Bosses Condescend to Increase Wages After Cutting Them

(By The Federated Press.) DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 25.—Motor men and conductors employed by the local street railway company, a Stone and Webster concern, have been granted an increase in wages.

The superintendent of the company announces that the increase is given because of "loyal, courteous and efficient service and the splendid spirit in which the reduction in wages of Aug. 1, 1921, was accepted."

The workers have never had a union to look out for their interests.

Paper Workers in Demand for Wages Increase or Strike

(By The Federated Press.) NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The 44-hour week and a 25 percent increase in wages is demanded by the Paper Box Makers Union here as the alternative to a strike September 15.

RUSSIA AROUSED BY MURDER OF WORKER CORRESPONDENT WHO EXPOSED LOCAL GRAFT

By M. A. SKROMNY

A murder which sent a wave of indignation all over the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics was committed recently in a small village of Ukraina.

Many of the criminal elements of Russia, the exploiters, the czarists, etc., when they saw that all is lost for them, began to join the Communist Party in the district where they were not known.

When Gregory Malinovsky came back from the Red Army to his small village, Dymovka, he found a gang of criminals entrenched in official positions.

Gregory, who faced the fire of the enemy on the battlefield, was not scared. He opened an attack at the village meetings and in the press.

Gregory Malinovsky suspected that murder has been committed and with the aid of a few comrades, mostly former Red Army men, intensified his campaign against the grafters.

CZARIST PRINCESS JAILED FOR STORE ROBBERY IN FRANCE

PARIS, August 25.—Princess Eugenie Galtzine, 60 years old, wife of Prince Nicolas Galtzine, of the czarist regime of blood and terror before the Bolshevik revolution, has been sentenced by default to two months' imprisonment and a fine of 200 francs for stealing from a department store here.

CAPPELLINI NOW JOINS WITH THE CATHOLIC CHURCH

Had Denounced Them at Time of Election

(Special to Daily Worker.) PLAINS, Pa., Aug. 25.—The "No Work" whistle was blown here last night, while the men were assembled in their local union meeting.

Not content with having closed the mines down last Friday and Saturday on account of a religious holiday, they closed the one here again today and those who have a little to spare, or those who can pull a little of that self-denial stuff, are invited to unload at the new edifice or at the carnival across the street, which is being run in conjunction with same.

After the parade and a dedicatory mass, at which three Bishops and scores of priests were reported in attendance, a big chicken dinner was served to the invited guests by the women of the parish.

The local papers had announced that speaking was on the program and many of the miners, formerly supporters of Cappellini, were on the job to hear what he had to say, but their disappointment was a bitter one indeed when they were informed that the speeches were of the after-dinner type and were to be delivered indoors.

Cappellini drove a good type sedan which was draped in the national colors and at one point in the line of parade, the auto section was stopped for some reason or other and the ex-radical left his car, going back to the second one to fraternize with the lords of the church who took second place to him in the parade.

(By The Federated Press.) ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 24.—In an attempt to force union recognition from the notorious anti-union Ward Bakeries, General Organizer Walsh of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' union has come to Rochester to extend his help to Local No. 14.

PLUTE GREET'S "LABOR" BANKS AS BOSS TOOL FOR GETTING WORKERS TO JOIN LOVE FEST

By LELAND OLDS (Federated Press Industrial Editor)

Will labor banks prove merely a supplement to employ stock ownership and customer ownership schemes for identifying the interests of workers and consumers with the corporate interest which exploit them? This is the question raised by a statement in which President Charles E. Mitchell, of the National City Bank of New York, welcomes labor banks to the bosom of the banking community.

Labor banks for the time being, to judge from Mitchell's statement, fit in well with the plans of the big New York banks. These powerful financial interests welcome labor's new venture as a means to breaking down class lines between workers and owners, as a means to spreading the idea that bankers are not parasites, and as a means to mobilizing labor's monthly wage as a basis for further increase of credit capital available for industrial expansion.

"There are certain reasons," according to Mitchell, "why we think the labor banks are a good thing for the whole banking business. These are first, because they demonstrate that banking is not a privileged business but is open to all, that it is not parasitic but perform useful functions in society."

Carrying out this idea that labor banking fits in with the desire of capital to develop a greater identity of interest between the worker and industry he says: "We do not think that the wage earners should be nothing but employees, but that they should plan to share in ownership. The modern form of corporate organization makes it possible for thousands of persons to participate in the ownership of an industry, either as bondholders or stockholders, and we believe it will be for the good of the country to have the railroads and larger industries owned in this manner."

Apparently organized money power sees in labor banking at present little more than a new means of eliminating social unrest and gaining the cooperation of labor. For today ownership of stocks and bonds does not necessarily mean industrial control. It does not challenge the rulership which absentee owners have built up on huge blocks of stock in the key industries.

One point that has been repeatedly emphasized in the multitude of appeals for a fair trial is that the deportation warrants against the four defendants were based upon a law which was not enacted until after they were put into prison. Accordingly, the protestants have pointed out, the present act of the immigration authorities is in direct violation of the clause in the Constitution which stipulates that "no ex post facto (after the fact) laws shall be passed."

Mexican Workers in Protest Against Act Of Vandalism on Art

(Special to The Daily Worker.) MEXICO CITY, Aug. 25.—Workers organizations from all parts of Mexico are pouring in letters of protest to the educational authorities and expressions of sympathy to the Union of Revolutionary Painters as a result of a recent act of vandalism committed by a group of fanatical and ignorant students on the mural paintings of J. Clemente Orozco (the Mexican Goya) and D. Alfaro Siqueiros.

The murals were completed a short time ago in the patio of the National Preparatory School and their mutilation was the work of a band of students of that school. A group of foreigners resident in Mexico City, among them the well-known author of "Mexico: An Interpretation," Carlton Beals, has published an open letter in protest.

JAURES' MURDER PLANNED BY WAR DEPT. OF FRANCE

Russ Ambassador Gives Game Away

(Special to The Daily Worker.) PARIS, Aug. 25.—That the murder of Jean Jaures, greatest of French Socialist leaders, on the eve of the outbreak of the world war in 1914, was probably carefully planned by persons high in power, is given support by a secret letter from the pen of Iswolsky, the Russian ambassador in Paris, to the Russian foreign minister dated July 30, 1914.

It is recalled in this connection that the French nationalists had secretly prepared a list of some 2500 persons who were regarded as dangerous by the government in the event of war. While nobody can prove that the murder of Jaures was sanctioned by the men who conferred with Iswolsky on July 30, yet it is a significant fact that the Jaures' murderer, Villain, was not brought to trial until five years after committing the deed, and that the indictment was so framed that acquittal naturally followed.

Most of the union members nodded their heads when the honorable doctor predicted a farmers' revolution if taxes kept piling upon the honest sons of the soil.

Pass Act to Drive Radical Newsies Off Streets of Berkeley

BERKELEY, Cal., Aug. 25.—Not content with driving Herman Meyling away from his stand in front of the University of California, where for several years he has tried to sell radical and liberal periodicals to the goose-stepping students, the city of Berkeley has passed a special ordinance for his express benefit, making it a crime to sell literature on the city streets.

Four members of the I. W. W. who have served prison terms for their social opinions have been summoned to appear in the federal court here on September 16, when there will be a hearing on warrants calling for their deportation as "undesirable" residents. The four are: Pietro Nigra, Italian born; Herbert Mahler, Canadian; Joseph Oates, Englishman; and William Moran, Australian.

All four were convicted in the Chicago I. W. W. war-opinion trials in 1918, and all served five years in Leavenworth penitentiary. Many protests against their being deported have been sent to President Coolidge and Secretary of Labor Davis by Americans who believe in carrying out the fundamental guarantees of the United States Constitution. In fact, so many protests have reached the federal authorities that the Department of Labor uses a form-letter as a means of acknowledgment.

One point that has been repeatedly emphasized in the multitude of appeals for a fair trial is that the deportation warrants against the four defendants were based upon a law which was not enacted until after they were put into prison. Accordingly, the protestants have pointed out, the present act of the immigration authorities is in direct violation of the clause in the Constitution which stipulates that "no ex post facto (after the fact) laws shall be passed."

All labor unions and individuals who believe in free speech and who have not yet voiced a protest against these threatened, unjustifiable deportations are urged by the General Defense Committee of Chicago to write at once to President Coolidge or to Secretary of Labor James J. Davis. Those who protest are asked also to send copies of their utterances to James Morris, secretary of the Defense Committee, at 1001 West Madison Street, Chicago.

GREGORY MALINOVSKY

knew anything about this murder. Only one of his comrades did not rest and quietly continued an investigation. As a result, the murderers are under arrest.

Brother Confesses. The brother, Andrew Malinovsky, confessed to everything. He told how the gang worked on him for months, telling him that his brother was a bandit, an enemy of the people and an enemy of God, and finally they made him drunk with moonshine and gave him a loaded shotgun with which he killed his own brother.

The case brought forth a storm of indignation. In many cities labor correspondents held special meetings and passed resolutions demanding immediate investigation by the G. P. U., of all cases of graft, etc., which are appearing in the press, in order to prevent other similar cases.

Many newspapers are collecting money for the aid of the victim's family.

Demand Compensation for Unionist Who Is Deprived of His Work

An interesting question arises from the situation that confronts John Sassman, a union butcher. Following an attack of typhoid fever in January, the department of health pronounced Sassman a typhoid carrier and forbade him to handle meats. Three tests at three laboratories, made on the initiative of the union, gave positive results, and the union is making no criticism of Dr. Bundesen, the health commissioner.

The question which the union raises is whether the state, which deprives a man of work for the benefit of the public health should compensate him. At present Sassman, his wife, and children are being supported by the union.

Hundreds in Clamor for Work at Opening of Tacoma Sawmills

(By Federated Press.) TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 25.—Following an announcement a week in advance of the opening of the Dempsey sawmill here, there have been hundreds of men applying for work. Despite the rain and the fact that the regular crew was to be re-hired, a mob large enough to man several mills clamored at the office for work. Two other mills opening the same day were similarly besieged, according to workers. The "Lumber Capital of America" is also the unemployment capital. Eastern labor should disregard press dispatches from the Pacific coast claiming unusual industrial activities.

Rochester Bakers Hot on Trail of Ward Scab Bread

In the meantime, 117 union bakers under the jurisdiction of this union give organized labor and its sympathizers opportunity to confine their consumption of bread and bakery goods to union-made products.
