The political uproar, which accompanied the passage of the bill by the senate, continued to echo thru the capitol today. Although considerable bitterness existed chiefly in the democratic ranks of the senate, the republicans were not free from an internal party row. The bill was denounced as a "millionaire's" relief measure by both senators Norris, of Nebraska, and Reed. of Missouri.

Senator Dill, of Washington, declared: "There is no intention in the consideration of this bill to do justice to the poor man. The only purpose here is to relieve great wealth of its just share of taxation. The inheritance tax was repealed because, it was said, is was intended only for war purpose and yet today we are paying $820.-000,000 a year as interest on our war debt."

The bill also was described as a "rich man's" relief measure by Senator Hawell, of Nebraska, Under the motion for the repeal of the inheritance taxes, he stated that $90,000,000 relief would be given to the multimillionaire class of 5,694 tax payers and only $60,000,000 to all the other tax payers. Under rebates allowed on inheritance taxes, he added, $60,000. 000 relief would be given the same 5,694 multimillionaires and only $40,-000,000 to the 110,000,000 other citizens. "This is not only a millionaire's relief bill," he summed up: "It is a multi-millionaire's relief bill."

Differences Split Old Parties.

From the house side came rumbles indicating a division of opinion there over some of the reductions ordered by the senate. While representative Green, chief of the house conferees. was announcing that the house bill would have to be restored in order to keep within the limit of reductions recommended by the treasury department, representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the republican floor leader, was declaring the house would support the senate's repeal of the estate and amusement taxes. The repeal of amusement taxes, which will strike out $33,000,000 in revenue, probably will be retained in the bill as a result of this conflict of opinion in the house. The senate twice voted to repeal the

Some Juggling to be Done.

With these "progressives," however, there is no clear and binding line o economic policy pursued. Some of them want to go back to the pre-trust days. Others want to "regulate" the monster combines. None of them regard the issues from the working class standpoint.

Polish Textile Industry Hit by Trade Crisis EAST CHICAGO

(Special to The Daily Worker) VIENNA, Feb. 16. - The industrial lepression has hit the textile mills particularly hard. Capital is difficult to attract and the industry as a whole seems doomed. Trades returning from Lodz and other important centers in Poland state that if present conditions continue that country will lose its im-nation. The economy of Poland is so bound that there can be no permanent improvement until the government perfects a political understanding with Russia. This, however, is contrary to lish financiers and imperialist politicians who want to keep the country, regardless of how their ambitions may effect the people, as a standing menace to the workers' republic.

CHAPLIN SPEAKS

ers on Labor Defense

On Sunday night, the Eugene Bar nett (Northwest branch) of the International Labor Defense held a very successful meeting at which Ralph prisoner and poet was the principal speaker.

After an excellent musical program by Margaret Lewis, pianist, Kirsch, violinist, and Max Rosner, singer, with Mrs. Rosner as accompanist, Comrade Moritz J. Loeb, chairman, spoke on the general aims of labor defense, and introduced Ralph Chaplin. Chaplin began by pointing out the intensification of the class struggle and the urgent necessity for organized defense on the part of labor, showing the ever-increasing use of the frame up as a method of getting rid of militant workers. After speaking of the Zeigler frame-up as a glaring and immediate illustration, Chaplin review ed the 1919 I. W. W. cases, the Ford and Suhr, the Everett case, and gave a detailed and extremely vivid account of the Centralia battle. The simple and yet immensely dramatic recital of events by the class war fighter and poet who had so actively shared in them made a deep impression on the audience, and a Craven is going to sail for Bermuda number of applications for membership in the International Labor Deon the "first ship that sails," he declared at the Ritz Carlton Hotel here. fense were received after the meeting.

Cincinnati Business Agent Fails Workers

By a Worker Correspondent CINCINNATI, Ohio, Feb. 16-The drivers for the Hubig Pie company of this city demand that business agent Jacob Hesselbrook, of the union, state why he did not carry out his promise to secure them union conditions. When the factory first opened up all the drivers joined the organization, paying $5 for the first month's dues and as part of their initiation fee. He promised them to unionize the place but for two months did nothing more about it. When he dropped around for the third month's dues the men told him they would not pay another cent unless his promise was carried out, even if they would have to strike. He refused to do anything with the result that the drivers at this establishment have all dropped the union.

The union scale calls for $35 a week plus commissions. The Hubig Pie company drivers are getting only $25. It is business agents such as this which make it difficult to organize the workers. We hope The DAILY WORKER will give publicity to this matter and thus help us in our struggle to get organized.

"The power of the working class is organization. Without organization of the masses, the proletariat-is nothing. Organized-it is all. Organization is unanimity of action, unanimity of practical activities."

Arbitration Demand Granted

For years the arbitration illusion has been officially opposed by the United Mine Workers of America. The well established fact that there is no living person who can possibly be neutral in a struggle between captal and labor has kept that magnificent union out of the slimy clutches of arbitration. Even the arch-traitor, John L. Lewis, said during the anthracite struggle that one cannot a new tactical and strategical maneu- into reformism. Articles three and four of that pact which will stand as a revolution at its fourteenth party con- our comrades abroad. Occasionally, monument of shame to Lewis provide for a board of two men "with gress. Our enemies have always for instance, one and the same probfull power without reservation or restrictions," and the parties to the agreement (miners and operators) agree to abide by any decisions of this board. Unless otherwise agreed the two men shall not be connected with either the operators or miners. That means only one thing: the destinies of the miners are to be placed in the hands of two individuals with dictatorial powers, whose word is law and from whose decision there can be no appeal. In case these two cannot agree they have the power to choose a third person referred to in article four of the pact as "umpire." The vote of the third person then becomes decisive.

Every semblance of power of the miners is to be destroyed and their organization is to become an adjunct of the bosses in a drive to increase production along the lines of the "B. & O." and other class collaboration plans. This is clearly set forth in article four of the pact:

4-The demands of the operators and the mine workers on the question of CO-OPERATION and EFFICIENCY are referred to the board of conciliation, exclusive of the umpire, which shall work out a reciprocal program of CO-OPERATION and EFFICIENCY. (Our emphasis.)

Not only will this arbitration board regulate wages and conditions of labor in the anthracite, but it will devise schemes to cut down labor time, thereby causing an increase of unemployment which will enable the anthracite trust more easily to impose wage unity. The General Federation of German Trade Unions constituted last German Trade Unions constituted last cuts upon the miners.

One hundred and sixty thousand miners, already miserably unlerbaid, face the darkest years in the history of their organization, unless they are able to crush the power of the infamous Lewis machine and repudiate the "Black Friday" agreement conceived in treachery at Philadelphia last week.

Mellon Trust Defies Commission
