The District Convention of the Finnish Workers' Clubs, held in Superior, Wis., on November 14, adopted a resolution emphasizing the need of The DAILY WORKER for the Communist movement, which should be read by all revolutionary workers. The resolution, which pledges the support of the Finnish Workers' Clubs to The DAILY WORKER, reads as follows:

This convention is fully aware that all efforts to build the Communist movement in America amongst English-speaking people would be in vain without a daily organ in the English language.

We realize that to bring in and to preserve the class movement of thousands of Finnish-American youths in middle states is an impossibilty without a daily organ in English, and therefore, to our regret, our lifelong work for the revolutionary movement would be in vain.

We also realize that the publishing of a daily paper in a big city with a small circulation and without advertisement revenue is too big of a burden for the small group of English-speaking workers who at present are in the Communist movement.

Therefore, this convention calls upon Finnish workers to rally their forces to assist The DAILY WORKER and ask that all Finnish workers' societies and clubs would energetically support The DAILY WORKER in its present financial campaign. We ask them to donate money from their treasuries, arrange entertainments and make collections, etc., and thereby demonstrate that we are willing to bear our share in the work of building up an active Communist movement in America.

At the same time as we ask Finnish workers' clubs to rally around the present financial campaign of The DAILY WORKER, we particularly emphasize the fact, that The DAILY WORKER'S financial position in the future can be best safeguarded and best guaranteed by enlarging the circulation of The DAILY WORKER and its literature and by so doing, we can guarantee The DAILY WORKER without special appeals.

Let us therefore adopt the slogan: 25,000 Subscribers for The DAILY WORKER During the Year 1927. Let us make The DAILY WORKER'S olrculation work in all workers' clubs an honorary duty and make sure of that by selecting comrades who know the English language, for that

BRITISH CAPITALISTS WILL HELP FRANCE IF FRANC IS STABILIZED

(Special to The Dally Worker) PARIS, Nov. 21.-What was carefully announced as a "courtesy visit of Reginald McKenna, former British chancellor of the exchequer, and now one of the largest bankers of the United Kingdom, to Premier Poincaire has given rise to reliable reports that Great Britain bankers are planning help to France in Its present financial predicament.

No indication as to what form the help will take is given, but it is surmised that it will be a loan to the French government. It is also highly probable that McKenna discussed with Poincaire the known desire of British capitalists to invest heavily in French industries. Help from the bankers, however, is contingent on Poincaire's ability to stabilize the franc.

When questioned on the visit, Poincaire stubbornly insisted it was merely "friendly" and had no significance, but he later admitted that France's finances were "discussed."

KELLOGG SHOWS Roumanian Gives Facts Revealing War-Time Orgy

Thru the courtesy of International Red Aid, a world-wide organization and defense to victims of the class war. The DAILY WORKER is today, on the occasion of the arrival of Queen Marie in this city, able to release a story that, ten times over, bears out the attitude of this paper, well known to its readers, towards the Hohenzollern Queen of Roumania.

International Red Aid is interested in Roumania because of the thousands of workers and peasants who are the victims of the Roumanian White Terror. It was this organization that encouraged Henri Barbusse, the famous French novelist to visit both Roumania and Bulgaria and to investigate the facts of the oppression and white terror for which these two countries had become notorious. Barbusse wrote a book, on the basis of his investigations there, called "The Executioners," chapters from which have been already carried by certain papers in this country.

The exposure printed below was sent to The DAILY WORKER by the Berlin office of this organization. A letter accompanying the story said that the facts had just been secured by its Roumanian Section and were forwarded to Berlin. A translation into English from Roumanian was made and a convent to this paper. copy sent to this paper.

In the meantime, copies of the Vienna Rote Fahne of October 17 reached us, containing the story in German. In order that we may not be open to the charge of manufacturing a story out of thin air, elsewhere in this issue we reproduce a photograph of this report as it appeared in the Vienna paper.

If one speaks of vice or orgies in Roumania and wishes to make these conceptions vivid, one simply makes the necessary gesture and lets drop the one word: "Cotzofanesti!" Everyone understands and nothing more need be said.

The fate of Roumania, which is on paper a constitutional monarchy, governed by parliament, is actually in the hands of a the chief executive upon the vacancy court junta which is economically and politically closely bound to the dominant fascist-feudal bank oligarchy. Neither European public opinion nor the will of the Roumanian parliament has any effect upon this junta. There is only one word which

ACTS FOR U.S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 .- Following upon sweeping charges made by T. S. Vaca, Washington representative of the liberal party of Nicaragua, it is reported here that the senate will be asked by influential persons to investigate the manner in which the United States is imposing itself on that republic.

Vaca makes the public accusation that the state department is, by force of arms, doing the work of a group of American capitalists whose aim it s to acquire control of the national bank and the national railways of Nicaragua. He also said that the congress that named Diaz president of Nicaragua was spurious and violated the constitutional provision requiring the vice-president to succeed of the major office.

False Rumors.

The rumors that have been spread in the United States, coming significantly at a time when propaganda is put out concerning Mexico's role in Nicaraguan affairs, with regard to up risings in various provinces of Mexico are branded as wholly inspired.

Washington and Los Angeles dispatches have been telling news of large bands of de la Huerta's followers rebelling in Sonora, Durango and Jalisco. This is not true. De la Huerta's following in Mexico is negligible. It is known too that the former provisional president, an enemy of both Calles and Obregon now living in the United States, is offering himself for sale to American interests who would profit by a revolution in Mexico. But his influence in at its regular bi-monthly meeting the republic is entirely vitiated and Sunday afternoon, voted unanimously 31-year-old contract by which William his political faction is negligible in Mexican affairs.

DEATH PENALTY, DUCE SAYS, WILL SAVE ITALY FROM SPIRITUAL AGONY

By a Worker Correspondent. ROME, Nav. 21 .- Some corners of Mussolini's mind are reveated in his comments on the law which provides the death penalty for those who try to kill members of the royal family or the premier. While asserting that he is completely indifferent to attempts on his life or his nose in a vain effort to turn him from "the chosen path" and his "mission," he asserts that these attempts cause "profound spiritual suffering to the people," and are followed by days of savage disturbance which is trespassing on the premier's own preserves. To try these offenders, he says, special tribunals will serve, composed of persons chosen by himself, who will be, he nalvely adds, "above suspicion."

cision was final. The building trades unions split on this question in 1921. Thirteen small crafts accepted the Landis Award. The big trades, notably the carpenters and painters, refused to abide by it. A "Citizens' Committee to Enfirce the Landis Award" was created to assist the scab contractors and the years over this question. The Landis agreement expired this year.

Considered Victory. Building trades union officials claim the employers were brought to time chiefly because of the huge expense involved in scab labor and the inceasing controversy over the Lan-

But while officials of the Builders' Association who drew up the agree ment are in full accord with it, the employers' association has not yet ratified it. They meet this week to consider it. Already some employers are diffident and have expressed themselves as determined not to go along with the new agreement. There is talk of creating a new building contractors' association to continue on an open shop basis.

Wages Not Included.

This new agreement makes no pro vision for wages or working conditions. These matters will continue to be settled each year as heretofore. The important paragraph in the agreement follows:

"This agreement shall not be construed to require members of the party of the second part to work with nonunion workmen engaged in building construction, nor to work for members of the party of the first part on any building or job for any firm or person having construction done in Cook coutyn by nonunion workmen, provided the union of the trade in which such nonunion men are working is a member of the Building Trades council which has a similar agreement with the recognized association of emplovers."

While it is somewhat vaguely put, its superiority over the damning conditions laid down by Paragraph 14 of the Landis award is obvious.

Other Provisions. The other provisions, which were also contained in the Landis document. are: 1. There shall be no limitations as to the amount of work a man shall perform during his working There shall be no restriction of the use of machinery, tools or ap-3. There shall be no restriction of the use of any raw or manufactured material, except prison made. No person shall have the right to interfere with workmen during working hours. 5. The use of apprentices shall not be prohibited. 6. The foreman shall be the agent of the employer. 7. The workman is at liberty to work for whomever he sees fit, but he shall demand and receive the wages agreed upon by the joint arbitration board in this trade under all circumstances.

8. The employer is at liberty to employ and discharge whomsoever

Back in Fold. The constitution of the building trades unions say explicitly that no agreements shall be made signing away the right to strike. The thirteen small crafts that signed the Landis award in 1921 therefore, violated their own constitutions. But the present agreement brings these crafts back into the fold again and will probably contribute to more unity of action than has been the case since the Landis controversy.

One concession, a hang-over from men. The agreement also is lacking in point of establishing uniformity of contract for the various trades.

ng has since the disastrous and devitalizing split in 1921, the necessity but he would not care to say now gle with the employers.

Unmasking of Traitors Must Aid the Drive for Labor Party of Masses

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

THE North Dakota Nonpartisan, "official newspaper of the North Dakota Nonpartisan League," in its issue of Nov. 17, removes all doubt as to the intentions of the members of the so-called LaFollette group in the United States senate to return to the "old guard" republican fold. It openly states:

"If Senator Frazier is asked to return to the party, there is no doubt that he will do so."

This sentence appears in an editorial. There is no doubt that Frazier will be asked to return, in common with the other members of this insurgent group. The first page of the same issue of the North Dakota Nonpartisan carries a big streamer headline: "Republicans Want Frazier Back in the Fold."

In editorial and news article, therefore, the full trend of the La-Follette group, as pointed out in these columns, is clearly revealed. The retreat of the once self-styled third partvites has become a rout.

The complete surrender of the La-Follette group is called a "peace agreement." It is pointed out that:

"A peace agreement with insurgents is planned by republican leaders to end the factional war which started with the break of the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette from party ranks in the 1924 presidential campaign."

But it will be the peace of complete capitulation in which the "old guard" will win all the victories and capture all the spoils.

It is interesting to note the fact that the LaFollette outfit, that is hoisting the white flag in its middle class struggle against the great capitalists, makes a great ado about its loyalty to the republican party. This comes on the heels of the pride so often declared by these politicians that they recognized no party line. Thus Senator George Norris, (Rep., Neb.), the prize exhibition of individualism in old party politics, comes fresh from his support of the democratic candidate for the United States senate in Pennsylvania only to nestle close to the warm bosom of the capitalism he professes to attack

The North Dakota Nonpartisan League, with its two senators, Lynn Frazier and Gerald P. Nye, as its name implies, started out to build its own organization against both the old parties.

The whole LaFollette group, in 1924, supported the presidential aspirations of the Wisconsin senator with the avowed purpose of building a third party, at the same time making extravagant promises about a "labor party." in order to silence the more radical elements drawn into the movement.

In Minnesota, the Farmer-Labor Party was organized and gains its strength from the fact that it is directly opposed, as a class party, to the republican party. But Arthur Sears Henning, in the Chicago Tribune, reiterating rumors that have been persistently floating about, adds this contribution:

"Senator Jim Watson (chairman of the republican committee on committees) said further that he favors inviting Senator Shipstead (Farmer-Labor, Minn.) to affiliate with the republicans. The Minnesota senator has returned to Washington but is maintaining silence on his intentions. If he should vote with the democrats the 48 republicans would still be able to organize by virtue of the casting vote of Vice-President Dawes to dissolve the tie.

"The probability is, however, that Senator Shipsted will vote with the republicans. He was a republican before he joined the Farmer-Labor Party and, now that his party has dissolved, it is expected that he will be a candidate for renomination in 1928 as a republican."

The old saying, "Once a republican, always a republican," therefore seems to apply rather effectively to these political placeseekers, who make peace with the enemies of the workers and farmers in order to win a committee appointment in congress.

The Nonpartisan League sprang up in pre-war days when the socialist party was making some headway. but "not fast enough." in the agricultural states. The argument was that the socialist party should remain the propaganda organization while the Nonpartisan League should wage the actual parliamentary struggle and take the jobs. The result was that the socialist party was effectively destroyed in the "league" states, "the league" rose to power for a time, but its officialdom gradually slipped back into the republican party from whence they

The same thing happened in Minnesota, except here the workers and farmers broke away from "league" policies sufficiently to organize completely independent of the old parties in the Farmer-Labor Party. Yet at the first opportunity, when the struggle becomes difficult, the leadership scatters both ways, back into the democratic and the republican parties. Shipstead's hesitancy in coming straightout for the Farmer-Labor Party only means that he has always been a republican, loving Wall Street's flesh 'pots, and that he has merely been riding the farmer-labor protest in Minnesota to find a soft place for himself in the capitalist congress in Washington,

While the leadership thus exposes its treason, great numbers of the workers and farmers will go ahead their own way building their own party. The basis for the Farmer- British Empire's End Labor Party is strong in Minnesota. North and South Dakota, Montana, Washington and Oklahoma. It will sprout and grow in Wisconsin, Iowa and Nebraska, now that the halo above the heads of "prominent leaders" has crashed to the ground. There should also be an awakening of the millions of workers who cast their ballots for LaFollette in 1924 in the great industrial states, especially of the east. The treason of the leaders must develop the loyalty of the masses for the struggle for independent political action thru the Labor Party.

COOLIDGE ASKS BUTLER TO STAY AS G. O. P. HEAD

Think It Means He Will Run Again in 1928

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.-Senator Wm. M. Butler's acquiesence to the wishes of President Coolidge that he retain the chairmanship of the republican national committee renewed in Washington today a wave of discussion among politicians as to Coolidge's political intentions for 1928.

Think It Means 1928.

A canvass among prominent republicans now gathering for the opening of congress revealed a considerable divergence of opinion as to what significance should be attached to Butler's retention.

Some republican leaders who have always believed that the president plans to be a candidate to succeed himself in 1928 accepted the announcement that Butler would continue as confirming their belief.

Still others expressed the opinion privately that the president desired to keep Senator Butler in his post in order that he might be secure in control of the organization until such time as he (Mr. Coolidge) must make up his mind about his candidacy for another term.

Colonel Harvey Again.

All this week there has been considerable politics discussed at the White House, for the president has had as his guests Colonel George Harvey and Senator Butler. Their presence at the executive mansion together is not regarded as accidental.

Why not a small bundle of The DAILY WORKER sent to you regularly to take to your trade union meeting?

Had anybody seen them in the moonlight? Or had Vee whispered the secret to Annabelle? Or was it just the light of happiness radiating from the eyes of the young couple? Anyhow, it was evident next day that the truth was out, and there was an atmosphere of festivity about the Monastery. Nobody went so far as to sprinkle rice on the pair, or to throw old shoes at them, or tie white ribbons to their cars; but there were friendly smiles, and sly jests, enough to keep the play spirit alive. Annabelle, of course, was enraptured; she had planned this from the beginning, she had picked this young oil prince for her friend from the day that Verne had told her about him. And Verne well, you can imagine that when he started to make jokes on such a subject, nobody was left in doubt as to what had happened!

Strangely enough, when Bunny got home, he found this spirit of orange-blossoms and white ribbons in some mysterious way communicated to Dad. Could it be that Verne, the old rascal, had taken the trouble to telephone the news? Here was Dad, shining with satisfaction, and Bunny could read his every thought. Dad had met Vee Tracy, and liked her fine. A motion picture star-by golly, that was something to brag about! That was the right sort of career for a young oil prince—quite in the aristocratic tradition! Bunny would have something else in his mind now but this fool Bolshevik business!

Presently here was Dad trying to drop hints-with about as much tact as you would expect from a full grown rhinosceros! Had Vee Tracy been up at the Monastery this time? Say, that was a live wire, that girl! Verne said she got as high as seven hundred a week; and that was no press agent money either. She had more brains than all the male dolls put together; she had money salted away, owned lots all over Hollywood. She'd come to Verne to ask his advice about Ross Consolidated, and he had told her to go the limit, and by golly, she had brought him a cashier's check for fifty thousand dollars, and had got a block of the stock at the opening price, and now it was worth three times that, and Vee said that Verne had saved her from six rapings. Then the old rhinosceros went on and explained what Vee had meant—that she wouldn't have to act in six pictures!

And then there was Bertie, who got the news at once because happened that Charlie Norman's bootlegger was in love with Annabelle Ame's sister. Right away Bertie was curious to meet Vee Tracy, and ordered Bunny to bring her to lunch. Vee was uneasy about this-declaring that sisters always poisoned men against sweethearts. But Bunny laughed and said he had plenty of antitoxins against Bertie. So they met, and everything went off beautifully; Vee was humble, and anxious to please, and Saturday, November 20, Entertain Bertie was the great lady, supremely gracious. That was according to the proprieties, for Vee was only an actress, while Bertie was in real "society," her doings appearing in a sanctified part of the paper, where the screen people seldom broke in. After the luncheon, Bertie told her brother that Vee was all right, and Review" Workers' Lyceum, 2733 maybe she would teach him a little sense; which, from a sister was the limit of cordiality.

So there they were, everything hunkydory. Bunny's sleep was no longer disturbed by dreams; the dream had become a reality, and it was his. When they visited the Monastery, they were placed in connecting rooms; and when he went to visit Vee at her bungalow, the discreet elderly lady who kept house for her would quietly disappear. As for the moving picture colony, it said nothing more—having already said everything there was to Bunny would call Vee on the telephone, and if it was a Saturday or holiday, they would make a date; but if it was a weekday, Vee would say, "No, Bunny, you ought to stay home and

He would answer, "Oh, bosh, Vee, I'm a whole week ahead

"But Bunny, if I make you neglect your work, your father will get down on me!"

"Dad's more in love with you than I am! He thinks you're the brightest star in the movie zodiac."

"We just must not overdo it, Bunny! Your conscience will spreading their dope manufactured by cial agencies of the capitalist class. retary of the party in District No. 2 get to troubling you, and you'll blame it on me."

> "Dog-gone-it, Vee, you boss me worse than if we were Annabelle and Roscoe.'

> "Well, let me tell you, if I manage to keep my oil prince as long as Annabelle has kept her's, I'll count myself a lucky woman!" (To Be Continued.)

DISEASE CAUSES IN INDUSTRY CAN BE STAMPED OUT

Director of Women's Bureau Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 21. - (FP) -Practically all the causes for industrial and occupational diseases can be stamped out, Nelle Swartz, director bureau of women in industry New local unions for the following out and are preparing for the coming York state labor department, told her standing reasons: radio audience in the regular state health department broadcast. The task of eliminating industrial diseases needs study and "the cooperation of effect. all interested groups," said Swartz. Lead, arsenic, mercury, benzol and carbon monoxide are the most common industrial poisons to which workers are exposed, she stated.

Lead Poison.

Printers, painters and plumbers are exposed to lead poison. Workers in gold and silver refineries, copper and brass foundries, dye works and glass factories are exposed to arsenic. Mercury exposure comes to workers on thermometers, hat's and explosives. Benzol effects workers in pasting rubber and leather and sealing tin cans. Chronic carbon monoxide poisoning is one of the commonest types of industrial disease-occurring often where furnaces, gas-heating devices and improperly maintained heating arrangements exist. Industrial poisons are controlled by the substitution of some other substances or removal of poisonous fumes from workshops by exhausts and ventilating hoods.

Occupational disease develops from dust in many industries. Swartz stated. But industrial dusts can be controlled by eliminating processes causing dust; altering process to reduce dust; use of exhausts, hoods and respirators; through supplying workers with pure air by means of helmets. Headaches from glaring lights; backaches from standing all day at machines: colds from overheated or underheated and badly ventilated rooms also could be called occupational diseases when incurred at work. "Bad or faulty working conditions play a large part in the amount of sickness among Industrial workers," concluded Nelle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21. - Cancer cure by exposure of the patient to currents is under investigation by the United States public Health service. Dr. C. C. Pierce acting surgeon general, announced today.

The method, while not officially approved by Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming, is believed by medical and may be the method for which surgeons have groped for years.

Referring to the reported anti-toxin cure evolved by Dr. T. J. Glover, of New York, who announced isolation of the germs, and accepted by some leading authorities, Pierce declared that surgery, radium and x-rays are the only forms of treatment so far justified by experience and observation. The Glover method has been investigated but, according to Pierce, does not yet have the sanction of the public health service.

Experiment With Animals. Pioneering in a virtually unexplored field, Schereschewsky is exposing white mice and other small animals, O'Connell Urges U. S. ional office pledged to carry out the afflicted with cancer, to frequency currents from 20,000,000 to 60,000,000 > cycles per second. Symptoms, which produced death at ong exposure, were discovered, but with proper application of the currents, important results were obtained n killing cancerous conditions.

Will Attempt Cures. A long series of tests will be concluded with animals and later human beings. The method would not be approved unless actual human cures in high percentage of the tests made, were accomplished.

"Should this or any other method of cancer cure be discovered in the Schereschewsky investigation the results would be made public for the general good," Pierce said.

High frequency currents have been applied to geranium plants, afflicted by tumors caused by inoculation. In a report on these tests it was shown that the diseased plants were exposed to radiations emitted by a vacuum tube oscillator at a frequency of about 150,000 cycles per second.

Tested on Plants. After an intermittent exposure lastng over 16 days the plant tumors died and were easily removed, effecting, apparently, a permanent cure. Where similarly diseased geraniums were treated by surgery the tumors recur-

A Roumania in the East

Dutch Java in the East Indies has become the Roumania of the Orient thru the bloody campaign of extermination launched against the revolutionary workers on the island.

Many slain and wounded, hundreds imprisoned and now the announced exile of the Communist leaders of the struggle indicates deep-rooted discontent among the workers and the most brutal methods on the part of the reigning tyranny to maintain itself in Details leading up to the present events are lacking. But they show an increasing militancy among the workers of Java in common with those of neighboring countries, especially in Australia, India, the Philippines and China.

Boasting of its alleged "democracy" at home, Holland, pevertheless, employs all the torture instruments of imperialism in order to subdue the coffee, sugar and rubber workers on its treasured colonial possessions, even as Belgium in its Congo.

The socialist sentiment on the island was strong even before the world war. Since the Bolshevik revolution in Russia, the revolutionary movement on the island has developed a strong Communist Party wielding great influence in the trade unions. Owing to the oppressive measures of the government, the unions have been forced to lead a semi-illegal existence, but this does not seem to have isolated them from the masses of workers. The failure of the exploiters to crush the organized workers no doubt brought on this latest assault with its killings and jailings, as a result of which the governor general reports to the Dutch colonial ministry that the situation thruout West Java is "satisfactory." Just as "satisfactory" as Mussolini sitting on his Italian "Vesuvius."

The attack on the Javanese workers is merely another argument in favor of greater unity, not only between the workers of the Orient, but of the Pacific nations and of the world. American labor can help by sending delegates to the proposed Pan-Pacific Trade Union Conference to be held at Canton, China, starting May 1, 1927.

Investigate the War on Nicaragua

Dispatches from Washington indicate that sentiment is growing in favor of a senate investigation of the war openly launched against Nicaragua by the United States government. . .

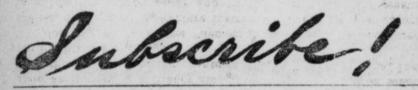

This is an opportunity for Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, to translate into action the strain of the world economic crisis bers, he, Dickinson, had decided not Dickinson." Soon America may be The American workers must awake some of the many altruistic words he utters on behalf of oppressed and of Europe's adoption of American to recognize the trade unions in the forced to adopt the more modern to the dangers in the situation and class solidarity.

Congress never declared war on the Union of Soviet Republies, but armies were sent in, nevertheless, thru Archangel and Murmansk, on the north, and thru Vladivostok, in the Far East, in plan, under the leadership of American an effort to destroy the workers' republic. The crushing defeat suf- finance, The stream of cheap foreign fered by American troops, in common with other imperialist Hes- products has begun to flow to our sians, at the hands of the Soviet red army, will not be mentioned in histories for use in American schools.

Similarly, American workers and farmers are asked to turn their faces while Wall Street's chosen buchers, the marines, do their bloody work in Hayti, yesterday, in Nicaragua, today, and somewhere else, tomorrow. In the words of the Chicago Tribune:

"That famous emissary of peace and order, the American marine, tho he carries a rifle in place of an olive branch, continues to be the good angel of feverish and distraught little republics of the banana belt."

Let no one be deceived. A senate investigation will not stop imperialist aggressions in Central and South America. It will, however, help throw the limelight of publicity on the cutthroat rule of the financial bandits, haloed by the American flag, and partially blessed by the Roman pope, thru his attack on Mexican labor. staunchest ally of the Nicaraguan people. The war on Nicaragua gives Senator Borah an opportunity to apply himself to a concrete example of American bullying tactics of "dollar diplomacy" near home. Let him go to it.

HENRY IN HIS FIRST CAR.

In these days Henry didn't amount to much. Even Let us go back to Marx again. There are two kinds of surplus value. One kind Marx calls ABSOLUTE surplus value and the other RELATIVE surplus value and the other RELATIVE surplus value.

Absolute surplus value is derived by the employer by LENGTHENING the hours of work so that, the period required by the worker to work out the value of his labor power remaining the same, the extra profits to the boss. This is the method used in some industries. When the open shop- Marx explains so well.

Henry Piles Up His Big Profits ever greater amount of saleable material in the same period of time. This type of surplus value This is the kind of surplus value that has become endeared to the hearts of Henry and some other capitalists that use his methods, and that has made them rich.

In the Ford auto plants, the extraction of relative surplus value has become a science. As we saw, the Ford economists explain their profits on an altogether different ground. They speak in a superficial way of Henry getting rich because he had the foresight and the industrial science to "save on labor" and to introduce "efficiency, methods" and install "time saving machinery." But boiled down, all these things mean that Ford is getting exorbitantly rich by extracting the maximum amount of RELATIVE SURPLUS VALUE from his workers.

So how do you account for the much vaunted eight-hour day and six dollar minimum and fiveday week? Upon this very fact of Ford's ability to arrange his production in such a way as to intensify and increase the expenditure of labor power to a point where the very extraction of relative surplus value in a large measure depends upon his shortening the work day and paying his men more wages.

Limit to Endurance.

THE point is that there is a limit to human endurance. An employer can make a big profit when his workers are able to give their utmost to production. The well-known intensification and systematization of production in the Ford plants have been carried to the point where, taking all

We admit that had the defendants been radicals instead of followers of old party politicians things might not have gone so well with them, but whether or not the capitalist press never likes to see a trade unionist escape the pen, unless the frame-up s so obvious that the masses might begin to doubt capitalist "justice." * * *

BUT frame-ups are in the habit of escaping the attention of the capitalist press until the masses get dangerously aroused-dangerously for the capitalists. An example of this kind is the Sacco-Vanzetti case. Here are two Italian labor leaders who were booked for the electric chair. But for the intervention of the working class the worms that figured on living on Sacco and Vanzetti for a few years, would now be begging for their fodder. And not until repeated attempts on the part of the ruling classes of Massachusetts to hang those workers were thwarted by labor did a few of the capitalist papers decide that the exigencies of their circulation departments called for a change of heart.

STRIKE STRATEGY

By WILLIAM Z. FOSTER

ARTICLE XXI ARBITRATION

Strike strategy must deal with the question of arbitration. Arbitration in strikes is almost always a weapon of the employers against the workers. Only in rare cases can the workers make effective use of it. Arbitration is a cornerstone in the general structure of class collaboration. It is based upon the anti-working class principles of class peace and a harmony of interest between exploited and exploiters. It kills the spirit of struggle among the workers. This is to the employers' advantage. It also saves the employers from making concessions which they would otherwise have to give up in open strike struggle.

Enployers capture the "odd" or decisive men on arbitration boards with almost uncanny regularity. Conservative labor leaders are nonplussed by this, to them an inexplicable phenomenon. Time after time they place "friends" of labor on arbitration boards, only to have them turn fail and support the employers. The reason for this is simple. These "friends" are always members of either the middle or capitalist classes (for the employers will not the workers. Hence, when the test comes they simply | mployers.

THAT IMPARTIAL THIRD PARTY

This process goes on continuously, with the reactionary rade union leaders being constantly disillusioned by their friends" on arbitration boards. Yet their hope springs ternal. A typical situation exists on the railroads, where he workers' leaders have accepted Edgar C. Clark as one of the two "odd" men (the other "odd" man is a capitalist) on the board to arbitrate the demands of the conductors and trainmen on the eastern railroads. Clark was formerly Frand Senior Conductor of the Order of Railroad Conduct ors, but now he is a railroad corporation lawyer. The railroad union leaders believe Clark is their "friend," but the railroad company officials know he is in their service.

A favorable outcome of this arbitration is already assured for the companies. And so it is always. This certainty of controlling the "odd" men, whether selected by agreement with conservative union leaders or appointed by the government, makes the employers ardent advocates of arbitration, voluntary and compulsory.

Employers usually offer arbitration to strong unions in key and basic industries, and refuse it to unions that they believe they can defeat in strikes. An offer of arbitraaccept workers) and they have class and personal interests | tion from the employers is always a compliment to the more closely allied to those of the capitalists than to those | power of the union involved the workers have secured good unions. Such strategically placed unions are capable of delivering heavy blows. These the employers are keen to ward off. Besides, it is exactly in such situations that the "odd" men on the arbitration boards are most reliably active in protecting the interests of society as a whole.

THE RIGHT WING AND ARBITRATION

The right wing trade union leaders commonly support the employers' policy of foisting arbitration upon the workers. They accept it as a vital part of their general class collaboration program. But the experience of the American labor movement with arbitration has been so bad and there is such a widespread opposition to it among the workers

Employers are anxious to establish arbitration in such | law, brought about by them in open alliance with the great apport the interests of their closest class affiliates, the industries as coal mining, railroads, etc, especially when railroad magnates. This law, which practically saddles compulsory arbitration upon the railroad workers, is a menace to the progress of the entire American labor movement. LEFT WING POLICY

> The left wing opposes arbitration in principle as well as in practice. It stands for a policy of open negotiations with the employers. This makes for the best clarification of the issues involved, for securing the most material concessions from the employers, for the greatest stimulation of the workers to struggle, and generally for the best development of the trade union movement.

In some cases, however, even the left wing will find it expedient to arbitrate. This is when the workers are especially poverty-stricken (which sometimes favorably affects "odd" men) or when their weak unions, hopelessly that these leaders are careful about too openly endorsing it. outmatched by the employers' organizations, must grasp at In industries such as printing, building trades, etc., any straw. Thus it is conceivable that the left wing might where the unions are strong and where their strikes usually refuse arbitration offers from the employers at the beginhave no sharp political character, the reactionaries often ning of a strike when the union is strong and yet accept arbitration at the end of the same strike when the union ing it.
