DREMIER POINCAIRE, representing the most reactionary element in France, that element that looks with favor on the fascisti, is again at the helm in French politics. It is likely that his cabinet will live longer than that of Herriot. It is supported by powerful industrial interests and will in all probability bask in the smiles of the international bankers. Talk of a Dawes plan for France is now beyond the gossiping stage. The millions of the House of Morgan did not stop the Germans at the Marne for nothing.

THE masses of France are the great-A est sufferers in this period of declining currency. Yet it is not at all funlikely that millions of them will rally to the idea of a dictatorship under the direction of the big capitalists. The socialists hurl thunderbolts at the Communists because they insist that a dictatorship of the workers and peasants is necessary to reconstruct the country's economy in the interests of those who produce. The capitalists will establish their unfettered rule for the benefit of the employing classes. It is either one or the other and the socialists will have the latter because they spurn the former.

SOMEBODY with a flair for concoct-ing tantalizing tales of the doings of our wealthy great has delved into the history of the Vanderbilt family to traditionalize the action of Cornelius, Jr., in breaking with his family. Cornelius was the publisher of a chain of tabloid newspapers. They went to smash. The scion of the famous Vanderbilts then asked his father to pour a few more millions into his ventures. The old man replied by squeezing his dough bag a little tighter. Then the young fellow disowned his family.

THIS would be hard to bear, but the tenderhearted reporter assures us that the Vanderbilts do things in the Vanderbilt manner. They quarrel, but again they make up. So what's there for America to worry about? All the famous Vanderbilts have defied their old men and made good, much to the joy of their parents. This lad who is now under discussion started out by taking a job at $15 a week. (Special to The Daily Worker) NEW YORK CITY, July 23.—Louis Hyman, chairman of the General Strike Committee, representing 40,000 striking cloakmakers, visited Police Commissioner McLaughlin to protest the wholesale arrests of pickets in the strike zone. It was learned that Com- ER called the Greater New York missioner McLaughlin desired to be "very sympathetic" to the complaint of the garment workers, expressing the desire to "maintain a strict neutrality" in the controversy between manufacturers and jobbers on one side and workers on the other.

Mc Laughlin disapproved "any demonstration likely to obstruct traffic," but assured the strike leader that several parades during the strike would not be objected to. The commissioner arranged for a conference to be held Thursday at 3:30 p. m. at police headquarters, in which Capt, Cornelius Carmody of the West 30th Street Station, under whose orders the wholesale arrests were made, will participate, together with Chief Inspector Lahey and strike leaders.

FURRIERS' STRIKE A VICTORY IN SPITE OF RIGHT WING SABOTAGE: UNION SHOWS PROOF OF VICTORY

By JACK JOHNSTON.

ONE of the most peculiar angles to the ending of the New York Furriers' strike is the desperate effort on the part of the right wing (socialists) to prove that the strike was lost. This is a new development in the American labor movement, but one that will become quite common as the left wing develops and takes over power in the unions. It is a prelude to greater betrayals, by these so-called socialists, of the workers and will occur in ratio to the development of revolutionary+

(Special to The Daily Worker) LONDON, July 23 .- At the meeting what would constitute a sufficient of the International Miners' Federation here, A. J. Cook made an impassioned plea that the national delegations do all in their power to stop or decrease the present shipments of coal to Great Britain, as well as to contribute financially to the relief of the British strikers. Percy Tetlow and C. J. Golden, officials of the United Mine Workers of Complete Victory Over America attending the session, said that the British strike is a magnificent effort of labor and deserved the support of the 600,000 American members of the U. M. W. of A. Beyond this they would not give out anything for publication, but it is known that they regard the stoppage of coal "as a very difficult matter."

(Special to The Daily Worker) PARIS, July 23. - It is a "Dawes' Plan for France" that now looms in the immediate future as a secret conerence of bankers and government financiers is learned to be dated to take place before Monday. A Weak Demise.

This has been denied, but it is hardly likely that so many big financiers have gathered in France on mere sight-seeing tour when the situation is so serious to world financiers. WHY delegates to the state conference of sheet metal workers in California were invited to dinner at the home of Mrs. Peabody, wife of a wealthy shirt manufacturer, was the subject of considerable discussion among the Oakland members of the union, according to a story in the Labor Journal of that city. Two delegates who partook of Mrs. Peabody's bounteous fare were not at loss for an explanation. The lady was once "even as you and I," an ordinary mortal. Her name was Katherine Burke, which proves she did not arrive on the Mayflower, even in a protoplasmic state.

KATHERINE heard her country calling her when the great war to abolish the French franc gave her the word. Being good to look at, she attracted the attention of doughboys "among whom were many metal workers." She must have been a communal charmer. How she got to be Mrs. Peabody the delegates did not divulge. He may have been an elderly or something in a hospital. Miss Burke was a Red Cross nurse. As the story goes, one of the delegates to the state convention went to renew acquaintances with Mrs. Peabody and a mass invitation resulted. Now, how can delegates lose sleep over wage scales, long hours and short pay, while basking in the ultra-violet rays of a millionaire beauty.

All cutters in Chicago cloakmaking shops won a flat increase of $5 a week thru a half day unofficial stoppage that was led by the left wing in the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. The head cutters or the foremen are not included in this wage

The union made a demand on the bosses for a 20 per cent wage increase The boses in the negotiations refused to listen to the demands of the union The unofficial stoppage then followed

Under the old administration the business agents of the union in accordance with the agreement calling for the revision of wages paid to cutters were able to get increases only for those cutters that were not able to make the average wage. The increase amounted from $2.50 to $5 a week. This increase was received by only one-sixth of the cutters. The present left-wing administration in the negotiations following the stoppage were able to win a flat $5 wekly increase for all cutters.

The demand of the union that the workers be paid for the half day stop page was granted by the bosses.

Morgan-Mellon Plans and HIT CAPITALIST INDUSTRY HARD Fascist Regimes Must Be Fought by U. S. Workers Wages Lost by Workers

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

A NOTHER "Dawes Plan" is of-fered as the solution of capitalism's woes in * rance.

Mussolini urges a fascist dictatorship to save the franc and to do in France "what we have done in

But the first "Dawes Plan" has not proved a success in Germany. The German capitalist statesmen and financiers are waiting for an audience with Mellon and Morgan. They will urge that the Dawes plan be changed to lighten its burdens.

As for Mussolini, the Italian lira continues falling along with the French franc in spite of the fascist

These facts are all so simple that every worker and farmer should be able to understand the plight that faces the capitalist exploiters, not only in western Europe but thruout that part of the world that still flies the flag of profit.

Imposing a Dawes plan on France will not be as easy as putting this yoke upon Germany. The Germans had been "defeated" according to the Versailles peacemakers. The deposed kaiser's mark had gone the way of the late czar's rouble, but unlike Russia, the social-democrats in Germany successfully betraved the German working class and defeated its efforts to inaugurate a Soviet Republic.

While German prisons were filled with the best fighters of the working class, the supporters of capitalism from the socialist, Scheidemann, to the war lord, Hindenburg, joined in grabbing the dollar-marked straws thrown into the German financial and industrial whirlpool. That was three years ago. For three years the Germans have given the Dawes plan "a chance," with the result that even the most reactionary elements now openly admit that it will be impossible for Germany to carry the increasing burden of reparations much longer.

But France "won the war." So the worker and peasant masses of France have been told. It has been drilled into them that "to the victor belongs the spoils." The latest franc statesman, Poincare, to be called to hunt up a cabinet, has been the loudest in his demands to "Make the boche pay." The nation that has been super-saturated with this psychology will not quickly, if at all, change its outlook to accept slavery to the House of Morgan. "Why should we?" the tens of millions of workers and peasants will ask, the great masses who were led to believe that the Hun was the greatest menace in the world, but who are now learning, where it has not already dawned upon them, that their real enemy is the exploiting class at home and its ally, the financial power that has its headquarters in Wall Street.

The death rattle of "the hun menace" gradually fades away into the silence of the tomb where rest in peace the things that have been. Not even Belgium now uses it in an effort to have her war debts to Washington and Wall Street cancelled. Even Belgium says she will pay. Great Britain and Italy have agreed to pay. A score of lesser countries have signed on the dotter line. French capitalism will consider the Mellon-Berenger scheme for the settlement of the French war debt just as soon as another cabinet can be formed. With the disappearance of the "hun menace" the "Morgan-Mellon menace" thus rises larger and clearer than ever for the workers, for it is they who must bear the burden if it can be successfully placed upon their backs.

It is now estimated that under the workings of the Dawes plan and the war debt settlements, every penny taken from Germany in reparations will ultimately flow into Wall Street's and Washington's golden coffers.

American workers and farmers must join the French workers and peasants in every resistance they offer to the "Morgan-Mellon men-German and French labor. ace." that only recently engaged in mass slaughter across thousands of miles of trenches, now recognize the identity of their interests. The Germans and French have been able on many occasions to unite in common actions, as in the Ruhr occupation. against their common oppressors, the employing interests of both countries. They both recognize the thieving ambitions of the imperialist robbers who lured them into the great human murder pens. How much easier, therefore, should it be for American labor, that was rallied by all the arts and wiles known to jingo propaganda to recognize the poilu as his brother-in-arms. The enemy then was supposed to be Germany. Both victims of the same tyranny the workers of France and America will become brothersin-arms against their common enemies, the Morgan-Mellon-Dawes planners that seek the enslavement of all labor everywhere.

European labor drives towards its only salvation, the European Federation of Soviet Republics against which Morgan-Mellon-Dawes plans and fascist regimes cannot prevail. American labor must begin today, preparing more energetically than ever, the struggle to take an effective stand in favor of such a European Federation.

Shown to Be Small

LONDON, July 23.-According to Walter Runciman, leading banker of Great Britain, the British general strike and the coal strike to date have cost British capitalists $567,500,000. The cost is distributed as follows among the different groups:

General strike, $150,000,000; heavy industries, including coal, $140,000,-000; railroads, $10,000,000; pig iron, $25,000,000; steel, $50,000,000; textiles and other light industry, $87,5000,000 nome trade $100,000,000.

While capitalists lost $567,500,000 according to Runciman, the workers lost only $175,000,000 in wages, the 1,250,000 coal miners have lost $125,-000,000 in wages-or only $100 each over a period of 12 weeks of strike so far. This shows very clearly that the miners' wages are at the minimum. of human existence, as this makes an average of only some $8.50 per week.

The support of the other industries to the miners when the miners began their strike against a wage reduction from this pitifully low scale, cost the other $50,000,000 in wages for the nine days of strike, or a little over $1 each, which is again a commentary of the low wages of British workers.

ITALIAN TRADE UNIONS REVOLT ON 9-HOUR DAY

Extra Hour

(Special to The Daily Worker) LONDON, July 15 (By Mail).—The Chiaggo, Italy correspondent of the London Daily Herald sends the following report regarding the recent effort of Mussolini to reintroduce the nine-

"One of the bitterest features, for the workers, of the new fascist decree for an extra hour's work per day is that no pay is allowed for this hour. This condition was demanded by the employers and agreed to by Signor Mussolini.

Also 10 Hours.

"In those industries, such as metal and cotton, where a nine-hour day is already worked, the workers have now to work for ten hours, with no extra

"The fascist trade unions have in formed the government of the revolt against these measures, which is growing apace, even among their members They have therefore asked that the extra hour shall be paid for.

"The employers, however, are resisting on the plea of foreign competition and have refused to meet the fascist trade unions in conference.

Lesson from Britain.

In Italian labor circles it is believed that Signor Mussolini's onslanght on the eight-hour day is a consequence of the British employers' attack on wages. If the British workers are defeated an even further lengthening of hours in Italy is feared.

"It is significant that the cabinet decision to strengthen the fascist militia coincided with the measure lengthening working hours. Picketing by militiamen near the factories is to be increased henceforth.

Arrest Women.

Two hundred peasant women were arrested yesterday at the village of Molinella, near Mologna, because they have refused to join the fascist trade union and work longer hours. The local fascist authorities have empowered landlords to evict tenants who go on strike.

"Growing agitation against the lengthening of hours is also reported from Rome, Milan, Venice and Turn.

French Financial Mix Gives Stock Exchange of N. Y. Exciting Time

NEW YORK, July 23.—Capitalizing the extreme uncertainty and uneasiness in the world's financial markets with respect to the French political and economic situation, the weakened technical position of the stock market occasioned by the rapid advance in prices, and the prospect of an advance in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York after the close of the market today, bearish professionals launched a vicious drive against the market today.

Most of the selling pressure was directed against the speculative leaders General Motors, Hudson Motors, Cast Iron Pipe and United States Steel as the special targets. After reaching the highest prices on the movement, these stocks fell back in confusion from two to seven points. The bears industriously circulated reports that no special dividends would be forthcoming this year to stockholders of the United States Steel Corporation.

Seasoned railroad stocks were the last to join the downward swing, and losses in that section were comparatively light. No attempt was made to bank, W. E. Jones, cashier and Brincause further unsettlement in the oil ley Jones, assistant cashier of the

Chinese Armies Crack Imperialist Front

SHANGHAI, July 23 .- The foreign imperialist business men here are much chagrined and angry at the con tinued advance of the national libera tion movement which has placed the imperialist powers into a state of help less and confused rivalry. The Brit ish and Americans here are taking out their grouch on their nations' diplomatic representatives in China.

Attack Their Diplomats, The British papers in Shanghai ar bitterly criticizing the whole diplomatic corps at Peking, pointing out that it allows violations of the 1901 protocol-written long before China awakened and which was forced upon it-citing the blockading of the legation quarter recently for several hours while Chang Tso-lin was entering the city. A protest meeting against this action on the part of foreign lawyers was held, it is to be noted, in the courtroom of the United States. Canton Troops Add to Woe.

The gloomy outlook for a continua tion of foreign rule in China is still further darkened by the advance of the Canton nationalist troops to the north, endangering Wu Pei-fu.

The customs conference seems un likely to reach a decisive conclusion or even to meet again, altho it is scheduled to resume sittings in September and the weak and temporary Peking government now in Chang's hands has appointed new delegates. The imperialist powers are all at each other's throats on customs regulations. Japan particularly having out-generaled the British and Americans.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

J. Arnold Rose, oil operator, formerly Jim Rose, teamster, is unsuccessful in signing a lease with property holders at Beach City, Cal., because of intrigues of other operators and quarrels among the holders. While he is at Beach City, Bunny, his thirteen-year-old son, meets Paul Watkins, slightly older. Paul has run away from home. His father is a poor rancher in the San Elido Valley who is a "Holy Roller." Paul goes away to make his living on the road and Bunny goes about learning the oil business from his Dad who is bringing in a well at Prospect Hill. Dad was working hard and Bunny suggests a quali Bunny goes about learning the oil business from his Dad who is bringing in a well at Prospect Hill. Dad was working hard and Bunny suggests a quall hunting trip to the San Elido Valley. Dad agrees and shortly they arrive at the Watkins ranch and pitch their camp. In hunting for quall they find oil eozing out of the ground and Dad wheedles the sale of the ranch out of old Watkins and also arranges to secretly purchase adjacent lands. Paul's little sister, Ruth, and Bunny become friends. After the sale of the ranch she tells Bunny, Paul has been home to see her. She said he disapproved of Dad selling the ranch and that he told Bunny in Beach City there was oil on it. Bunny then remembers having seen Paul pass him on the road.

Furthermore, Dad wanted Bunny to promise him not to smoke tobacco or drink liquor until he was twenty-one. Here again was the "double standard," and Dad was frank about it. He had learned to smoke, but wished he hadn't; if Bunny wanted to acquire the habit, it was his right, but Dad thought he ought to wait until he was old enough to know what he was doing, and intil he had got his full growth. And the same applied to liquor. Dad drank very little now, but there had been a time in his life when he had come close to becoming a drunkard, and so he was afraid of it, and Bunny's being allowed to go to college—at least and are demanding privately in com- on Dad's money—would have to be dependent upon his promising to avoid the drinking-bouts. Bunny said all right, sure: that was easy enough for him. He would have liked to ask more about Dad's own story, but he did not quite like to. He had never seen Dad drunk; and it was a startling idea to contemplate.

Finally there was the matter of women; and here apparently. Dad could not bring himself to be frank. Two things he said: first, Bunny was known to have a father with a pile of money. and this exposed him to one of the worst perils of young men. All kinds of women would be a-tryin' to get a-hold of him, jist in order to get him to spend money on them, or to blackmail him; and Bunny would be disposed to trust women, so he must be warned about this. Dad told him dreadful stories about rich young men, and the women into whose hands they had fallen. and how it had wrecked their lives and brought shame upon their families. And then, there was the matter of disease; loose women were very apt to have diseases, and Dad told something about this, and about the quacks who prey upon ignorant and frightened boys. If one got into trouble of that sort, one must go to a first-class doctor.

And that was all Dad had to say. Bunny took it gratefully, but he wished there might have been more; he would have liked to ask his father many questions, but he could not bring himself to do it, in the face of his father's evident shrinking. Dad's manner and attitude seemed to say that there was something so inherently evil about sex that you jist couldn't bring yourself to talk about it; it was a part of your life that you lived in the dark, and never dragged out into the light. Bunny's idea was that his father's discourse didn't apply very much to himself. He knew Porto Rican Labor there were dirty boys, but he was not one and never expected to

The matter was made easier for Bunny by the fact that he sentatives of the Cotton Growers As-Ivery soon fell severely in love. Rosie's father, and also her mother, were dentists.

Bunny would take her for rides; and when they were out in the country, where it was safe, Bunny would drive with one hand, and the other hand would rest on Rosie's, and truly wonderful" were the thrills that would steal over both of them. They were content to ride that way for hours; or to get out and wander in the hills, and gather wild flowers, and sit and watch the sunset. Bunny was full of reverence, and when once or twice he dared so far as to place a kiss upon his adored one's cheek, it was with almost religious awe. When the weather was not suitable for outdoor courtship, he would visit her home, where the mother and father had a hobby, the collecting of old English prints; these were framed on all the walls, and there were stacks of them you could look at, quaint eighteenth-century scenes of hunting gentlemen in red coats with packs of hounds, and redcheeked barmaids serving pots of ale to topers with big pipes. Bunny would look at these for hours—for it took only one hand to turn the mover. What is there that is not "wonderful," when you are so young, and at the same time so good? It made Bunny walk on air, just to buy a new straw-hat, and meet his chosen one upon the street, and anticipate her comments! (To be continued.)

More A. F. of L. Official Treachery

After a splendid struggle against the powerful New York I. R. T the strike leaders were compelled to advice their followers to apply for their old jobs, believing that a continuation of the strike was futile in view of the odds against them.

The odds against the I. R. T. employes were:

The traction trust; the city government; the capitalist pres and the treachery of the American Federation of Labor officialdom

That the traction magnates and their hirelings in the city gov ernment and on the capitalist press should be hostile to the attempt on the part of the traction employes to organize a union and smasl the company's harlot organization need surprise nobody. That i their business.

But is not the American Federation of Labor supposed to be the leader and organizer of the American trade union movement? ts business is to encourage and aid all efforts on the part of the werkers to build unions for their own protection.

Yet here was a splendid opportunity to organize the employes of very important transportation service. And not even a word of counsel or encouragement was given.

Neither the executive committee of the A. F. of L. nor the offi cials of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes moved hand or foot to help the I. R. T. employes in their struggle with the company.

The leaders run banks, insurance companies, coal mines, and on a policy of publicity, mass meetother business institutions, with the workers' money. What do they ings and demonstrations as much as care if a few thousand wage slaves go on strike for higher wages? They don't want too many members in the A. F. of L. They have enough per capita now to keep them going. In a short time they their ability. But the organizations hope to destroy whatever semblance of militancy there is left in the trade unions and the employers will no longer have to bother about company unions.

This is the way the leaders have gone.

Ralph Easley of the notorious strikebreaking National Civic Federation is a welcome visitor at the headquarters of the Chicago Federation of Labor and an official of that body shows him the new labor radio station. Fraternization!

Matthew Woll is eulogized in the New York Times for urging labeling the public agitation, carried labor to scrap its war weapons and get out the powder puffs.

Green assails the Passaic strikers and denounces a group o labor men who were planning to visit Soviet Russia to see how the workers were getting along with the business of running one-sixth

The old leaders of the A. F. of L. have gone over bag and baggage to the employers. They are thru with organizing the unor (Davidson Ed.) accused Gov. Small ganized.

Their fondest hope now is, that the employers will see the wis dom of tolerating an organization of the most highly skilled work ers and that those will be granted "most-favored nation" conditions at the expense of the great majority of their fellows.

The present leadership of the A. F. of L. must give way to one that will organize and lead all workers, skilled and unskilled to fight for better conditions now, and ultimately for ownership and control of industry.

SMALL REFUSES PARDON TO STRIKERS—FITZPATRICK, NOCKELS AND THEIR ORGAN DEFEND HIM FROM CRITICISM—PICKETS MUST SERVE OUT TIME WHILE FITZPATRICK ET AL CLING TO GOVERNOR SMALL'S BANDWAGON.

By JACK JOHNSTON.

THE FEDERATION NEWS, official organ of the Chicago Federation of Labor, again comes to the defense of Governor Small and launches an attack upon the militant garment workers' pickets who are now serving prison sentences for correctly violating the injunction issued by Judge Sullivan during the 1924 dressmakers'

As usual this attack is covered up with the convenient drawing of the red herring across the trail. The gist Chicago Federation of Labor or rather their camouflaged excuse, is, that as long as any members of the Workers (Communist) Party take up the struggles of the workers, the Chicago Federation of Labor will have nothing to

The latest attack upon those men and women, who did very little talking but went to jail for the labor movement, is based upon a report made to the federation by I. L. Davidson, organizer of the I. L. G. W. U. For weeks the joint board of the I. L. G. W. U. tried to get Fitzpatrick, Olander, Walker and other officials to speak at a meeting called by the joint board to protest against the imprisonment of these pickets and to demand their immediate release.

Oppose Demonstration. THEY not only refused to speak themselves but opposed the idea of a demonstration at all. The joint board of the I. L. G. W. U. naturally refused to join the Federation in this conspiracy of silence and have carried its small organization has been able. Many local unions affiliated with the federation have assisted to the best of that should carry the burden of the struggle, namely the Chicago Federation of Labor and the Illinois State Federation of Labor have been silent as far as labor demonstration against the imprisoned injunction violators are concerned, but they have been very definite in the defense of Govern or Small and in their attack against the men and women who went to jail on under the auspices of the I. L. G. W. U. joint board, for their release as Communist propaganda.

News Gets Indignant. THE FEDERATION NEWS waxes indignant over Davidson's attack upon Governor Small. It says, "In a irade, unsound and unwarranted, he being unfair, although he knew that Attorney-General Carlstrom was to granted to the jailed pickets with tion. out delay." Again in defense of Governor Small they quote Fitzpatrick as saying, "The Federation actually secured the pardon for nineteen of them. Attorney General Carlstrom then advised Governor Small that according to the law he had no right to issue pardons in these cases.' In other words the Federation of ficial position according to their official paper is, that Governor Small was willing to pardon the pickets, Attorney of the whole ridiculous position of the General Carlstrom told him he could not do it and he didn't. So therefore nothing can be done in the matter The convicted pickets must serve their sentence, and any individual who pro tests publicly is a Communist, or any union who demands mass meeting and public demonstrations demanding the immediate release of these victima of the class war, are carry on Communist propaganda which will no be tolerated or supported by the Fed eration.

"Friend Small"

A CCORDING to the quotations made in the Federation News from the speeches made by Fitzpatrick and Nockles. Governor Small is an angel and Attorney-General Carlstrom is th devil. From their progressive position for a labor party of a few year ago they have become the most ar dent supporters of the slogan, "rewar your friends and punish your ene mies." In this instance the "friend is Small" and the enemy is Carlstrom Nockles is quoted as saying to the federation: "We heard Davidson's ti rade about Len Small. I remembe when he pardoned 19 Communists in the penitentiary. I do not suppose that they gave him any credit for these pardons. I was one of those who saw the governor and urged him to issue these pardons. And he die pardon them-nineteen of them."

Deserves No Credit.

You are damned right, Nockles Let Small got no credit from the Com munists and deserved none. It suited his political purpose at that time to pardon the convicted Communists just as it suits his political purpose not to pardon the imprisoned pickets. There is no difference of opinion between Small and Carlstrom when i comes to questions concerning labor only in the case of the pickets Carl strom seems to have more gall than Small in expressing his opinion, or to put it more concretely, he does not expect to get the support of the trade union officialdom, so he does not have to be as careful as Small, who has their endorsement.

On the other hand, the credit for the release of the 19 Communists and all other class war prisoners is due to the workers' organizations alone, and just as they gave you and others credit for taking a correct working class position in these cases, so will they severely criticize you for sinking the interest of the imprisoned pickets to cater to the political ambition of capitalist politicians, trying their exploiters by spreading the poiblame for the pardons not being sonous propaganda of class collabora-

Nearly fifty pickets are or have served their sentence in the Cook county jail. Yet the federation has not held a single protest meeting against their imprisonment. The reason is obvious. Governor Small refuses to grant them a pardon and so they have decided to go along with Small without a pardon. To call a mass protest meeting to demand the release of these victims would expose those labor leaders who are in Small's band wagon. It would bring out the crying need for a labor party. So the nterest of the working class as a whole has to be submerged, the convicted pickets must shut up and serve their time all in the interest of class collaboration, which is the modern expression of working-class betrayal.

Bosses Refuse to Treat with Strike Head

(Special to The Daily Worker) NEW YORK, July 23 .- Four hundred striking Interborough Rapid Transit Company employes, who today marched in a body to the company's yards to ask that they be given back the jobs they quit on July 6, were met with the announcement that the company would not treat with Edward P./Lavin, the strike leader.

The strikers shouted a derisive answer at the company's officials and returned to their headquarters to discuss the new phase of the strike. They declared they would not break allegiance to their strike leaders.

"The 4th of August" of the British General Strike

By GREGORY ZINOVIEV

The general strike had no clear aim, no clear program. Whereas in reality it had, and had of necessity, a political character from the very beginning, the general council persisted in asseverating at every street corner that the strike was only an conomic one, that it was not directed against the constitution and so on. In the meantime the government assiduously organized its strikebreakers. The general council called upon the striking masses to spend its leisure time in games, dancing and sport. The general council, in which the masses had at first placed unbounded confidence, and to whom it had with enthusiasm entrusted the fate of this great movement, was capable of vacillating, even in view of the government's threat to declare the strike illegal, a threat which was coupled with the "promise" to confiscate the personal property of the official trade union leaders.

The Magdenburg trial recently proved with absolute certainty that in 1918, when the great strike began in Germany, the leaders of the social democrats. Ebert. Scheidemann and Noske, deliberately joined in the organization of the strike in order to wreck the strike of the workers. They openly admitted before the court that, whilst they were members of the 4th of August, 1914 was for the the strike committees of the workers. they were at the same time in touch with the staffs of Hindenburg and the leaders of the general council after justified in not carrying thru the Samcrown prince. CONCLUSION TODAY OF ZINOVIEV'S ARTICLE ON THE BRITISH STRIKE

DITOR'S NOTE—The concluding instalment of Comrade Zinoviev's article on the British general strike, printed herewith, will be followed by other articles on the same subject by several of the foremost Communist leaders of various countries.

In the August number of The Workers' Monthly will appear the theses of the executive committee of the Communist International on "Lessons of the British General strike." On the basis of this supremely important document of the leading committee of the world proletarian revolution, the units of the Workers (Communist) Party will discuss the great events of last May in England.

Needless to say, no worker can be informed on this world-shaking event without reading the theses of the Communist International. Orders for the August issue of The Workers' Monthly containing the full text of the these should be sent NOW, as it is expected that the demand will be large.

At the national conference of the Shoemakers' Union in Blackpool, Joseph Simon and Smith have already made actually fascist speeches against the "Reds:"

It is only in this field that the great strike had aimed at obtaining results."

This is a treacherous declaration.

Tr is now a perfectly established fact that, if during the last year or two the general council has professed in words to be "left," it was only a reflection of the trend to the larly great amount of harm. Just as left of the masses. The masses are in 1914-1918, the so-called "Kautskyliberating themselves from tradi- ans" were the arch-enemy, so at prestional trade unionism which is ent the "Center party," who call themsaturated with conservative ide-selves "left," are the chief obstacle in ology. In these circumstances the English perialist war has revealed a festering geois and petty bourgeois trade union treacherous behaviour of the general council in the recent general strike.

The bankruptcy of the general council means a new bankruptcy of reformism both of the right and of the 'left" wing.

The Communists must of course understand how to make a distinction between the right and the "left" reformists. In the present period the situation in England is such that the so-called "left" are causing a particu-social democracy a "stinking corpse." Lenin entirely agreed with this description.

Since the 12th of May, 1926, the general council in its present composition, is also a stinking corpse.

This does not mean that it no longer represents a force. The stinking corpse of German social democracy has continued to poison the atmosphere for more than 10 years since the 4th of August. This may also. for a few years, be the case with the general council. As leader of the fighting masses of the workers, the general council is anyhow a corpse. The English workers will understand how to clear it out of the way and to elect their own leaders into the general council; they will understand how to build up the general council out of real, fighting labor leaders.

Let us avoid any misunderstanding. After August 4th, 1914, Lenin issued the slogan of a direct split in the social democratic parties and the creation of independent Communist parties, of a split in the Second International and the formation of the third International.

Are we now to issue the slogan of split in the English trade unions, of secession from the unions? Of course not! In no circumstances! Where we do this, it would mean forgetting to the necessity of work in the reac-

"Better indeed for you that a millstone be tied around your neck and be cast into the sea, nay, even scratch a mule's heel, than be heard threatening to kick the breeches off the least of our prophets."-Jeremiah, Verses 3-7-77.

Because Elmer Moore neglected to read the gospels, tho he may have drank of the spirit of the Lord, he was forced to stand up in court before Judge Jack McGoorty and take his medicine. Not that Elmer did not need it. In fact, a whole can of ammonia would not be wasted on his breath.

SAYER.

Elmer was a guard in Cook county jail and one of his pleasant duties was to escort various bootleggers to court. Now, it is no secret that bootleggers are bad people to stay away from. Elmer did not do that, hence the tale.

Now for the facts. Elmer is an employe of Sheriff Hoffman, who is an employe of the G. O. P. of Cook county. While the sheriff was in iail his quards were dancing, even as mice are in the absence of members of the feline species. Having nothing to do they hovered around the cells of the bootleggers, thus being overcome by alcoholic fumes. JUDGE NOT, LEST YE BE

THRASHED. Now it came to pass that a Pharisee by the name of McErlane, was taken before the publican McGoorty for justice. McErlane, like Pontius Pilate wished to wash his hands of the law and told it to the judge, threatening to lay violent hands on him. The judge mumbled exceedingly. Whereupon the judge driven to anger by the threats of the Pharisee, called upon Elmer to take him hither. Elmer having looked upon the bootlegger when he was red, staggered awkwardly. The judge incensed, demanded that he be taken from hence. But it was easier said than done. Elmer lurched towards the bench.

The multitudes laughed loudly. IF A MAN ASKETH THY TROUSERS-"You are drunk," declared the court.

"Like hell, I am," retorted Elmer, "and furthermore, if you say it again, I shall disassociate your honor's person from his B. V. D.'s." Whereupon his honor gathered his robes around him and retired to his

chambers. A WISE JUDGE MIXETH

MERCY WITH MOONSHINE. When Elmer next appeared before his honor he was sober. Taking advantage of his condition. Mc-Goorty got real nasty and rebuked him, held him for contempt of court and refined the punishment by postponing sentence.

Verily indeed, he that razzes a judge is looking for trouble.
