MANCHURIAN WAR LORD, ALLY OF JAPAN, THREATENS ATTACK ON WASHINGTON, June 22-Fearing MILITANT LABOR IN SHANGHA

(Special to The Dally Worker)

SHANGHAI, China, June 22.-Indications of the reactionary character of the movement of troops by General Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian war lord, into Shanghai, were made plain today when manifestoes were posted thruout the Chinese city announcing that the Manchurian troops would execute strike leaders and all who agitated for the expulsion of foreign imperialism and the liberation of China from foreign domination.

This brazen betrayal by the Manchurian militarists of the interests of the Chinese people seems, however, to be completely ignored, student agitators continuing their mass meetings, demen paying no heed. DESPITE the subserviency of the reactionary labor leaders to the employing class, the capitalist judges continue to hand out injunctions with remarkable celerity. The latest use of this judicial weapon against the workers in Chicago, is in the case of the cigarmakers employed by a local firm which formerly recognized the right of its employes to organize into a labor union. The old heads of the firm having quit, their successors did not want to be bothered with a union so they declared the business would be run open shop in the future.

THE employes struck and got circu-lars printed to acquaint their fellow workers with the facts. They picketed the factory and then the notorious injunction judge, Dennis E. Sullivan got busy. He issued another of his infamous decrees and the cigar makers may now picket at the risk. may, the certainty, of going to jail. There is one very effective way to deal with the injunction menace and that is to mass-picket against it. The labor leaders will spend the rest of their natural lives bellycrawling to policical "friends of labor" in order to win a modification of the injunction evil, but the bosses will always find and means to provent the workers and control the government.

THE Workers Party has on many I occasions urged the labor leaders to go on the picket line and defy the injunction. They have not done this and they will not do it. In the current issue of the United Mine Workers' journal, there is an editorial on injunctions but most of it is taken with a condemnation of violence and lawbreaking evidently hitting at those militant miners who mass-picketed in defiance of the injunction. If the labor leaders gave a real lead to the workers and went out on the pickot line, injunction or no injunction. Denn's E. Sullivan and his kind could use their injunctions for scratch paper for all the good they would do ers left the foreign quarter, Shamthe bosses.

NEW YORK CITY, June 22.-The storm of protest against the autocratic suspension of the three largest locals of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union by the yellow socialized gang which follows the Cahan-Forwards-Hillquit leadership headed by Sigman, Peristein and Feinberg, is rising not only in the three big suspended locals, but also in the other locals of the I. ee's white flag of surrender is already down to half mast. It may be completely out of sight with the pasage of a few more days. We now learn that the recent Brotherhood of Trainmen's convention, held in Cleveland gave Lee and his brother reactionaries a few jobs, the carrying out of which will not be conductive to a closer friendship with the railroad magnates. The Lee class peace plan meeting has been postponed. As will be re membered. Lee went all class colla borationists one hundred points better in proposing a plan for permanent rail peace at the convention of the B. R. T. All railroad executive and Railway Union heads were to gather in solemn conclave to abolish the class struggle. The initial meeting of the cats and mice was to have occurred in this city on June 29. It is not going to be held so soon if at all. "Hot Weather" for Bill Lee

One excuse given is the hot weather. Another is that many radiway experts are going to London to the international railway congress. But these are just excuses. Every sane worker knows that neither weather nor London would keep either railway executives or such a first class bosses' lackey as Lee away from a nice conference held for the purpose of abolishing strikes, wage demands and general opposition to the gang of coupon clippers.

The underlying reason for cancelling the class peace meeting is because the delegates refused to behave Lee-like at the B. R. T. convention. The wonderful scheme of Lee's for truce and peace must not have been acceptable serum for inoculation to the delegates. The convention was a closed door affair. The several progressive delegates on the inside were

The puzzled minister was presented with four documents which he was compelled to sign. One was a note of serting in undiplomatic language China's right to live as an independent country and peremptorily demanding the withdrawal of the French warships from Chinese waters.

Nudge Negligent Ambassador The second was a cable message to a Shanghai republican paper, expressing unequivocal approval of the revolutionary deeds there and urging the students, working men and other patriots to fight to the bitter end. The third was a proclamation to the Chinese people urging them not to give up the fight against the European capitalist. It said: "To the Chinese people: Present events in China prove our people are now entirely awakened and have decided unre-

Such phenomenon is manifest at the present time, but slowly and without much noise. Retail dealers will be pushed out of business by hook or crook. The same will apply to tanning factories and shoe shops either by merging or by being forced out of business thru other competi

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, strenuous efforts are being made by the friends of Senator LaFollette to lift him to the pedestal of "a great man." The noisiest among these LaFollette boosters include many "socialists," altho the "socialist" party at its last convention resolved to break with the LaFollette third party movement, some belligerent delegates even denouncing the treason to the class struggle committed by crawling unreservedly aboard the presidential bandwagon of the late Wisconsin senator.

Human "greatness" depends on who writes history. It is sure that the histories written by the capitalist writers of today, who will give LaFollette honorable mention, will be scrapped on the morrow when labor comes into power.

The czars, the grand dukes and the grand duchesses thought they were "great" in their day in Russia. But Soviet Rule has finally placed upon them their true value. Capitalism today lauds its military heroes as much as any ruling class in the past. But workers will live to learn that Spartacus, the rebellious slave, is more to be honored than the Roman Caesars; that all down the pages of history there are hidden away obscure mention of lowly agitators, propagandists of and fighters for the new day to come, whose names will loom big as the Napoleons, Bismarcks, Welling-tons and their whole breed, to the present day, are forgotten, or remembered only as hideous offspring of a barbarous age that is gone.

LaFollette was not a "leader" in the sense that he was the standard bearer of some new cause. The agitator, who is hounded and jailed by the rulers of today, is he who educates and organizes the workers for the overthrow of the capitalist system.

Walter Thomas Mills, the "socialist" who secured some prominence as the author of "The Struggle for Existence." in the days before the war, rids himself of some super-buncombe when he declares:

"The country has lost the greatest man in its history. LaFollette was the leader of the masses, and history will place his name along with that of Lincoln and Washington."

Altho Lincoln led in the fight for the overthrow of chattel slavery, there came before him John Brown, martyred in the cause of the black slave's emancipation. Washington led in the war against England, but it was a war of the property owners of the colonies, who had slaves both white and black, and who worried little about the human rights of oppressed mankind.

But LaFollette has led no fight. He showed himself a clever politician to be sure. He sided with labor sufficiently to get the support of the trade union aristocracy. He lifted his voice for the farmers, but only loud enough to get some of their votes. When he developed presidential aspirations he disowned the Negroes, fearing it might hurt him among those who really cast the ballots in the South, the whites. LaFollette definitely and decisively showed where he stood in the present class war when he denounced the Farmer-Labor Conference, of June 17, 1924, in St. Paul. When workers and farmers rise to power they will not forget. The historic retrospect of the years to come will show little difference between Coolidge and LaFollette. Both champion the system of private ownership, Coolidge for the big owners, LaFollette for the little owners of private property. All that divided them was the fact that Coolidge ruled for capitalism in the White House, while LaFollette was trying to patch it up in the senate, instead of seeking to destroy it. There are whole flocks of LaFollettes on top, in many nations today, and they are among the worst oppressors of labor. Take Millerand, Briand and Viviani in France, who were even "socialists" in their earlier days.

In the Chicago Federation of Labor, the "socialist," Christian M. Madsen, former member of the state legislature, introduces a resolution declaring LaFollette "a champion of human freedom." Many there are who have uttered words for human freedom. But LaFollette and his following in congress wouldn't even make a fight for free speech during the war. American labor has been smothered with political platitudes, and still staggers under this narcotic influence. aFollette was an excellent utterer of phrases But every call for action found him wanting, even for his own middle class; once when he failed to join the Roosevelt break with the republican party in 1912, and again after the war when he delayed the organization of his so-called "progressive" forces into a third party movement because he thought, "the people are not yet ready for it."

(Special to The Daily Worker.) DETROIT, Mich., June 22-Imbued with a spirit of class consciousness such as has seldon been evident in the Detroit Federation of Labor since the late Sam Gompers handed them his ultimatum two years ago the Detroit Federation of Labor at their last meeting took favorable action on the call issued by the Labor Defense Council for a National Conference to be held in Chicago Sunday, June 28. They elected Wm. Moolenhauer, delegate from the Musicians' Union, as their representative to this conference. Mollenhauer won over John T. By DAVID ENGEL.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 22-The Shoe Workers' Protective Union of Philadelphia has scored its first victory in the fight against the open shop when the Culton Manles shop settled agreeing to all union conditions.

The fight started four weeks ago when the union declared a strike in two factories which refused to recog nize the union working permits. The besses at this time attempted to fire a number of union workers and replace them with non-union men and establish their absolute right to hire and fire workers when they pleased as the first step to establish the open shop with all its miserable conditions. The organized shoe workers of Philadelphia gathered at their union meeting and unanimously decided to go out on strike in these two shops.

As soon as the strike began two workers were arrested and one was beaten up for demanding their pay from the boss who fired them. They were, however, immediately released and the boss was compelled to pay them off.

Scabs Wear Masks!

*During the same week the bosses started to bring scabs into the struck shops late at night with masks on their faces so that strikers would not recognize them. At first with the help of the police the scabs continued to work for a while, but our strikers had some previous experiences and knew how to handle the situation with the result that the scabs did not last more than a couple of days to the great satisfaction and encourage ment of all strikers and union men.

During the early days of the strike a petty boss by the name of Goodman, who only became a boas a few months ago, went to work in one of the struck shops to prove his solidarity to the bosses. Before going to scab he told the pickets that he would see to it that the strikers would starve on the street, which only gave more courage to the strikers who replied that his day will come yet.

Socialist Autocracy Fought by 30,000

By ERNEST ETTLINGER NEW YORK CITY-With a unanimity seen only in great mass strikes, thousands of garment workers at their various mass meetings have unequivocably condemned the attempt of the officials of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union to disrupt their organization and make it a pliable tool of the Forward gang and the socialist party.

The reaction of the rank and fie against the terrorist policy of the union officialdom reached its climat and thousands of workers loyally pledged their support to their duly elected executive boards to fight and resist any attempt to tamper with the organization and so break down the standards attained by years of strug-

Machine Is Desperate.

Menaced by the growing protest of the rank and file against their treacherous policy of collaboration with the bosses, the union machine in one last desperate attempt endeavored to split the organization and weaken the fight ing power of the union. It was pointed out that, whereas the joint board has an income of over five hundred thousand dollars a year, with no legitimate expenses, yet their voracious appetites were never satisfied and in spite of the protests of the local unions they forced thru a raise in the dues which would further end able them to live off the backs of the rank and file.

It also was pointed out by the varous speakers that whereas the sum pended locals had in their ranks forty thousand workers which is sixt per cent of the total union members ship, yet their representation on the joint board was only twenty per cent. And it was only by means of this "rotten borough" system that the machine retained its control in spite of the fact that the overwhelming majority of the membership was opposed to them. At all of these meetings the rank and file unanimously adopted resolutions of condemnation against the tactics and policies of the joint board and the International, and pledged their full support to carry on the fight to the finish, forming for that purpose joint council of the three suspended locals and attempting to win to their support the rank and file of the other

Getting on New York News Stands

THE DAILY WORKER is slowly but surely establishing itself on the New York news stands. Every week additional stands are added to the list, and nursed along until they form the DAILY WORKER habit. A goodly group of comrades have devoted themselves regularly to this work, which is as much worth while for the ultimate success of the New York movement as anything that can be done at present. The city has been divided into routes, and each one of the following is looking after the news stands in a certain section systematically every week

The problem of the consumer-owned coal mine is stressed by commisoner of labor statistics Ethelbert Stewart in an article on the coal situation in Illinois. He shows that failure to take this development into account leads to the false impression that there is a regular yearly market for 500,000,000 tons of coal. The consequent increase in the number of coal mines has brought the industry to its present crisis. He asserts that considerably over half of this demand is supplied by mines controlled by the consumers.

the extent to which these two princi-

The increase in the number of consumers' mines is to a growing extent connected with the development of public utilities. The greater use of gas and electricity in industrial plants and homes means that the consumption of coal will be largely centralized in giant gas and electric plants. These plants are today co-ordinated by a few big public utility trusts which are buying and operating their own mines. The tendency shown by Stewart Secretary of Labor James J. DAILY WORKER

ly; His Comrades Strike

CANTON (By Mail)-An outrageous act took place in the S. S. "Honam" in Canton May 21 when the chief of icer, Carpenter, rough-handled a Chinese steward, Tsen Wong. It appears that a dinner was given by the chief engineer in the ship that night, lasting till 2 a. m., in the midst of which the chief officer, Carpenter, returned and retired to his room. Then he took his supper and particularly his drinks. The steward as usual began the process of putting him to bed, unshoeing Lim, and undressing him. Whether dissatisfied with the process that night, or with his pastime that evening, or over-drunk, he began to practice his pugilistic feats upon the Chinese seaman and kicking him. This aroused the indigna tion of the whole crew, and if chief officer Carpenter had not fied in time e would have gotten his due. Being

Upon receipt of the report and afte subsequent investigation, the union sent its representative to the captain of the ship and the manager of the Hongkong, Canton and Macao Steamboat company, to inquire why the men should work after twelve o'clock (a) Painters, N. E. cor. California and Madison.

Also Organize Moscow Wet Wash Laundry

NEW YORK, June 22 .-- A group of American cotton growers made an inquiry in the Central Bureau Society Technical Aid of the United States to the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics whether their experience in growing cotton could be of any value to Soviet Russia and, if so, whether they could apply it on Russian land. The answer to this inquiry was that such groups are greatly desirable and that their group will be given a tract of fortile land in Mugan (the Republic of Azerbeidjan), but at the beginning only a group of not more than one hundred families will be admitted. The cotton growers of the United States and Canada may apply for information to the Society for Technical Aid, 799 Broadway, room 402.

The Central Bureau has organised for Moscow a wet wash laundry cooperative, which has already over twelve members, fo rthe purpose of going to the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. This co-operative will be settled around Moscow and will serve Moscow with an American laundry. This laundry needs more members. Anyone who has laundry experience may apply to the following address: Mr. Wiesser, 86 Strenton St., New Haven, Conn., or Central Bureau S. T. A. S. R., 799 Broadway, room 402. New York.

Judge to Rule on Constitutionality of Evolution Law

WINCHESTER, Tenn., June 22 .---The question of whether or not the Tennessee anti-evolution law is unconstitutional can and will be decided in the circuit court at Dayton, provided the attorneys in the case of John T. This was the declaration made here by Judge John Tate Raulston. who will preside over the Scopes trial. The judge said. "If the court should rule that the law is unconstitutional, the case then would be finished insofar as the circuit court is concerned. and the next step would be for the attorneys to appeal to the supreme court."

Freedom in France

It is interesting to note that Paul Painleve, the French premier who is responsible for bringing Caillaux into the government, a man accused of carrying on illegal commerce with the Germans during the war, is also the man to order the arrest of leading French Communists on the charge of treasonable conduct with the Riffian tribesmen, who are defending their native land against French imperial-

Painleve is called a socialist and holds office with the aid of the socialist party of France and the old left bloc which placed former Premier Herriot in office. Painleve is a member of the left bloc, so-called, but like Herriot in the German situation, he has shown that when the interests of French imperialism conflict with his end of December, Tuan She Sul anprofessions of loyalty to what is vaguely called liberty, he acts exactly like a member of the nationalist group of Poincare.

France claims a big section of North Africa. The other predatory powers also have their share. While Spain was wrestling with the Riffians the French looked on with expectant eyes, hoping that Spain's loss would be their gain. But when the Spanish were left with a precarious toe hold on the Mediterranean, the Riffians turned on the French and showed that they had no intention of selecting French colonial efficiency rather than Spanish incompetence. What they wanted from the imperialists was to "get to hell out."

The French imperialists had long boasted of their success as colonists and of their ability to make their subjects contented with their rule. But the present Riffian campaign explodes that myth very effectively. After the Riffians had disposed of the Spanish, the erstwhile unconquerable French army was showing as clean a pair of heels as ever the Spanish did. This caused the French imperialists at home to sit up and take notice.

Then Painleve was forced to come to the defense of the im perialists or take the count. Altho committed to a program of peace at home and abroad he took a trip to the scene of hostilities and came back with the decision that France must fight to save her prestige in Morocco. The only opposition came from the Communints. The socialists either supported him or like cowards abstained from voting.

The Communists, from the beginning have carried on a vigorous fight against the war on the Riffians. They openly called on the sol diers not to shoot those people who were only struggling for their freedom from foreign rule. The Communists did other things. The showed by documentary proof, that while the Riffians were fighting Spain, former Premier Poincare was negotiating with Abd-el-Krim Riffian leader.

So serious was the crisis created by the exposure of the Communists, that the alleged left government of Painleve decided to sup press the Communist agitation by book or by crook. The government which contains the war-time traitor Caillaux as finance minister, is now hounding the Communists for courageously defending the right of the Riffians to freedom from foreign domination. The man who communicated with the mighty German empire at a time when the fate of capitalist France hung in the balance, cannot with good grace charge the Communists with treason for taking the side of a small people struggling for the right of self-determination. The difference is, that Caillaux, in bargaining with Germany during the war was the agent of one group of French capitalists, and the Ponicare-Clemencau forces were the agents of another opposing group. The Communists on the other hand are the foes of the entire system and a figleat for Sigman and Co., while it insist on the unconditional withdrawal of French imperialism from Morocco.

The action of the Communists in France is in harmony with the and the refusal of the Sigman mapolicy of the Communists in all countries, who recognize no national chine to do anything to this end, toboundaries. #### By TANG SHIN SHE.

WHEN last year Tuan She Sul was still in Tientsin, he promised to fulfill the people's demand and call a people's assembly. At the same time he invited Sun Yat Sen to Peking to discuss with him the formation of this assembly. Sun Yat Sen issued a public proclamation, claiming that the people's assembly should be composed of all strata of the population, chiefly of course, of peasants and workers, as they form the majority. The chief duties of this assembly were to be: the repeal of unequal and partial treaties, the demand for the return of leasehold territory to China, the abolition of military governors, disarmament on a large scale and the setting up of a constitution. Previous to the people's assembly a preparatory conference was to take place which in the same way was to be con josed of all strata of the population and was immediately to take over the government. When however Tuan She Sui came to Peking in November, he immediately declared that he recognized the treaties, that is to say that he immediately disregarded Sun Yat Sen's most important proposition. At the nounced that he would not call a preparatory conference, but a reorganization conference, in which the following persons might take part: 1, persons who had rendered the republic great service; 2, military chiefs of the anti-Shili parties; 3, military and civil governors of the individual Su:

liscussion on questions which were a non-commissioned officer in till to be put by the government.

W the people vehemently opposed it, raising the objection that this would only be a military conference. Sun Yat Sen sent a letter to Tuan She Sui in which he said that the name of the assembly was irrelevant, it could equally well be called reor ganization conference, but representatives of all strata of the population must take part in it. Tuan She Sui being a clever man, neither accepted nor rejected this proposal. In his character of representative of the people, he invited to the conference economic and social organizations from all the provinces as experts. Thereupon Sun Yat Sen at the end of January, issued a decree that no one from his party was to attend the conference. Consequently the confer ence which had been fixed for Feb. 4. could indeed he opened, but could not sit, as none of the delegates who were Sun Yat Sen's adherents appeared. Tuan She Sui, in all haste, nominated other delegates and on Feb. 13, the conference began.

THE D. ILV. WORKER

Various parties were formed among the members of the reorganization conference: 1, Tschang Tso Lin's party, about 36 persons; 2, Feng Yu Hsiang's party, 25 persons; 3, the Anfuists (Tuan She Sui's party), 24 persons; 4. partisans of the federative republic, 20 persons. All the delegates with the exception of the anfuists, regarded this conference as merely a pleted farce of Tuan She Sul. Feng Yu Hsiang and Tchang Tso Lin therefore were only passive participants: the adherents of the federative republic however directly attacked provinces and districts; 4, politicians Tuan She Sui in order to gain advanand scholars invited by Tuan She tages for themselves. Up to April 16, i.e., four days before the end of the conference, not single resolution had been passed. All the business was done during the last four days, April 16-20. Among other things the plans were accepted for the formation of a military commission and a finance commission and for a bill for the calling of a people's assembly. Tuan She Sul was mainly interested in the last point being settled. He would have nothing to do with the finance question and that of military affairs. Even the two great military chiefs, Tchang Tso Lin and Fen Yu Hsiang were opposed to it. When the regulation of military affairs was to be discussed, Tuan She Sui presented an army list of 1919! A commission of enquiry was then formed which demanded that every general present should himself state the number of his troops. Tuan She Sui however openly protested against this proposal. Thus a regulation or reorganization was out of the question and the matter was handed over to a commission which against consisted only of governors and generals which their business must be com-

The second was that the conference should agree to the form of the federative republic. This caused Tuan She Sui to get cold feet. people's assembly had been worked out by Tuan She Sui himself: the conference only agreed to it. The whole law consists of 30 paragraphs, the most important of which are sum med up as follows:

The people's assembly must consent to the constitution and to the law for the carrying out of the constitution. The drafts for the constitution and for the law are worked out by a special commission which will be composed as follows: each civil and military governor of a province and each governer of a separate district can nominate a representative. Tuan She Sul can nominate 20 persons. Four representatives of Mongolia and three of Tibet will be admitted. The commission must complete its work in at the outside, three months. The folwho were given no time simil within lowing are entitled to send delegates to the people's assembly: nine provinces 16 delegates each, four provinc es 18 each, one 19, one 20, two 22 each, two 24 each, one 26, two 27 each. Five ditaricts send eight delegates each, Mongolia 30. Tibet 16. Tsinhai five and the Chinese living abroad 16. All men of at least 25 years of age can have a vote and can be elected. The following are ex-

Thus this people's assembly will also consist exclusively of military chiefs and their lackeys; it will b exactly the contrary to what Sun Yet Sen had planned. At the beginning significant in number. they readers of the conference, the people protes ed very violently against it and form ed associations for resisting Tuan She Sui's proposals and for carrying out those of Sun Yat Sen. The Chinese people however have learned a good lesson from this conference: it is im possible to negotiate with military chiefs; only a great revolution can sufficiently enphasize the demands of the people. This is why no great importance is attacked to the resolutions passed at the reorganization conference, but on the other hand nobody is urging the calling of the people's assembly proposed by Sun Yat Sen, but the people, in the first place the Kud Min Tang and the Communists, are feverishly preparing for a national revolution against imperialism and against militarism. TUAN SHE SUI is not only trying to win popularity with the military chiefs, he is also trying to sat isfy the lackeys who are out of a job and the camp-followers, by forming the senate, the people's assembly, commissions and again commissions and giving them positions in them. He thinks that if these people are satisfied with him, and if he keeps on a good footing with the generals. he may remain at the helm for a long time and possibly become president But his "policy" proves to be a min taken one. Not only Tchang Tso Lin. but also Feng Yu Hsiang declare that they are no longer his partisans. China is today in the same era as if was last spring when Tsao Kun was president. It is generally said that Tuan She Sui will soon be overthrown shows that the draft constitution and that the next tool in Peking will

Lewis and the Operators

John L. Lewis has written a book about the mining industry. The theme of this literary masterpiece is that the small operators should ous brief to the governors' commisget out of business and leave the field to the big fellows. Also, that there are 200,000 too many miners in the industry. Those unnecessary workers can lay down and die for all Mr. Lewis cares.

While Mr. Lewis is worrying about the mining industry from the operators point of view, the men who control the biggest chunks of the business are conducting their own investigations. They are not worrying about the interests of the miners.

The Index of the New York Trust company points with pride to the fact that today only 30 per cent of bituminous coal mined in the United States comes out of union mines. The proportion of unionmined coal fell from 60 to 40 per cent last year and the fall has been steady ever since, according to the trust company's report. The sad feature of the story is that it is true

The anthracite fields are 100 per cent organized, according to the same report. But there is a sly hint given that this condition should not be considered everlasting. Evidently the operators are prepared the left wing demand to make all to open a stiff fight to smash the union in the anthracite fields as they have done in the soft coal territory.

This is what is taking place while the pompous egomaniac and traitor, John L. Lewis, writes books advising the operators at a time mands. It is this central and vital when one of the greatest struggles ever waged on the American con- | point that the Hillquit brief surtinent is fought out at the coal pits in Nova Scotia. Lewis is carryrenders ing on a war on the militant elements in the union and crushing those who believe in fighting the operators, not co-operatitng with them. But the bosses only make peace with the miners when superior force compels them to. The report of the New York Trust company shows his work done by steady sub-manuthat they are not sleeping.

We predicted that Dr. Norman Thomas would emit a socialist gurgie of satisfaction over Calvin Coolidge's anti-jingo platitudes. He did it in the following manner: "To his credit President Coolidge has done something against this militaristic pressure. He kept the many from elevating the guns on the ships. He is reported to be averse to the Australian trip. He refused to turn armistice day into defense day. He gave wholesome advice on the road to peace and the proper attitude to other nations in addressing the graduating ins at Anapolia." And then he threatened Mexico with war!
