THE contributions to the Keep The DAILY WORKER Fund must be boosted by $3,365 on Monday and Tuesday in order to reach the half-way mark in raising the $50,000 fund to Keep The DAILY WORKER.

The contributions received by The DAILY WORKER during the latter part of last week show a falling off in the work for the Keep The DAILY WORKER Fund. $1,500 was received during the first three days of the week and only $500 for the last three days.

T seems that the supporters of The DAILY WORKER wished to give The DAILY WORKER something to be thankful for before Thanksgiving Day, and let up in their effort to boost the Keep The DAILY WORKER Fund. The DAILY WORKER would have been more thankful if the returns for the week end had kept up to the pace during the first three days of the week.

The DAILY WORKER is still in danger. The work of ralsing the Keep The DAILY WORKER Fund has not gone forward fast enough to overcome the crisis against which The DAILY WORKER is struggling. The Keep The DAILY WORKER campaign has been under way for ten weeks. If the fund had been completed during these ten weeks The DAILY WORKER would have overcome the dangerous financial situation and had a reserve for the future. The fact that only $21,635.89 was raised during these ten weeks has left The DAILY WORKER little better off than at the beginning of the campaign, for deficit during these ten weeks has used up the funds raised.

In order to pull The DAILY WORKER out of this situation the work of raising the balance of the $50,000 fund must be taken up with greater energy. It is only if all the party members and supporters of The DAILY WORKER are mobilized for an intensive drive to raise the balance of the fund during the next months, that we can win the struggle to Keep The DAILY WORKER. THUS far the Keep The DAILY WORKER campaign has been without organized support, except in two or three districts of the party. The prompt organization of Keep The DAILY WORKER committees in every unit of the party and the greatest activities of these committees to organize support for and collect the Keep The DAILY WORKER Fund is the requirement of the

LAUDS FIGHT ON FRAME-UP

"Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!"

A slender figure speaking in the monotonous singsong which is the Chinese language to the American ear, brought to the 3,000 workers assembled in Ashland Auditorium Friday night under auspices of the Chicago conference to protest the legal murder of Sacco and Vanzetti, the greeting and pledge of support of 250,000,000 workers and peasants organized behind the Canton (Kuomintang) government.

Sze Toa Chan, minister of education of the Canton government, in the United States on an official mission, personifying at this great working class meeting the second greatest mass force in the world today, speaking in the name of a government which is the mighty arm of the Chinese liberation movement that already has restored three-fifths of China to its people after wresting it from the world's imperialists, was living proof, given in a dramatic form that the labor movement experiences too seldom, of the globe-encircling sweep of the movement represented by the International Labor Defense.

Perfect quiet, in which one could hear only the words of the speaker and the breathing of one's seatmate, broken finally by the stormiest burst of applause of the evening, was evidence furnished by the audience that without anything other than the simple sentences of Sze Toa Chan it had sensed the tremendous importance to labor of the things he saidand represented.

They realize that they are no longer individuals but that they have come to symbolize the martyrdom of the masses. "They know that their deaths at he hands of the state of Massachussetts will be something of far more mportance than the death of two talian workers. It will be the American labor movement that will go to the electric chair together with Sacco and Vanzetti."

National Conference Endorsed. Elizabeth Gurley Flynn outlined the plans for a national Sacco-Vanzetti conference to coincide with the ruling of the Massachusetts supreme court on the new appeal which, she said, "we know now will simply uphold the decision of Judge Thayer so that the face of the state courts can be saved." JAPANESE WHO KILLED SOCIALIST, WOMAN AND CHILD, IS OUT OF JAIL

(Special to The Daily Worker) TOKYO, Nov. 28 .- After serving but three years of the very lenient sentence of seven and a half years, Captain Amakasu is free. His crime was that of strangling to death, just after the earthquake of 1923, a socialist, his woman companion, and the woman's ten-yearold nephew. He left the prison in disguise, fearing vengeance. His plea in defense at the time of his trial was that he felt it his duty to kill the socialist and his companion, and that he then killed the child as being a witness to the first crime. Captain Amakasu, it is reliably reported, has never heard of the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

The November Meeting of the Central Committee of the Workers Party

In today's issue of The DAILY WORKER we publish the second of a series of articles by C. E. Ruthenberg, general secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party on the resolution and discussions of the Central Committee during its sessions November 10, 11, and 12. These articles should be read by every member of the Workers (Communist) Party and those who are sympathetic to the building of a revolutionary workers' movement in the United States. The articles by Comrade Ruthenberg which started in last Saturday's issue are as follows:

- 1. The Opportunities for Building the Revolutionary Movement. The Achievements of the Workers (Communist) Party.
- Organization of the Unorganized and the Work in the Trade Unions.
- A Labor Party in the 1928 Elections.
- The Reorganization of the Party-A New Weapon for the Revolutionary Movement.
- 6. How to Strengthen the Party.

The Passaic Textile Mill Owners Can Be Beaten

THE mill owners of Passaic, undoubtedly with the advice and aid of their agents in the labor movement, are making strenuous efforts to settle the strike without conceding the right to organize to the great majority of the workers.

We are in possession of information that today the Botany mill will post notices of a ten per cent increase in wages.

Other information which is in line with recent attempts to make a settlement on the basis of organization of skilled workers such as loomfixers and spinners in the Botany mills, leaving the unskilled workers who are the majority of the strikers out of consideration, points conclusively to an extremely unhealthy condition in the official conduct of the strike.

This policy, which would amount in practice to the creation of a separate local union of the United Textile Workers, composed of skilled strikebreakers now in the mills, means to demoralize the strike completely, drive a wedge between skilled and unskilled and to sacrifice the unskilled workers who have been the backbone of the strike, for a union which could be nothing more than a company union from the start.

The offer of a ten per cent increase by the Botany (whose advertisement, by the way, is still carried by the official organ of the U. T. W. and the American Federationist) is an indication that the mill owners have weakened and with the improvement in business conditions in the textile industry, they want their working forces back in the mills.

But they are not yet willing to concede the right to organize and guarantee no discrimination against strikers.

The task of the U. T. W. officials in charge of the strike is Company Refuses to to explain this to the workers, start a new offensive against the millowners by intensifying and extending the strike, and put forward the demands mentioned above.

It is necessary to strengthen the strike lines, see that no stampede into the mills takes place on the part of workers who after ten months of struggle may be fooled by the ten per cent increase into believing in the good intentions of the textile capi-

The move of the British companies is taken as a thrust at their American competitors whose operations are likely to be suspended after December 31, because of the stand they have taken. British interests in Mexico, it must be understood, are no more friendly to the oil laws than the Wall Street interests. But the rivalry between them is sharp and the American companies' holdings are much larger and have offered keen competition to the British. British diplomacy appears to be playing a game of its own while Wall Street is forcing an open fight which is expected to find its echo in the recall of Sheffield when the first denouncement takes place subsequent to Jan.

William Skiora, the shy, inoffensive father of five children, related his experience in these words:

"They took me into a little room in the police station and started to ask questions, and every time I answered. they said I lied, and struck me in the face, knocking out two of my teeth and bruising my face and body with blows and kicks. After a few minutes of this treatment, I don't remember anything Cripple Striker. The story of how young Tony Po chno, once jolly and good-looking, had his nose smashed and his hearing impaired is told by Pochno's strike companions in jail. He, himself, they say, has been a little "queer" ever since the beatings. Pochno was used by the police as a sample for the other prisoners of what would be done to them, if they didn't say yes when the police demanded. Charles Current, not a striker himself, but unlucky enough to have a cousin who is, gives this account:

"In the police station, detectives punched me and kicked me anywhere they could. They did not care what they did. I was beaten up three times. I do not remember anything after that. I don't know what happened then. I did not care what happened to me. I was in this dazed condition for four days.' 80 Cases Pending.

The campaign started by the joint committee for Passaic Defense will raise funds not only for these 11 prisoners, but also for the 80 other cases now pending on appeal, among them the case of Albert Weisbord, former strike leader, now out on $30,000 bail. It will also care for minor arrests which come up daily. and which are a big drain on the union treasury. To date there have been 80 arrests, and $27,063 paid out in fines. Contributions for the defense of the 11 prisoners, and others arrested in the textile strike, should be sent to the headquarters of the joint committee for Passaic Defense, Room 14,743 Main Avenue, Passaic, N. J., Hollace Ransdell secretary.

Leonid Krassin, Soviet 14 ARRESTED BY Diplomat, Able Soldier of Social Revolution

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

L EONID Borisovitch Krassin is dead. Fourteen days of mourning have been declared thruout the Union of Soviet Republics. Thus does the revolution do honor to one of its Bolshevik soldiers.

Krassin died in London, on the field of battle of Soviet diplomacy, where he had helped achieve one of the big "peace" triumphs of the Workers' Republic, the forcing of the proud British empire into the Anglo-Russian trade treaty and the recognition of the Soviet Union. . . .

When the social revolution, born in Russia, failed to spread immediately to other lands, the workers' victory had need of such men as Krassin to meet with the diplomatic agents of the capitalist nations. Soviet diplomacy has been charged by the profit world with trying to compromise Communism, with trying to pave the way for the return of capitalism to Russia. This will no doubt be the theme of the capitalist editorial writers in commenting on Krassin's death. It is well, therefore, to quote Krassin's own views on this subject. He said:

"As we recede from wartime conditions and advance toward reconstruction and peace, we proceed toward a business-like adaptation of our methods to those of real life. WE CALL IT NEITHER GOING TO THE RIGHT NOR TO THE LEFT. Whatever reports we may receive here, I am sure that Lenin will never abandon his Communist principles, but as he is a practical man with a practical mind, he may decide in one matter or another to take a practical course with regard to present-day conditions.'

Thus Krassin sets forth the task of the Soviet diplomat, who, thru carrying on relations with capitalist nations abroad, does everything possible to strengthen workers' rule at home.

It was the late Samuel Gompers, as head of the American Federation of Labor, in conducting his attacks against the Soviet Union, who quoted Krassin, and thus paid tribute to him, to show that the Soviet Union was not being swerved away from the path toward Communism in its dealings with enemy capitalist countries. Gompers, loyal defender of capitalism, issued this "warning" to the Wall Street government at Washington, in his ceaseless struggle to prevent American recognition of the Soviet Union. President William Green, his successor, continues the campaign.

Krassin was always close to Lenin. It was in an article published in May, 1924, in the "Soviet Russia Pictorial" that Krassin pointed out Lenin's attitude on the foreign trade monopoly and concessions under the new economic policy. Krassin wrote:

"With the extension of the new economic policy and the growth of Russian exports of raw materials, a new danger arose. Growing private enterprise in Russia clamored for removal of the state monopoly of foreign trade. The pressure of capitalist interests abroad was in the same direction. The position became very dangerous, and to whom would one turn if not to Vladimir Ilyitch.

"Vladimir Ilyitch resumed the chairmanship of the Council of People's Commissars in October, 1922, but he was still ill. Altho he was confined to his room, he insisted on seeing me. When I had discussed the whole dangerous position, he said in a serious tone, 'We must act.' From that moment I felt that the foreign trade monopoly was saved. He himself studied all the material and wrote a letter giving his views, in the course of which he said:

"'The question is this-is the foreign trade commissariat to work in the interests of the 'Nepmen,' or is it to work in the interests of the proletarian State? This is the important question which must be considered by the party congress.' "We foresaw that if export of raw materials was permitted, there would appear in the villages the worst of exploiters, the speculative purchaser acting as an agent of foreign capital. Our opponents pointed out that we allowed the entrance of foreign capital in the form of concessions. Lenin answer-

"'No such results follow from the concessions, where we not only control the territory but also hold in our hands the trade in the articles which are the subject of the concessions.'

It is necessary to emphasize this adamant attitude of Soviet rule toward world capitalism, on the occasion of Krassin's death, since the whole propaganda of the enemy press has been directed toward spreading the poison that Soviet diplomacy is some form of Machiavellian deception that really works against the revolution and in favor of capitalism. Krassin's whole career as a Soviet diplomat gives the lie to this propaganda. Soviet diplomacy is revealed instead as one of the necessary factors in developing the social revolution and strengthening it in that part of the world, where it has already gained a foothold, while capitalism prevails as an enemy force elsewhere.

Krassin joined the revolution in 1891 while still a student. He was arrested while an undergraduate at the St. Petersburg Technical School and was sent to Siberia. Much of his time thereafter was spent between jail and exile. The triumph of the Bolshevik revolution in 1917 found him in Moscow as engineer for a large concern. He immediately associated himself with Lenin in helping to create the Soviet govern-. . .

He accompanied Lenin and Trotsky when they went to Brest-Litovsk to negotiate the peace treaty with Germany. He became food commissar for the Red Army. As early as May, 1918, the Swedish legation at Petrograd (now Leningrad) began looking for trade with Russia. Later, in 1920, Krassin signed a private treaty with a Swedish Exporters' Association. Similarly the Danish government was active in seeking trade in 1918, and in April, 1920, a private agree ment was drawn up at Copenhagen between Krassin and Danish banking and industrial elements. In 1922, Krassin was elected a member of the central executive committee of the All-Russian Soviet Congress.

Krassin was a member of the Soviet delegation at the Genoa conference, in April, 1922, during which the important Rapollo treaty was concluded with Germany. Other members of the delegation were Chitcherin, Liavinov, Joffe, Vorovsky and Rakovsky. Chitcherin is now commissar of foreign affairs, with Litvinov closely associated with him. Joffe is in Japan and Rakovsky in Paris. Vorovsky was assassinated in Switzerland during the Geneva conference, in which the Soviet Union had been invited to participate.

It was also as Soviet commissar of foreign trade and commerce that Krassin worked to break down the capitalist blockade against the Soviet Union. He visited the various capitals of Europe opening trade negotiations. He became the Soviet ambassador to Paris and later changed places with Rakovsky at London. . . .

The role of a Soviet diplomat in London has been a difficult one. Forged copies of Communist newspapers in the Soviet Union and forged "Zinoviev letters" as instruments of anti-Soviet propaganda, continuous complaints against "Bolshevik propaganda" in India and other treasured British colonial possessions, and lastly the bitter complaint of the British ruling class against the millions of dollars of strike relief sent by the workers of the Soviet Union in aid of the British miners' struggle, have kept the relations of Moscow and London continuously before the workers of the world

Concerning the results of this clash of rising Communism with disintegrating capitalism, we have but to quote again from an attack by Gompers on Krassin, in which the American "labor lieutenant of capitalism" declared:

"There can be no doubt that the Soviet-British trade agreement was a tremendous victory for Soviet prestige, both in Russia and in every country of the world." . . .

Soviet diplomacy is a strong weapon in the armory of the social revolution. Krassin knew how to wield that weapon as an able soldier of the social revolution.

BRITISH, HANDED TO MILITARISTS

Chinese Students Face Murder by War Lords

(Special Cable to The Daily Worker) From Intl. Press Correspondence

BERLIN, Nov. 28. - The Berlin oureau of International Press Correspondence has just received the following telegram from Pekin:

The People's Tribune carries a front page story in its issue of Saturday telling of the arrest by British police In the British concession at Tientsin of fourteen young students all members of the Kuomintang. Following instructions from the British Embassy in Pekin, the students were handed over to the Chinese militarists. This, the Pekin paper points out, is in the present situation cold-blooded murder by the British authorities because they know only too well the fate of the students after they fall into the hands of Chang Tso Lin and Wu Pei Fu's

This deed, the Tribune continues, exposes Britain's real policy in China and is decidedly unhelpful to the lopes of better relations between nationalist China and England. The British ambassador has handed over Kuomintangers to the militarist hangmen, altho their only crime was membership in the Kuomintang party and devotion to the fight for a united, independent China, observes the paper.

The Tribune declares that the only conclusion to be drawn from the incident is that an agreement exists between the militarists and the British for delivery of Chinese revolutionaries into the former's hands.

"Revolutionary China will neither forget nor forgive this deed of England's" says the nationalist organ. It also asks the following questions:

Does England want to destroy the last possibility of an understanding with the new nationalist China? Many Chinese reactionaries have found safe refuge in the British concessions in Hankow, Kiukiang and other cities. what does England say of this? And how will the British government explain its infamous deeds to the British Yangtze and the possibility of connecion with Shanghai being cut off.

Nature is to some extent with the Chinese insofar as the recession of the Yangtze river at this time of the year will not allow the British and American ships of war to operate as far up the river as Wuchang. The last American destroyer, the Pillsbury, has departed from Wuchang to escape the low water. Hereafter there will be no destroyers sent above Wahu. near the top of the Yangtze delta, the farthest point inland they will be able to reach until the water rises again next year.

While the river gunboats of the powers may still operate, they are unwieldy and are confined for more stationary service to ports in which there are foreign concessions. All of which makes the problem of eating for the foreign representatives of European and American capital extremely difficult. The present situation indicates that many of the inland concessions will have to be abandoned.

. . . Hits "Waste Basket" News.

SHANGHAI-That America is exporting, as well as consuming locally. rotten news is implied in an address made here by the former governor of Kansas, Henry J. Allen. He says that the Chinese are being fed with "waste basket" news from the United States, consisting largely of crime, movie rot. sport items, and the outpourings of cheap politicians, giving the Chinese a distorted view of Americanism, disregarding the fact that the service on news from America is a sample of what this country consumes in large quantities. The fault he attributes largely to the prevailing cable rate of 40 cents a word.

He also charged that America is prevented from having radio connection with China by a diplomatic blocking by Britain and Japan.

MILITARISTS OF POLAND WOULD STIR UP TROUBLE OVER VILNA BOUNDARIES

WARSAW, Nov. 28 .- Military jingoists in Poland are attempting to foster anti-Soviet spirit here on account of the reply sent by the Soviet Union to Foreign Minister Zaleska's note on the Vilna border question. The government does not share the feelings of the military and views the Russian note as conciliatory.

The Soviet note declared that Russia does not intend to violate the provisions of the Riga treaty of 1921, but that Soviet Russia and Lithuania refuse to accept the council of ambassadors' fixation of the Polish-Lithuanian frontier in 1923, or their right to settle boundary questions.

The council of ambassadors gave Vilna to the Poles, and the Lithuanians never agreed to this.

Worker Asks for Strap to Hang On

The traction situation is holding a onsiderable portion of the spotlight in Chicago. The situation is complicated by the fact that the twenty-year franchise of the Surface Lines expires on Jan. 31. According to the opinion of many lawyers, the holders of the $165,000,000 in bonds will immediately call for a receivership, since by no stretch of the imagination can a traffic solution be arrived at before that

HOCHMAN FIGHTS PLANS FOR AID OF CLOAKMAKERS

Boston C. L. U. Is Scene of Heated Battle

By a Worker Correspondent. BOSTON, Nov. 28.—Boston Central Labor Union has appointed a committee of 10 to study the question of company unions in this jurisdiction, in connection with a national movement started by the A. F. of L. to investigate and collect data and devise ways Striker Approaches and means of combatting this menace

A request for funds from the Passaic textile strikers received favorable action, and affiliated unions which are yet unaware that these workers have been received into the A. F. of L. will be urged to send in their contributions in aid of the strike.

Commends Cloakmakers. In recommending financial support

York, ex-President Kearney of the C. L. U. added to the motion a commendation of the manner in which the problem, strike had been conducted.

A heated discussion arose on the reading of a communication from the York cloakmakers.

Hochman Shows Colors.

This request was vehemently opposed by Julius Hochman, vice-presicome before the C. L. U. for the pur-

Hochman's purpose was rather control, thru its secretary, to come before the executive committee of the C. L. U. to explain the "Prosanis" label. The joint board of sanitary control is an auxiliary body of the garment workers' union, and when a delegate asked what it was all about Brother Hochman was "Johnny-on-thespot" to explain. And he remained for further business.

Opposes Conference.

When the question of the capmakers' request came up, Hochman got the floor and gave as his reasons for obto such a conference that there ly 7,000 workers now on strike, he does not believe in relief conferences. Then he blew off on his favorite theme against "those outsiders" who seek to disrupt "our beloved trade union movement"-meaning, in this case, the capmakers, the most active and unselfish of all the needle trades unions in Boston.

Miller Answers.

J. Miller, of the capmakers, took the floor to answer what he called Hochman's insinuations and false state-Some of the delegates tried to shut him, off, but others objected to this procedure and demanded that he be allowed to give his side of the story. Miller told how the attempts of the capmakers to organize a committee to make a thoro canvass of Boston unions, in order to secure money for the strikers, had been first postponed, and then ignored by Hoch man, who then proceeded by his own methods, which were deliberately made inefficient, to bring in as little money as possible for the strikers.

Held Down Contributions. "Brother Hochman boasts about the money raised in Boston," said Miller. "but it was not nearly enough, nor what it should have been when, due to the New York strike, the Boston cloakmakers were earning $100 and $150 a week, and were working night and day. Not until the 13th week did the Boston union take any steps to help the New York strikers, and then color. "These tables are all reserved," taxed itself inadequately one day's was the reply they met with on repay. And now, in the 21st week of questing accommodations. Similar inthe strike, there are still 7,000 workers out, and in need of relief."

He said the conference that they expected to organize would have raised many times more than $13,000 turned in by the Boston garment which so cruelly manifests the differworkers. When Miller stated that scab shops had been opened in Hochman's jurisdiction without his preventing it, and challenged him to deny it, Hochman tried to turn Miller's words into a statement that the Boston cloakmakers were scabbing.

Would Have It a Failure.

"I do not wish the delegates to leave this meeting with the impression nate enough to be the victims? Brother Hochman has tried to create. that the New York cloakmakers' strike has been a failure." Miller continued. ure-because it was conducted by the left wing leadership. Yes, and he and the Sigmans have done all they could laying down on the job. Hochman accuses the left wing of capitalizing failures in strikes for their own purposes. And here he is trying to capitalize the so-called failure of the settlement with inside manufacturers. As a matter of fact, those terms are better than his own right wing wished for.'

PRIZES FOR THIS WEEK.

Three books that will be an asset to every worker's library are to be given next week for the best worker correspondence story sent to The DAILY WORKER. The prizes are:

1-ELEMENTS OF POLITICAL EDUCATION, by A. Berdnikov and A. Svetlov. This is a new book of such great value that every worker should have it in his library.

1-POEMS FOR THE NEW AGE, by Simon Felshin. The work of a young revolutionary poet whose verse carries the courageous spirit of the coming new order. Cloth bound.

3-RUSSIA TODAY, the report of the British Trade Union Delegation. Every worker correspondent should send in a story this week.

Workers in every section of the country are eager to learn of conditions in American industry. The worker knows them. We are counting on you, workers, to tell us about them. Send in that story, today!

Negro Problem with Intelligent Outlook

By RACHEL WEINSTEIN. (Worker Correspondent)

NEW YORK .- The question of the Negro as a strikebreaker had become an imminent one. The ranks of the paper box makers were unbroken save for a stray boy or girl who wandered to the striking cloakmakers of New from the line, wavered, but surely came back. See Thru Dark Shadows. However, so far as I was concerned, the days' experiences were of totally different significance. For the first time in my life I came in actual contact with the Negro people. I talked. walked and laughed with them, and was delighted with them. I seemed to have been re-awakened. The people were alive, moving, breathing, not dark shadows on the horizon of my life. We visited one home with a view to obtaining a speaker for an evening performance at a theater. I talked with the lady of the house for a few all-too-short minutes and went away a slave to her charms, her vivid personality. I succumbed completely. Her color, her race, everything was forgotten in the pleasure of her conversation, her presence.

The barrier that formerly loomed so large in my eyes has dwindled awa; to nothing. It no longer exists. Harlem is a vast, comparatively unexplored area. The boys and girls, ostracized for no other reason but that of difference in color, are unorganized, untaught in the matter of workers' solidarity. Employed by unscrupulous manufacturers to break the ranks of their white sisters and brothers, they are fed on poisonous propaganda which eats their minds and hearts and antagonizes them to the point of slashing blindly, at the smallest provocation, at those who attempt to stop them on their way out of the shops simply to talk to them. These, our sisters and brothers, are the innocent victims of a social system so unspeak ably vile, so contemptible, that one stands amazed at the realization of its existence. Sowing to Wind.

Is it any wonder that those lower in the social order and of lesser intelligence are only too eager to take advantage of a strike to come back at us? Is it to be wondered at that our strike is a tool for revenge eagerly sought and unhesitatingly reeked unon those of our boys and girls unfortu-

Milwaukee Railroad Workers to Demand

SCULPTOR IS CONVERT TO PROLETARIAN ART; WORKERS AS MODELS

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 28 .- The new proletarian art has found an ar dent supporter in Max Kalish, a local sculptor. Returning from a trip to Europe, he has exhibited his five latest pieces of sculpture, for which working men posed. He admits that he is now finding his inspiration in overalls. Working men, he says, are as full of grace and beauty as Greek gods.

"In most of my new groups of figures," Kalish says, "I have attempted to carry out by idea that the modern artist, living in an industrial age, must depend on workmen for his subjects.

"The old Greek sculptors found themselves living in an age of sports and games. So it was only natural that they took the athlete for their subject.

"Today we are living in an industrial age. Consequently I can find more beauty of form in the laborer than the ancient sculptor discovered in the athlete."

Besides completing Bunny's political education, this incident was important to him in another way; it was the cause of Vee Tracy's taking over the management of his life. Ross senior got the moving picture lady on the telephone that very evening, and he said, "Look here, Vee, you're laying down on your job!" "How do you mean, Mr. Ross?"

"My name is Dad;" said the voice, "and what I mean is that you're not taking care of my son like I wanted you to do. He's been a-gettin' into trouble with these Bolshevikis again, and it's all because you don't see enough of him."

"But Mr.-Dad-I've been trying to make him study-I thought that was what you wanted."

"Well, you forget about him studying, that's all bunk, it ain't a-goin' to do him no good, and besides, he don't do it; he jist goes off to Socialist meetin's, and he'd better be with you." "Oh, Dad!" There was a little catch in Vee's voice. "There's nothing I'd like better! I'm just crazy about that boy!" "Well, you take him under your wing and keep him there, and if you can get him loose from these reds, I'll remember you

So after that Bunny found that he could have a date with his beloved at any hour of the day or night. She never told him the eason-no, her idea of truth-telling did not go that far! She et him think it was because of his overwhelming charms, and nis male egotism was satisfied with the explanation. She would nake feeble pretenses at resistance. "Oh, Bunny, Dad will think 'm wasting your time, he'll call me a vamp!" And Bunny would answer, "You goose, he knows that if I'm not with you, I may be off at some Socialist meeting!"

They were so happy, so happy! The rapture of fresh young souls and fresh young bodies, eager, quivering in every nerve! Their love suffused their whole beings; everything became couched with magic—the sound of their voices, the gestures of their hands, even the clothing they wore, the cars they drove, the houses they lived in. They flew together—the telephone girls were overworked keeping them in touch. Bunny became what in the slang of the time was known as a "one-arm driver"; also he studied the arts of cajoling professors and cutting lectures. His conscience was easy, for had he not done his duty by the Socialist movement, with that "one grand" of Dad's? Besides the strike was over, and the clothing workers had won a few concessions; the leaders had been released, and the promised "Moscow revelations" forgotten by the newspapers, and therefore by everybody else Vee would still not let Bunny come to the studio where she was working. For the next picture, perhaps, but not this one; he and his Bolsheviks wouldn't like it, and he must put off seeing it as long as possible. But all the rest of her time was hisevery precious instant! The elderly housekeeper received a five dollar bill now and then, and was deaf, dumb and blind. Vee's room in the bungalow was upstairs, the only second-story room, open on all four sides, and with ivy wreathing its windows; inside it was all white, a bower of loveliness. Here they belonged to each other; and tears of ecstacy would come into Vee's eyes. "Oh, Bunny, Bunny! I swore I'd never do this; and here I am, worse in love than I ever dreamed! Bunny, if you desert me, I shall die!" He would smother her fears in kisses; it was a case for the application of another old saying, that actions speak louder than words! There was no cloud in the sky of their happiness; except just one little cloud, no bigger than a man's hand! Bunny did not see it at all; and the woman saw it for an instant or so, and then looked the other way. Oh, surely the rose will bloom forever.

XIII The hands of destiny, turning upon the face of the movie clock, had brought Vee's hour of glory again. The great picture was ready, and once more she was on all the billboards of the city: "Schmoslky-Superba presents Viola Tracy in the twelve reel Superspecial, The Devil's Deputy, Million Dollar Heart Drama of the Russian Revolution." The scene which ornamented the billboards disclosed Vee, as usual with her lingerie torn, crouching the arms of the ineffably handsome young American secret service agent, and the agent presenting a revolver to a mass of tangled black whiskers, behind which hideous foreign faces lurked. Also there was publicity in the newspapers, columns and columns about the picture, the authors of the book, the continuity man and the director and the writer of the titles and the artists and the decorators and the costumers and the musicians; but most of all about the star. Was it to be expected that the pub-Set Up Restaurant licity man should drop no hint to the reporters about the fascinating young oil prince who had now become Miss Tracy's most intimate friend? It had been expected by Bunny, and maybe by Dad, but assuredly not by anyone else. The reporters laid siege to the young oil prince, and sweet, sentimental sob-sister ladies sought to lure him into revealing how it felt to be the very, very dearest dear friend of such a brilliantly scintillating star of the movie heavens. One day it was rumored they were engaged to marry, and the next day they were not; and if they said nothing, the reporters knew what they ought to have said. And when Bunny would not give his picture, they snapped him on the street and when he turned his face away, they gave it a jolly caption: 'Oil Prince Is Shy!'

No Time to Lose

There is no time to lose in the fight for the lives of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti. This becomes very apparent as the judicial proceedings, that have stretched over the last six and one-half years, now appear to be moving more rapidly. The usual "court's delay" has given way to new energy in pushing these two workers, innocent of the charges against them, into the electric chair and to movement, thru its absorption and be-

Three plans of fighting the master class in its determination to commit this murder of workers have been approved as follows:

First:-The sending of a mass delegation of trade unionists to visit Governor Fuller, of Massachusetts, and demand his interven-litical action. The problem which the tion against the perpetration of this frame-up.

Second:-The holding of a National Sacco-Vanzetti Congress in New York City some time in January.

Third:-Urging the demand for a congressional investigation of the activities of the department of justice in the Sacco-Vanzetti with the Communists. The resolution

All of these proposals are good. Workers everywhere should agitate in support of them.

The Detroit convention of the American Federation of Labor voted in favor of this proposal. That was as far as the convention would go in the fight for the prisoners. It must be made to go the limit, however, on this proposition.

Congress meets next week for its short term. It will adjourn early for the holidays. It will reassemble in January and then rush thru its work in order to adjourn March 4, when its term expires. There are only a few weeks, or it would seem days, during which to get results.

The American working class does not yet realize the importance and the significance of the Sacco-Vanzetti case. Labor does not feel the threat to its interests involved in this frame-up. An ably presented statement of the case forced upon congress will help warn in Saturday's DAILY WORKER-Ed.). all labor of the danger. Even the kept press will be compelled to stressed the necessity for struggle lift its embargo of silence.

The congressional investigation is therefore important. It should be realized, the quicker the better. The time to get to work energetically on this phase of the Sacco-Vanzetti case is today.

EDITOR'S NOTE: - This is the second of the series of articles on the November meeting of the central committee, announced in The DAILY WORKER last Saturday.

N the first article on the discussions and resolution of the November neeting of the central committee the question whether there were opportunties for the development of the revoutionary movement of the workers and building the Workers (Communst) Party in the period of great imerialist development of American apitalism and capitalist prosperity. vas answered in the affirmative by an analysis of the situation of the Ameran workers. The concrete proof that his analysis is correct is to be found n the achievements of the party in proadening its influence among the workers during the past year.

The collapse of the labor party rayal by the LaFollette progressive ovement, resulted in the temporary solation of the Workers (Communist) Party, which was the leader of the lass movement for independent polparty faced was the formulation of hose policies and tactics which would again enable the party to establish ontact with the masses of workers and draw them into common struggles f the central committee establishes he fact that the party has important achievements to its credit in achievng this end. The resolution declares

"In spite of the period of capitalist prosperity the Party is breaking its isolation and has succeeded in broadening its influence and increasing its prestige among the masses of workers.
