Capitalist Monster Dies ENTRANCE TO COOLIDGE AND But Social System That U.S. REFUSED SENATORS IN Spawned Him Still Lives POLITICAL ROW

Doesn't Mention the Mellon Scandal

THE DAILY WORKER

(Special to The Daily Worker) WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. - With a new series of scandals threatening to break about his head, President Coolidge yesterday tried to overcome them by discussing interviews to reporters on his alleged opinions regarding problems confronting the government. He discussed the world court, disarmament, the army and navy disputes and claimed that since this is the "open season" for politics the people should not take the speeches of senators too seriously. He was careful to refrain from mentioning the notorious aluminum trust scandals, which involve the chief of his administration, Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, who holds his office in plain violation of law and of the constitution of the United States.

Defense Adequate.

Army and navy defenses are ade quate and the propaganda about the breakdown of national defense is simply an effort on the part of certain groups to secure larger appropriations from congress. according to Coolidge. He accused of false and misleading propaganda those who criticize defenses. Obviously his-statement was an attempt to maintain the armed forces at their highest possible efficiency and he resents special interests advocating separation of the various departments of national defense, a program that has been strongly supported by air-craft manufacturers. As the agent of the capitalist class as a whole Coolidge must defend a powerful army and navy and cannot let the various groups endanger by their special interests the armed forces of the imperialists.

Haunted by Court.

LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, William Madison Wood, multi-millionaire woolen trust czar is dead among luxurious surroundings in Florida. The event becomes the leading feature of the day in the kept press, while at the same time another item, only a few lines long, is hidden away in an obscure corner telling another story as follows:

Kentucky Senate Rejects Child Labor Amendment.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 1 .- (AP)-The Kentucky senate today rejected without a dissenting vote, the proposed child labor amendment to the United States constitution.

Wood, the enslaver of humanity, who used all the power of his amassed millions to beat down the workers, is dead; but the Wood system lives on. The above item, giving the action of the Kentucky senate in capitalism's war on the children, would prove a fitting epitaph on Wood's tombstone. He would glory in it, even in his grave, if such things are possible.

Wood was part of "the New England system," that includes the strikebreaker, President Cal Coolidge, in the political arena, and William H. Butler, another multi-millionaire mill owner, as one of the powerful connecting links between Coolidge and the capitalist world that picked him out of backwoods obscurity to be used and manipulated for its own purposes.

Wood, like Butler, made open war on labor. The American Woolen company, which grew into the largest textile manufacturing organization in the world, boasting "the Wood Worsted Mill in Lawrence, Mass., the largest plant of its kind on earth," named after Wood himself, also stands as one of the most powerful citadels of capitalism in the war against American labor.

The Wood-Butler system of war against the unions, wage cuts, spying on the workers, the speed-up, efforts at building traitor "company unions," the use of the frame-up, the bringing in of the police and the state militia, is the accepted "system" of the Coolidge administration.

Numerous revolts have taken place against the Wood system. The desperate and restless New England textile workers are continually striking at their chains. One of the historic chapters in America's labor history records "the Lawrence strike" of 1912, when the frame-up system was brot into use and workers sent to prison for long terms. The militia were called out to prevent children being sent out of the strike zone to be cared for by friends. The mill owners knew that the sight of their starving children was helping to force the workers back to their jobs.

So vicious was the industrial warfare carried on by the woolen trust against the workers that it couldn't prevent Wood from being indicted for conspiracy to "plant" dynamite, which had been found in the homes of several mill "hands" in an effort to "frame" them. Wood was, of course, freed by the courts of his class, but later he even confessed to being guilty on a similar charge. But he never went to prison. As Wood died in the midst of Flordia's tropical splendor, Sacco and Vanzetti, victims of this same Wood "open shop" system, still sit in prison in the shadow of the hungry gallows in Massachusetts.

Again in 1920, the tail end of the anti-trust prosecutions, that have now entirely disappeared under Coolidge, hit Wood's woolen trust with an indictment for profiteering in the sale of woolen cloth. An obliging judge threw the case out of court.

LABOR EDITOR Daily Worker Demands Coolidge Revoke Ban

"J. Louis Engdahl, Editor." Moore upon being informed that e would not be allowed to enter the United States sent the following telegram to the Federated Press showng that the immigration authorities barred him because he was an editor of a labor paper and called upon the Federated Press to wire its members to protest against such an action.

"The United States Immigration authorities have refused me entrance to the states to attend annual meeting. Refused not for personal reasons but because I am connected with One Big Union Bulletin as editor. by being kicked into the street."

It may be said that hundreds of thousands of workers in New England learned to hate Wood. The passing of Wood must convince these workers that hatred against an individual is useless unless it is converted into a hatred for the social system that produced this ugly offspring. That hatred must manifest itself in renewed efforts to organize New England's workers, in the textile industry, the shoe industry and all other "open shop" plants. It must manifest itself in an effort to win the workers away from the political parties of their masters, thru the building of the labor party, that must spread off into the southern states where the New England profiteers are now sending many of their mills to take advantage of the exploitation of children there permitted them.

Wood, the capitalist monster, is dead, but the capitalist social order that spawned him is still here, to be fought and destroyed by an awakened and class conscious working class.

These show that the railroads with fewer employes are carrying more fewer employes are carrying more freight and operating more passen-EXPLOIT ONE ger car-miles than in either 1924 or 1923.

There were 5,578 fewer workers on railroad payrolls in October 1925 than in October 1924, although traffic was larger in October 1925 by nearly 1,000,000,000 net ton-miles and by over 13.000,000 passenger car miles.

More striking reductions have taken place since 1923. Excluding general and division officers there were 1.920,054 railroad employes in October 1923 compared with 1,800,453 in Oct. 1925. This reduction of approximately 120,000 in the number of employes meant a saving of over $13,000,000 in the month's wages in spite of the fact that in 1925 the railroads handled nearly 2.000.000.000 more net tonmiles of freight and 10,000,000 more passenger car-miles.

The reduction in number employed between October 1923 and 1925 as it hit typical groups of employes appears in the figures:

First National leads the parade. But the other big banks follow with profits which would turn Midas green with envy.

Altogether the owners of national banks throughout the country took 1925 profits totaling $223,935,000, an increase of $28,229,000 over 1924. This means that the combined capital of the 8,070 banks turned a profit of more than 16%. These profits exceed by several millions all the salaries and wages paid by the banks for the conduct of their business.

Out of these profits the bankers paid themselves cash dividends totaling $165,033,000. The remainder increased their undivided surplus profits from $1,080,578,000 to $1,118,953,000, a sum nearly equal to the entire par value of their capital stock.

Francisco Holds San Memorial

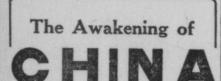

WAUKEGAN, Feb. 3 - Workers of many nationalities in Waukegan came to hear of the life of Lenin at the Workingmen's Hall. The fire of Lenin's enthusiasm was conveyed to them in a program varied and complete. There was a battery of speakers, representing many phases of the revolutionary movement, not only of the present, but of the future. Ernest Simpson, of the Waukegan Young Pioneers; Phil. Boyer, of the Waukegan Young Workers (Communist) League; George Halonen, educational director of the Cooperatives Central Exchange, Superior, Wis; and William Simons, Secretary, Workers School, Chicago.

A sign of the future realization of Lenin's theory came in the speeches of the Pioneers and Young Workers (Communist) League representatives. Comrade Halonen spoke briefly on Lenin and the Cooperatives. Comrade Simons showed the main accomplishments of Lenin, and explained the increasing struggle between the imperialist powers. He called on the workers to defend Soviet Russia against any attack from the imperialist powers and urged the formation of a labor party, support of the American Negro Labor Congress, and the All-American Anti-Imperialist League. He urged all who believed in Lenin's work, to joint Lenin's party, the Workers (Communist) Party.

The musical part of the program was furnished by the Workers' Band, the Young Pioneers Chorus. the Lithuanian Liberty Chorus and the Young Workers (Communist) League Or chestra.

* * * SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 3 -A large and enthusiastic audience crowded the Lenin-Liebknecht-Luxemburg memorial meeting held under the joint auspices of the Workers (Communist) Party and Young Workers (Communist) League. Besides the various musical numbers, the Young Pioneers presented a "Lenin Memorial" dance as their contribution to the program. A Young Pioneer speaker spoke on "Lenin and the Young Pioneers."

The two main speakers of the evening were William Schneiderman and Charles Pilgrim, who dwelt on the lives and lessons of our three immortal leaders. Comrade Gliksohn was chairman of the meeting.

WHILE the revolutionary army of Feng Yu-Hsiang is mobilizing in Peking for the final struggle against Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian war lord and the puppet of the imperialist powers, the Chinese .nationalist party (Kuo Min Tang) of Philadelphia contributed to the war chest of the Workers (Communist) Party to raise the $20,000 fund for the fight against the capitalist program in the United States.

In this act of the Chinese workers in America dramatizes the farflung battle line of the proletarian forces of the world revolution and the bonds that unite them for their common struggle.

The defeat of American imperialism in China and the Orient will encourage the workers and farmers of America in their struggle against the same imperialist bandits who are financing the mercenary armies of Chang Tso-lin in the attempt to crush the aspirations of the workers and farmers of China.

THE Kuo Min Tang of Philadelphia realizes that the weakening of the International bankers of Wall Street means the strengthening of the workers' and farmers' movement thruout the world. While the revolutionary students, workers and farmers are mobilizing for action in Peking under the banners of the Kuo Min Tang, the workers and farmers of America must prepare for the struggle in 1926: for a united labor ticket in the 1926 elections; for a labor party against the capitalist parties; for a fight against anti-strike and anti-union laws; for the defense and recognition of the Soviet Union.

In this struggle our party must take the lead. The first step in the campaign is the raising of the $20,000 campaign fund. The Philadelphia Kuo Min Tang gives a practical demonstration of international labor solidarity. While the Chinese students, workers and farmers are attacking the outposts of American imperialism in Manchuria It is the duty of the Workers (Communist) Party of America to mobilize the workers and farmers of America in the storming of the very citadel of world imperialism.

EVERY unit of the party must swing into action-NOW.

We are now in the first weeks of February. This is the period of the PREPARATION for the campaign of 1926. The successful raising of the campaign fund NOW means the carrying on of a successful campaign in the months to come.

LOWELL SCHOOL CHILDREN GO ON STRIKE AGAINST McANDREW "ECONOMY" POLICY IN CHICAGO

Over 500 parents and children met in the Lowell school to fight the decision of Superintendent. McAndrew to transfer 700 children to various outlying schools.

Last summer an addition to Lowell school was to have been erected, so that the children of the vicinity would not have to go in shifts but be able to go whole days, from nine to three o'clock. However, it seems that all of a sudden the board of education proposes a policy of economy, their plan being to send the youngsters to schools that are a mile or more distant. Besides the distance, the school children are handicapped by the fact that they have to cross busy thorofares, where automobiles and street cars endanger their lives.

The meeting clearly showed that McAndrew's policy does not hold much water. Resolutions were passed unanimously to the effect that the youngsters would go to any other school but Lowell regardless of the consequences. Every mother and father pledged themselves, if necessary, not to send their children to school until their demands were met with. This alone shows the determined spirit of the parents. Speaker after speaker took the floor and spoke of the injustices of the many decisions of the board of education and also Superintendent McAndrew. Much discussion took place, but all agreed to stand united, and to fight it out to a finish.

THE menace of North American imperialism is confronting the entire American continent. The peoples of Latin America, together with the exploited workers in the United States must organize to fight it. The All-America Anti-Imperialist League calls upon all those countries where no sections of the league now exist to organize them without delay, and to communicate with the international leadquarters, or with the office of the league's monthly organ, El Libertador, Apartado 613, Mexico, D. F., Mexico.

The Kiel Canal Case. EQUALLY infamous was another case affecting the Soviet Union and, incidentally, Germany. During the French and British inspired war against Russia on the part of the white guard government of Poland a British steamship, chartered by a French armament concern, loaded with war material for Poland, sought to go thru the Kiel canal. Germany refused permission for the boat to ge thru on the ground that it violated German neutrality in the war between Poland and Russia. France and Britain insisted that under article 380 of the Versailles treaty the vessel was entitled to passage thru the canal.

The case was referred to the world court and Germany contended that while the article referred to held that the canal and its approaches "shall be maintained free and open to the vessels of commerce and of war of all nations at peace with Germany on terms of absolute equality," it did not apply to ammunition laden or battleships in case of war between nations. To permit the passage of the boat would have been a clear violation of the article and a violation of the neutrality of Germany.

That plain fact did not influence the court for it handed down another unprecedented decision, which was against Germany and, in effect, an imperialist demand on the part of France and England that Germany violate her neutrality to aid the enenies of Russia

Nothing better illustrates the character of the world court into which the House of Morgan has plunged the United States. These two decisions on Russia prove conclusively that it it not even a court, but an instrument of the most open and shameful imperialist aggression, unhesitatingly doing the bidding of the imperialist powers that control it. It has no code except the code of conquest. It recognizes no precedents, ignores facts, and is an agency furnishing a cloak of legality for the imperialist butchers whose creature it is. It is this instrument that Wall Street hopes to dominate in order that it may serve its interests in Europe and the rest of the world the same as it has in the past served the interests of France and Britain.

In plain words the British government serves notice on the dustrial machinery, but of the import United States that at the coming Geneva arms conference it will of finished goods. move to abolish the naval parity with this country. Eliminating the diplomatic cloak that conceals the motive of Britain the declaration means that henceforth there is to be a race for naval armaments that we are forced at the moment to between the two great imperialist powers of the world, which can import machinery, but Sokolnikov only culminate in a world struggle where the seas will run red with the blood of the working class.

In these small naval boats (un der the 10,000 ton limitation of the Washington treaty) Britain disdains parity with the United States and insists that she be permitted to build as many boats as possible in order to regain her supremacy of the sea.

The growing imperialist domination of the world by the United States and the extension of its mighty power to British territory is soon to be challenged and not all the Locarnos or world courts can avert that catastrophe. The only power that can prevent such to import machinery and not produce selves with the support of the Soviet a debacle is the might of the working class under the leadership of it, then we can have no guarantee power and forced very much from the Communists, mobilized to take advantage of the political and against a transformation of our coun- the Kulaks, the relations of forces in economic disorganization in order to smash the governmental power of both American and British imperialism.

"Children of the Revolution," tells the story of a children's colony which began with ten homeless children and increased to 100. They have been given a thousand acre farm by the workers' government and are building new lives under the new society, exerting every influence to break the tradition of the czarist influence. The stories are written in an intensely beautiful style out of the daily life of the colony.

We in America have contributed towards the support of the colony and now we can see the result of our work.
