WASHINGTON, March 15 .- Asserting full control over radio despite its lack of funds and equipment, the new federal radio commission today started machinery to rule on who shal broadcast to the nation's 20,000,-000 listeners.

Chief steps taken were: Arrangement of a series of public hearings in Washington from March 29 through April 1 on methods of elimstations. Action on these applications will determine what stations, and how many, shall be permitted to sur-be subjected to recommendation by a district radio inspector before coming to the commission.

Sidetracking of 18.000 amateur and ship radio stations by indefinite extension of their licenses, leaving the commission free to grapple with broadcasting.

ANTI-IMPERIALIST DELEGATES FORM PERMANENT ORGANIZATION

The article printed below is part of a series written by the delegate of the All-America Anti-Imperialist League to the Brussels Congress Against Colonial Oppression and Imperiolism. The congress was made up of delegates from anti-imperialist organzations, peace societies and labor unions in the European, American and other imperialist nations, from labor bodies and nationalist organizations in the colonial countries, and from subjugated "the labor-smashing tuctics of Musraces even in countries with full sovereignty.

Important resolutions were passed, for the practical carrying on of the work of freeing conquered peoples from their slavery. A survey of the work of the congress and the personalities attending, which have made it one of the great events of this era, will - be found in these articles.

Borno U. S. Hireling President Borno of Haiti and his foreign minister, Leon, issued a warning to King not to come near the place, after the American senator had exposed them as mere pawns of th American marines. The government of Haiti is notoriously under the control of American sugar, tobacco, and financial corporations, with the U.S. navy actually running it in the interests of American exploiters.

Borno's action, therefore, and the U. S. state department's unwillingness to interfere, are alike branded by observers here as a mere hypocritical slap by the Coolidge administration at its critics.

William Green's Pledge to Kerensky.

Kerensky's visit and public activities have served to throw some additional light on the attitude of the leadership of the American Federation of Labor toward the workers' and peasants' government of the Soviet Union, to show that this leadership is not merely negatively opposed to the government of the Soviet Union but that it is prepared to join hands with its enemies in a campaign against it.

Kerensky is here to raise funds and is being piloted by A. J. Sack, long active as an enemy of the Soviet Union and a one-time close associate of Bakhmeteff, the czarist ambassador who held Ceral Secretary of the Workers our most outstanding organizers, and hold Comrade Ruthenberg as an exforth in Washington and grafted on the Soviet Union funds held (Communist) Party of America and from 1919 to the end of his life he emplar, what a true revolutionist Main Street of antiquity is Amytis, illegally by New York bankers.

Enter William Green, president of the American Federation. According to the New York Herald Tribune, Green called on Kerensky and gave him, in the name of the A. F. of L., a pledge of sympathy and support.

As reported in the Herald-Tribune, Green said:

The American Federation of Labor will support in every possible and legitimate way those elements in Russia that are striving to free Russia from Bolshevism as they freed her from czarism and will lend particular sympathy to the creation of a free and independent labor movement.

THE CAPITALIST PRESS IS FRANTIC

THE New York Times voices its perplexity at the deep L emotion shown by the tremendous throngs which poured out to the Ruthenberg Memorial Meetings. It chides the workers for not showing greater devotion to such men as Senator Carroll, for instance.

It is this devotion to the revolutionary cause, this wonderial spirit of self-sacrifice, which is the driving force behind our movement. The capitalist press, with all its wealth, with all its resources, with all its hired talent and other advantages, cannot stimulate, and carnot enlist that unstinted devotion which the workers feel for The DAILY WORKER. No amount of publicity or talent will secure this asset for the capitalist press. The worker even though he buys a particular sheet buys it with the same amount of sentiment as he displays toward a cake of soap. The worker who buys The DAILY WORKER does so with a feeling, that it is HIS paper, flesh of his flesh, and blood of his blood.

The Ruthenberg DAILY WORKER Sustaining Fund is the expression of this sense of devotion and loyalty which our readers feel for The DAILY WORKER. In very tangible form it is a concrete indication that the readers of The DAILY WORKER look upon the paper as their own organ. in whose maintenance and success they are vitally interested. The Ruthenberg DAILY WORKER Sustaining Fund will be a unique monument to Comrade Ruthenbery as well as a tribute to the fact that there is a newspaper in the United States which has succeeded in mustering the whole-hearted and unstituted support of the workers.

Fur Joint Board Wants "Rank and File" Trial

The persistent refusal of the reac-tionary officials of the International Fur Workers' Union and the A. F. of L. Investigating Committee to hold a public hearing on the charges made against members of the New York Furriers' Joint Board, is ample proof that these charges are false, so Ben Gold, manager of the Joint Board, states in a letter sent yesterday to the International's General Executive Board.

"Although these right wing officials loudly announced that they had proof that the furriers had given graft to the New York police during last year's strike, they have never dared bring us to trial on this or any other of their clumsy, frame-up charges," said Gold. In his letter he accuses the officials of fearing "an exposure of your treacherous acts," if the facts were told in public; and he challenges them to try the Joint Board before a committee of the rank and file.

Expulsion Illegal.

Gold's communication also points out that the constitution of the International Fur Workers' Union states that "no local can be expelled except by the convention itself," yet on March 2nd the officials simply announced that the locals were expelled CHICAGO LABOR DEFENSE BAZAAR TEACHES and the Joint Board dissolved.

Gold also points out the hypocrisy of the International which brings, as · reason for expulsion of the Joint Board officers, the charge that they relinquished during the strike the dethe right wing well know this was relinquished by them and President Green when they tried to negotiate a settlement of the strike behind the backs of the Strike Committee and the workers

Ruthenberg, Agitator, Showed Labor's Knuckles to the Capitalist Class

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

C. E. RUTHENBERG was an agitator among the workers. He seized upon every opportunity to spread a belief in the principles for which he struggled, in the ranks of the working class. . . .

Ruthenberg, for instance, took great pride in a scrap book that contained numerous clippings from various issues of Cleveland's capitalist newspapers of many years Here were the memories of his early days in the ago. revolutionary movement, when he had written "letters" to the capitalist sheets, that they had published, stating the socialist position on the issues before Cleveland's workers at that time. These "letters" covered a multitude of subjects, but they always struck at something that was engaging the attention of labor at that particular moment, and they brought results.

Ruthenberg's scrap book also contained numerous clippings from the socialist publications of that time, of carriages . . . the cursing of team-English and foreign-language, but especially the Chicago Daily Socialist. Some of them were announcements of meetings. Others told of routine party activities. But most of them told of party campaigns that were being waged in the Ohio metropolis, and attracting attention.

Better Pugilists for Congress By WILLIAM PICKENS.

WE have been wondering what to do with our ex-W prize fighters. SEND THEM TO CONGRESS. Harry Wills and Jack Dempsey could certainly make themselves better "felt" in that august body than can the type of representatives whom we have been sending there, and who seem not so able to hold their own in the great fist-debates on the floor of that body.

Let us send better athletes to Congress. It would not be an unprecedented thing: for in 1832 Abraham Lincoln, then 23 years of age, "qualified" for his first po-litical race by winning a wrestling championship. In that year he out-wrestled Jack Armstrong, Champion Wrestler of the Frontier, and ran for the General As-sembly of Illinois, on the strength of that achievement. This started his political career.

When Charles Sumner, of Massachusetts, was debating the question of Negro suffrage, some of the "gentlemen from the South" who were opposed to it, came forward with hickory sticks to uphold their end of the debate. But now, since "the gentlemen from Texas" and "the gentlemen from New York" have decided to use only the old-fashioned fist, we should nominate and send up our finest in the next congressional elections: like Dempsey, could not be in doubt. It might be well to make Tunney the president of the Senate, to insure general order. When a fellow is being nominated for any position, we ought to consider the qualities which best fit him to fill that position: today in the Congress of the United States we need stout arms, heavy fists and hard skulls.

We hear that the democrats and republicans are considering the opening of training camps, to prepare fit candidates for the championship go of 1928.

THE LOW- DOWN ON THE STATUE OF LIBERTY: AN INTERVIEW

By Jake, the Demon Reporter

Miss Liberty is a tragic figure, and no insult intended. Under her hard unruffled surface there beats a heart in anguish.

Her career has been a mistake from the beginning-she was never cut out for the role. Her instincts are all the other way. In her old age-she came to these shores exactly fifty years ago and she was no chicken when she got here-she is friendless, forgotten.

For the first time in her long dull life she consented to lay bare her soul to a reporter. Hers is a case of wrong vocation: the lady on the pedestal never meant the kind of liberty that's been tied to her. On the contrary, she got her notions in the land of her birth, France, and first put them into practice in Paris.

"I am shocked," was her first remark, "that anyone should bother to interview me. Nobody cares-

"But-" your reporter, who is something of a steeplejack, tried to reassure her as he settled on her under lip.

"Yes, I know, I know," she interrupted. "My picture is on postcards and on the joker in the poker deck. They've got me worked into ash trays, fancy needlework, the masthead of the New York World and any number of trade-marks and advertising displays for candy, laxatives and what have you. I know that my name is mentioned an average of 3,485,008 times annually in July Fourth, Rotary, Kiwanis meetings and the like. I know that there is some vague reference to me at liberal tea parties and the like. But what about menot my picture or my name, but myself?"

"You mean-" exclaimed your reporter, who has what amounts to a sixth sense in delicate matters touching upon female psychology.

"Exactly," she ejaculated happily, "I knew you would understand. Have you ever been to Paris? Anyhow, what I mean, honey, is that I am a woman after all. Jake, tell them out there that in the name of liberty they have made a prisoner of me. Let them try to imagine, if they can, the horror of being stuck up in the middle of the bay, thinking, thinking, thinking . . . while the breezes waft hither the sounds of jazz bands, booze parties, revivals, debates on monogamy and other forms of entertainment! Was it for this I came all the way across the ocean-and travel wasn't so interesting then, dearie. Nothing then to match the stolen the streets of Cleveland.

Capitalism tries to belittle the influence of the Communist agitator. The New York Times declares, in speaking of what it terms the "exaggerated notion of the strength of Communists in the United States." that "the events of the last few years have shown that their (the Communists) power has waned, despite the skillful efforts of Ruthenberg to fan race as well as class hatred."

This editorial utterance is out of harmony with the previous declarations of The Times, in practically the same column. It was The Times that ridiculed the arguments of James Oneal, appearing in his most recent attack on the Communist movement, that the forces of Communism had been considerably weakened. Oneal had arrived at his conclusion by the processes of arithmetic. Although mathematics is an exact science. The Times, in its previous issue, argued that even figures may lie and replied to Oneal accordingly.

Oneal had compared the membership of the Communist Party with the numbers that paid their dues into the socialist party, which mounted to more than 125,000 previous to the war. But The Times said the Communists, the members of the Workers (Communist) Party, were more skilled, energetic and zealous in carrying on the work for Communism than had previously been the case with the membership of the socialist party. Members of the Workers (Communist) Party, therefore, it pointed out, count for more than the type of membership that had been enlisted under the prewar banners of the socialist party.

This is merely saying that the spirit of Ruthenberg. whereas that same spirit had been bitterly opposed in the socialist ranks, wherever it expressed itself.

It is that same spirit that develops and grows within the broadening left wing of the American labor movement.

Ruthenberg, the agitator, was successful in his strugrie for Communism. This is shown in part by the fact that the reaction denounces practically every left wing and opposition movement, no matter in what organization of the workers it is found, as Communist and Bolshevik. It is an admission by labor's enemy that the class struggle is developing and growing on that this overexpansion has been re- will enable the resulting trusts to getting them promptly? the side of the workers, and a confession of fear that this overexpansion has been re- will enable the resulting trusts to getting them promptly? He plugs one end of a long coil of heavily insulated wire into the radio box and attaches the other to his ear phones, which he wear inside his diver's helmet. Before descending Paige funes in a favorite station, then climbs down the ladder. "It works and work.

romance on ships nowadays. Sure I overhear things as the big liners pass.'

"Then why," the reporter queried as he mounted higher to observe a far-away dreamy look in the old girl's eye, 'why did you come?'

"Are you sure you can keep a secret, Jake?" she asked. Before the kind-hearted reporter could stop her, however, she told all. Luckily it is unprintable, which saves the reporter, who is getting thirsty, the job of writing it.

The gist of her confession was that she had to leave Paris. She left, indeed, under a good-sized cloud. She had carried her ideas of liberty a lot too far, even for Paris.

"No, no," she exclaimed, "it wasn't the July Fourth brand. It was the kind-well, its the kind the moral turpitude clause is all about. I came to conquer, full of French wiles-and look what's happened to me! Oh hell, it's just like you Americans to import something foreign and to misunderstand it completely."

After which she sighed, endangering the life of your reporter who luckily has nine of them, and asserted, or at any rate said:

"It's terrible, terrible! One must be made of iron to stand it."

"Of bronze, lady, of bronze," the reporter corrected her gently and jumped into the bay.

Add to the White Man's Burden .- The principal trouble is that savages there isn't any static either," is his enthusistic report, aren't grateful. They don't know what they're missing and don't seem to Photos show Paige "tuning in" and descending to his care. We bring them civilization on a golden platter, but they just sniff and turn away. Take, for example, the situation in Liberia. There's the Firestone Rubber Company anxious to spend about $100,000,000 in that part of Africa. The Department of Commerce gives this picture of Liberian ingratitude:

"With an uncivilized population of at least 1,500,000, it would seem reasonable to suppose that many thousand laborers might ultimately be obtained for plantation work. ... Practically all their meager wants are supplied by their own initiative. To induce any considerable number of them to change fully their present mode of living would require great diplomacy on the part of the employers wishing their services.

"Engagements of gangs are made, as a rule, for six months, beyond which period it is difficult to induce the men to remain. When, therefore, it is borne in mind that only toward the latter part of their term of service do the laborers begin to understand or display any aptitude for the somewhat specialized work they are often called upon to perform, it will be seen that the efficient discharge of their duties can only be looked for during the latter portion of their period of engagement. On the arrival of a new gang everything connected with their instruction must be begun all over
