SOVIET LABOR SPEEDS

(Special Cablegram to The DAILY WORKER.)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., May 11.—Continue collections on behalf of the British miners, all funds collected to be deposited as special funds to help the British miners, put at the disposal of the General Council of Trade Unions or Mine Workers Union of Great Britain at their first request-such is the decision of the General Council of Trade Unions of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics in connection with the refusal of the General Council of British Trade Unions to accept help from foreign unions. The General Council of Trade Unions of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics points out that in organizing collections for the strikers the General Council of Trade Unions of the U. S. S. Furriers' Greetings Urge Unity of Industry

By JACK JOHNSTONE. (Special to The Daily Worker)

MONTREAL, May 11.—An amaigamation resolution containing concrete proposals for uniting the various unions in the needle trades industry has been introduced here sponsored by some thirty left wing delegates.

The resolution asks that a rank and file amalgamation convention be hem within six months to be preceded by a preliminary conference called by the A. C. W. executive board which shall include all needle trades union executives. It is believed that the main struggle in the convention will center around this resolution.

Yesterday's morning session was spent in reading greetings, seating delegates and the appointment of committes. 216 delegates were seated by the regular procedure and forty New York delegates seated by special action owing to their local dues payment not having been made at the proper

WASHINGTON, May 11 .- A new diplomatic move to prevent a complete breakdown of negotiations by the United States government to settle the dispute between Chile and Peru over future possession of Tacna-Arica was forecast today.

The action of the Chilean congress in demanding that the proposed plebiscite be held was construed here as a final rejection of Secretary Kellogg's proposal that the entire matter be settled by "negotiation." Disturbing reports of anti-American feeling in Chile also reached the

Shipyards Stop; Machinists and -Moulders Out

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ONDON, May 11-The Trade Union Congress issued an order today directing moulders, shipyards worker and machinists to stop work at the end of today's shift at midnight.

This will further extend the paralysis of the country caused by the strike and will add at least 300,000 workers to the ranks of the strikers and throw as many more out of work because of the stoppage of a large section of British industry.

Trade Union Congress Plans to Control Use of Electricity.

There is a possibility also of more electrical workers coming out since the general council of the Trade Union Congress has issued an order that henseforth permits for the use of electric power can be issued only thru the medium of the council.

This means that the council dominates the situation in so far as power in the large centers is concerned.

Special Cabinet Meeting Takes Up "Second Line" Strike Order.

A special meeting of the cabinet was called today to consider the new situation created by the Council's order calling out the second line of defense.

The council's policy is gradually to apply increasing pressure by the calling out of more men every time the government takes steps towards more aggrssive action against the strikers.

There is still a "third line" of defense not yet called upon by the trade union leaders: the sanitary employes, food workers and general workers, who may follow the "second line" to the front in the next few days, unless some agreement is reached.

Still No Basis for Talk of Negotiations to Settle Strike.

Talk of negotiations is still current but nothing concrete is yet in evidence. Spokesmen for the Trade Union Congress refused to commit thmselves and the govrnment is taking no official action for an agrement with the strikers. There are a number of individuals unofficially attempting to effect a reconciliation, but the dead-lock continues with the situation the same. The government will not revoke its emergency order until the Trade Union Congress calls off the general strike and this the congress refuses to do. Baldwin's "British Gazette"

Admits Effectiveness of Strike. The government organ, the "British Gazette," acknowledged the effectiveness of the strike today when it said:

"While many individual strikers in various trades in the essential services have returned to their jobs, the general strike continued unabated."

The "British Worker," the strikers' organ said, "From every own and city in the country reports are pouring into the general council headquarters stating that all ranks are solid and that the working men and women are resolute in their determination to resist the unjust attack upon the mining community."

DEFENSE RESTS IN SWEET CASE; TRIAL NEAR END

Show Protection of the Police Is Useless

By C. O'BRIEN ROBINSON

DETROIT, Mich., May 11 - Both the defense and state in the trial of Henry Sweet, rested their case. Dr. Ossian H. Sweet was the last witness

In the testimony of Dr. Sweet, it was brot out how ineffective police protection has been in similar cases where Negroes were involved.

Police Beatings Mentioned.

In cross-examination, Dr. Sweet said that he was influenced in making certain statements to the police due to his fear of physical injury if he did not do so. When questioned by Prosepolice beating prisoners, Dr. Sweet said that he had read of such cases. When Toms asked for a specific example of such an occurrence, Chawke, assisting Darrow in defense, asked Toms if he meant to infer that people have never been beaten by police.

Toms requested that the statement by Chawke be stricken from the records and intimated that Judge Frank Murphy was showing preference to the defense counsels.

Prisoners Ignorant of Power that Puts them Under Lock and Key

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

"SLIM, the Bum Boss" was the first power, vested with authority, that I came in contact with on the first morning of my stay in the Allegheny (Pittsburgh) county jail.

It was afterwards that I got his nickname from the other prisoners. He deserved it. I also learned the requirements of his job. He was a prisoner himself. Yet he was an institution for lording it over other prisoners. He shifted them from one cell to another, as occasion demanded. He lined up those who were supposed to go thru the routine of taking a bath. Every prisoner takes a bath when he goes in and when he goes out. Prisoners also get a bath every week for good measure, if they remain that long. In fact, "Slim" was there to help the jail officials see that the prisoners all went thru their proper paces.

"If you want to help sweep up the range (the runway outside the cells) and do other jobs, I'll move you up front," was "Slim's" suggestion, "It's a little better up there."

Not knowing of any arguments to offer against an improvement in jail living conditions, I readily accepted. That is how I became one of the two "head rangemen" and moved out of "Cell I-23" and into "Cell

I-13". Instead of a bare board to sleep on, there was canvas spread on 'an iron frame, and something that might once have been an army blanket to cover up with. Nikolai Bukharin's "Historical Materialism," carefully wrapped in a coat, still had to serve as pillow.

The change also brot a new cellmate. He also had his "story." Every prisoner has his story, which is his version of his own troubles.

Fred Craven, union gainter, of Hays, Pennsylvania, coal mining town, was in for ten days and he insisted the only charge against him was one of vagrancy. He was working, earning something like $66 per week, when he was whipped off to jail as a "vag," which is supposed to refer to those unfortunate human beings without visible means of sup-

Craven's case is typical and therefore important. With an extensive knowledge of jails and police courts, I make the charge that in few places in the nation does one find police victims so universally proclaiming their absolute innocence of the charges against them, as is the case here in Pittsburgh.

Craven is native-born of Irish parentage. That ought to have made him immune. He has lived for many years in Hays, has a large family, belongs to the Moose lodge, along with Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, which should be additional fortifications. But he has a free spirit, that flaunts the power of the police, and there is where he gets in bad. He claims the police went against him because he gave aid to one of their intended victims. "We'll get you!" was the police decision. And they did. On an afternoon, when Craven returned home from work, several of them came to the house, started an argument in which Craven joined heartily, dragged him off to the local police station, beat him up, then had him sent over for ten days on the frame-up charge of vagrancy. Craven has "connections" and some money, which means that he has a lawyer. He also has fight left. And he hopes to "get" the police instead. But that is a long weary struggle, especially when all the courts hold it to be their inherent capitalist duty, as it is, to give unwavering support and endorsement to every police tyranny.

Craven felt rather chipper in his fight. Prison held little terror for him. He ate his "altogether soup," got away with a good part of the half loaf of white bread that was passed out at every meal time, and really drank some of the 99 per cent weak liquid that was offered in the name of coffee. He was biding his time. He had his hopes.

It was quite different with nearly all the others. Some of them even feared the hour of their release, believing that some other frame-up charge would be created to be used against them.

Craven always hovered near the end of the range where he could watch those coming in or going out. Thus the word came back that a Negro prisoner had been taken out of the line of those who were that morning on their way into the open. "They found a razor on him," was the message that slipped thru our section of the jail. Thus at the very door of liberty the prisoner was snatched back to face another jail term on some other

But attention was soon turned in a different direction. On the tier below the head guard was charging one of the "barber shop gang" with having stolen a watch from another prisoner. This jail barber was in for 30 days, having been picked up on "suspicion." He was a slender youth who talked with a halffrightened look in his face. He might have been a consumptive. His term had another week to run. When I talked to him later, he was still trembling with the fear that new charges would keep him under lock and key for an extended

"Christ!" he exclaimed, "how can they do it?"

As if in answer the word "Coal!" came in a hoarse call from below. The head of the coal gang was calling on the Negro prisoners assigned to the work of shoveling the daily ration of prison coal. A half dozen Negroes hurried down the iron stairs from an upper tier.

But there was much meaning in that word, "Coal!" It might have been "Steel!" or "Coke!" or "Railroads!" symbolizing the huge basic industries, privately owned, that dominate this whole Pittsburgh empire of profit and plunder. I didn't meet a single prisoner in the whole jail who understood this system of

SYMPATHETIC RAILWAY STRIKE IN CUBA TIES UP ALL ROADS

HAVANA, May 11.-Railway traffic in Cuba came to a dead stop today as a result of a general walkout of all railwy workers in sympathy with the wrokers of the Cuban rialroad who have been out on strike for several weeks following their failure to secure a wage increase in the last negotiations with the owners.

There is a possibility that the strike will be extended to include other workers. The British general strike is being received enthusiastically by workers thruout the island.

Organization.

"The membership of our organization has dropped considerably in the last two years. This is an indictment of the present policy of organization work. I stand for the district plan of organizatioin, viz., to give each organizer, within a given territory charge of the work. He can arrange the various local meetings and attend them without conflict of dates. It would give the locals an opportunity of having an organizer oftener and at less expense to the general office.

'I would encourage the maintenance of business agents in most cities; I consider it the duty and function of the general secretary, personally, to be out on the road-to be in touch with the organizers and help them with their work. It is the duty of the general secretary to try, always to be in cities before strikes are declared and to assist and direct during the strikes. The general organizers in the service of our organization must be competent to address meetings-they must be well versed in the history of the labor movement and its antecedents.

Organizing the Unorganized. "Meetings must be held all over the country and a campaign of education in order to bring about unity in the he carried on to emphasize the neces sity of organization, not only must the highest class trade be organized, but ALL custom tailors and the men and urged to join our organization. All effort and energy must be devoted to these ideas at past conventions and organizing our trade. Weekly Work.

"There must be continual education to bring the membership to a realization of the fact that the weekly work is the only safe-guard of their common interest and will give them more leisure, this being the only time that the workers actually live. Many locals have made great effort to achieve the weekly work and some of them fought bitterly to maintain it-how much easier it would be to bring about the weekly work if all the locals were educated to the value of it and were induced to fight for it. This is a great task before us and again brings us to the necessity of organizing the unorganized.

"A conference of the needle trades unions must be held for the purpose of amalgamation. This should be brought about by a conference to arrange for a general convention with proportional presentation from all locals. Functioning committees should be appointed to work out plans for the offices, per capita, sick benefits, etc. There should be one national office which should be departmentalized. Until such amalgamation is achieved, there should be an exchange of cards. There should be a fixed initiation fee-the practice of having different initiation fees in the unions in the clothing in dustry should be abolished.

Amalgamation.

Convention. "There shall be an immediate call for a convention. The membership has been frightened away from a convention by the declaration that a convention would mean an extra tax. There has been no convention since 1921. No organization can remain healthy in spirit and awaken the membership to greater activities and to an ambition to build and strengthen the ranks unless it calls the locals together to shape policies, energize the organization and give it the stimulation that personal contact alone can afford.

The "Tailor." "The 'Tailor' must be edited in a progressive spirit, expressive of the ideas and aims of the working class. The articles written by members or sent in by locals must be printed with. DAILY WORKER.

FURRIERS' UNION HEADS FAIL TO SELL NEW YORK

> Reactionaries Terrorize Chicago Left Wing

> The Millstein machine of the Fur Workers' Union of Chicago, Local No. 45, has become suddenly generous. At a regular meeting of the executive board, the union machine recommend ed that $1,000 be sent to New York to the International Union for the New York strike. The left wingers had some suspicion about the recommendation but nevertheless they decided that as long as there is a strike in New York City of 12,000 fur workers that they would concur in the motion There was no opposition.

> One thousand dollars were needed and were forthcoming-not to help the strike, but to help the international officers break the backbone of the strike. Money was needed to pay hall rent, hire gangsters, and all such paraphernalia. The business agent, a lackey of the fur manufacturers, was ready and anxious to do the job. After the lackey of the bosses in New York saw that the politicians here in Chi cago had a free hand, they called them up and said, "Drown the left wingers," if you cannot get rid of them any other way.

But Millstein and his machine were fooled. Their hopes were short-lived. As soon as the news was flashed that the furriers in New York cannot be sold by their false leaders, their at titude changed. CHICAGO I. L. G. W. ACCEPTS PLANS FOR ITS DRIVE

Organization Committee Submits Its Proposals

At a well attended meeting of the organization committee of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union held at their headquarters, 328 W. Van Buren St., a complete set of plans were brot in by the temporary organization committee which were, after a short discussion unanimously adopted. The enthusiasm of the committee for the work has been completely proven by their acceptance on the executive, The original plan was that a committee of twenty-five be selected. More than thirty-one have accepted. B. Soll, chairman of the joint board, was chosen as the chairman of the organization committee, Philip Houser was appointed secretary, and I. L. Davidson, secretary of the joint board, was put in charge of the organization drive.

At the last meeting of the general executive board various organization drives in different cities were conemplated. The organization work in Chicago extensively discussed and approved the recommendation of President Sigman to give a weekly subsidy to the Chicago joint board to carry on the organization drive.

Davidson, commenting on the work confronting him, stated that he believed the drive has been started at a most opportune time and has no doubt of its success.

Sometime ago a statement appeared in the Women's Wear, by a well known employer "That the drive cannot suc-Use Slugging Tactics on ceed and the union cannot reach any of the workers from the large factories because they are contented with their conditions. The only ones they will be BOSTON, Mass., May 11.-After a able to reach are the small shops,

"I beg to disagree with the contention of the above opinion. If the conditions in the shops are so glorious, it would be pretty hard to talk of organizing them," declared Davidson. But we know a little more about it. We know that in spite of some of the employers changing their attitude towards their workers since the talk of organization work was started, it does not yet half way compare with the conditions in organized industry. I am ready to challange the employers of this city to show me that the earnings of their workers are enough to cover their needs. We know that in some of the larger shops workers draw as little as $12 and $13 a week and if anyone can show us how they can decently get along on such a ctarvation wage, we are ready to submit."

"Because of conditions prevailing in the industry I have no doubt of the success of the organization campaign.

WHAT CHICAGO NEEDS MOST

By HUGO GARBER, Worker Correspondent.

(Reprinted from the first Living Newspaper in the English language, Chicago.) Among the many things Chicago needs most are more newspapers with bigger, heavier headlines so that there would be more excitement

The poor capitalist newspaper reporters must write long stories about a little theft or some accident to supply this great appetite for

Now if there would be more "holdups," more murder cases, more accidents, and more monkey trials, like that one in Tennessee, then we could solve this problem.

Then Chicago needs more dance halls. This is a VERY serious matter. People, poor creatures, not finding enough dance halls here and having an insatiable ambition to dance, go about on the streets and dance the Charleston, and fox trot Moreover, Chicago needs more candy stores, more ice cream parlors, more drug stores to supply inspiration, and most important of all. MORE CHEWING GUM MANUFACTURERS.

The foreman, Sargent emphasizes, is the man thru whom the profit hunger of the corporation must be "tactfully interpreted to the workers." He is the key man in a manufacturing organization in constant and direct contact with the workers and so he must have the proper attitude towards his job. his company and his workers.

How to work the foreman in order to make him work the workers for the benefit of the company treasury is a neat little art of its own, Sargent indicates. "The question arises." he leads off, "as to what manner of instruction and training shall be given." He discards lectures by outside professional trainers (such as the Sherman Service, Inc., an industrial spy outfit) and falls back on the good old expedient of feeding the inner foreman psychologically by flattery and gastronimically by a good dinner.

Hold Discussion Meetings. Every week all the foremen and some of the higher officials gather for 45 minutes on company time to discuss their "problems." In reality it merely provides a forum where the foremen can hear themselves talk, with the result, to quote Sargent, that "the atmosphere has grown to be such as to impress the foreman with the importance of his work and the thing is tranquil and quiet. At six thought that he is actually a part of the management." You see it is the thought, not the fact, that is vital. That's the psychological part.

The gastronomic attack hits on the group when "once a month, at the expense of the company, it meets at dinner shortly after working hours where later addresses are given."

To Make Better Slave-Drivers. All this helps the foremen put over the company methods of dealing with "absenteeism, relations with employes, group insurance, mutual aid associations, labor turnover, waste, wage incentive" (bonus, speed-ups) etc., Sar-On the next day we celebrated ers. might and exterminates the capitalist system and not before.

Victor L. Berger is the "socialist" representative in congress and claims to speak in the interest of the working class. In commenting on the great general strike in Britain he indulged in the organization of fellow-workers in the insipid observation that nationalization of railways and telegraphs labor or national-liberation movewould avert such a demonstration in this country. In the lexicon ments. Many are pontical emigres, fugitives from White Terror, many bear of Berger nationalization means government ownership. Government the marks of jail and battle, others as ownership under capitalism means only that the government itself, yet untried by fire were chosen by instead of various boards of directors, acts as executive committee for the bondholders. Such an eventuality could not possibly prevent strikes, for capitalism would remain intact and the bondholders to "be somebody," but with the burnwould endeavor to beat down wages in order that they might realize ing desire to do something worth greater returns thru holding the bonds in such public utilities.

A real representative of labor in congress would raise the question of coal shipments to Britain. Such a representative would ase congress as a forum from which to explain to the workers of the nation the revolutionary implications of the upheaval in Britain.

Instead of indulging in lamentations about the matchless display of working class solidarity in Britain and giving the capitalists puerile advice in an effort to avert such a thing occurring here he would endeavor to incite the slaves of Amreica to emulate their British fellow workers. He would denounce the contemptible propaganda of capitalism to the effect that in case of a revolt against Vou would think from the cables the bourgeois press brings from He was one of thousands of miners the bourgeois press brings from the bourgeois press brings from the cables the bourgeois press brings from the cables the bourgeois press brings from the bourgeois press brings from the cables the bourgeois press brings from the brings from the bourgeois press brings from the bour paganda of capitalism to the effect that in case of a revolt against London that the miners of England his children. On the Defensive

The administrators of the Pulitzer prize are on the defensive because of the jolt they received when Sinclair Lewis refused the prize for this year and turned back to the fund the thousand dollars awarded him for his novel "Arrowsmith." They now claim that the novelist did this because he craved publicity. The claim is absurd on the face of it, because the author doesn't need publicity.

In Chicago, the eminent Tribune (modestly calling itself the world's greatest newspaper) repeats the charge of the administrators of the Pulitzer prize, utterly ignoring Mr. Lewis' charge that such prizes tend to corrupt authors and will eventually create a servile crew that strives only to cater to the prejudices of the administrators. It elaborates upon its theory and states that Lewis sacrificed the one thousand dollars, but that he received some $50,000 worth of free advertising.

This is a charge worth analysis, but it hits the Tribune and the reptile press in general, not the author it assails. The space devoted to relating the refusal of the Pulitzer prize was news space; the Tribune estimates its value at the rate of advertising space. Is this not a confession that all news can be estimated by readers in the same fashion? A plain admission that there is a price even on the news columns of the capitalist press, for sale to anyone who will pay

Communists have always held this is the case, but never before have we seen such a brazen confession of the shame of the journalistic brothels.
