MINE STRIKE RELIEF ASKED BY A. F. OF L.

Asks Affiliates to Rush Donations

(Special to The Daily Worker) WASHINGTON. July 11 .- Text of the appeal issued to all local unions and national and international labor organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, for funds to sustain the families of the striking British miners, is announced by the executive council of the A. F. of L. as follows:

"In response to an official appeal issued by the officers of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, asking for aid for the families of the striking miners of Great Britain, the executive council of the A. F. of L. decided to call upon the officers and members of all organizations affiliated with the A. F. of L, for voluntary contributions to be used for the purpose of relieving distress, hunger and suffering among the families of the miners who have been on strike in Great Britain for many weeks.

Cites Distress of Strikers.

"The condition of the miners and their families is deplorable. Women and children are without any adequate supply of food and clothing. There is great need for help.

"The action of the executive council in deciding to appeal for funds was prompted by sentiments of humanity.

"It found from an examination and consideration of all the facts that a most extraordinary, distressing conditions prevails in the mining sections of Great Britain.

"The money which will be received in response to this appeal will be used exclusively for the purpose of supplying food, clothing and the necessaries of life to the miners' families who are suffering because of the long-continued strike.

'We appeal to you to respond quickly and generously to this call for help. Let us help our fellowworkers who are resisting a substantial reduction in their living standards. The cry of the women and children must appeal to our generous sentiments. They need help and need it now."

The council asks that all contributions be sent to Frank Morrison, secretary, A. F. of L. Bldg., Washington,

> The first days of the strike showed gains simply because of the almost unbounded enthusiasm and fighting spirit of the strikers.

> The increase in numbers was due more to the general upheaval caused by the walk-out of the "key-men" in the system, than by conscious organization on the part of the leadership of the strike. But today definite organizational steps are being taken. Committees are being formed and the methodical work of extending the strike is proceeding.

Despite the columns of lies printed in the capitalist press the strike is still gaining in numbers and its effect is felt more keenly today than any day since the opening of the fight. People who trust to the subway to transport them to their work, are hours late and many fares that are These authorities had always conjecpaid are wasted because after entering the subway and sweltering for hours they are forced to leave at the first opportunity and seek other means of travel.

Yesterday there were a total of 862, 828 fares paid as compared with 1,952,172 on the corresponding day last year. This is a loss of 1,089,344.

The leaders of the strike are jubilant over the number of "L" workers that are daily joining the ranks and Harry Bark, one of the organizers of the strikers, declared that there would be no compromise on the demands of the strikers. # SUBPOENAS OUT Appeal of the Strike Committee FOR ILLINOIS TO I. R. T. Workers in N. Y. LABOR OFFICERS PLUNGE IN HIGH FINANCE DEALS Cheap Government Is FINANCE DEALS OF THE PROPERTY OF THE P Broad Working Masses

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

DRESIDENT Coolidge is off to the Adirondacks in New York for his summer's vacation. In departing he compliments his administration, patting it on the back, in Joy over the fact that government expenditures have been cut by the session of congress just adjourned. Not as much as "Economy Cal" had desired. But to a great extent. Enuf to carry out the demand of the great capitalists for "cheaper government."

At the same time, over on the other side of the Atlantic Ocean, in the Union of Soviet Republics, "Economic Life," the official organ of the workers' government, glories in the fact that the Soviet budget shows increased expenditures. Last year's budget totalled only 2,875,-000,000 roubles, compared to the budget total of 4,039,000,000 this year. This shows an increase closely approaching one-half. The workers under Soviet Rule glory in a high-priced government, because they know that they are the beneficiaries of everything that is spent. They want nothing shoddy.

Of course, the capitalist tyranny at Washington, thru all its propaganda mediums, tries to spread the fiction that the masses benefit from the "economy" effected by its gov ernment. Coolidge tried to develop this craze to the wearing of last year's straw hat, until business protested it was hurting sales, when Cal retired into his shell and be came more silent than ever on this phase of his "economy" lunacy. To be sure the wealthy wing of the population always continued to buy its usual amount of clothes, indulging itself to the utmost. Only tne workers were supposed to appear in patches, for which great masses need no urging, but are forced into doing thru stern necessity.

No one hears of economy in the building of great armaments to spread and protect the outposts of Wall Street's imperialism. This is the greatest expenditure of the capitalist government, for "past, present and future wars." The last session of congress approved the five-year air program, provided huge sums for the army and new building programs for the navy. The Coolidge regime has not been niggardly in reaching agreements on war debt settlements with bankrupt Europear countries, re-establishing these lands as markets for American goods on which new profits can be reaped. But where workers' interests are involved, there the broadsweeping scythe of "economy" cuts deep. Activities of the department of labor, supposed to supervise working conditions, are crippled thru lack of funds, giving the em-

Under Soviet rule the aim is to develop all available resources to insure funds for greater government expenditures to satisfy the needs of the masses, and to increase those needs thru constantly raising the standard of living. This is exactly contrary to the capitalist effort not only to prevent any lifting of the standard of living, but actually to continue to grow in size to meet the increased demands for sheltering, clothing, feeding and educating the workers and peasants under Soviet rule, and to meet all those needs that come with a greater enjoyment of life by the broad masses of the people. Thus it is encouraging in the Soviet union when for instance the telegraphs and the railroads. state industries, show greater increases in expenditures, which in turn are outstripped by receipts, providing new funds from which to repair the losses of the great war under czarism, and of the civil war resulting from the efforts of reaction to rob the workers of the fruits of their revolution. This is, being duplicated everywhere and is being achieved in spite of a reduction of 35 per cent in the peasant tax.

Soviet labor has made its remark? able advance without credits from Wall Street to balance its budget and re-establish its industries. It is not burdened with a Dawes' plan, that weights down Germany; with great loans from America's international bankers, like those granted Mussolini rule in Italy, now crushing the Italian masses, nor is it diseased by any of those many schemes with which the American rule of gold is trying to inject new life into the dying capitalism of western Europe.

Only capitalists are benefitted by cheap government, which is always cheap at the expense of the workers. American workers must fight for greater expenditures on behalf of their own needs, pending the time when parasite capitalism will be abolished and labor will thus be unleashed to produce exclusively for its own benefit. No economy at the expense of the toiling many.

Louis Hyman, head of the general strike committee, addressed 14 meetings on the sixth day of the Bennie Gable, 34, member of strike. He declared that the union would not attempt to hurry individual work in the Palace Bakery on Roose settlements. He answered an assertion of the jobbers that they were not affected by the strike because they were not employers of labor.

"They say they can move their make their cloaks in their out-of-town establishments? Farmers? Education is another first victim of "economy," not the education of the children of the parasite rich, but the paltry opportunities afforded the children of the workers to escape illiteracy. # THIRTEEN MORE SHOPS SIGN UP

Union Pulls Down Two More Chicago Shops

Thirteen more fur bosses have agreed to the terms of the striking Chicago fur workers and have signed agreements with Local 45 of the Fur Workers' Union. Fifty men and women employed in these shops are to return to work Monday. Two more shops have gone on strike.

The progressive group in the Fur Workers' Union has been on the job from the beginning of the strike. The success of the union has been due mainly to the activity of these progressives. Even tho a number of them have been suspended from their union they are doing active work in this struggle. They help to bring down shops, get the strikers to the union neadquarters, lead on the picket line and do whatever they can to force the bosses into line.

A great demand is growing among the fur workers here to have Ben Gold of the New York joint board. who led the victorious New York strike to come here and speak to them.

All of the progressives in Local 45 have transferred control of their fur sewing machines to the union committee for the duration of the strike making it impossible for the bosses to use them to turn out struck work.

A number of reactionaries of Local 45 of the Fur Workers' Union arranged with some gangsters to beat up a progressive member of the union. An argument was started by these eactionaries with one of the proressives. The progressive was struck etween the eyes by one of the reactionaries. As he was going down tairs after this attack, six gangsters ttacked this worker.

That sort of Communist work is not a credit to the party. If the party cannot sufficiently collect the special assessment of 50c, and secure prompt settlement by the party units, how can it hope to carrrying on a big political campaign successfully.

THE special United Labor Ticket assessment must be completed by the end of the month of July. By that time every party unit which has received stamps must make a settlement with the National Organization. The response which the party units make to these instructions will be a test of their capability of their functioning as part of a Communist Party.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

J. Arnold Ross, oil operator, formerly Jim Ross, teamster, drives with his thirteen-year-old son, Bunny, to Beach City to sign a lease for a new oil field. Meeting his "Lease Hound," Ben Skutt, in a hotel he goes to meet a group of small property owners whose land he wants for drilling. But other oil concerns have been intriguling and the meeting breaks up in a row. Bunny meet Paul Watkins, son of a Holy Roller, who has run away from home. They become friends but Paul leaves for other parts before their acquaintance is very old. Dad begins to drill in Prospect Hill near Beach City. He needs the roads fixed and smooths the palm of a city official. In short order his first well, "Ross-Bankside No. 1," is begun. Dad spends busy days in his little office and Bunny is always with him—learning about oil. Bertie, Bunny's sister, comes home from finishing school on a vacation. She is very snobbish. Her Aunt Emma has been trying to make a lady of her. Bunny tells Bertie about Paul. Bertie doesn't like Bunny to know such "Horried Fellows." In the meantime Dad is getting along with his well. With many careful and toilsome mechanical operations, Ross-Bankside No. 1 is ready to drill and by noon the next day has filled up the first tank. In a week Dad had several more derricks under way. He was working hard with everything coming his way. Bunny asks his Dad to take a rest and go quail hunting over in the San Elido valley. Dad protests that it's too far away and is told that that's where Paul's family is and they're up against it and Bunny wants to help them. Finally Dad was persuaded. They get their camping outfit ready and the next day are nearing the Watkins ranch in the San Elido Valley.

Presently they came to the "slide," which was a wooden runway carrying water-with many leaks, so that bright green grass was spread in every direction, and made food for a big flock of sheep, which paid no attention to the car, nor to all the tootingthe silly fools, they just would get under your wheels! And then came a man riding horseback; a big brown handsome fellow, with a fancy-colored handkerchief about his neck, a wide-brimmed hat with a leather strap. He was bringing in a herd of cattle, and as he rode, his saddle and his stirrup-straps went "Sounch, sounch," which was a sort of thrilling sound to a boy, especially there in the evening quiet. Dad stopped, and the man stopped and Dad said "Good evening," and the man answered, 'Evenin'." He had a pleasant, open face, and told them the way; they couldn't miss the arroyo, because it was the only one that had water, and they would see the buildings as soon as they had got a little way up. And as they went on Bunny said, "Gee, Dad, but I wish we could live here; I'd like to ride a horse like that." He knew this would fetch Dad, because the man looked jist the way Dad thought a man ought to look, big and sturdy, colored brown and red like an Injun. Yes, it wouldn't take much to persuade Dad to buy the Watkins ranch for his son!

Well, they went wabbling on down the sheep-trail, counting the arroyos, whose walls loomed high in the twilight, crowned with fantastic piles of rocks. The lights of the car were on, and swung this way and that, picking out the road; until at last there was an arroyo with water—you knew it by the bright green grass -and they turned in, and followed a still more bumpy lane, and here ahead were some buildings, with one light shining in a window. It was the ranch where Paul Watkins had been born and raised; and something in Bunny stirred with a quite inexplicable thrill—as if he were approaching the birth-place of Abraham Lincoln, or some person of that great sort!

Suddenly Dad spoke. "Listen, son." he said. "There might be oil here—there's always one chance in a million, so don't you say nothin' about it. You can tell them you met Paul if you want to, but don't say that he mentioned no oil, and don't you Briand government will be forced to tariff simed at excluding British and mention none. Let me do all the talkin' about business."

It was a "California house," that is, it was made of boards a foot wide, running vertically, with little strips of "Batting" to cover the cracks. It had no porch, whether front or back, nothing but one flat stone for a step. The paint, if there had ever been any, was so badly faded that you saw no trace of it by the lights of the car. On the other side of the lane, and farther up the little valley, loomed a group of sheds, with a big pen made of boards, patched here and there with poles cut from eucalyptus trees. From this place came the stirring and murmuring of a great number of animals crowded together.

The family stood in the yard, lined up to stare at the unac-HEAVILY FINED there was a man, lean and stooped, and a boy, somewhat shorter, but already stooped, both of them clad in faded blue shirts withbut already stooped, both of them clad in faded blue shirts without collar, and denim trousers, very much patched, held up by Rivera Says He Wants to suspenders. There were three girls, in a descending row, in nondescript calico dresses; and in the doorway a woman, a little wraith of a woman, sallow and worn. All six of them stood motionless and silent, while the car came into the yard, and Spain, Primo de Rivera, has decided stopped, and the engine fell to a soft purring. "Good evening."

"Howdy, brother," said the man.

"Is this the Watkins place!"

"Yes, brother." It was a feeble, uncertain voice, but it thrilled Bunny to the depths, for he knew that this voice was accustomed to "babble" and "talk in tongues." Suppose the family were to "let go," and start their "jumping" and rolling" while Bunny was there!

"We're huntin'," Dad explained, "and we was told this would be a good place to camp. You got good water?"

"None better. Make yourself to home, brother."

"Well, we'll go up the lane jist a bit, somewheres out of the

"Eli. vou show 'em the oak-tree, and help 'em git fixed." And again Bunny was thrilled; for this was Eli, that had been blessed of the Holy Spirit, and had the "shivers," and had healed old Mrs. Bugner, that had complications, by the laying on of hands. Bunny remembered every detail about this family, the most extraordinary he had ever come upon outside of a story-

Eli moved up the lane, and the car followed; and Mr. Watkins followed the car, to see that Eli did his duty, no doubt; and the three girls straggled behind; and Mrs. Watkins continued to stand in the doorway, watching. There was a big live oak tree with a clear space underneath, and Dad placed the car so that the lights streamed upon the space—you never needed to worry about darkness, when you were camping with a car! They stopped, Cabinet for Bank Loan and Bunny slid over the top of his door, and went to work on the straps which held the big bundle to the running-board. He had it off in a jiffy, and unrolled it, and quite magical were the things which came out of it. There was a tent, made of such light waterproofed silk that a structure eight feet square rolled up to mittee to prosecute the entire cabinet a bundle which might have been a suit of clothes. There were of former Premier Berge, according the tent poles, made in several joints which screwed together: year shows a surplus of $58,906,000 to an Olso dispatch to the Central and the stakes, and a little camp hatchet to drive them with. There were three warm camping-blankets, besides the waterproof cover, which also made a blanket. There were two pneumatic pillows, and a pneumatic mattress, which you sat and puffed at until you were red in the face—it was great sport! Finally there was a canvas bag containing a set of camp utensils. all made of aluminum, and fitting one into another, everything with detachable handles; and aluminum boxes with several compartments for grub. ### The New Jersey Explosion

Militarism takes its toll in both war and peace time. No enemy threatens or can threaten the American masses except intelligent as bricklayers, then they,

the imperialist rulers and their agents.

This is the lesson of the U.S. naval arsenal explosion in New Jersey with its long list of dead and injured. The horrors of war are well known but the horrors of peace under capitalist imperialism are well concealed from millions. But here is a concrete example of the ruthlessness of the American ruling class in the form of mangled bodies of men, women and children sacrificed by the war lords. The New Jersey explosion should give a powerful impetus to speech in which he advocated against the anti-militarist movement. It has dramatized the menace of militarism because it symbolizes the bloody struggle which it car
