without any report, favorable or unfavorable.

Can't Blame Berger

But, anyway, even capitalist news-papers cannot openly blame Berger for the refusal of the rules committee to order a special investigation immediate-ly. After all, Berger is one agains: 390

Berger's Probe Fails, reads a headline in a typical capitalist paper. While it is true that no special investigation had been ordered, it is a fact also that practically all the testimony relating to the Indiana outrage has been rendered and that it will be formally submitted to congress.

The capitalist press has suppressed
the fact that the hearings on Berger's president have been more than of a preliminary nature. They were practically broad enough to have been termed an investigation,

They turned in at the gate where the road to the clay pit crossed the fields, and both suified with delight as the warm aromn of the ripe hay rose in their nostrils. As on his first visit, the larks were uttering their rich notes and fluttering up before the horses until the woods and the flower scattered glades were reached, when the larks gave way to bluejays and woodpeckers.

"We're on our land now," he said, as they left the hayfield behind. "It runs right across country over the roughest parts. Just you wait and see."

As on the first day, he turned aside from the claypit and worked through the woods to the left, passing the first spring and jumping tile horses over the ruined remnants of the stake-and-rider fence. From here on Dede was in an unending ecstasy. By the spring she repreached him, as they looked in the representation of surprise and delight.

"And you never told me all this," she repreached him, as they looked in the representation of surprise and delight.

Dete stopped her horse and sighed with the beauty of it all.

"It is as it we are swimmers," she said, "rising out of a deep pool of green tranquility. Up above is the sky and the sun, but this is a pool and we are fathoms deep."

They started their horses, but a dog-tooth violet, shouldering amongst the maddeniar, causeth her eve and grade.

They cleared the crest and emerged from the pool as if into another world, for now they were in the thicket of velvet trunked young madronos and looking down the open, sun washed hillside, across the nodding grasses, to the drifts of blue and white nemophilae that carpeted the tiny meadow on either, side the tiny stream. Dede clapped her hands. They cleared the crest and emerged

"It sure is," she answered.
And Daylight, who knew his weakness cattle track over the low rocky hill and through the scrub forest of manzanita, till they emerged on the next tiny val-ley with its meadow bordered stream-

Next they took the old wood road and came out on the dozen acres of clearing where the wine grapes grew in the wine colored volcanic soil. Then they followed the cow path through more woods and thickets and scattered glades and dropped down the hillside to where the farmhouse, poised on the lip of the big canyon, came into view only when they were right upon it.

Dede stood on the wide porch that ran the length of the house, while Daylight ited the horses. To Dede it was very quiet. It was the dry, warm, breathless calm of California midday. All the world seemed desing. From somewhere pigeous were cooling lastly. With a deep sigh of satisfaction work who had drunk his fill at all the streams along the way, dropped down in the cool shadow of the porch. She heard the footsteps of Daylight returning and caught her breath with a quick intake.

that gurgled among the redwoods grew another great wild lift, bearing on its slender stalk the productions outbursts of white waxen bells. This time he did not dismount, but led the way to the deep canyon where the stream had cut a passage among the knolls. He had been at work here, and a steep and slippery horse trail now crossed the stream and came to the lift by the spring.

Here, also, where the way led up the tangle of the steep hill, he had cut a manual to the redwood twitight, and further on through a tangled wood of oak and madrono. They came to a small clearing of severa, scree, where the grain stood waist high.

"Ours," Daylight said.

She bent in her saddle, plucked a stalk of the ripe grain and nibbled it between her teeth.

"Sweet mountain hay!" she cried.

"The kind that Mab likes."

And throughout the ride she continued to utter cries and ejaculations of surprise and delight.

"And you never told me all this," she reproached him, as they looked becauses.

And another thing they learned was that it was easier for one who has screed at the fiesh pots to content him. self wit the meagerness of a crust that seit wit the meagerness of a crust than for one who has known only the crust. Not that their life was meager. It was that they found keener delights and deeper satisfaction in little things. Day-light, who had played the gume in its biggest and most fantastic aspects, found that here on the slopes of Sono-ma mountain it was still the same old game. Man had still work to perform, forces to combat, obstacles to overcome. When he experimented in a small way at raising a few presents.

When he experimented in a small way at raising a few pigeons for market he found no issa zest in calculating in squabs than formerly when he had calculated in millions. Achievement was no less achievement, while the process of it seemed more rational and received the sanction of his reason.

The domestic cat that had gone wild and that preyed on his pigeons he cound, by the comparative standard, to be of no less paramount menace than a Charles Klinkner in the field of finance, trying to raid him for several millions. The hawks and wear's and 'coons were so many Dowsetts, Lettons and Hammersmiths that struck at him secretly. The sea of wild vegetation that tossed its surf against the boundaries of all his clearings and that sometimes crept in and flooded in a single week, was no prean enemy to contend with accounts. his clearings and that sometimes crept in and flooded in a single week, was no grean enemy to contend with and subdue. His fat-st ed vegetable garden in the nock of hiks that failed of its best was a problem of engrossing importance, and when he had solved it by putting in drain-tile, the joy of the achievement was ever with him. He never worked out experiencing the thrill of accomplishment.

number of hair bridges. The work he did himself, though more then once he was worced to call in Dede to hold tight with a pipe wrench. And in the end, when the bath tub and the stationary turbs were installed and in working order, he could scarcely tear himself away from the contemplation of what his hands had wrought. The first evening missing him, Dede sought and found aim, lamp in hand, staying with silent glee at the tubs. He rubbed his hands over their smooth wooden lips and laughed aloud, and was as shamefaced as any boy when she caught him thus secretly exulting in his own prowess. It was this adventure in wood working and plumbing that brought about the building of the little work shop, where he slowly gathered a collection of lowed tools. And he, who in the old days out of his millions could purchase immediately whatever he might desire, learned the new loy of the possession that follows upon risid economy and desire long delayed. He waited three months before daring the extrawagance of a Yankee screwdriver, and his giee in the marvelous little mechanism was so keen that Dede conceived forthright a great dden. For six months she saved her egg money, which was hers by right of silectment. a great idea. For six months she saved her egy money, which was hers by right of allotment, and on his hirthday pre-sented to him a turning lathe of won-derful simplicity and multifarious ef-defactors. ficiencies. And their mutual delight in the tool, which was his, was only equaled by their delight in Mab's first foal, which was Dede's special private feal, which was Dede's special private property.

It was not until the second summer that Daylight built the large fireplace that outrivaled Ferguson's across the valley. For sai these things took time and Dede and Daylight were not in a nurry. Theirs was not the mistake of the average city dweller who flees in ultra-modern innocence to the soil. They did not essay too much. Neither did they have a mortgage to clear nor did did not essay too much. Netther did they have a mortgage to clear nor did they deeire wealth. They wanted little in the way of food and they had no rent to pay. So they planned unambitlously, reserving their lives for each other and for the compensations of country dwelling, from which the average country dweller is barred. Fram Ferguson's example, too, they profited much. Here was a man who acked for but the plainest fare, who ministered to his own simple needs with his own hands; who worked out as a laborer only when he needed money to buy books and magazines, and who saw to it that the major portion of his waking tirse was for enjoyment. He loved to last lang aftermoons in the shade with his books or to be up with the down and away over the hills.

Test This New Davenport-Bed in Your Home 30 Days at Spiegel's Expense

250 People Will Be Enlisted Saturday to Help Us Decide Whether These Pieces Win a Permanent Place in Our Lines-Will You Be One of Them and Save $10.55 Clear Money?

The maker stated to as that this is the best Davenport that was ever made to seli at $33.50. Our experts examined it—took it apart, put it through every known test, and were convinced that the maker's statement is true.

But our decision and the maker's decision alone are not enough. We want the people who use these pieces to say whether they are the best Davenport-Bed value the furniture world has ever known.

If this Davenport - Bed is the big success that we feel certain it will be, it will receive a permanent showing in our 4 Chicago stores, and the regular price will be $33.50.

250 families will be permitted to make this test for us to-morrow, and in so deing save exactly $10.55.

We will put one of these handsome pieces in their 250 homes for $2 down. They will test it 30 days. If they find it all that we say, they can pay us $2 monthly until they have paid in all —not $33.50, the regular price-but only $22.95.

"The Twelve-Pound Look"

The Denver Post, one of the leading capitalist dailies of the west, savagely attacks Socialism over the shoulders of Ethel Barrymore, who plays in a most powerful and moving manner Barrie's biting arraignment of capitalism, "The Twelve-Pound Look."

We quote the Post to show the utter ignorance, feigned or actual, of the average capitalistic writer on economics and the principles that underlie the production of wealth:

"This arraignment of success is perhaps pardonable. And yet what a sorry and distorted world this would be if there was no material success."

"Suppose, for instance, the capitalist was destroyed. What would become of labor? Who would provide the requisite to build great enterprises? Who would get employment? Where would the suffering be the greatest? Success for the few is absolutely necessary in the interest of the many.'

The capitalist, as such, does not create opportunities or create wealth.

The raw material of wealth is furnished by nature. Land, mines

The raw material of wealth is furmished by nature. Land, mines, forests, waterfalls, are not "made" by the capitalist. He "gets" a title to them and taxes labor for the privilege of producing wealth.

The capitalist does not make machinery nor railroads. Labor builds them. He does not "make" money. Government does that. The capitalist only "gets" it.

There have been and are great organizers of industry, promoters of the forests with creek powers to forests development and to of trade, financiers with great power to foresee development and to help it along. But they only help to create wealth; they are only a part of that vast force—humanity—that moves on to the conquest of the world. They do not earn millions while the men who work for them get a mere pittance. Nor is the question how much did they earn or get important.

The vital issue is, BY WHAT RIGHT DO THESE SUCCESS-FUL ONES OBTAIN THE PERPETUAL OWNERSHIP OF THE MEANS OF PRODUCTION SO THAT THE VAST MA-JORITY MUST TOIL AND SLAVE FOR THEM?

The Post does not break the force of this question by saying: "Your cook or your laundress may be your distinguished hostess tomorrow, who knows? "The butler or the section hand, the laborer or the petty clerk may, by a turn of opportunity, be the master in a month. It is not impossible; it is, in fact, scarcely im-

"When the servant of the house grows CLASS-CON-SCIOUS, and makes up his mind to be a boss, he usually reaches his aim. It is not difficult, or unusual.

In the first place, the statement is not true. Very few cooks ever become millionaires, and those that "get" millions do not earn them, but get them through legal or illegal robbery.

Capitalists tell us "the workers get all they earn." Let us figure a little: Five dollars per day is a big wage—three hundred days' employment per year is exceedingly good.

That makes $1,500 per year. Suppose the man and his family spend $1,000; that leaves $500 saving per year, or not quite one million dollars since the days of Christ. If the worker who gets $5 per day gets ALL HE EARNS, how does the millionaire get his millions in a few years?

Trusts Triumphant

We want to drive home the fact that the late decisions of the Supreme Court in the Oil and Tobacco cases are regarded by capi talists as a triumph of the trusts.

We quote the Financial World (New York) of May 27. Its note of jubilation is clear, distinct and unequivocal:

"Nothing in the Standard Oil decision by the United States Supreme Court has made such a deep impression as the declaration of Chief Justice White that the real mean-ing of the Sherman anti-trust law is to be considered and interpreted in the light of reason, and not literally. The court's declaration gives our constitution elasticity and living force. It lifts the constitution up to the spirit of the times. It makes it a vital force in the continuous changes of life and business."

Trusts are now classified into "good trusts" and " bad trusts," and it will be left to the courts to decide in each case to which class the trust on trial belongs.

The courts will follow the well-established rules of capitalism in rendering their verdicts. A trust will be permitted to pay rent on all the real estate and imporvements used by it, but owned by ne other friendly corporation. The rate may be fixed by the court. The trust will be allowed to issue interest-bearing bonds, and the rate of interest may be fixed by the court.

The trust will be authorized to pay dividends upon its stock, the rate not to be unreasonable.

Thus capitalists, the owners of the trusts, will be permitted, in fact authorized by the government, to collect rent, interest and profit in "reasonable" amounts.

But what is reasonable? Is 5 per cent reasonable? Let us see.

But what is reasonable doubles the principal sum every seven.

Five per cent paid annually doubles the principal sum every seventeen years; so, that if 5 per cent is paid, the working class pays for ALL THE PROPERTY OF THE OWNING CLASS ONCE EVERY SEVENTEEN YEARS, BUT NEVER GETS TO OWN THE PROPERTY.

Take a concrete example. John inherits $100,000 of stock bringing 5 per cent. That means that he gets $5,000 annually WITHOUT LABOR. Walter inherits nothing. He is lucky if he gets a chance to work for John at $1,000 a year. John gets $5,000 for doing nothing. Walter gets $1,000 for working hard, and this inequality in constitution, as well as any other mo-tions or resolutions to be voted upon by the entire membership of the party, shall be submitted by the national sec-retary to a referendum of the party incomes and in the manner of getting them will continue during all their lives and during the lives of their descendants.

John may lose his $100,000 by extravagance or gambling. It might even happen that Walter might steal it from him, but that would not alter the UGLY FACT that whoever holds the $100,000 is tock has the POWER TO LEVY ANNUALLY $5,000 OF TRIBUTE FROM HONEST, PRODUCTIVE LABOR.

Tions or resolutions to be voted upon by the entire membership of the party, shall be submitted by the national secretary to a referendum of the party, membership, upon the request of locals representing at least 5 per cent of the entire membership."

Now this clause was carefully discussed by the committee. It still stands with the only change that all of the entire membership."

Meanwhile, the business in the ports in Chicago are fulling off. According to testimony given before the special examiner, B. C. Today twelve tugs are able to handle the business.

So, while in Chicago, under a capitalistic azimulatration, there seems to be a falling off in the business that is done, on the other hand, in Milwankee, under a Socialist aliministration, the

Don't Get Excited

In a previous article I pointed out that it is one of our great tasks to break down and destroy the economic conservatism in the minds of the people so that their minds will become ripe for Socialism.

We are doing it very fast.

In the past ten years we have been able to see this conservatism, this prejudice against Socialism, gradually disappear before our eyes.

We have destroyed at least half of it in these ten years. I do not mean that half the people have come to the point where they vote the Socialist ticket; but at least half the prejudice has disappeared.

In other words, the people of the United Staces have swung at least half-way over to Socialism in the past ten years.

In a few more years the rest of the prejudice will disappear and they will swing the rest of the way.

Then their minds will be ripe for Socialism.

And we will then have Socialism.

But do not think the task of battering down the remainder of this prejudice is going to be easy.

But do not think the task of battering down the remainder of this prefudice is going to be easy.

Memorial Day to Our Comrades of the Mines

BY FRANK J. HAYES

He lived afar from Mammon's proud estate;
He knew not empty pride nor hollow sham;
He gave the best he had—nor mourned his fate—
His ev'ry word and deed proclaimed the man.
Ay, place a wreath spon his lowly grave,
Our comrade and our friend of other days;
Fame knows him not—but Truth salutes the brave,
The hero of the underground, with meed of praise.

Pie was the lot to toil in pits of night,

To give the race the product of his skill,
To turn the wheels of commerce and to light
The world with varied beauty—and to fill
The coffers of the few, who own the earth,
With golden treasure—and to shape the way
For culture, science, progress, things of worth—
And so he toiled and perished in the fray.

Fate gave him not to glory, but the race,

If truth prevailed, would place him high above
The pampered soldier, decked in braid and lace,
And honor him—and place the rose of love
Upon his humble grave, unmarked by stone,
And consecrate with tears his resting place;
But all the state of the resting place; But, ah, we mourn our bitter loss alone, While Mammon jests and Greed goes on apace.

Hungry Children Cheer Royalty

The riot of adulation, cheering and lick-spittling in connection with the coronation has been thus well started and the fever may be expected to rage with ever-increasing violence till its cilmax on the Coronation Day itself.

It scarcely ought to be necessary to point out the hollowness of it all, and how, beneath and behind all the display of flags in the streets, the stitter of arms and uniforms, the beauty of the prancing steeds, lie the festering poverty, squalor and sordid misery which are the lot of the great mass of the people.

The gorgeous display is nothing but mere surface show. The irony of it, that hungry, working multitudes have the well feed idle fees.
