By C. E. RUTHENBERG, General Secretary, Workers (Communist) Party THE returns for the Keep The DAILY WORKER Fund must be increased I thru intensified work if we are to reach the $25,000 mark—the first half of the $50,000 fund-by November 30.

Tuesday's contribution, in place of showing an increase, represents a falling off of nearly $200 as against Monday. There remain only Wednesday, Friday, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday in this month in which The DAILY WORKER will receive contributions.

To reach the $25,000 mark by next Tuesday means that we must raise $1,000 each day during these five days.

Based upon the present percentage of their quota for the Keep The DAILY WORKER Fund the districts of the party should raise the following amounts during the next five days in order to complete the first half of the Keep The DAILY WORKER Fund:

New York	$1,000
Chicago	. 500
Boston	. 500
New Haven	. 250
Philadelphia	250
Puffalo	150
Fittsburgh	. 300
C eveland	. 400
Defect Care and control of the contr	. 200
raeapolis	. 300
- sas City
Cattle	. 250
San Francisco	250

The completion of the $25,000 half way goal of the Keep The DAILY WORKER Fund is not only necessary in order that November make a good showing in the campaign but it is essential to meet the maturing obligations of The DAILY WORKER.

On Monday The DAILY WORKER must meet a bill for $2,000 to cover a supply of paper without which The DAILY WORKER cannot appear. Other obligations of the same character make the raising of the $4,500 which will raise the fund to $25,000, a matter of urgent necessity to Keep The DAILY

We call upon the party organizations in the various districts to mobilize all their forces for the drive for The DAILY WORKER during the next few days and to raise as a minimum the amounts assigned to them in the above

These amounts can be raised if the work is taken up in earnest-in spirit that this is work which must be done in order to Keep The DAILY WORK-ER. This issue of The DAILY WORKER will reach every section of the country by Friday. The DAILY WORKER Committees should be called into session on Friday and Saturday and organize to make Sunday a DAILY WORKER Day, on which thru organizing as many party members as possible for systematic collection of funds, the total assigned to the district is

An organized push forward of this character will result in the collection of the $4,500 needed to reach the $25,000 mark.

We call upon every party committee and every party unit for immediate action to raise this $4,500 and the $25,000 goal.

THAT there is danger of war be tween France and Italy is indicated by the presence of a section of the French naval forces on the coast of Morocco withing striking distance of Italy. Mussolini's brigands are threatening to grab off the French Riviera. The fascist government openly boasts of the increase in the Italian population and justifies a demand for colonies on the ground of extraordinary fecundity.

THERE is plenty of idle land to take care of the surplus Italian population, and under a sane system of society there would be no difficulty about making the necessary arrangements to find the needed space. But as long as capitalism exists, waste will be the rule and the first consideration will be profit and not utility. So we have France and Italy making warlike gestures at each other with the possibility that thousands of French and Italian workers will be killed before the imperialists of both countries settle their differences.

THIS mad dog Mussolini is drawing perilously near the rocks. The ludicrous figure he cuts as the originator of plots against his own life has made him the laughing stock of Europe. And when people begin to laugh at a bully, his end is near. People are inclined to attach too much importance to Mussolini's personality. They seem to think that but for Mussolini fascism would fall to the ground. It cannot be denied that dustrial capitalists, the bankers and times today by James B. Gen. Yang-Sen Deserts War Lord to Cantonese

HANKOW, China, Nov. 24.-Reports from Ichang in the upper Yangtze valley state that General Yang-sen, former ally of General Wu Pei-fu, who controls the eastern part of Szechwan province and the western portion of Hupeh province, has gone over to the Cantonese forces with his 50,000 troops. He is also reported to have 12,000 more men stationed in the south of Shansi province, a Wu strong-

This new defection is of great strategic importance to the southern armies now driving north and east against the combined forces of General Chan Tso Lin and Marshal Sun. It adds one more province, that of Szechwan, to the territory now under the control of Canton and gives freedom of military movement for the Cantonese in the eastward drive into Honan province against Wu Pei Fu.

The consolidation of the Cantonese control in the central Yangtze valley began with the capture of the important industrial centers of Wuchang and Hankov by the forces under the youthful General Chiang Kai Shek. With the acquisition of General Yang-Sen's province of Szechwan, the march of the Cantonese armies north towards Shanghai has been greatly facilitate. The moving of the seat of the revolutionary government from Canton to Wachtar puts the base of operations further north to make whole of China and conquering the militarists still in control of the large northern and eastern provinces.

American Imperialism Shows Its Teeth

Workers Must Support Mexico Against Attacks of Government in Interest of Wall Street

Statement by the Central Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party.

The workers of this country face the danger of being called upon to ight a war for the investments and profits of the American capitalists in Mexico. Central and South America.

Last week the capitalist press flooded the country with propaganda against Mexico because of alleged interference with the imperialist schemes of the American capitalist and government to maintain Central America as the backyard for imperialist adventures and profits of Wall Street. Yesterday Secretary of State Kellogg, under orders from Wall Street's president, Coolidge, threatens Mexico because it dares to assert its right to control the natural resources within its territory.

From threats of withdrawal of recognition of Mexico to armed intervention to protect the investments and profits of the American imperialists is only a step, but a step which will involve the sacrifice of the lives of thousands of American workers. Thus It is becoming clear where the imperialist exploitation and domination is leading this country and the dangers which lay ahead for the workers.

> It is pecause Mexico insists upon enforcing these provisions of its constitution and laws that Secretary of State Kellogg is threatening the Mexican government. Kellogg, who issued a warning intended for Mexico that it must not interfere in Nicaragua in support of the effort of the people of Nicaragua to gain control of their own government, brazenly interteres in Mexico to compel Mexico to revise its laws to suit the American imperialist exploiters

Kellogg declares in his note against the effort of the Mexican government to enforce the provisions of the constitution of Mexico:

"It strikes at the very root of the system of property rights which lies at the basis of all civilized society."

The N. Y. Times Views Situation in China and Whistles for Courage

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

IMPERIALIST diplomacy is losing | 1 much sleep over the situation in China, with the Cantonese armies bringing new sections of the republic almost daily under the standards of the revolution.

The defi issued by General Chang Kai Shek forces the next move upon the diplomats of Washington, London and Paris.

The New York Times tries to discuss what that move shall be. It indicates that it ought to be very conciliatory. That is, of course, to be expected of imperialist diplomacy when it is on the defensive. But the Chinese, under the leadership of Canton, will not be fooled by imperialism's soft words that always have a spiked club in reserve. 非非非

The moving of the revolutionary capital from Canton to Wuchang isn't considered so bad, by The Times. It admits the political and geographical reasons for the change saying "Wuchang is the heart of China," but it is rather skeptical about how "the outside world" will accept it. This doesn't seem to be troubling the Chinese. Peking has been a capital city in the north in name only. It remains in the eyes' of the imperialist diplomats the symbol of "the imperial splendor of China" that passed with the overthrow of the Manchu Dynasty 15 years ago. It is in Peking that the imperialist invaders maintain their 'costly establishments," for which enslaved Chinese labor has been forced to pay, over and over.

It is bitter indeed for the bandit agents of foreign greed to give up all this show of power and move to Wuchang, railroad center, bee-hive of rising Chinese industry, where the living and clenched fist of New China battles its way forward in contradistinction to the dead hand of things past loosening its grip forever on progress in Pekin:

Foreign diplomats were compelled to forget the glories, as they viewed them, of the czars is St. Petersburg (now Leningrad) and accommodate themselves to workers' and peasants' rule in Red Moscow, capital city of the Soviet Un-

But that does not mean that the imperialists quit their attack on the Chinese National Revolution any more than that they have given up hope that they will be able in time to achieve the crushing of the Workers Republic.

It is to their interests, therefore, to misrepresent. before the world, as they are able thru their own press, the actual situation in China.

It is here that The New York the question:

"Has the government of Canton the right to move the capital from Pekin? Will it at the same time assume the international obligations of the Pekin government? Will it take over the latter's financial responsibilities?"

Revolutions have a way of assuming rights distasteful to the remnants of the order of things that have been overthrown. It also has an uncomfortable way of repudiating all connections with the past.

The revolution has the right to establish its capital at Wuchang because it has the power to do so. It certainly is not compelled to assume the international obligations imposed by gun and bayonet upon the Chinese people. It has no financial responsibilities to world imperialism. The Chinese might instead demand the return of the loot taken from them. It is not for imperialism to dictate its terms, That time is gone. General Chiang has clearly stated the intention to denounce all existing treaties with the imperialist powers, that extraterritorial privileges will be abolished and that the struggle against imperialism will be continued everywhere, because the Chinese national revolution is part of the world revolution, in the words of the Chinese spokesman at the opening of the Seventh Enlarged Plenum of the executive committee of the Communist International at Moscow, on Monday.

The New York Times is trying to "laugh that off." It says that General Chiang's "pronunciamentos need not be taken too seriously, as thew are somewhat on a par with our own party convention platform resolutions. They are useful for home consumption."

The big point is that the Chinese people take the program seriously, whether Wall Street openly professes to or not. They are rallying in support of it. All are being educated to understand it. A revolutionary army, continually growing in strength, has been built in support of it. It is said that old party programs are built for capitalist politicians to ride into office on The program of the Chinese revolution is similar in this respect; it is built as a unifying instrument for the Chinese masses to go into power.

Whereas the American capitalist party programs are constituted of a flood of words, the Chinese revolutionary program calls for a flood of deeds that moves ever onward engulfing all its enemies. No comfort here for the enemies of the people. The Times whistles another tune on the question of Bolshevik influence in China. It now declares that the Cantonese movement is neither "Red" nor "pro-Bolshevik," stating that: "As a matter of fact it suited the interests of the Cantonese to use the Russians for a time. Later they gave the Russian leaders their 'walking papers.'" It was rather unfortunate for The

New York Times that on the same day this editorial appeared, Shau Li Tze, representative of the Kuomintange party of China, was addressing the gathering of the Communist International in Moscow declaring that the Kuomintang is acting unitedly with the Communist Party of China in the struggle for the emancipation of the Chinese people. . . .

With some of the other conclusions of The Times it is easier to agree, especially that, "of all the warring groups in China today the Cantonese have what most nearly The only other groups of any consequence are those headed by Wu Pei Fu and Chang Tso Lin, and they have no program except to play the role of cats-paw for native and alien profiteers. The forces of the former are especially going thru a process of rapid disintegration. One of his most powerful allies, General Yang Sen, has just deserted to the Canton cause. taking with him 50,000 troops in a most important sector.

Considering all this, in speaking of the Cantonese. The New York Times exclaims:

"If their military successes continue, they may soon command the attention of the world."

The Times is wrong again. The Chinese Nationalist Revolution is now commanding the attention of the world. It is the duty of every American worker and farmer to study and understand it, because they may soon be drawn into the very center of the vortex of struggle at any moment.

SAYS U.S. COURT WILL KNOCK OUT RADIO DECISION

Tribune Case Cannot Stand, Lesh Asserts

Claims to prior rights in radio waveengths, made by the Chicago Tribune station WGN, will be knocked out by the federal courts in spite of a decision by an Illinois state court in the Tribune's favor, it is confidently predicted by L. J. Lesh, radio engineer of the Chicago Federation of Labor. Lesh is the man who built WCFL, the labor broadcast station on the municipal pier, and developed the commercial radio telegraph business of the federation to a profitable basis. He has had wide experience in many cities on the engineering side of radio and is deeply read on its legal and social aspects.

Is Federal Power.

"The entire question of radio rights and radio regulation belongs to the federal government," Lesh says. "The Tribune in its suit against the Coyne electrical school station WGES claimed that the WGES wave-length interfered with the WGN wave-length and therefore infringed on a property right to the air based on prior use, efficient service and established goodwill among radio listeners.

A state and not a federal court on Nov. 17 ordered the interfering station to adopt a different wave-length, thus seeming to acknowledge the Tribune's property claim.

No Basis for Decision. "There is nothing whatever in radio law to confirm such alleged ownership. The broadcast licenses are issued for three months only by the federal department of commerce and renewal must be made regularly at their expiration. The licenses are not patents but temporary permits, tho certain radio interests have tried per-them." The question is vital to the labor station, as it is operating on a wave length to which a New York station has prior claim. The license was granted automatically by the Department of Commerce after its arbitrary control over radio was severely curtailed by a federal decision in the Zenith case.

GEORGE IS NOW KING OF SEVEN SEPARATE STATES

But Actually He Has No More Power

(Special to The Daily Worker) LONDON, Nov. 24,-Politicians and constitutional authorities in Britain are debating just what the implications of the new empire charter passed by the imperial conference just concluded in London mean. It is agreed that the sovereign status of the various commonwealths is recognized. The colonies are now bound together on an equal basis with the home government, thru the sole instrument of the king, who finds himself the sovereign head of seven separate state entities.

Contradictions.

Aside from the fact that his "state duties" become much larger, there are some obvious contradictions in the arrangement that are now coming under discussion. The expenses of the king's household are now borne by Britain only. They amount to several million dollars a year. It is the opinion of many that the colonies, now that the king is directly their own, should bear some of this expense.

There is also the question of decense. The only considerable military and naval force in the empire is that of Britain. Save for small contingents and a few ships of war, the six colonies depend entirely upon the British armed forces.

King Against Himself.

The king may have cause for embarrassment as the workings of the new arrangement comes to be tried. For example, as king of Canada, he may be called to sign a treaty with, say Washington, that is in disagreement with the government of England. of which he is also king.

The governor-generals of the colomies now have the status only of personal representatives of his majesty. In effect, it is the king that performs the duties of a sovereign in the colonies thru his representatives. A tion of the monarchy would automati- class. are bound together.

The Real Bond.

But all these conundrums propounded by brilliant London lawyers entirely leave out of account the real forces that keep the empire, however loosely, still together.

The economic ties between the dominions and the home government are not to be left out of account. Nor is the necessity for united action on the part of the capitalists in all parts of the empire to be ignored. While the tendency towards dissolving the empire is without question growing because of the rapid development of

Young Pioneers Find Work in Calumet Region | Royalty Welcomed

By PAUL A. BUCHA.

The Calumet steel district is located in the Calumet region at the head of Lake Michigan. As the name suggests, this region is a steel center. This is where Judge Gary and his like have many of their plants located. And as there are many steel plants many workers are employed, and all of them are unorganized.

However, during the great steel was most affected by it. Many Pioneers saw how the strikers were clal writer of the Chicago Herald and beat up by the police and militia. Four strikers were killed in this district during the strike, two of them ex-soldiers who fought in the "war not addressed by any labor leaderfor democracy." unions to fool the older workers, while here Judge Gary is even afraid to organize a company union, because company union would at least give the workers some idea of the need and meaning of organization. So Gary won't even organize a company union

With all these rotten conditions in the Calumet region great labor struggles are bound to take place here in the future. The Young Pioneers will then be ready to take their places in the struggle. The great steel strike is an example for us. We are striving to better organize than during the strike, and we will do it.

Talking in the office after our survey, the director attempted to impress upon us that this was one of the most strict prisons in the Soviet Union. He also impressed upon us that in Russia reform, not punishment, is the aim of the prison system. And after what we had seen we could very well believe it. The men confined within this institution preserved their identity as men. They did not have a number; they wore their own clothes, not a prison garb. All of them were happy. They talked to us without hesitation, and we did not

The next afternoon, coming out from his classes, Bunny saw on a news-stand the familiar green color of the "Evening Booster," and his eye was caught—as it was meant to be caught—by flaring headlines:

POLICE RAID RED CENTER

So Bunny purchased a paper—as it was meant that he should do—and read how that morning a squad from police headquarters had invaded the rooms of the clothing workers' union, and taken off nearly a truck-load of documents which were expected to prove that the disturbance in the city's industry was being lirected and financed by the red revolutionists of Moscow. The officials of the union were under arrest, one of those apprehended being Chaim Menzies, "self-confessed socialistic agitator."

So there was another job for Bunny. He didn't know quite how to set about it, and Dad was on the way to Paradise, and could not be consulted. Bunny went to see Dad's lawyer, Mr. Dolliver, a keen-witted, soft-spoken gentleman who had no sympathy with reds, but, like all lawyers, was prepared for any weird trouble his wealthy clients might bring along. He called up police headquarters and ascertained that the self-confessed socialistic agitator was to be arraigned the following day; bail would be set at that time, and it would be up to Bunny to have the cash on hand, or real estate to twice the amount. Bunny said he wanted to see the prisoner, and Mr. Dolliver said he knew the chief of police, and might be able to arrange it.

He wrote a note, and Bunny went over to the dingy old building which had been erected to serve a city of fifty thousand, and was now serving one of a million. The chief proved to be a burly person in civilian clothing, smelling strongly of civilian whiskey; he requested Bunny to sit down, and summoned a couple of detectives, and began an obvious effort to find out all that Bunny knew about Chaim Menzies, and Bunny's ideas, and Chaim's ideas. And Bunny, who was growing up fast in an ugly world, gave a carefully phrased exposition of the difference between the right and left wings of the Socialist movement. Finding that he could not be trapped into indiscretions and knowing that he was a millionaire's son, and could not be thrown into a ell, the chief gave him up, and told one of the detectives to take aim in to see the prisoner.

So Bunny got a glimpse of his city's jail. The old building vas cracked, and had been condemned as a menace to life by half a dozen successive commissions; nevertheless, here it was. case that shortly after the murder of a monument to the greed of real estate speculators, who cared nothing about a city's good name, provided only its tax-rate were low. The mouldy old place stank, and if you looked carefully, you might see vermin crawling on the walls. The prisoners were onfined in a number of "tanks," which were steel barred cages holding thirty or forty men each, with no ray of daylight, and not enough artificial light to enable anyone to read. This city, so oddly named "Angel," appeared anxious to cultivate all possible vices in its victims, for it provided them no reading matter. and no exercises or recreation, but permitted them to have cards, dice and cigarettes—and the jailers secretly smuggled in whiskey and cocaine to such as had money for bribes.

In one of these tanks sat Papa Menzies-on the floor, since here was no other place to sit. He appeared quite contented, having gathered round him the entire congregation of the cell, to hear about the struggle of the clothing workers, and how it was up to the toilers of the world to organize and abolish the capitalist system. When Bunny appeared, the old man jumped up and grabbed him by the hand, and Bunny said quickly, "Mr. Menzies, you should know that this gentleman with me is a detective.

Papa Menzies grinned. "Sure, I got notting to hide. I been a member of de Socialist party for twenty years. I believe in de extra $1 assessment for December and ballot box-dey vill find notting to de contrary, unless dey make it. I have been telling dese boys vat Socialism is, and I will tell dis gentleman, if he vants to listen. I have been helping de cloding vorkers stand together for decent conditions, and I am going on vid it de day I git out again." So that was that!

> And in the evening Bunny phoned to his father and told him the situation. Bunny had been accustomed to sign his father's name to checks, of any size, and had been careful not to abuse the privilege; but now he was proposing to draw fifteen thousand dollars, because they would probably fix the bail very high, in the hope of keeping the old man in jail until the strike had been broken. There was no risk involved, Bunny declared, for Menzies was the soul of honor, and would not run away.

> Dad made a wry face over the telephone-but what could he do? His dearly beloved son was ablaze with indignation, and insisted that he knew all about it, there was no possibility whatever that this old clothing worker might be a secret agent of the Soviet government, deliberately planted in Angel City to destroy American institutions. How Bunny could know such things Dad couldn't imagine, but he had never known his boy to be so wrought up, and finally he said all right, but to have Mr. Dolliver send somebody to court with the money so that Bunny would not get his name into the newspapers again.

What imperialist power ever admitted having any ulterior motive in stealing something?

Despite this inelastic conclusion, however, Thompson found so many flaws in the regime of General (Ivory Soap) Wood, the governor-general, that he could not refrain from commenting unfavorably on his administration. Wood's rule must be bad indeed when such a loyal servant of imperialism as Colonel Thompson is forced to speak out in public and condemn it.

Thompson gave the impression that Wood is administering the affairs of the islands with a gatling gun. The general has surrounded himself with a "cavalry cabinet." THIS brings us to one of the most delicate questions, the crisis in the fascist party itself, a crisis which continues inexorably in spite of Mussolini's efforts. Fascism, having made to express itself, and having made own bosom. On the one side is the large bourgeoisie, on the other the petty bourgéoisie. On the one side gram and the old fascist groups with their old fascist tendencies. On the the other side the so-called corporaa group of bankers, on the other side the group of their opponents. The crisis has developed so far that within the fascist party itself all system of democracy has had to be abolshed. Even in its local bodies the party is directed by functionaries who are nominated by the government The meetings of members have been deprived of all right of action. The crisis, however, is assuming serious forms. At the time of the last attempt on Mussolini's life the two branches of fascism came to an armed conflict with one another in Trieste, which lasted for two whole days and made it necessary to proclaim martial law. In Rome the fascist bands of the opposition made an attack on the ence of the municipalities, the free premises of the police administration.

OUR MEXICAN LETTER

(Special to The Daily Worker)

THE religious question is a thing of time the past so far as the Mexican of Columbus, the catholic church representatives in the United States, against the oil and land laws enacted by the Calles government.

No one that knows Mexico, its inhabitants' religious feelings, doubted that the so-called regulation of the 130 constitutional article would bring some trouble, but at the same time it was understood that the trouble would be more likely to come from across the Rio Grande than from the Mexican church-goers.

ALSO that it would be a fine mask for the government, which was fill out the national chamber of depuitself the only political organization ties with a large majority of the "soin the country, is now experiencing cialist alliance" allied with the Mothe revival of opposition within its rones "labor party," while the true representatives of labor and agrarian parties, considered more radical, were let out, in spite of the fact that some of the new congresssional representathe first three attempts will be fol- pated that within a few months enor- the agrarians and the plutocracy, on tives allowed to get in had not even presented themselves as candidates and a good many of them neither knew the places or districts for which they vere "elected" in Mexico City.

> Otherwise it was a good stunt to be lisplayed as the schismatic catholic church had failed miserably, not havng strength enough to distract the abor movement from its activities for betterment as a class.

> THUS the action of the government I to enforce the church regulations could not bring difficulties from inside, from the Mexican people, for it s well known that religious feeling is trong only in Central Mexico, not being so on the coasts, north and south border states, and the government is powerful enough, as proven in the isolated few cases of fanatics stirred up against the law by the priests in Puebla, Jalisco, Colima, Michoacan and Mexico City, to "placate" them one way or another.

the factors in the Italian situation, THE political situation as outlined above is completely in the hands of the government. Calles is playing present. The so-called alliance of socialist regional parties is an hybrid amalgamation of reactionaries and social reformers a la U. S. fashion. Its core is made up of the former felicista and co-operatista parties that gave place to the delahuertista lost counterevolutionary party and uprising of 1923-1924.

The incoming new national bourpeople is concerned. It was only a geoisie, big and small, the thousands good cover under which Wall Street of army officers and government emcould arouse the anger of the Knights ployes discharged by the Calles regime following his plan of economy to pay the foreign national debts, the bigger part of the army, the peasant masses and the defeated Partidos Coaligades Regionales in the last electoral campaign.

THERE is a third party which will play the villain role in the whole Mexican political film. That is the fully reactionary party with its forces already in line: the catholic church, the big old national land and industrial capitalism and foreign (oil, mines and transport) part of the mercenary officers of the army, at whose head will be General Arnulfo R. Gomez, the fascist militarist candidate of all these powerful reactionary forces for president of Mexico, now commander in chief of the 10th army zone, with headquarters at the port of Vera Cruz.

The most dangerous part of the game could be the case of an alliance of the last-named party with the socialists-laborites combination against the Obregonista party, tho very doubtful, because they will not have the support of the great masses. Moreover, Gen. Arnulfo R. Gomez, an extremely ambitious fellow, would not make an alliance unless he is chosen as candidate for president, and that would be a pretty hard job to fill for the socialist-laborites.

TT is admitted by everyone who knows about politics in Mexico nowadays that there will be a revolution to elect the next Mexican president. Thus we see already as candidate of the Obregonista party in spite of his high official post, General Francisco R Serrano, governor of the federal dis-

But it is understood that he is only a screen for General Obregon, who will step in at the very moment that "the nation needs his services to re store peace" and, consequently, he will occupy the presidential seat for the second time, whether the 1917 constiution has been amended or not.

The socialists-laborites "alliance' will have a tough time to select one candidate to get support from both factions. Their leaders, Campillo Seyde and Morones, are out of the race already.

In exchange there are mentioned the names of Colonel Tejeda, the crafty Calles interior minister, and Denegri, former agriculture minister in the Obregon government, now a Mexican diplomatic representative in

Mexican Trouble Not Religious, Involves Politics and Schools

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 .- The present struggle in Mexico is not religious, but political and educational, declared Carlos Barrea, Mexican author and dramatist, speaking in Town hall here under the auspices of the League for Political Education. The constitution of Mexico, he said, merely did the same thing that the constitution of Electric Companies in Hook-up Test. the United States does-provide for separation of church and state.
