the International Labor Defense is a part, mourns tday the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The cause of the class war prisoners suffers an especially heavy loss in the death of Comrade Debs. His name is linked with every labor defense struggle that took place during his life of activity in the labor movement. The prisoner of Woodstock and Atlanta was close kin to all persecuted and imprisoned workers. Comrade Debs was not one of those who shrug shoulders at the imprisonment of workers as tho it were a matter of small concern. He burned with indignation at every case of capitalist persecution and was always in the vanguard of the fight for its victims, whoever they might be and whatever their political views or

He rose above the narrow partisanship that seeks to destroy the spirit of unity and solidarity in the labor defense movement. Althe a member of the socialist party, he had nothing in common with these elements represented by the Jewish Daily Forward who fire from ambush at the movement for united labor defense. He helped to build where they try to

THE militant labor movement, of which solidarity on this issue is the strongest rebuke to them.

Cormade Debs rendered great service to the International Labor Defense. He hailed its formation as a big step forward towards unity of all forces in the fight for the class war prisoners and became a member of the National Committee, serving until his death. He responded generously to the many calls made upon him by the International Labor Defense, despite the constant sickness that harassed him, and frequently reiterated his endorsement of its work. His appeal to the American workers in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti, his last public document, was written for the International Labor Defense during his last illness. Eugene V. Debs left to the workers' movement a life record of unceasing struggle on the side of the oppressed, of dauntless spirit and careless disregard for personal rewards or hazards. It is a priceless heritage. That heritage belong to the revolutionary workers. Let them claim it for their own.

Today the grief of the militant workers is heavy indeed, but the grave of Comrade Debs is not the place for tears. He was a warrior and at his grave we raise a battle cry and begin again the forward march.

150 PICKETS REFUSE FINE: CHOOSE JAIL

Fighting Cloakmakers Show Militancy

(Special to The Daily Worker) NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 21 .- The practice of the New York police and courts of herding hundreds of the striking garment workers into courts and draining the union treasury with fines, was met Tuesday by the militant spirit of 150 pickets rounded up by the police. These 150 men and women refused to pay fines, or to allow the union to pay them, and accepted the honor of one day in jail as the alternate penalty.

Mass meetings of the strikers are being held daily in several halls, and the cloakmakers are demonstrating their determination to stick to the picket lines until victory.

The Post Office Replies

THE postal department is trying very hard to hide the basis on which it is proceeding against The DAILY WORKER. It refuses to state directly how it is carrying out the orders of Secretary of State Kellogg that grounds for the suppression of The DAILY WORKER be found, because of its attitude toward the visit to this country of Queen Marie,

When it was learned that Kellogg had ordered the postal department to proceed against The DAILY WORKER, a telegram was sent to Postmaster General New, at Washington, as follows:

"Newspapers here report that Secretary of State Kellogg has instructed you to investigate material published in The DAMLY WORKER regarding visit to this country by Queen Marie, of Roumania. Wire immediately on what basis investigation is being made so that we will be able to take all necessary steps to combat any charges brought

In response to this telegram we have received the following:

It doubtless means that the tired acting postmaster general wants the editor to go thru all the postal regulations and hunt up our own particular law under which we may guess that the postoffice is proceeding against us. This we refuse to do. In the meantime, we await further developments from Washington.

(Special to The Daily Worker) PLAINFIELD, N. J., Oct. 21 .- The Central Board' of Veterans and Military organizations here is up in arms over the design and inscription on a proposed memorial to the soldiers that died overseas. They charge it is pacific and will have nothing to do with it.

The memorial bears the inscription: "They shall beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks-nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

Senator Claims That He Is Sick and in Bed

The Indiana slush fund hearing will be transferred to Indianapolis as a result of a telegraphic appeal from Senator James E. Watson, republican, of indiana, for a personal hearing to refute the charges made against him, Senator Reed announced at the opening of yesterday's afternoon ses.sion. Watson's telegram declared the Indiana senator was bed-fast in an Indianapolis hospital and asked Reed to come to that city even if the hearing had to be held in the hospital. Watson and his machine are in a panic over the turn events are taking.

Fresh revelations of the Ku Klux Man's domination of the state of Inliana and its influence upon national politics were bared by Walter F. Bosert, former vice-president of the naional klan and former grand dragon n Indiana.

Hugh Patrick Emmons, former cylops at South Bend, resumed the stand, as the first witness, long enough to hand Reed a mass of klan ocuments. The senator then excused the South Bend man until he ad time to study the documents.

Bossert, a lawyer from Liberty, nd., asked the witness to be frank. "It has been said here that you were forced out because you would not support a certain candidate for the senate," Reed said. "Why not be frank with us?"

"I always stood for principles and ot individuals," Bossert evaded.

"There was no one in the klan who ould force me out, but they could emove me. I wanted to resign in September, 1925, and my resignation was accepted in January."

"Now come on and tell us about t," Reed pleaded.

Bossert then said he had gotten nto a number of disputes over his belief that the klan should only support principles and issues, but not individuals. He added that D. C. Stephenson, his predecessor as the Indiana grand dragon, had insisted on a policy of supporting famed individ-

Watson Made Deal.

An interesting story of how "gossip" in Washington held that Senator Watson had made a deal with the klan to support Senator Earl B. Mayfield, democrat of Texas, in return for the klan's snupport in his own campaign for re-election was told the committee by Robert W. Lyons, an Indianapolis attorney and former nember of the imperial klan.

Lyons said he had discussed this gossip" with Everett Saunders, secretary to President Coolidge in 1925, while the latter was a member of congress, and that Saunders had denounced the rumor as "ridiculous."

An Evasive Witness. Bossert proved an unwilling and evasive witness. Reed spent a long time getting any information from him.

Bossert replied he "thought" he had introduced Watson to William E. Zumbrunn klan political expert. At the time, he said, Zumbrunn was attorney for Senator Earl B. Mayfield, democrat of Texas, whose seat was being contested in the senate.

"I think I introduced Senator Watson and Weller, republican of Mary land to Zumbrunn." Senator Watson was on the senate committee handling the Mayfield ase, wasn't he?"

"Yes.' Dragon Now Democrat.

Reed developed the fact that the present grand dragon of the Indiana klan, W. Lee Smith, is a democrat. Bossert declared he did not believe that Smith sent out literature urging the klan to support Watson. When Reed showed him the documents dolivered by Hugh Pat Emmons, former exalted cyclops, containing instructions to vote for the Watson machine, which hinders the imperialists from Bosert had to admit that Smith, the erstwhile democrat was lining up the kluxers for Watson, the republican.

Capitalist Government Protects Its Lies From the Truth-Telling Facts

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

THE most powerful individual human being, without doubt, in Massachusetts, which means New England, is William Morgan Butler, United States senator, multi-millionaire textile manufacturer and the reputed political boss of the republican party.

He is the typical American industrial kaiser. He is a director and heavy investor in more than a half dozen of the largest textile mills in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, employing tens of thousands of workers enslaved under the so-called 'American" or "open shop" plan.

Senator Butler has established one of the most elaborate spy systems in the land in his mills in order to root out, immediately they appear, any sprouting seeds of unionism.

It was to this Senator Butler that Attorney William G. Thompson, counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti, wrote requesting some assistance to force the department of justice to disgorge information it had in its possession absoluely proving the innocence of the two Italian workers of the charges on which they have been convicted and sentenced to death.

Senator Butler is a politician. More than that, he is up for reelection. It would not do for him to come out flat-footedly and declare that the Sacco-Vanzetti case did not concern him. That would cause large masses of textile workers to question the right of Butler, the mill owner, to represent them in the senate. Butler, therefore, pursues the usual political strategy.

Butler did not get into action himself to force the department of justice to reveal its records. Not at all. That would have forced the department of justice to act.

Instead Butler wrote to Attorney Thompson requesting that Thompson write to Attorney General John Garibaldi Sargent. This Thompson did. He wrote as follows:

"At the suggestion of Senator Butler, I am writing to inquire whether William J. West, now a special agent of the department of justice in Boston, may be authorized to talk with me concerning the Sacco-Vanzetti case, and to show me whatever documents and correspondence are on file in his office, dealing with the investigations made by the Boston agents before, during and after the trial of Sacco and Vanzetti, which occurred in June and July 1921."

The letter related in detail the startling revelations made by the ex-department of justice agent, Fred J. Weyand, showing that the agents of the department of justice never believed Sacco and Vanzetti guilty. The letter went over the reasons for asking for a new trial, cited the confession by Celestino Madeiros to the effect that he was at the scene of the South Braintree crime and that Sacco and Vanzetti were not there.

Butler's attorney general, Sargent, never replied to that letter. Thompson told the Dedham court. The blame, therefore, rests on Sargent, the political appointee, for rejecting the simple request that all the facts in the Sacco-Vanzetti case be made khown, as they exist in the files of the government.

But even the lackey attorney general felt that he had to cover up a little. On orders from Sargent, the Boston agent of the department of justice, Mr. Dowd, telephoned saying that the attorney general had asked him to get in touch with Mr. Thompson and find out what it was the defense lawyer wanted, as if there was any doubt about it. The matter ended by the refusal of Mr. Dowd, on the ground that he had no authority to do so, to allow Mr. Thompson any access to the files or any information from Mr. West. That is where this situation stands at the present hour.

Let the blame be traced back to its source. Attorney General Sargent could, on a moment's notice if he desired, instruct Mr. Dowd to grant Thompson the right to go thru the department's files. If Sargent didn't get into action, then his mentor, Senator Butler, could get all the results desired. The blame for hiding the department's records, therefore, and covering up the crimes of the department of justice in aiding the frame-up of Sacco and Vanzetti, rests directly on Senator Butler, the textile mill owner, whose creature President Coolidge is, and who keeps his thumb on Governor Fuller, of Massachusetts, who has the power to pardon Sacco and Vanzetti, if he desired, and thus blast this conspiracy against labor. But Governor Fuller does not move, in spite of the fact that he has been bombarded with protests by American and world labor.

This letter incident shows better than anything possibly could show how the New England frame-up gang-Coolidge, Butler, Fuller, Sargent-sticks together against the working class.

... . Attorney Thompson also points out how he suggested to the attorney general of Massachusetts and to Mr. Ranney, the assistant district attorney in charge of the Sacco-Vanzetti case for the government, that material witnesses should be examined in joint conference by both sides, that the truth might be brought out and that the proceedings might not degenerate into a mere "contest of affidavits." Both these men agreed. But later District Attorney Wilbar wrote Attorney Thompson that he would not agree to such a proceeding. The master's voice had made itself heard once more.

The capitalist government is not interested in getting at the truth in the Sacco-Vanzetti case. It is only interested in the lies that it may concoct to help it put two workers to death. That is the plain truth about the Sacco-Vanzetti case as it stands today.

The frame-up agent, William J. West, working under the direction of the United States department of justice, is still on the job in Boston, Massachusetts.

Russia Preparing to Buy Much Machinery

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Paul J. Ziev, president of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, representing in this country the leading Soviet commercial and inaustrial organizations, returned last week after a six months' absence in Europe, having spent most of the time in Moscow and other important centers in the Soviet Union, where he was busy in establishing firmer contacts and making new arrangements for the further development of the business relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Gets Orders.

As a result of his activities during his stay in the Soviet Union, Ziev brought back with him a number of business offers involving the placing in this country of large orders for various machinery and equipment. Whether these offers will materialdize in the placing of orders will depend largely on the terms of payment which the interested Soviet Union concerns will be able to obtain from American manufacturers.

Industry Growing.

The foremost problem engaging the attention of economic organizations In the Soviet Union at present, it was explained by Ziev is that of industrialization. The prosperity of the great peasant population of Soviet Russia has increased materially during recent years, and with it has increased the demand for industrial products.

Increase Production.

During the fiscal year 1925-26, just ended, industrial production was more than 40 per cent above the previous year 1924-25. The combined industrial output during this year was brought up to 95 per cent of the pre-war period. The plans for the new economic year 1926-27 call for a minimum Increase of 20 per cent over the output of the year 1925-26, which will place Soviet industries above the pre-tion of new industrial plants is being carried on in all parts of the country and there is, therefore, a large demand for industrial equipment and machinery, a considerable part of which must be imported from abroad. Only recently a commission representing the Soviet metallurgical industries placed orders for equipment amounting to over $20,000,000 in Germany, where credits for terms up to five years have been obtained. Large orders for mining equipment, oil well supplies, textile machinery, electric power equipment, etc., have been placed in Germany and other European countries. Many of these orders could have been easily diverted to the United States if credit terms similar to those offered by European manufacturers could be obtained.

U. S. Businessmen in Russia.

Everywhere in the Soviet Union Mr. Ziev met a pronounced interest in American made machinery and a tendency to introduce American technical methods and equipment in the new industrial construction. On the other hand, American businessmen and manufacturers are more alive to the possibilities of the Soviet market than appears on the surface. During his sojourn in the Soviet Union Ziev met many Americans representing large industrial concerns in this country studying the situation on the

It had a beginning with the steel trust and the temporary pig iron agreement in France, Germany and other countries.

The forecast is now made that the coal industry will probably be organized internationally, but probably not until the British coal strike is settled.

More Mergers Coming. Next in line come the tube and rail trusts, and negotiations have been started for wire and cast iron cartels. A further development announced as certain here will organize the builders of locomotives, freight cars, machinery and machine tools along interna-

Government Panders to Vice Outrages

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. - Basil M. Manly, in the current issue of The eople's Business, digs up again the story of judicial rottenness in Alaska as disclosed in the hearings last winter on the renomination of Federal Judges Reid and Ritchie and District Attorney Shoup.

These names were finally withdrawn by President Coolidge when the senate judiciary committee refused to approve them. The salmon packing trust is the big financial interest to which these officals cater, and Coolidge still keeps them in power despite the fact that they were condemned last spring, Alaska Is Vice Center.

Methodist clergy and social workers in all parts of the country report to their central board in Washington. but of all the reports coming to Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist board, he testified before the senate committee, none compare in horror with the reports of vice in Alaska. Not even in China or Africa, he testified, are conditions so bad as there.

"Gentlemen," he concluded, "there is no place that you will ever put your finger on that needs a moral cleansing like they do up in Alaska, and it cannot be done with the present judges, marshals and United States attor-

Cheap Asiatic labor is brought to the fishing waters by the salmon trust fleet. Venereal disease is unchecked, and the local grand jury at Valdez declared that this condition gravely menaces the food supply handled by he men. Drug addicts and drug peddlars are reported by the grand jury to "find their way up to the canneries and the fishing grounds through the cannery help. . . In many instances, foremen of Chinese crews handle narcotics and dispense them."

Representative Graham of Illinois, republican, now a federal judge, in a report on the rotten salmon furnished the soldiers in 1917-18, said: "The canners who packed it knowing that it was intended to be eaten by our soldiers should have been brought before a firing squad; that would have been a mild way of dealing with them. But the war department, knowing the fact, did not even ask that they be prosecuted under the available criminal

The Workers' School is doing all in its power to help the workers of this city in their struggle for better conditions and stronger organization, and the needs of the working class.

Training Leaders.

It hopes to train members of unions for leadership in their organizations. For this reason it offers 38 courses, which include such subjects as trade unionism, labor problems, history of the American working class, labor journalism, English and public speaking. It has purposely made the fee very low so as to enable all workers to attend the classes.

By paging $25 to the Workers' School union and other labor organizations are entitled to send one representative to the school for one year (two terms), the representative having the right to take four courses organization to two representatives; nomination with thanks. $100 to five; $200 to ten, etc.

An Opportunity.

Unions should take advantage of this offer to send some of their more capable members for more thoro training. Organizers, business agents, executive board members, shop chairmen, etc., should be given such scholarships, thus making possible more effective work on their part in the future. Promising members who are not in a position to register for courses should also be helped and financed by their organizations thru party candidates. But so bound to scholarships offered.

I shall never forget the conference which we had with the director at Saratov University. It was from him that we got the human side of the story of educational development prior to the revolution. We could appreciate the story of the clash between Halloween Carnival in students and instructors, because we learned much concerning the part which Russian students had in revolutionary propaganda from our visit at the Museum of the Revolution in Moscow. Russian students fought not only for the freedom of the peasants and workers, but for more freedom and power for themselves. The director said they demanded too much, but as time passed, both students and instructors adjusted themselves to the new situation following the revolu-

They are represented on all committees dealing with penses of the meeting by contributing courses, departments and the Council of Administration. Students no lon-

And as the director of Saratov University said, they Wilson, while secretary of labor, was the Russian educational system. Mr. are always given sympathetic and due consideration.

Another change which has developed in Russian education since the revolution pertains to the courses in the different colleges and institutes. For example, at Saratov University the school of economic rights has been substituted for the old school of law. In the school in economic rights, law becomes less legal and formal and more economic and social. In the school of medicine at Saratov University biology has replaced anatomy as the center of medical science.

Technical Needs Great.

Altho art, music and philosophy are included in the curriculum of Russian colleges and institutes, technical and practical training in the electrical and mechanical arts is emphasized This sort of training is emphasized in the Soviet Union because there is a dearth of technicans and experts. There were many students in all Russian industries need to be expanded and developed, but this cannot be done without well-trained technicians and industrial experts.

Practically all Russian students receive some financial aid from trade unions. A great many live in student quarters for which they pay nothing. They travel on the railroads for half fare, and get a reduction on theater There are special student mutual aid organizations in Leningrad, Kharhov, Kiev and other cities. Everything possible is done to encourage students to remain in school and to secure jobs for them when they finish.

Being one of the kodak workers, I fail to see anything of the kind. On the contrary, I hear remarks made about "uncle" George, which would indeed be very exasperating were they to reach his ears.

How Can You Be?

It may be surprising to many of us that the kodak workers should be so ungrateful to their king, who, by the way, contributes millions of dollars to charitable and educational institutions and for which he is lauded to the skies by his servant newspapers, and to the company over which he reigns, which distributes several millions of bucks per annum among the workers in the shape of stock and wage dividends. There are, however, reasons, in the light of which this attitude on the part Los Angeles Workers of the workers is justified.

"A hundred and fourteen in the shade and their aint any shade," was the way the oil workers put it, as they went on working in the sun, drinking barley water by the quart. The worst of it was, the hot wind blew all night, and the houses, which had heated up like furnaces, stayed that way for three or four days.

The "oil magnate," as the newspapers called Vernon Roscoe, left Angel City after dinner, and reached the tract just before midnight. Dad and Bunny were expecting him, sitting out on the veranda, and he saw them, and his voice started before the engine of his car stopped. "Hello, Jim! Hello, Jim Junior! EMMA GOLDMAN, ENEMY OF SOVIET UNION, IS RE-PORTED IN MONTREAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. - Word reaching here from Montreal relates that Emma Goldman has arrived in the Canadian city with an English passport bearing the name of Mrs. James Colton. The former leader of anarchist thought in the United States and now one of the bitterest enemies and maligners of the Soviet Union, was deported in 1919 to Soviet Russia on the famous "ark," the Buford.

After a stay of several years there, where she enjoyed the same privileges accorded all revolutionists and given opportunities to work for the revolution, Emma Goldman left the country and wrote vicious stories for the capitalist press against the workers' and peasants' regime. For the last three years she has been in England where her living was made writing and lecturing to the English bourgeolsie against the Russian revolution. Her recently acquired husband, James Colton, is said to be a Scotch miner.

In an interview to a local newspaper Mr. Fyfe had some things to say EVERYONE of about the recent general strike that prominence in will bear analysis.

He predicted that there will never the radical laduring the past year. The British lion be another general strike in Great Britain and that this is the view of the present members of the general in Chicago and council of the Trade Union Congress.

Hicks Says "Yes."

Against this view of Mr. Fyfe's we place the opinion of Mr. George Hicks, now president of the Trade Union Congress, who declared while attending the Detroit convention of the A. F. of L. that there would be bigger and better general strikes in the future. Unless Mr. Fyfe was misquoted by the reporter, he strongly suggested that Mr. Hicks was guilty of misrepresentation, quite a serious charge for such an aristocratic gentleman to make.

Mr. Fyfe, as befits a gentleman of leisure who partook of the Northcliffe fleshpots does not believe in strikes. A strike is a confession of milure, he says. The very fact that there should be such a thing proves AFTER so much serious matter we that teh right men are not in office! This may work out alright for Mr. This may work out alright for Mr. don dispatch informs us that Liberian Fyfe who does not have to worry thought it was the other way around, the world after being fired from a Strikebreaking Sheet.

Mr. Fyfe wrote a book on the general strike, and in doing so threw much light on Mr. Fyfe's character. One would think that this was not a labor editor writing but some official back-scratcher for King George. He tells of a worker coming to his house in the early hours of the morning, on the day following the declaration of the general strike with the information that the government was getting out a strikebreaking paper. The worker suggested that the Trade Union Congress publish a bulletin. Fyfe being and other leaders of the A. F. of L. editor of labor's daily, the poor worker that he would be a good man But Mr. Fyfe was so indignant at having to go to the door in his shirt tails that he branded the worker as "My word," shouted the indignant sinks in we cannot express our thanks hour?" or words to that effect. Had might have annihilated his inconsiderate visitor with a glare.

A Cowardly Sheet.

Fyfe was editor of the British Worker during the strike and a mere snivelling, soulless cowardly sheet was never gotten out to voice the the British government for the strike. When the general council betrayed the miners by calling off the general strike Fyfe was one the happiest mortals in London. He took a leading part in reviling the miners' leaders because they did not accept the coal owners' terms and he is still at the same game. He does not blame the capitalists or their government for the continuation of the strike. He blames the miners' leaders for not Bring your wife and childrenaccepting the owners' terms.

Mr. Fyfe tell us, while he is in Chiigo, why he accepted an advertisement from the scab coal operators while the miners were on strike? Why, even in the United States the labor editor who would do such a thing would be run out of town on a rail.

Miners Denounced Fyfe.

It may also be of interest to our eaders to know that a delegation of miners' representatives who were meeting at Kinsway Hall, after reading a scurrilous attack on A. J Cook, their secretary, written by Fyfe, threw all reserve to the winds and marched down to Fyfe's office and called him a gentleman, in reverse

Fyfe quit his job a few days afterwards.

Pehaps Mr. Fyfe did not lose finanwards the striking miners whose wives and children are starving, those miners who have been helping to pay Fyfe's generous salary while he was mployed in the Daily Herald.
