TAX LAW WILL SAVE MILLIONS TO PLUTOCRATS

by Petty Deductions

(Special to The Daily Worker) WASHINGTON, Feb. 25-With the 000,000 revenue bill will become a law. department has prepared ample supplies of the new forms for the flood of March 15 returns.

The millionaire group of taxpayers will be by far the greatest beneficiaries. To be sure, the "little fellows" have been relieved to some extent but this has been principally for political purposes. In their joy over saving a few dollars a year the politicians figure the small taxpayer will quite ignore the fact that his relief was incidental to the main object, that of cutting the tax on the big fellow. Decreased normal rates and increased exemptions to $1,500 for single and $3,500 for married persons will strike 2,350,000 names from the tax rolls.

Mellon Looks Out for Himself

Men like John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Ford are, however, the chief beneficiaries. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, believing that "God helps those who help themselves," has used their privileged position these huge ers. exploiters refuse to pay anything but the bare minimum for keeping the ap-

It is certain, however, their aggregate incomes for shops. succeeding years will be very much larger. Their tax savings consequently will exceed the amount given.

The three wealthiest individuals in America, according to the statements filed last year were Henry Ford, John D. Rockefeller. Jr., and Mellon himself. They reported incomes of over $5,000,000. Their combined total was $27,955,319 and their total of taxes was $11,000,000. The new law by cutting the surtax 20 per cent will save the three nearly $6,000,000, based on their incomes for last year. These received a larger amount in reductions than the entire bracket of 2,000,000 taxpayers whose incomes are not in excess of $4,000.

On the next three highest returns, between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 a year income, the decreased surtax will save the persons concerned nearly $2,000,000. The total loss of revenue from the cut in surtax rates will equal $119,000,000. The total receipts from income taxes will approximate $1,720,-000,000, a decrease over last year's returns of $160,000,000.

Exploitation Easy and Safe.

The prosperous condition of Amer ican business in general is the reason assigned for the cuts which will decrease the federal revenue by considerably over $330,000,000, the minimum which the secretary of the treasury originally announced. That the financial or industrial horizon

FORSTMANN AND HUFFMANN MILL WORKERS STRIKE

Relief Badly Needed by 12,000 Strikers

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PASSAIC, N. J., Feb. 25. - The workers at the Forstmann and Hoffman mill have joined the strike of the Passaic textile workers. Two big mills employing about 4,000 workers had to close their doors because of the strike of the weavers and the spinners. The Forstman and Hoffman company claim they shut down their mills due to "the reign of terror by strikers from other mills" in their attempt to hide the fact that their workers have struck for better conditions.

12,000 on Strike. This now makes over 12,000 workers on strike. This walkout of the Forstmann and Hoffman mills has augmented the ranks of the strikers by about one-third. This walkout came about in spite of the company union and the company-owned paper which tried to fill the workers with loyalty to the bosses and jokes, in stead of bread.

The fifth week of the strike finds the relief office crowded with hungry women and children. Relief cards are being issued at a fast rate. Funds must come in quickly if these relief stations are to continue feeding the striking textile workers without any interruption.

The wife and daughter of Rabb Wise are aiding the strikers by collecting funds in New York from many sympathetic individuals. Many unions are sending in donations. In spite of the funds coming from these varied sources, it is not enough. Wider fields must be tapped if the relief office is to feed the children, babies and the men that are on strike for bette living conditions.

Resist Open Shop Drive!

The struggle of the Passaic textile workers is the greatest struggle of the workers that is going on today to beat back the attempts of the open-shop employers to cut the wages of the workers. If the bosses are successful in this struggle, they will proceed to cut wages in other centers and in other industries. This struggle of the Passaic workers is a struggle of great be mobilized to aid these strikers Their immediate need is relief funds.

This Home Builders' Plan Is Only Good for the Aristocracy of Labor

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

THE railroad brotherhood officials have announced plans for "labor's latest financial institution" under the highsounding title of the American Home Builders, Inc.

That this new scheme will follow closely along the class collaborating line laid down for the brotherhood banks is revealed in the statement of W. G. Lee, the $25,000 per year "grand chief" of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, who

"We are starting among railroad workers, but we welcome the co-operation of all workers and all capitalists who are interested in seeing that the average man and woman shall have fair opportunity to finance home ownership on an economical basis."

Labor's first "fair chance" to finance home ownership grows out of the wages that labor receives. Members of the railroad brotherhoods get fairly good wages compared with the pittance doled out to the workers in the shops. Instead of doing their utmost to help the railroad shop workers lift their wages, the brotherhoods on the operating side of transportation have too often allowed themselves to be used as strikebreakers. They have remained at work with the shop-

The general chairman of the trainmen for the Pennsylvania lines appears as one of the directors of the American Home Builders, Inc. It is the powerful Pennsylvania Railroad, with brotherhood men operating its trains, that is using all of its strength to crush out the last vestige of unionism in its shops.

With the bribes that they receive in increased wages from the transportation czars, the brotherhood members will build homes for themselves, while the shopmen continue to live in their lowly shacks, or such abodes as are granted them out of their meager wages.

Many an underpaid member of the Maintenance of Way Men's Union will continue trying to convert some castaway freight car into a home without the aid of the American Home Builders, Inc., which seeks its so-called "legitimate profit."

Go into the coal fields. One of the first contrasts that presents itself everywhere is the startling difference to be seen in the housing of the families of coal miners and those of railroad brotherhood members. The cabins of the mine workers, too often the "company-owned shacks" of the mine barons, fare badly in comparison with the better class homes of the trainmen, conductors, firemen and engineers. There is here a distinct drawing of caste lines in the working class.

The attitude of the brotherhood chiefs, supported by many members of their organizations, toward the coal miners was well exposed in the struggle between the Brother-hood of Locomotive Engineers and the United Mine Workers of America, when the latter sought to unionize the Coal River Collieries Co. owned by the former in West Virginia.

None of these enterprises, the banks, the coal mines, nor the American Home Builders, Inc., is a working class co-operative. They are all profit making institutions to all intents and purposes to the same extent as any capitalist concern. The urge of profits is to breed. The profits of the brotherhoods' financial ventures in their efforts to grow thru favorable investment, drive toward an "open shop" war on the workers battling for union conditions. This is plainly stated by Mr. Lee, chairman of the board, when he says:

'American Home Builders will function safely and conservatively, guided by the best obtainable experience in the fields of banking and mortgage finance. We expect to earn a legitimate profit."

It is the task of the rank and file of the railroad brotherhoods, as part of the struggle to develop their unions into class organizations of labor, to win the banks, home builders' associations and other activities, like the taking over of coal mines, away from all capitalist influences and develop them into real working class co-operatives. Only in that way can they be of benefit to the workers, strengthening the working class in its struggle for the overthrow of capitalism.

STAR WITNESS IN BIMBA CASE BUSINESS LINK

reluctantly. Thus Geo. A. Sampson, cutter for the Diamond Shoe Co. declared he wasn't interested in prosecuting Bimba, that he would not like to see Bimba convicted; while John Balones, aster for the Diamond Shoe Co., declared he had looked with favor upon some of the things that Bimba had said in his speech, and that he did not like to be drawn into the case. Not Church Members.

Every witness testifying so far has leclared he is not a member of any church, although they are supposed to testify that they were very much shocked by the manner in which Bimba belittled god in the speech for the making of which he is on trial.

The extent of Bimba's seditious uterances, brought out in the testimony so far, seems to have consisted in urging his audience to join the Workers (Communist) Party. He pointed out the growth of the Communist movement the world over, and accordng to the prosecution urged that labor in this country unite to achieve the same victory the workers have won in Soviet Russia.

One of Bimba's terrible crimes, emphasized by the witness, Eudaco, was that he urged the workers to read 'Russia Today," the report of the British Trade Union delegation to Soviet Russia. He told his audience that they could get the truth about Russia from this book.

The prosecution makes much of the fact that Bimba held up the socialists as being traitors to the working class, arging the workers to rally to the Communist standards.

Neither of the two prosecution witiesses, Sampson or Balones, would admit, even after considerable urging, that they had heard Bimba calling upon the workers to overthrow the government thru force and violence.

Wave Lithuanian Flag. The red flag also figures in the case. One of the Lithuanian pay-triots, according to the testimony, asked Bimba at the meeting why it was that the Russian Soviet government had recognized the Lithuanian government, and the Lithuanian flag was flying over the Lithuanian embassy in Mosow, but it didn't fly over the Lithuanian Hall in Brockton, Mass. This is drawn out of every fresh prosecution witness that takes the stand. Their version of the answer Bimba is alleged to have made, is that Bimba said he believed in no flag except the red flag, and that the red flag would fly over the Lithuanian Hall in Brockton when it was also raised over the national capitol at Washington.

Judge C. Carroll King, who is presiding at the trial is a member of the unitarian church that itself disowns the arthodox god that Bimba is alleged to have blasphemed. The prosecutor, I. Manuel Rubin, although born of orthodox Jewish parents, who came from Lithuania while it was still under the czardom, is also a tarian.

The assistant prosecutor, Joseph Varecka, who is the first to break in the limelight with the usual letter threatening his life, is a member of he Lithuanian catholic church.

The clerk of the court, Charles F. King, is reputed to have uncovered the 229-year old statute under which Bimba is being tried.

COOLIDGE'S CRONY Poland Threatens to Harass Germany BUTLER DEMANDS LONGER WORKDA

Urges Massachusetts to Amend 48-Hour Law

BOSTON, Feb. 25 .- United States Senator Wm. M. Butler, textile baron of New Bedford, the Arkwright club, and the Association of Textile Millowners were the principals behind the scenes in an all-day fight before the tile and other industries where women and minors are employed.

The chief speaker for the textile barons was Ward Thoron, president of the Arkwright club. James Tansey of Fall River, the veteran head of the American Federation of Textile Oper- of the league, it is therefore entitled atives, was on the job to protect the to a seat in that organization's gov interests of the workers. In answer erning body. to a question, Thoron admitted that the mills controlled by Butler are pushing the demand for the repeal of the 48-hour law. He said that unemployment and short-time operation were the result of the 48-hour law in Massachusetts If the law were changed to 54 hours or longer, more and steady work would be had. This is the most absurd argument to advance, yet that was Thoron's trump card.

Near Coolie Status Now.

The workers would have still less work than at present if they are to be forced to work longer hours. The present move of the mill owners, if successful, will reduce the textile workers to the status of an Asiatic coolie. The average wage in the industry is between $13 and $14 a week.

James Tansey, of the American Federation of Textile Operatives and Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers' Union, tho they argued against the proposition, were nevertheless, incapable of leading a real fight in behalf of the workers. The chaotic conditions among the textile workers demands immediate solution and only a powerful united front movement of labor will prevent the lengthening of the work week and thru its mighty power, shorten the work week to 40 hours. The hearings at the state house indicate the intentions of the bosseslonger hours, speed-up systems, wage cuts, etc. Now is the time to organize to meet the attack.

WAVE OF TERROR SWEEPS GREECE AS PANGALOS MILITARY DICTATORSHIP PERSECUTES WORKING CLASS LEADERS

By A. M. (A LETTER FROM ATHENS)

Since the time of the 1924 government of Nikalakopoulos Kondilis, a wave of savage terror has swept over the country. It commenced with the dissolution of the mass union of "Ex-Soldiers in the Great War," which as a section of the international union bearing the same name, led by Henri

French Troops in Morocco All Dressed Up; No Place to Go

PARIS, Feb. 25 .- The French army in Morocco is likely to be in a peculjar fix with the end of the rainy season which is drawing near. They have between 150,000 and 200,000 troops in the Riff. Experts say this force could quickly wipe out Abd-el-Krim.

The tangled political situation here complicates affairs tremendously. Between the French and Krim's forces lies an internationalized zone. The French have been trying to get the consent of the Spanish for their army to enter this zone. For over a year they have failed. The Spanish propose that the French hold the line and they will press the Riff chieftain from their side until he is caught in the trap. Their attempts so far have been dismal failures.

The Spanish are afraid that if the French enter the zone they will quickly overrun it and that the final result will be its coming under French administration. Another angle is that in the country across from Gibraltar.

PARTY REORGANIZATION INCREASES ACTIVITY OF FOREIGN-BORN WORKERS

NEW YORK, Feb. 25-There were party on the basis of shop and street nuclei, work among foreign speaking workers of the country would suffer, that it would diminish. Today everyone can see that exactly the opposite has occurred. Not only has the work not suffered, but on the contrary the party thru its fractions in the different languages is today carrying on more intensive and systematic work among foreignborn workers than ever before.

in the past the work that was carried on by the language sections of the party was very little known to the party committees. Today for the first time we are aware of the great field of activity for the language fractions, and are actually helping the fractions to carry on this work. In the course of the organization of fractions we have found that the language comrades themselves in many cases lacked knowledge of the great number of workers' organizations in their language while in other cases they paid no attention to them. Today we are working in these same organizations with excellent results.

THE WINNERS

The first prize, a valuable fountain pen, goes to a miner in Birmingham, Alabama, who writes an analysis of the Birmingham Mine Disaster showing why the miners are doomed to such disasters as long as capitalism continues to flourish. His article is called "The Lesson that Birmingham Teaches," and appears on this page.

The second prize, Karl Marx's Capital, Vol. 1, goes to A. Nailwacker, a militant fighter in the carpenters' union in New York. His article bespeaks the struggles waged against the labor fakers in the carpenters' union by the militant workers. "Hutcheson Tries to Frame Local 376 But is Stung" is the title of his article which appears on

The third prize, Lenin on Organization, goes to K. Wolodarsky, a young girl millinery worker of Chicago who is taking active part in the present organization drive of the women workers in this industry. The article "Girl Milliners' Only Hope is in Organization" appears on this page.

Next Weeks Prizes:

Fellow workers, are we going to stand this much longer. Are we going to permit the bosses to exploit us and without any reasons beat us? What must we do, so incidents like these will not re-occur? The two pictures above show scenes of the coal dust explosion in the Degnan-McConnell mine No. 21 near Wilburton, Okla., last month. Ninety-three miners lost their lives in the disaster. The state mine inspectors issued the usual report blaming the explosion on the negligence of the miners. But mining engineers state that these coal dust explosions are preventable by use of safety devises. These precautions are not used by the operators because of the expense involved. It is cheaper to let the miners risk their lives.

Langley Ave., and Thomas Richardson, 29 years, both Negro workers employed by the William J. Newman company, were killed by an explosion of sewer gas while excavating for rock bottom to sink a caisson 120 feet below the surface, for the new Eited Hotel under construction at the northwest corner of Rush street and Delaware place.

These two workers were below the surface working in icy water filling buckets with clay and sand to be hoisted up. The explosion shook the ground so violently that it caused the heavy water pump at the top to come loose, which fell down into the caisson catching the men and crushing out their lives. The men had no way of escape. For this very hazardous work the laborers receive the pay of $1.171/2 per hour, working under the Landis award.

Out of Obscurity—for a Day

Probably the most amusing species of poppycock inferiorities extant is that embracing prosecuting attorneys in the hinterlands. Irresistibly this thought forces itself upon us whenever there ensues a trial involving the question of religion. The Scopes case in Tennessee produced its quota. For a day these weird creatures stood in the limelight and then sank back into the merciful obscurity from sure that the trade unions will not tive and foreign born workers to renwhence they came to vegetate the rest of their futile lives amidst other members of the Kiwanis clubs, the Rotarians, the masons, Coolidge Threatens the Foreign-born (the ko-koos) or Knights of Columbus.

In the Bimba blasphemy trial now going on in Massachusetts there steps forth one I. Manuel Rubin, whose fate it is to play the role of prosecutor. The forlorn nincompoop asserted, without cracking a smile, that "the people must be protected in their belief in god." If all the gods were not already dead, they would surely commit suicide because of sheer humilation or laugh themselves to death at this bit of unconscious comedy. They would simply pass out, or on, as that other holy spook peddler of Massachusetts, Mary Baker Eddy, might have said. What sort of god exists in the somewhat disordered brain of Mr. Rubin that he imagines people who believe in him must be protected from scientific facts?

Such sentiments were the vogue in the days of Torquemeda, the dungeon builder of the inquisition; John Calvin, who burned Serve tius at the stake; or Cotton Mather, the witchburner of Salem, Massachusetts, but their memory only evokes irreverent laughter

Mr. Rubin also invoked patriotism and exposed the fact that his Lenin." ignorance of history is as lamentable as his shortcomings in the realm of science. He stated that "it was upon reverence for religion that this government was founded." The direct opposite is the fact. ing places of the masses, memorial Not one outstanding figure of the American revolution was a speeches were made to the millions of religionist. The religionists have tried to claim Washington for their own by perverting the facts of his life, but there are an ever increasing mendous gathering in the Bolshoi number in this nation who take the trouble to investigate his beliefs and those of other historical figures who knew differently.

Furthermore, even that class document known as the constitu- the Moscow Soviet, the Moscow Distion specifically stipulates that one can believe or disbelieve with- trict Committee of the trade unions, out any interference on the part of the state. Cotton Mather, the degenerate responsible for the blasphemy law, would probably have tried to burn or hang or draw and quarter the outstanding figures of the American revolution for their heresy.

But then who expects a Brockton prosecuting attorney to know anything about law or history or science? If he did he wouldn't be a prosecuting attorney. Today the petty creature stands in the of black crepe, yet the total effect reflected light of the defendant he vilifies—tomorrow he will again only heightened the pulsating power take his place among his peers, the nonentities

As a matter of fact the last/campaign was not based upon any principle of international relations, but upon the watchword of prosperity with Coolidge. The boobery that voted for Coolidge did so because they imagined that chaos would ensue if he failed of election and the contest was thrown into congress.

Before the politicians could blame the voters for their own treachery a political consciousness would have to be developed in America and political platforms would have to mean something to them.
