On the question of United Front policy there should be less talk of unmasking. Workers' government is possible within the framework of bourgeois democracy on account of the disintegration of this democracy. At the Fourth Congress Zinoviev spoke of the possibility of a coalition of workers' parties; at present Zinoviev opposes such a coalition. Here is a contradiction that must be explained.

Wolfe (Mexico) goes on to say that America is not only the center of world capital, but it is now becoming the center of world reaction. In South American countries uprisings are going on, financed by the big capitalists of the United States. The labor move ment is finding itself in the hands of petty bourgeois leaders and of Gompers. In the labor unions in South America there is a tremendous sentiment in favor of the Communists. The Amsterdam International is without any influence at all.

WASHINGTON, July 17 .- Bitterness toward Al Smith and his Tammany gang in the gallery of the democratic convention in New York is voiced by the weekly press clipsheet of the Methodist Episcopal church board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, issued here. It thanks God for the heroism of McAdoo and declares that the Ku Klux Klan at least did not demand that the Catholic Church or the Knights of Columbus be denounced in the platform.

Then this mouthpiece of the Methodist temperance board predicts that "Millions upon millions of them (the democrats who stood by McAdoo) are preparing to answer the alien roughnecks of Tammany. And now, with white-lipped determination they intend to see to it that Tammany shall never again have the slightest influence at the nation's capital."

U. S. Dollar Drops Mask in London

(Special to the DAILY WORKER) LONDON, July 17. - American capital is rapidly dropping its mask of unofficial observation at the London Reparations Conference and in European affairs.

Owen D. Young, who wrote the League of Nations section of the Versailles Treaty, and who was a member of the International Comittee of Experts that prepared the so-called Dawes scheme for the salvation of European capitalism is ready to become "agent general for reparations payments."

Mr. Young is a banker of international renown and is one of the leading figures in the General Electric Company which is controlled by the Morgan interests and which has heavy investments in the principal European countries.

The office which Mr. Young is ready to accept will make him the spokesman of American finance and industry in the capacity of a fiscal agent, a money agent for the execution of the Dawes report. Mr. Young will be functioning as the receiver of Germany in behalf of international capitalism which is today bossed by the American group of financiers and manufacturers. In addition to being chairman of the transfer committee, that is the committee thru whose hands all the money will go in the dealings between Germany and the Allied imperialists, Mr. Owen D. Young is also slated to be appointed the arbiter on all questions of dispute before the general reparations commission. This position will give American capitalists some of the guarantees they have been seeking before sinking their hundreds of millions of dollars into a German loan upon which the life of the whole reparations scheme depends. Premier McDonald has laid down in his keynote speech the guarantee huge German loan as the primary objective of the London Conference. Ambassador Kellogg acting as an anofficial observer for the United States at this Conference, is participating more openly in the deliberations than any unofficial American observer has at the Hague and Genoa conferences. The current belief is that Mr. Kellogg who is high in the councils of the Washington administration and who is a recent appointee to the Court of St. James. reflects the official opinion of the Coolidge regime. Mr. Kellogg's being all for the appointment of Young to the above-mentioned office is taken as the opinion of the United States government on the question.

Making Mr. Young's appointment legal, giving it an official status in the United States would be of tremendous help in lending permanency to the plans of the Allied bankers who are the powers behind the scene in all the deliberations of McDonald and Herriot. Towards this end it is not likely that time will be lost in waiting for official senate sanction of this appointment. There are plans afoot here to secure official American authorization for Mr. Young by an executive protocol declaring him the representative of the American, English, Swiss and other interests loaning money to Germany under the Dawes plan which has already been indorsed by Coolidge in a speech he recently delivered at New York.

Were it not for the fact that the United States is facing a national election and that consequently such action might have a harmful effect on the results of the reactionary republican campaign this quick and decisive method of making America an official member on the reparations commission would be immediately resorted to.

Whether such a step wil be taken mmediately or not the fact remains that American capitalists will very soon be represented, at least unofflcially, on this receivership committee for Germany. J. P. Morgan & Co., the banking group is counted upon to float the huge loan of $200,-000,000 in the United States is insisting upon such representation. There is no doubt about his having his way. Thomas W. Lamont who, ext to Morgan, is the outstanding figure of the American firm of financiers is bringing pressure to bear on the French financial group to accept the Dawes plan without reservation. Mr. Lamont has been closeted in for hours with Monsieur Clementel, the French Minister of Finance, at the Hyde Park Hotel in order to impress him with the full meaning of America's readiness to assume official responsibilities in the reparations controversy.

Lamont's Conference Gets Quick Results

LONDON, July 17.—The long conference which Thomas W. Lamont of the House of Morgan held yesterday with M. Clementel, French minister of finance, in behalf of the Dawes plan, bore some fruit today.

The French members of the committee of the inter-allied conference dealing with the authority of the reparations commission issued a statement supporting the $200,000,000 loan to Germany which is proposed under the Dawes plan.

This is the strongest indication French members have yet given that they may line up with the international bankers' scheme. Much remains to be done; there is still strong possibility that the Dawes plan will split on the rock of the reparations commission. The French have always taken the position that financial arrangements with Germany shall be handled thru this reparations commission which they control. The English government and the international bankers are urging a special commission in which America shall be represented thru such men as Owen Ultimatum From Morgan. Lamont is believed to have laid down the ultimatum from the House of Morgan that financial favors to the French government depend on its acquiescence in the Dawes plan.

Recently the House of Morgan saved the French franc with a substantial loan. Similar support will be needed again.

The New York banker who co ed the parley with Clementel has had rich experience as a financial-political envoy. During the long negotiations at Versailles in 1919 President Wilson leaned on Lamont and is understood to have followed his advice closely. Lamont's international moves are always made in accord with the needs of the great banking house with which he is associated and governments dealing with him know that they are dealing with the responsible spokesman for the most powerful international money group in the world. Bankers and British Agree.

Bankers and the British government are anxious to see the reparations and loan problems handled thru a group in which America is represented. They feel this to be so important that the loan to Germany and the whole Dawes plan may fall thru unless their wishes are followed. The present reparations commission, controlled as it is by France, is unsatisfactory and leads to a condition of financial uncertainty in Germany that endangers foreign investors.

The ruling groups of no other country have lined up behind the Dawes plan more thoroly than in Great Brittain. Not only is Premier MacDonald, nominally a Laborite, behind the bankers program wholeheartedly, but Stanley Baldwin, for the conservatives and Herbert Asquith, for the Liberals, have endorsed it. France offers the only serious obstacle and the feeling now is that her opposition is waning before the Morgan press-

Even the Drugged Brain May Rebel

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY the Chicago Tribune prepares a new mental drug for the workers. It is preparing to broadcast the degrading proceedings of the Loeb-Leopold murder trial that starts August 4th in the Cook County (Chicago) Criminal Courts.
The Tribune goes thru the fake procedure of asking its readers if they wish this trial put on the radio. For in addition to operating the worst "open shop" sheet in Chicago, the Tribune also boasts Radio Station W-G-N, the initials taken from its self-adopted encomium of "World's Greatest Newspaper."

The Tribune readers will surely vote to have the testimony in the killing of 14-year-old Robert Franks broadcasted. We do not doubt it. Every day these readers absorb the Tribune's poison into their minds. It makes them fit subjects for this new sensation of capitalism's perverted journalism. They will want more of the drug.

Thus the Tribune prostitutes one of the greatest scientific achievements of our times.

The Tribune would stand aghast at any effort to broadcast speeches urging the class organization of the workers and farmers, either politically or industrially.

The Tribune would oppose the broadcasting of any real information as to the present industrial crisis that is coming upon the nation, growing blacker day by day.

The Tribune, as has already happened, would object to the broadcasting of any plea for the class war prisoners. It would oppose any demand for their release.

No word went over its radio about the historic gathering of the Fifth World Congress of the Communist Inter-

It says nothing about the increasing cost of living as the nation's jobless army grows in numbers and meager wages

No word is spoken about the real causes of the war that reddened the world ten years ago; about the new capitalist wars that threaten. None of these things, and a thousand more, that directly concern the welfare of the workers and affect civilization's progress, are given the least attention. They are attacked instead as Bolshevist propaganda.

But the Loeb-Leopold murder trial is to be broadcasted. The story of the lives of three degenerate millionaires' sons, and the murder of one of them by the other two, is to be told in detail.

Radio fans are expected to gorge themselves to the limit over the salacious feast, tickling a satiated brain with every new sensation, feeding a drugged mind always hungering

But perhaps The Tribune has gone a little too far. Perhaps there will be millions who will listen, and wonder why it is that these crimes of degeneracy take place as they do, almost exclusively among the idle rich.

Many will discover, for the first time, how these crimes, in large part, grow naturally out of the present capitalist system of wealth and want. And their anger and hate will be turned against the social system and those who uphold it.

When a kept organ of the parasite few flaunts the crimes of its class before the eyes of the plundered many, the resulting revulsion, among the workers, may well lead in the direction of revolution.

WORKERS MAKE COOKIES; BOSS TAKES PROFITS

Young Workers Expose National Biscuit Co.

The Young Workers League campaign against the National Biscuit Company has aroused a good deal of interest among the young people working in the well-known "Nabis-co" and "Uneeda" factory. The boys and girls are eagerly awaiting the appearance of the Young Worker, the paper which will expose the financial control of their company and the hypocritical position of the "Christian" bosses as well as showing up how the wealthy capitalists make their money by exploiting their slaves for low wages and long hours with serious hazards to health.

The following article is taken from the Young Worker and gives some interesting and too-little known . . .

By BARNEY MASS.

The National Biscuit Co. robs and exploits on a national scale. It is able o monopolize the market of biscuits, thru its forty-one plants and two hundred selling agencies. Incorporated in 1898, in New Jersey, the company acquired by purchase the New York Bisuit Co., Hamilton Co., United States Baking Co., American Biscuit and Manufacturing Co., National Cracker Co., the Decatur Cracker Co. and several small companies controlled by these constituent companies. Many new plants are being erected and the business expanding considerably.
With this huge machinery it continies to pile up more and more profits and simultaneously crushing the lives of thousands of young girls and boys, who toil by hot ovens making bis-cuits to earn a living. It is not a living, but a scant existence

Calls Executive Instable

The policy of the executive committee is very eclectical, it has tended now to a right-wing deviation, now to a leftist deviation. In the face of such instability, it is explicable that many cannot follow and that breaches of discipline occur. The speaker does not wish to create any leftist faction. He opposes fusion with the Italian socialists, is against the formation of nuclei, against the creation of sympathetic parties. The role of leadership which the Communist Party of Russia plays is the best guarantee that the Comintern will remain revolutionary, but nevertheless the greatest dangers of a deviation toward the right are threatening the Communist Party of line among the rest, then who-in-Russia. Operation of Germany by international capitalists as a giant workshop geared for scientific mass exploitation of labor is the objective of the Dawes plan. Capitalism does not concern itself with those who fall by the wayside unless their passing can be turned to political use, such as the recent, unfortunate death of Calvin Coolidge, junior. FOR PRESIDENT

Picnic Coming Aug. 17; Wants Him to Speak

By WALLACE METCALFE.

(Special to The DAILY WORKER) YOUNGTOWN, Ohio, July 17 .-Steel workers in Mahoning valley who have been hearing much of LaFollettism during the past several weeks from reactionary trade union leaders have expressed a great desire to hear William Z. Foster, the presidential candidate of the Workers Party.

The unorganized steel workers are the back-bone of the labor movement in the valley and they accept with a grain of salt protestations of alleged progressiveness coming from reactionary labor leaders who so far have made no efforts to bring about their organization.

Picnic In Youngstown.

The sub-district committee of the Workers Party made up of delegates from 16 locals in the valley with a backing of thousands of unorganized steel workers will hold a gigantic mass meeting and picnic nearby Youngstown, on Sunday, August 17. and will endeavor to bring the workers' candidate for president. William Z. Foster, here to address them.

It will be the greatest mass meeting of steel workers in the valley since the steel strike. The farmers and pottery workers from Columbiana county and steel workers from Trumbull county will have representatives on the arrangements committee.

Watch for Details.

Bill Foster for President, meets with the hearty approval of the steel workers and efforts of the LaFollette organization to prevent the steel workers from backing up the only real workers' and farmers' program by leading them up the dark alley of reformism and politically sandbagging them into voting for LaFollette only causes further determination to back the party of their class.

The place and further details on the monster Foster meeting will be published in the DAILY WORKER at an early date.

Golden Rule Capitalism

A distinguished financial writer took great pains the other day to give his numerous readers the impression that the turning over of companies to workers is becoming increasingly popular.

It would be foolhardy to blink the fact that recent years have seen various instances of employ ers handing over stock to their workers or calling upon certain sections of their laboring forces to participate in the management and operation on this occasion. But how does the lone congressof the factories.

The Plight of the Socialists

"Our gubernatorial situation is a mess and needs clarifying" is the confession in bankruptcy just uttered by Victor Berger, the recent convert to LaFolletteism, in commenting on the political situation in Wisconsin.

The poor socialists! What they can hope for in the local and state situations after they have signed their own political death certificates on a national scale at Cleveland? What basis of protest have they against LaFollette when they have allowed him, against whom they have thundered for years, to swallow them whole?

The Honorable Berger, now member of LaFollette's board of strategy to prevent the workers and poor farmers from organizing along class lines politically and from voting for the only working class ticket in the field, laments the contest of figure-slinging now raging between Hirst and Blaine in the gubernatorial primary contest. The Bergerites are up against it. Nationally, they are kneeling at the feet of LaFollette. Locally, they have their own organization to preserve. In the state, their socialist party past still weighs down upon them, and they just can't see their way clear to supporting the LaFollette lackey Blaine, the present governor.

Indeed, the situation is a mess. We welcome the rare and refreshing honesty shown be Berger man propose to get out of the treacherous forass

RUSSIA IN 1924

Those were the terrible days of 1921. But how different is the situation in 1924. A great improvement has taken place in the condition of the people, which means that the revolution is patently succeeding. But before going into details as to how and in what degree this improvement has taken place, let me deal awhile with a few general impressions and indications. Every place one turns one sees visible signs of the economic recovery. The people are manifestly stronger and healthierit is safe to say that the men in the cities have gained at least 20 pounds in weight since three years ago. They are now full of life and energy, whereas, in 1921, everybody being hungry, no one stirred unless he was compelled to. Every visitor remarks at once the striking improvement in the appearance and actions of the people. The great epidemics of typhus and cholera, which raged during the early years of the revolution, have been practically wiped out and the most vigorous sanitary measures have been taken to prevent their recurrence. The fuel crisis is over. Although wood and coal are still high-priced and hard to get, they are not the life and death issue they were three or four years ago. No longer does one find the stove chimneys sticking out of the windows of the apartment buildings and blacking up the whole front—the steam heating apparatus has long since been put into order again. One most striking improvement that I noticed was in the factory creches-houses for taking care of the workers' babies during work hours. In 1921 these institutions, however well meant, were really appalling for want of food and other essentials. But those that I visited recently were a real joy to look at. With at least the necessities of life to go on, they were filled with happy children. The people are much better clothed. Indeed, a Moscow crowd of today would not look out of place, so far as the quality of its clothes are concerned, in any city in eastern Europe. A remarkable development is the growing use of leather for clothing. One sees hundreds of men dressed from head to foot in leather—cap, coat, pants, boots, and all. In Moscow, Leningrad, and other big cities, the street cars, throughly cleaned, painted, and repaired, are running at more than pre-war schedules, whereas in 1921 they were forlorn looking objects, only an occasional one to be seen, and that always with its steps and handles broken away and otherwise in a general state of disrepair. The street lights are on in full again, whereas in 1921 there was not a street light in all Moscow. Likewise, the telephone service, what there is of it, is in good operation and repair. Indeed, one can get a number as quickly in Moscow as in New York, which perhaps, is after all not much of a compliment to Moscow. Everywhere buildings are being painted and repaired and streets repaved. The streets are crowded with vehicles, so much so that traffic police have been installed, although their primitive methods will hardly be copied by the New York trafic squad.

But far more encouraging than the signs of improved wellbeing, which are upon all sides, is the beter morale of the working masses, which is likewise everywhere in evidence. In 1921 the revolution seemed practically a lost cause to all except the devoted minority of Communists. They, it was, who held the masses together and literally made them fight on after they were licked. But now the situation is profoundly changed. At present the opinion prevails everywhere that the revolution is a success. The only questions now are really matters of detail as to how the revolution shall be brought to its fullest fruition. There is still much suffering and hardship, but this is mild in comparison with the terrible conBy WILLIAM Z. FOSTER ditions of former years. Likewise there is still much discontent among the masses of workers at their hard lot, but this discontent is no longer counter-revolutionary, or available for counter-revolutionary purposes, as it was, say, at the time of the Kronstadt revolt in 1921. There are still some strikes, but they are of a minor character, and the era of desperate peasant uprisings has ended. The solidity of the revolution was demonstrated during the recent crisis in the Russian Communist Party over the questions of democratizing the Party, etc. The discussion shook all Russia. But it wound up constructively with a newer and better unity in the Party. Anyone who had attempted to use the profound agitation for counter-revolutionary aims would have had the surprise of his life. Recently an American correspondent paid a lefthanded compliment to the prevailing spirit of optimism by declaring that the way things were going the kulaks (rich peasants) would overthrow the government in about 10 years. Formerly such correspondents enthusiastically saw the collapse of the Soviet Government from month to month, but now they have had to shove it off for at least 10 years. But the Russian workers are not afraid of the kulak any more than of his city pal, the Nepman. They have a very sharp weather eye upon both and will take care of them in good season and in thorough fashion. The workers now know that their revolution is a success, and this optimism gives them added power for the solution of the many tremendous problems still ahead. One of the first things that struck me upon entering Russia, after passing through depressed and poverty-stricken Poland and Germany, was the happy and optimistic appearance of the people. The very air of Russia now is permeated with victory and hope.

The Revolutionary Workers.

In the factories the workers' revolutionary spirit burns high. They are politically the best educated workers in the world. They are great internationalists, following eagerly the events in all countries. They are especially interested in America, home of the highest technical industrial development and the great stronghold of capitalism. They look forward eagerly to the world revolution and they are doing their share to bring it about. In spite of their own impoverished condition, they rally with funds and other aid to every mass movement of workers in Europe making a real fight, and when the opportune time comes they will give more substantial aid with the RedArmy. They are the backbone of the Ruhr relief, and the International Red Aid. Indeed, sometimes the unions have to forbid collectors for various revolutionary causes from going to the factories to ask assistance, because the militant workers will always vote a day or two's pay, although to do so means to work real hardship upon themselves. In other respects the workers are equally militant. An interesting illustration of this took place while I was in Moscow. This was in the election of the committees that manage the various apartment and tenement houses. For some time past there had been a tendency to be lax in this matter, with the result that Nepmen and other unscrupulous, non revolutionary etlements, got control of the housing committees in many buildings. They then proceeded to use their control unfairly, giving favored locations, lower rent rates, and other advantages to their friends. Besides, they neglected the house and allowed them to fall into disrepair. But in the election of these committees this Spring, the workers cleaned up on the non-revolutionary elements, driving them out of control everywhere. It was a most interesting phase of the class struggle and it caused much comment throughout the places affected. (To Be Continued Tomorrow)
