The Struggle to Save the Life of The DAILY WORKER Is Part of the Growing Fight to Save the Lives of Sacco and Vanzetti

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TABOR needs weapons with which to carry on its struggles. One of the most important weapons of the working class is its press. In fact, without its press, labor is helpless.

This is clearly revealed today as the militant vanguard of labor stands before the giant task of making known to the whole working class the latest startling development in the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

A battery of dailies from one end of the land to the other. could quickly rouse workers everywhere to instant and effective

But American labor has only one daily in the English language, voicing its grievances, making the fight today for Sacco and Vanzetti. That dally is The DAILY WORKER.

Even The DAILY WORKER is grievously handicapped in its efforts to bring the truth, about the deliberate attempt on the part of the ruling class to legally murder Sacco and Vanzetti, to the attention of the masses of toilers in this country.

It must devote much and valuable space to the immediate financial problem that confronts it. This vital question must be explained to its readers, so that they will respond quickly with the aid necessary to continue the life of their paper. This space would gladly be devoted to labor's struggles, in giving greater attention to the Sacco-Vanzetti case for instance, if it was not necessary to combat the great and pressing danger of being forced to suspend publication of labor's only daily.

In this campaign, therefore, this weapon of the working class-The DAILY WORKER, is being repaired, burnished, strengthened and made ready for greater efforts. But there is no time to lose. Not only in increased space, but also with a greater circulation, The DAILY WORKER, must be developed into a keener, more effective fighting organ of labor.

Let every reader and friend of The DAILY WORKER, therefore, bend to the task of achieving immediately the goal set forth in yesterday's issue.

Within the next few weeks, The DAILY WORKER must have the full quota of $50,000 necessary to keep it out of dan-

Less than one-fourth of that total, about $12,000 in all, has come in up to the present time. This week the Keep The DAILY WORKER Army must rush in at least $5,000.

Turn to Page Four today and read what some of the soldiers in this Keep The DAILY WORKER Army are saying about their achievements for their "DAILY." Then join the army by doing something, no matter how small, in aid of this campaign.

REMEMBER!

PASSAIC, N. The first Bluefield unit will employ 200 workers, mostly girls and women, and ultimately the West Virginia factory is expected to employ 1,000.

(Special to The Daily Worker) NEW YORK, Oct, 25 .- In an address before the American Iron and Steel Institute today, Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, suggested the possibillty of a concordant between the steel makers of the United States and Europe

"We have heard considerable discussion," said Judge Gary, "relating iron and steel manufacturers of the United States and foreign competitors, but it is believed that, should it become necessary, an international conference will be held between all these interests and a full, open discussion indulged in, after which a fair understanding could be reached.

"Of course, no agreement between es could legally be entered into, without sanction of our law administrators, but, if necessity arose, it is thot the approval of the public authority of the country might be obtained."

There are no indications that the demand for steel products will be munist members of the farmer labor of approximately 80 per cent of the Communists were the backbone of the which Judge Gary and the other steel movement and would keep an eye leaders consider quite satisfactory.

No Illusions About Sacco and Vanzetti!

THE action of Judge Webster Thayer in denying to Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti a new trial again demonstrates the futility of placing all of the hope and confidence of the aroused workers of the world into the hands of the corrupt judges in Massachusetts. This last action of the venal and vindictive courts of Massachusetts, behind which stand the ominous figures of the Massachusetts manufacturers and the politicians of President Coolidge's home state, throws the two innocent Italian workers once more under the very shadow of the electric chair and indicates that the Massachusetts bourbons intend to hound these two brave fighters to their death.

It is more clearly than ever apparent that to place reliance solely upon the justice of capitalist courts will condemn Sacco and Vanzetti to their death. The years of respite which they have gained from a legal assassination have been secured mainly by the mighty action of solidarity in the international protest movement which gave expression to the determined opposition to the frame up by millions of Sacco and Vanzetti are on the very verge of being murdered for their loyalty to the working class. The black and sinister forces of reaction have cunningly manipulated their instruments on the benches of the courts. They have subjected Sacco and Vanzetti to that terrible torture of suspense which keeps them on the brink of death every moment of the day. They have refused them a new trial in the face of the overwhelming evidence which has caused even capitalist papers to admit the flimsy nature of the prosecution's case.

Now more than ever must the main energy of those masses of workers, in this country and throughout the world, be concentrated in an incessant agitation and a determined opposition to the conspiracy to railroad Sacco and Vanzetti to the electrocution chair.

Judge Tries to Belittle Damaging Confessions in AFTER ELECTION the Sacco-Vanzetti Case Killings Embarrassing to

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

DERHAPS the most startling and brazen part of the decision rendered by Judge Webster Thayer, denying a new trial to Sacco and Vanzetti, is found in the frantic effort of the court to dispose of the damaging admissions of the two exagents of the department of justice, Lawrence Letherman and Fred J. Weyand. This part of the decision

"The conclusion of the court is that the affidavits of Letherman and Weyand (former department of justice agents) would not warrant it in finding a fraudulent conspiracy between the government of the United States and the state of Massachusetts

"As bearing upon this conclusion, Chief Stewart of the Bridgewater police department, who had full charge of the preparations of these cases for trial, affirms in his affidavit that the agents had nothing whatever to do with the preparation of the cases for trial, as far as he knows; and it would seem, if this great conspiracy was going on, he would be likely to know about it while he was actively engaged in the procuring of evidence against Sacco and Vanzetti and in the preparation of their trial."

Nothing could better reveal how the court, which is supposed to be unbiased and unprejudiced, falls in with the theory of the prosecution that immediately Letherman and Weyand confessed the truth about the frame-up of Sacco and Vanzetti, they must be rejected and considered as outcasts. As deserters from the army of spies, stool pigeons, undercover men and common police agents of the departments of justice, they must be denounced and held up to public ridicule as persons of no standing in the community. Instead the court joins with the prosecution and gives its support to the police chief of Bridgewater, who remains loyal to the frame-up gang, and thus retains his prestige in the eyes of the capitalist court.

It was Dudley P. Ranney, the assistant district attorney of Norfolk County, in charge of the Sacco-Vanzetti case, who revealed the attitude of the prosecution toward Letherman and Weyand and their affidavits. Ranney first attacked the two ex-agents for making public the secrets of the department of justice, thus admitting that the department had secrets that it wants to hide, even if it means the public murder of two innocent men.

"Secrecy is necessary in all police work," declared Ranney, "and especially in the work of that department (the department of justice), but for whose services revolution would break out in this

"These men have betrayed the secrets of the department and have been disloyal in doing so. The court would be justified in believing that such men resigned from the department without honor."

The court accepted whole-heartedly the theory of the prosecution in its attempt to offset the damaging testimony of these two ex-agents that the department of justice had assisted the Massachusett's state authorities in bringing about the conviction of Sacco and Vanzetti, "to get them out of the way."

Millions of workers cannot help but jeer the decision of Judge Thayer as they cheer the courage of Letherman and Weyand in defying the whole frame-up gang and exposing the attempt to put Sacco and Vanzetti to death. Thayer and Ranney, with their political mentors, Governor Fuller, Senator Butler and President Coolidge, are revealed more glaringly than ever, by Thayer's decision, as the ruthless agents of the shoe factory and textile mill owners of Massachusetts in keeping labor down.

Ranney, the youthful prosecutor, who glories in the fact that the law firm with which he is connected dates its origin back into the last century, even before chattel slavery was abolished in this nation, really believes that the secret workings of the frame-up, putting to death to two workers, Sacco and Vanzetti. can really avert the triumph of the workers in this country.

Put Sacco and Vanzetti to death in the electric chair and profit rule is saved, is the reasoning of the capitalist state. Read the declaration of the prosecutor, Ranney, again and be convinced. Basing its action on such a belief, feeling that the death of Sacco and Vanzetti will result in a tremendous setback for the whole labor movement, there can be no doubting that the New England plunderbund will stop at nothing in its plan to do away with its workingclass yietims. This is proved by the attitude of the department of justice, of President Coolidge, of United States Senator Butler, of Governor Fuller and lesser members of the New England "frameup gang" all during the six years that this case has been fought out in the courts. This attitude is revealed clearer than ever in the coldblooded decision of the gang's most loyal judicial agent, the judge, Webster Thayer.

The decision reveals the great fear in which the ruling class tyranny looks upon its restless millions of discontented wage slaves. The exploiters stand fearful before the aspiring masses suffering under their exploitation.

All labor must join in lifting its mighty fist to the face of this black reaction demanding, "Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!" Only when he capitalist tyrants behold the rising wrath of aroused labor, at this attempt of theirs to murder two courageous workers, will they turn aside from their foul purpose. Let labor thunder in the face of its oppressors that Sacco and Vanzetti dead, murdered, are more dangerous to exploiters' rule than living. Yet living they will rejoin all workers and continue to struggle to build labor's power on the road to its complete emancipation. Capitalism faces a dilemma in the Sacco-Vanzetti case. Its choosing must be dictated by workers determined to protect their own.

WORKER WRITERS! JOIN CLASS IN WORKER CORRESPONDENCE, FRIDAY

INTENSIVE activity to develop and strengthen the worker correspondence movement in the Chicago district will be launched at the first meeting of the class in worker correspondence to be held Friday night, October 29, in the editorial rooms of The DAILY WORKER, third floor, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Illinols.

The class will meet weekly on Friday nights. The success of this class last year indicates that an excellent response can be expected during the fall, winter and spring terms that lie ahead. All phases of worker correspondence will be developed. The class will not only write for, but help edit The American Worker Correspondent, the publication of the worker writers of The DAILY WORKER.

The class will be under the general direction of J. Louis Engdahl, editor of The DAILY WORKER, assisted by Harry Kletzky, who supervises the Worker Correspondence Section of The DAILY WORKER.

Special lectures will be given from time to time, on the various phases of worker correpondence and on problems confronting the labor movement by the members of The DAILY WORKER editorial staff, including William F. Dunne, Thomas J. O'Flaherty, Harrison George and Thurber Lewis. Talks will also be given on such subjects as shop papers, wall papers, living newspapers as well as lessons in English by Jay Lovestone, M. A. Stolar and Nancy Markoff.

Politicians

Chicago's gang warfare has ended-

An "official" treaty of peace was signed by the four principal leaders of gangland in a room at a downtown hotel shortly after midnight this morning. The pact was signed following a conference that lasted most of the night.

The gangsters were brought together it was reported, thru the efforts of high city and county officials, worried over the forthcoming election.

"Scarface Al" Capone, leader of the powerful Cicero faction, whose diplonacy is credited for the success of the peace negotiations, was a proud spokesman for the amalgamated forces of gangland today.

"Yes, we have signed a treaty of peace." Capone admitted. "Tonight. for the first time in two years, I will sleep without a gun under my pillow.

Al Is Optimistic. "I believe it will be a lasting peace. know I won't break it, and I don't believe the north side boys will either. What a relief! I feel like a kid. When the meeting was over I called my wife, and she cried so hard she couldn't talk to me."

The "Big Four" of gangland, who negotiated the truce, are, beside Capone, Maxie Eisen, George "Bugs" Moran and Vincent "Schemer" Drucci. The latter was a partner of the late Earl Weiss, slain in a machine gun ambuscade ten days ago. It was this shooting that brought about the peace conference.

The Dear Departed. More than sixty gangsters have shot down in the streets since the war for control of Chicago's beer and alcohol business broke forth two years ago. Politicians are believed to have convinced rival gangsters of the futility of shooting one another down like dogs.

According to Capone, the inspiring motto of the peace conference was "The dead are dead. Long live the living."

"It is foolish, when you stop to think of it," he continued, "to keep up that awful killing. I don't want to die. I have a wife and baby-and they need me. Most of the boys are in my fix. They have their folks, and they don't want to die." And then, with a twinkle in his eye,

Capone added: "Besides, there is business enough in this game for everybody."

SHANGHAI, Oct. 25.-Rail communications are cut off in all directions from Shanghai by Cantonese sympathizers tearing up the railways. The Peking express was wrecked on the Shanghai-Ninking line Friday, just after the train bearing Colonel Carmi Thompson, Coolidge's personal "investigator" of the Philippines had passed. Several cars of the express were thrown in a canal and several persons were killed.

The Cantonese sympathizers are evidently trying to stop all troop reinforcements from the north in aid of the Sun Chuan-fang forces at Shanghat.

While Sun's lieutenants at Shanghai are boasting about their capture of the capital of Chekiang province, Hangchow, 157 miles south, the troops that are needed in Shanghai itself are being sent on this expedition, with the result of leaving Shanghai open to attack with few troops to defend it. Those forces sent to Hangchow may find themselves isolated and forced to surrender if the regular Cantonese armies make a swift advance down the Yangtze.

TROTSKY RIGHT ABOUT ENGLAND.

Estimation in "Whither England" Correct

By SCOTT NEARING, Fed. Press.

Leon Trotsky recently wrote a book prove an argument which ran some hing like this: "Britain cannot make he transition from capitalism to soialism by constitutional means; her abor leaders are hopelessly constitutional; therefore a new labor leader ship is imperatively needed."

When the book (Whither England? ppeared MacDonald and other reponsible leaders of the British labo movement punched it full of logical holes. But in the meantime a greater than MacDonald arose in the form of the general strike. What MacDonald and his followers denied as a matter of logic the general strike and its following events demonstrated as a matter of experience. Nowhere has this demonstration been more evidenthan in the trade union movement.

Pres. Pugh came to the Bourne mouth Trades Union congress Sept 6, 1926, with the assertion that the supreme lesson of the strike was its demonstration of the faith of the Britcongress demonstrated its advance in ish workers in the methods of democ

> "When the unions combined their forces last May." Pugh asserted. "they were not invoking any new principle of industrial action, but simply asserting more effectively on a larger scale the traditional trade union refusal to accept dictated terms of employment whether from the employers or the government.

> This was the attitude Pugh assumed throughout the Trades Union comgress sessions, at Bournemouth. It was the official attitude of the members of the general council. Democ racy, trade unionism, to them "was s and shall be."

Masses of British workers are in uite different frame of mind. If they earned anything during the general strike and the miners' lockout, it was the lesson of dictatorship. No sooner was the strike seriously threatening than the government called into being the emergency powers act; declared a dictatorship over the economic and political life of the country; suspended all the ordinary guarantees of free speech and free press, and used the police, the army and the navy in its forts at strikebreaking.

The general strike was the signal or the government and the employers to combine to crush the organizations of the labor movement."

"We must keep The DAILY WORKER!" is the gist of letters coming from all parts of the nation, from New York to California, Each letter, sometimes they are painfully written (for not all of the readers of our daily have yet complete mastery of the intricacies of the English language) breathes the spirit that means vic-

YOUNG POCKETBOOK FRAME MAKERS ORGANIZE DRIVE FOR UNIONIZATION By MATTHEW KUSHNIR, Young Worker Correspondent.

NEW YORK CITY,-The bosses of the Karron and Karron pocketbook frames are doing their utmost to keep the workers enslaved and unorganized. The workers, the great majority of whom are young boys and girls, are talking about unionism and of bettering their conditions. The young workers feel that to work 50 or 48 hours is very harmful to their health.

They know that working a couple of years in the unsanitary workrooms under a terrific speed-up system means in the end a physically underdeveloped body for the youth. That is why the young workers are out to Workers of All Types organize themselves. The boss is trying his hardest to keep the workers away from the union, because better conditions for the workers mean less profits for him usually.

The boss employs many tricks to fool the workers. First he has his foreman spying around. Then he fired the leaders of the workers who wanted a union. Then he announced that the workers will work 48 hours a week instead of 50, and in this way he thinks he will try to bribe the vouth.

TRADE UNIONS MAKE DEMANDS

Seek Organization of Film Industry

By ESTHER LOWELL, Federated Press.

YORK, Oct. 25 .- Organized labor is marching on open-shop Hollywood and New York movie studios. Stage hands, motion picture machine operators, carpenters, scenic artists and electrical workers are all demanding recognition of their unions by the big movie producers.

An Open-Shop Industry.

Threat of a national sympathetic walkout involving 13,500 workers in ducers broke a verbal agreement which they had made last April.

Fred W. Beetson, secretary of the Association of Motion Picture Producers to regulate their affairs, on the movie studios are "operated on the American plan" and are "open shop." Beetson was conferring with Will Hays, called "czar" of the movie industry because he was chosen by producer sto regulate their affairs, on the welfare program to be put into the studios November 1.

Equity Holds Aloof. The effect of the unions' demands for recognition, closed shop, readjustment of wage scales, eight-hour day, pay for six legal holidays and extra pay for Sunday work is a tremendous challenge to notoriously open-shop Los Actors' Equity Association, which is attempting to organize the extra players in the movie studios, is not included in the group of unions presenting demands. Equity does not have an agreement permitting sympathetic action by actors with other stage employes. Organization of the 3,500 mechanical workers in Hollywood studios will undoubtedly stimulate unionization of the exploited parttime players.

With Teamsters

By LAURENCE TODD.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25-(FP)-Fortified by a jurisdictional agreement which they signed with the Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers, during the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor at Detroit, officers of the International Association of Machinists have returned to their Washington headquarters to launch a drive to unionize the commercial garages of the country.

ers, and naturally with the disapproval This agreement with the Teamsters and Chauffeurs is of considerable im dents of our international, who were ortance. Its terms are:

1. Only these two organizations shall hold jurisdiction in garages, and only members of the two organizaions shall be recognized there.

2. Members of the Machinists' Unon shall have the work of "assemoling, dismantling, adjusting and re pairing of all mechanical parts and chassis of automobiles, trucks and ouses, this to include changing of solid tires.

3. All other work in and around garages-such as washing, polishing, oiling, greasing, changing tires and ALL went back to work-bench or machine-for they were the adcleaning up garages—shall go to the Teamsters and Chauffeurs' members. 4. Neither party is bound to protect the other against any "legitimate" claims of any other organization affiliated with the A. F. of L. This treaty is to endure until either party gives 30 days' notice of desire for a change.

Its Meaning. Its meaning in the fight to organize TT is natural that during this time the big and little garages thruout the country is this: the Teamsters and Chauffeurs, wherever they have a union agreement with a taxicab, bus or went to work with a will and sucother garage firm, will be under moral pressure to insist that the mechanics who handle their cars and who work with them in the garages belong to the International Association of Machinists. Since the Teamsters and Chauffeurs are organized in many of the garages where the Machinists of the left wing militants in the Furhave not yet gained a foothold, and since the Teamsters and Chauffeurs are, as a rule, vigorous trade unionists, the results of the agreement are expected to help the Machinists in many instances. In their turn the -that of amalgamation of the needle the Teamsters and Chauffeurs shall get into that union, B. & O. May Be First. Strangely enough, one of the first corporations likely to feel the impact of the new campaign in the garages is the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, which is on the best of terms with the union. Recently the B. & O. was shut out of the Pennsylvania terminal in New York City and entered into a contract with the Fifth Avenue Ceach Co. to haul its passengers from various stations in the city to its trains on the New Jersey side of the Hudson river. The Fifth Avenue Coach Co. is anti-union in its shop policy. A movement is on foot to organize the garage force, and to declare the Fifth Avenue Coach Co. unfair if it persists in its hostility.

Whether the B. & O. will endeavor to adjust the matter to the satisfaction of the Machinists and the Teamprojection in the air, exactly what sters and Chauffeurs, by persuading you hear on your receiving set at the Fifth Avenue Coach Co. to permit unionization of its garages, is not indicated. If the garages are de-She watched the instrument on the clared unfair the passenger transfer business of the B. & O. in New York the degree of modulation affected, and City may be seriously embarrassed, and the dispute may lead to demands specified to obtain the best results for an extension of the boycott to the New Jersey terminal.

Carpenters Continue Using Hammers, But Hit no Nails on Head

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25 .- Carpenters use hammers. This was proven by the fact that four scabs in the carpenters' strike here are in the hospital, one of them not expected to scab any more on this earth. They say they were attacked by six men with hammers who knew how to hit the nail on the head.

COMPANY UNION OF PULLMAN IN FAKE ELECTION

Ballot Steal Elects Stool Pigeons

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 .- General dissatisfaction with the elections of the Pullman Porters' Benefit Association or the company union is being reported here from every section. Election contests are being instituted in some western districts for the first time in the history of any district of the benefit association, according to the information received.

In some districts where well-known representatives have been elected over and over again they did not receive a single vote in the primary balloting, in spite of having led the ticket for years in previous elections. Company instructors and petty officials were declared to be their successful rivals, and the men were left little choice between one stoolpigeor and another in the final election.

Mr. Ashley L. Totten, assistant gen eral organizer of the brotherhood whose temporary headquarters are in Kansas City, reports that he has re ceived numerous letters from several districts that the elections were unfair. Despite the determination of the members to elect delegates from each district who have the interests of the porters at heart and who are neither Pullman officials or stools, it is found that the names of the men voted for did not appear on the final ballot. Company Union Helps-The Company.

The Pullman Porters' Benefit Association is supported by the porters, who pay assessments of $26 to $45 per year for its support. Hitherto the Pullman Company paid its porters a half month's salary during illness, but this consideration was removed after the benefit association was formed, in consequence of which the Pullman Company saves several thousands of dollars a year at the expense of the porters.

The sun went down, and it was time for Mr. Roscoe to mano his get-away. But first he had dinner; and when he was thru with his ice cream and coffee, he pushed his plate away, and took his napkin out of his neck, and leaned back in his chair with a sigh of content; and while he was unrolling his cigar from its gold foil, he fixed his shrewd eyes upon Bunny across the table, and said, "Jim Junior, I'll tell you what's the matter with you." 'All right," said Jim Junior, receptively.

"You're a nice kid, but you're too god-damn serious. You take life too hard-you and your old man both. You got to get ballot boxes is claimed for the mis. a little fun as you go along, and I know what you need. You got

"Did you see her in "Madame Tee-Zee"? By Jees, that's what call a picture—only one I ever made money out of, by the way! Well, that girl takes care of me like a mother-if she'd been up here, I wouldn't 'a drunk all that beer, you bet! You come up to my place some time, and Annabelle'll find you a girl-lots of 'em up there, with the ginger in 'em, too, and she's a regular little match-maker-never so happy as when she's pairing 'em off, two little love-birds in a cage. Why don't you drive back with me

"I've got to go to college the day after tomorrow," said

Bunny. "Well, you come some time, and bring the old man along. That's what he needs, too, a girl—I've told him so a dozen times. You got a girl yet, Jim? By Jees, look at him blush, the old maid in pants! I could tell the kid some things about you that would bust the rouge-pots in your cheeks-hey, old skeezicks?" And the great man, who had been getting out of his chair as he dis-

He seemed to have really taken a fancy to Bunny, and was concerned that he should learn to enjoy life. 'You come see me some time, kiddo," he said, as he was loading himself into his big limousine. "Don't you forget it now, I mean

Bunny came back into the house, and followed Dad into his study and shut the door. "Dad, are you really going to put up that money with Mr. Roscoe?"

Why, sure, son, I got to; why not?" Dad looked genuinely surprised—as he always did in these cases. You could never be sure how much of it was acting, for he was sly as the devil, and not above using his arts on those he loved. "Dad, you're proposing to buy the presidency of the United

"Well, son, you can put it that way-"

"But that's what it is, Dad!"

"Well, that's one way to say it. Another is that we're proecting ourselves against rivals that want to put us out of business. If we don't take care of politics, we'll wake up after election and find we're done for. There's a bunch of big fellows in the East have put up a couple of millions to put General Leonard Wood across. Are you rooting for him?'

Bunny understood that this was a rhetorical question, and 25c an hour in New Orleans, making did not answer it. "It's such a dirty game, Dad!"

'I know, but it's the only game there is. Of course, I can quit, and have enough to live on, but I don't feel like being laid on the shelf, son."

"Couldn't we just run our own business, Dad?" It was, you may remember, a question Bunny had asked before.

'There's no such thing, son-they're jist crowding you all the time. They block you at the refineries, they block you at the markets, they block you in the banks-I don't tell you much about it, because it's troubles, but there's jist no place in the business world for the little feller any more. You think I'm a big feller because I got twenty million, and I think Verne is a big feller because he's got fifty; but there's Excelsior Pete-thirty or forty companies, all working as one-that's close to a billion dollars you're up against. And there's Victor, three or four hundred million more, and all the banks and insurance company resources behind them-what chance have we independents got? Look at this slump in the price of gas right now-the newspapers tell you there's a glut, but that's all rot-what makes the glut, but the Big Five dumping onto the market to break the little fellers? Why, they're jist wiping 'em off the slate!"

"But how can public officials prevent that?" "There's a thousand things that come up, son-we got to and the first wallop-right at the sound of the bell! How do we get pipe-line right-o'-ways? How do we get terminal facilities? You saw how it was when we came into Paradise; would we ever 'a got this development if I hadn't 'a paid Jake Coffey? Where would Verne and me be right now, if we didn't sit down with him and go over the slate, and make sure the fellers he puts on t are right? And now-what's the difference? Jist this, we got bigger, we're playin' the game on a national scale-that's all. If Verne and me and Pete O'Reilly and Fred Orpan can get the tracts we got our eyes on, well, there'll be the Big Six or Big Seven or Big Eight in the oil game, that's all-and you set this down for sure, son, we'll be doin' what the other fellers done, from the day that petroleum came into use, fifty years ago." A William McEwen, editor of a Du-REACTIONARY by the name of luth labor paper, with a capitalist policy, is state campaign manager. It is reported that the reason he gave for the acceptance of the advertisements was financial stringency. When he sells out the rest of the party he can give a similar excuse. Unless the workers of Minnesota take the initiative and reorganize their party, there will be nothing left of it soon, outside of what McEwen and company can carry around on their persons.
