SACCO - VANZETTI JUDGE IS HEARD ON BIAS CHARGE

Thayer Faces Com. On Prejudice Charge

BOSTON, July 12.—Judge Webster Thayer, who presided at the Sacco and Vanzetti trial and who has been charged with prejudice by well-known newspaper men and writers, was called for examination yesterday and appeared before Governor Fuller's advisory committee.

The sessions of the committee are being held behind closed doors and none but witnesses and their counsel are allowed to enter.

Thayer was called before the committee to answer to the repeated charges of unfairness and prejudice made against him by impartial observers.

Thayer refused to talk on leaving the committee room and those who were in with him at the same time also declined to speak.

The committee, which consists of Dr. Howell, president of Harvard; Dr. Stratton, president of the M.I.T., and former Judge Grant, called in William G. Thompson, chief counsel for the condemned workers and Professor James F. Richardson, of Dartmouth College, who wrote one of the affidavits in which he charged that Thayer was guilty of "gross prejudice." Others who were called were Dudley P. Ranney, assistant district attorney and a public stenographer.

While the advisory committee was carrying on its investigation yesterday Fuller was hearing evidence. Witnesses were presented to the committee by William G. Thompson and cross-examined by Ranney, district attorney.

PEKING REPORTS CHIANG KAI-SHEK ATTACKS HANKOW

PEKING, July 12.—Chiang Kai-shek, appears to have changed his plan of military campaign, according to reports reaching here.

Nationalist troops which had pushed forward are now reported withdrawing towards Nanking with the Northern armies reoccupying points along the Tientsin-Pukow railroad.

Chiang Kai-shek is reported to be concentrating his armies for a drive against Changsha and Hankow where military preparations against him are under way. Several transports bearing Nanking troops are already against Nanking.

Attack Chiang Kai-shek.

WUHAN, China, July 12.—General Chiang Fa-kui has marched to the borders of Kiangsi in his advance against General Chiang Kai-shek. The advance was undertaken under orders of the Wuhan (Hankow) government. Chiang Fa-kui's army has been maneuvering in the center of Honan province. It is the best equipped and best trained portion of the Wuhan government's troops, and has been nicknamed "The Iron Army."

Near Kiukiang General Chu Pei-teh is advancing steadily against Nanking. There are persistent rumors that many sections of Chiang Kai-shek's army are in mutiny, following the discovery of the common soldiers that he has turned adventurer like the militarist generals he opposes.

The most important mutiny is said to be of the troops in Shanjiang province.

White Guards in Tsingtao.

TSINGTAO, July 12.—Three armored trains with Russian white guards, mercenaries in the pay of the Northern warlord's coalition have unjettied at Kiao-Chau, and are opposing the troops of General Chiang Kai-shek. The harbor here is now held by the fleet of Chang Tso-lin, altho his ships are reported on the verge of a mutiny. One airplane was brot into port by the cruiser Haienci, and is flown over the city and surrounding country for "moral effect" on the villagers. Two thousand Japanese soldiers are arriving today, sent from Dairen, and they will raise the total under arms here for Japan to about 5,000.

U.S.S.R. Calls Workers Against Capitalist War To Defend Soviet Union

MOSCOW, July 11.—The second Defense week in the U.S.S.R. opened with a renewed warning from President Rykoff, Chairman of Labor and Defense, to the workers of the Soviet Union not relax their vigilance in preparing for defense of the Republic and the Revolution in the face of the imminence of a capitalist offensive against Russia.

"Whoever is not a member of the Red Army said Rykoff, must join the ranks of the Osoviakim (the central organ of defense) and be ready to rise to the defense of the Union. Every worker must know how to use a rifle, how to deal with gas attacks and how to strengthen the defense of the country."

AGRICULTURISTS' CONFERENCE SAYS COOLIDGE UNFAIR

Condemn His Veto on Farm Relief Bill

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 12.—Senators, representatives, republican and democrat, united their voices with those of other representatives of the American and the Minnesota Councils of Agriculture here in condemnation of President Coolidge for his attitude towards farm relief. Resolutions embodying their sentiments are being drafted.

President Partial.

"The president," said Senator T. H. Caraway of Arkansas, "says to enable the farmer to get a fair price for pigs would be class legislation; therefore he vetoes the bill designed to aid them, and with the same pen signs a declaration that raises the tariff 50 per cent on pig iron."

Representatives L. J. Dickinson and Gilbert N. Haugen of Iowa, the latter co-author of the McNary-Haugen bill, stressed the condition of the farmer, and urged the principles of the vetoed bill as the only satisfactory solution offered.

Representative Dickinson declared that if satisfactory farm relief legislation was not passed by the Seventieth Congress next Winter, "farm relief will become the major issue of the 1928 campaign."

Many Delegates.

Delegates representing fourteen states were present. They applauded every stinging rebuke, and there were many of them, administered to the head of the government. Coolidge has seldom been so unanimously spanked by any public meeting, and political observers take considerable interest in the fact that Coolidge's strength is said to lie with the farmers especially. If the dirt farmers feel the way these representatives do, Cal, they say, will probably be moving his iron horse out of the White House.

Coolidge Insulting.

The McNary-Haugen bill was a weak form in which to administer relief to the farmers, but it was at least a gesture in that direction, is the opinion of most of the farmers. The cold and insulting way in which Coolidge vetoed it astonished and angered both those who were enamored of its glittering phraseology and those who "saw thru" it. Both alike are convinced that Cal Coolidge means nothing good for the farmer.

Smuggle Drugs By Plane.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 12.—Essex county authorities were confronted today with what they believe is a new wrinkle in drug running. Investigating mysterious nocturnal visits recently of a huge amphibian airplane, Sheriff Close has believed that the ship is bringing narcotics to this vicinity.

Ferry Boat Crash.

Two municipal ferry boats plying between Brooklyn and St. George, Staten Island, collided in the harbor during a dense fog today but no one was injured and the damage was limited to $500, according to municipal ferry officials.

Only a comparatively few passengers were aboard both ferries.

Guard the Daily Worker Fund Launched by Management Committee

The grave charges launched against The DAILY WORKER and the members of its staff by the Federal Grand Jury, initiated by powerful patriotic societies, and officially heard before Judge Anderson in the United States District Court yesterday, has compelled the Management Committee to act upon the serious situation, which the paper is confronting.

We place this situation frankly before the Party and its sympathizers. The fact that members of our staff are facing penalties of twelve years each, or fines totalling $20,000 in all, or both, and that the paper faces a revocation of its mailing privileges by the Federal authorities, means that we are facing a life end death struggle for the right to maintain the paper. Proceedings in the Federal Courts are highly complicated and therefore involve a heavier legal expense, than do the lower state courts.

The DAILY WORKER Management Committee is conscious of the fact that we are facing not an ordinary prosecution, but rather an attack which is an integral part of the present capitalist offensive against labor, and the present preparation for a new World War. The Management Committee calls the attention of the Party and its sympathizers to the fact that not only a few patriotic societies are involved in the attack upon The DAILY WORKER, but that the entire weight of the Federal Government and the capitalist class of this country will be brought to bear in the effort to destroy completely labor's most effective weapon against the Open Shoppers and War Mongers.

The DAILY WORKER Management Committee has therefore decided to launch the Guard The DAILY WORKER Fund with which to meet the powerful assault being made against it. The Guard The DAILY WORKER Fund will be floated by means of One Dollar Certificates, which are being sent to all subscribers and to Party units. This fund will be used for the defense and maintenance of The DAILY WORKER in the face of the present attack against it.

Management Committee calls upon all Party units and friends of The DAILY WORKER to meet the attack against our paper with all the enthusiastic support, which the gravity of the situation demands.

DAILY WORKER MANAGEMENT COMMITTEE.

40-Hour Week Fight Will Soon Be Won By 400 Capmakers

The struggle of the 400 capmakers who have been fighting for the 40-hour week for the last few weeks is going forward towards victory. A meeting will be held today, 2 p. m., at Beethoven Hall, East Fifth St., where the latest developments will come up. Conferences are being held between the union and the contractors' association while several unofficial talks have also been held. It is believed that it will not be long before the bosses give in to the workers' demands. A settlement is in prospect because more than 1,300 workers have already obtained the 40-hour week in this city as well as elsewhere and it is not possible for the small group of about 60 bosses to fight for any length of time under those conditions.

Zukor Defies Federal Mandate to Quit Anti-Trust Law Violations

Adolph Zukor, president of the Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation, issued a statement this afternoon commenting upon the recent federal trade commission order in which the commission instructed the company to discontinue an alleged conspiracy between the Famous Players and others in violation of the anti-trust laws. "The commission's order, if sustained by the courts, will have to be dealt with by the entire industry," said Zukor. "And therefore no change in our existing policies is contemplated at present." Zukor said he was glad to find that the commission's investigation, began in 1921, reveals that the only existing business practice to which the order applies is that of "block booking." The block booking (sales method) Zukor asserted, "is peculiar in the industry."

NEGROES HERDED BACK TO SLAVERY IN FLOOD REGION

Waters Ruin Their Crop and Increase Debts

OPELOUSAS, La., July 12.—Utter incompetence in the handling of the relief for the most serious natural disaster that has ever overtaken the United States, plain failure to do anything to save the farmers standing on levees and looking out over their ruined crops and houses rotting away in the waters still spread over the southern Mississippi valley, is the opinion of all in the flooded region.

Hoover's Interest in Credit.

Herbert Hoover came down with a great flourish of trumpets, and journeyed about the flood waters on a government launch, promising much. But once he had perfected his machinery for controlling the credit of the government and that based on private funds, he lost interest in the people of

TRY TO IMPLICATE MARTELLO AND NUOVO MONDO STAFFS IN MURDER

Fascist Detectives, Federal Agents Unite to Build Up New Sacco Case, but Fail

After subjecting fourteen anti-fascist workers to the third degree, Italian secret service agents working in conjunction with United States department of justice operatives, yesterday failed to implicate those arrested with the murder of two fascists who were killed in a street brawl on Memorial Day.

The workers arrested were C. Cancillero, Luigi Quintiliano, M. Buzzi, Antonio Aloia, Joseph Alteri, Mario Tresca and several others. Mario Tresca is the brother of Carlo Tresca, world famous writer and anti-fascist.

Arrested D'Arnico.

At the Il Martello offices, failing to find V. Vacirca, the editor, they arrested a clerk, L. D'Arnico and continued the raids.

Later the agents went to Brooklyn where they arrested Domato Carrillo and Cologero Greco, who are being held as material witnesses in the alleged murder of two fascist "squadristas" supposed to have been killed by anti-fascists on Memorial Day.

"Planted" Weapons.

Employing the usual "planting" tactics, the police claim to have found two revolvers and four dirks on the Il Martello offices.

Those framed with the "violation" of the Sullivan law are Mario Tresca, editor of Il Martello and Luigi Quintiliano, a secretary.

SPIES' FORGERIES USED AGAINST U.S. S.R. RECOGNITION

Fake Evidence to Senate Against Soviet Union

MOSCOW, July 12.—The spy accused of having forged documents used by the state department of the United States against the demand for recognition of the Soviet Union was today sentenced to death on charges of espionage and forgery of alleged state documents. The doomed culprit is Sergius Drujelovsky, who confessed after exposure to a whole series of forgeries against the Soviet Union on behalf of various imperialist governments.

Used Against Senator Borah.

At a time when the Idaho senator, William E. Borah, had forced the Coolidge administration into a position where it had no arguments against the recognition of the Soviet government, the state department under Kellogg produced forged documents concocted by this same Drujelovsky purporting to show that the Soviet Union was conducting Communist propaganda in the United States.

The prisoner was also guilty of foreknowledge and complicity in the Sofia bomb explosion in a cathedral, having forged a document a month before as a part of the plot, which forgery was used to exile and murder a large number of Bulgarian communists who were entirely innocent of the outrage.

Spy a Weak Character.

The defense attorney, while pleading guilty for the spy, tried to plead extenuating circumstances on the ground that Drujelovsky was a weak character who could be persuaded to engage in such low practices, without knowing the effect of his deeds, and their definite counter-revolutionary purpose. This plea was ignored by the court which declared that the spy was fully aware of his crimes.

Silent On Accusations.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Inquiry at the state department regarding the revelations in Moscow of the spy, Drujelovsky, failed to evoke any response. None of those at the offices would talk for publication on the matter and one of the staff resented questions implying that Kellogg had used forged documents in his attack upon the members of the senate pressing for recognition of the Soviet Union.

Monday's raids are reminiscent of the Palmer and Burleson raids in 1919 when Salsedo, the anarchist, was taken for "questioning" to federal headquarters in the New York post office building and was later found dead on the sidewalk below.

The U. S. secret service agents admitted that they were working in conjunction with the Mussolini agents under orders of the Italian Ambassador in Washington, Giacomo De Martino. They said that the raids were part of an international plot to wipe out all opposition to the Mussolini dictatorship.

Instead of being taken to the Tremont avenue police station in the precinct where the fascists were killed, those seized in the raids were taken to the Highbridge station, which is an out of the way section of the city.

Third Degree.

Of the fourteen arrested, seven were afterwards released and the other seven held as "material witnesses, who were subjected to third degree torture.

WOULD IMPEACH JACKSON UPON KLAN EVIDENCE

Dragon's Confession to Be Published Serially

INDIANAPOLIS, July 12.—Impeachment of Governor Ed Jackson through a special session of the state legislature it was learned today is the object of a group headed by Boyd Gurley, Indianapolis editor, and Thomas H. Adams, Vincennes publisher, who started the present political probe, it was learned today.

This group has obtained possession of thirty-two documents bearing upon the reported connection between Governor Jackson and other political notables and D. C. Stephenson, former political czar of Indiana, now serving a life sentence in the state prison for the murder of Midge Oberholzer of Indianapolis.

Will Publish.

Day by day the alleged documents will be published, with a view of so arousing public opinion that the members of the legislature will demand they be called in special session.

The spotlight in the political probe has shifted from William H. Remy, Marion County prosecuting attorney, and his aides, to this group. There is no indication that the Gurley-Adams forces will yield their alleged evidence to the prosecutors.

Force Remy's Hand.

"There is no connection between this office and whatever investigation Mr. Gurley is conducting," Remy said.

Remy would not say whether he would take steps to obtain the 32 documents, which Lloyd O. Hill, Stephenson's attorney, said are in possession of Gurley.

Asked whether a court order would be necessary to garner this data, Remy replied that it might be obtained on a subpoena of duces tecum, but would not say whether he would use such a legal weapon.

Klan Launches Fight on Al Smith

WAR ON AL! About 300 Klansmen in full regalia attended meeting at Pillar of Fire Church, Brooklyn, at which Mrs. Leah F. Bell, head of women's auxiliary of the order in New Jersey, spoke on "Why Al Smith Cannot Be Elected President of the United States"

South Africa to Fly Union Jack With Own Flag as Empire Link

General Herzog, South African Premier, who came back from the Imperialist Conference shorn of all his thunder and meekly subservient to the British Empire, is taking it out on the Union Jack.

In the debate on the flag bill he thundered against the small British section which, he said, insisted that South Africa must be dominated by the Union Jack. But said Herzog, South Africa was as free as Great Britain, and was as free to have a national flag. The Bill would go through, he stated, in spite of General Smuts and his few die-hards.

The proposal of the Labor Party that the Union Jack be flown with the national flag "as a link with the Empire" is an interesting commentary on the unclass-conscious character of this body. The proposal was carried.

Arrest 30,000 in Year For Breaking Booze Law

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Despite the fact that the hip-pocket toters and home brewers virtually were un-molested by the Federal Government, prohibition arrests in the year ending June 30th, reached a new high record of nearly 30,000. It was announced today.

Federal agents arrested 20,000 more persons than the year before. A majority of those apprehended were accused of major violations of the law, including conspiracies against the government, smuggling and big bootlegging operations.

Several international smuggling and bootlegging rings were put out of commission and their leaders sentenced to jail. Reports at the close of the year, however, indicated that many big bootlegging corporations are still in existence. Administrators here for a week's conference, have been informed that serious problems confront the enforcement machine in the next year.

More than 2,500,000 gallons of whiskey, wine, cider and malts were seized by the federal authorities, a considerable decrease over the year before, although captures of boats and automobiles were heavier.

A survey of enforcement showed that the average fine for persons convicted in the federal courts was $150 and the average jail sentence 140 days. A majority of those arrested were convicted. The best record for the percentage of convictions was made in the Chicago and Montana districts.

Needle Trade Defense

Have You Made Your Appointment? Have you made your arrangements for Saturday evening? If not, act immediately. Get your crowd together for the great open air concert, under the wide canopy of the heavens, with the stars shining down. Those with experience know quite well the extra pleasures to be derived from group companionship at such an affair. Buy your tickets at once, otherwise you may fail to get seats together with your friends. Tickets are $1 for general admission and $2 for reserved seats. In case of rain the concert will be held the following night Sunday July 17th.

Workers Club Buys 400 Tickets. The members of the Coney Island Club know what a treat it is to be at an open air concert in the Coney Island Stadium. They also know that thousands and thousands of persons will be there and it will be difficult to obtain tickets at the last moment. The Club therefore, obtained 400 tickets from the Defense Office in order to assure their members and friends of seats. This is a very wise move—first, because it guarantees a seat to each member of the Club, and secondly, the Club helps to dispose of hundreds of tickets.

It is not too late to follow the example of the Coney Island Workers Club if you act quick.

The Executive of the Coney Island Workers Club also decided to donate $200 to the Joint Defense Committee. Although their treasury is empty they decided to borrow the money, give it as a donation to the defense and pay it back in weekly installments. At a meeting called to discuss this decision the members enthusiastically approved and decided to raise the money at once. $185 was realized. The members who were not at the meeting will also be visited and instead of the $200 pledged they will try to make it $300.

$50 At Graduation Party. An appeal for the Defense at a graduation party in the house of Brother Rench in honor of his niece, brought a collection of $50. M. Hein forwarded $5 to the Defense.

More Vacation Money. A check for $106.25 was received at the Defense Office with the following letter:

"Dear Comrades—We are in the mountains on our vacation, but have not forgotten that you remained in New York to continue the heroic struggle against the betrayers. We feel that your struggle is our struggle and while we cannot be with you on the picket line, we send this contribution as a symbol of solidarity. We take this opportunity to extend our heartiest thanks to all those who contributed, and to the management of 'The House of Joy' for their kind cooperation in helping to make the collection. Fraternally, M. Greenstein, Kaufman, S. Pecker, Gladstein and Rothenberg."

There are many other class conscious workers who are at present on vacation and they must not forget the brave struggle that our brothers are waging. Make collections in your hotel or camp and forward it immediately to the Defense Office.

Rock Island, Ill. Twenty-eight dollars with the following letter from a group of sympathizers of Rock Island, Ill. was received at the Defense Office. "Heartiest greetings to you brother Furriers! Although we are not connected with you on the economic field we are in the fullest sympathy with you. Your fight is justified and you must win. The Truth is on your side, therefore your victory is assured."

This is another example which shows that the fighting furriers are not alone in their struggle. Mrs. Lena Weinrib and Mrs. Moskowitz were active in raising the $28.00.

Carpenters and electricians who have any leisure time are asked to come into the Defense Office immediately. If you are the lucky possessor of an automobile you can be of great help to the Defense this week.

Expert Negro-Baiter Loses Treasury Job; Replaced by New Job

WASHINGTON, (FP) July 12.—Rejoicing of District of Columbia Negroes over the forced resignation of Harley V. Speelman, registrar of the treasury, has been tempered by the appointment of another Republican white politician to take his place. Speelman was appointed to his executive position over employees of the treasury department by President Harding and ever since has been a source of embarrassment to Coolidge by his enthusiasm for segregating white and colored workers.

His first act was to shift colored workers to the top floor of the treasury building where he put them on the whites with a board. Even the elevator service was arranged so there would be no contact between the races, the colored clerks reporting and leaving 15 minutes earlier than the whites. Segregation reached its apex when Speelman unveiled a 'jim crow' and a white memorial tablet for department employees who had lost their lives in the world war. White workers joined the protest, leading to the destruction of both tablets and the erection of a single bronze plate. In the following Coolidge Economy, Speelman invariably fired more Negroes than whites until the department's colored proportion sank to the lowest level in a half century.

Appointment of Walter Wood of Kansas, a Republican white politician, brings little satisfaction. Under all previous administrations, the position of registrar of the treasury has been filled with Negroes as one of the few political plums awarded them for faithfulness to the Republican party.

Cuban Government Stages Red Raids to Prevent Strikes

HAVANA, July 12.—The Cuban government, in response to demands of the American sugar, tobacco and other trusts having interests has begun an offensive against the labor movement by wholesale arrests of Communists. The slave drivers fear that the sugar cane crop will be endangered unless the demands of the workers are met and so the government pretends to have "discovered" a plot against itself.

Fifty-seven Communists are under arrest in Camaguri and Regla and some 100 or more have been arrested and held incommunicado in Havana. No specific charges have been filed against the prisoners, as Cuban law permits the holding of prisoners on open charges for a period of seventy-two hours. Meanwhile the houses and headquarters of Communists are being burglarized by the police who are stealing tons of literature and fixtures.

Civil Wage Increase Carried in Committee Over Poincare's Will

PARIS, July 11.—The Poincare Government suffered two defeats today in the Finance Committee of the Chamber on the question of an increase in pay for Government employees. An amendment to increase the original proposal for an expenditure of 600,000,000 francs to 900,000,000 francs was carried by a vote of 14 to 8 over the bitter opposition of the Premier.

A provision that the 1928 budget surplus be applied to this sum was opposed by M. Poincare with equal fervor, but he was again defeated. It is expected that the open discussion in the Chamber on Wednesday will be the setting for a severe struggle on this question. There was more than a covert warning in the Premier's statement to the Committee that continued opposition to his policy in this matter would result in his leaving "to others the responsibility of destroying the budget equilibrium."

KELLOGG AGAIN ATTACKS CALLES FOR OIL TAXES

Two More Secret Notes Sent to Mexico

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The fourth message from the Kellogg branch of the Coolidge-Wall Street administration at Washington has been dispatched in secrecy to Washington. This fact became known today when the State Department began to bustle, and issue simultaneously underground rumors to this effect and open declarations that the department had "nothing to say."

The rumors, evidently well authenticated, are to the effect that the note is really two notes, one of which accuses the Mexican authorities of not already hanging somebody for the death in a bandit raid of Arthur Brewer, an American capitalist in Guadalajara a short time ago, and the other criticizing the Calles administration for withholding a drilling permit from an American oil company which permitted its rights to lapse as a protest against paying the tax demanded.

The case of the Transcontinental Oil Co., about which it is supposed the state department at Washington has written to the Mexican government has been under consideration by the Mexican Minister of Commerce, Industry and Labor, Louis N. Morones for some time.

Sheffield Criticized. MEXICO CITY, July 12.—The newspaper "El Universal Grafico" not a pro-Calles organ, sharply condemns the resigning American minister Sheffield for his conduct of his office here, for the insulting tone of his communications with the Mexican government and for his open association with aristocratic elements hostile to and at times in open armed rebellion against the Calles administration. It also criticizes the administration for not being socially friendly with the staff of the American ministry.

American Firm to Survey Coal Basin For Soviet Union

Technical surveys of the Donetz coal basin, in Soviet Russia, are to be made by an American engineering firm preliminary to the spending of about $20,000,000 by the Donogul Coal Trust. The trust is the Russian state enterprise developing the property.

"Throughout the U.S.S.R. there is a great admiration over our rapid industrial and technical progress," states Charles E. Stuart of Stuart, James & Cooke Inc., the American engineering firm. Stuart has been negotiating in Russia. Much of the equipment for the Donetz development will be purchased in the United States, Stuart experts.

Stuart expresses his surprise at stories published outside of Russia on alleged disorders and uprisings in that country. "Aside from patriotic parades of citizens, life there was normal and orderly to all appearances," he says.

German Press Demands Rhineland Evacuation

BERLIN, July 12.—Immediate evacuation of the Rhineland by French and Allied troops is urged by the German Press in fulfillment of promises made to Germany at the time of signing the Locarno Treaty, nearly two years ago. The occasion for reiteration of this request is provided by the announcement that Germany has fulfilled the demand of the allies that she destroy her eastern fortifications, and has passed the "war material" law required by them.

The "Berliner Tageblatt" points out that all peace treaty conditions have now been carried out, and the evacuation of the Rhineland must now take place as a matter of right, and that any evasion or refusal will constitute a breach of contract on the part of the allies.

The Press in general takes the position that, having fulfilled her obligations, Germany has the right to demand that the allies look to the fulfillment of theirs.

Survey Wages, Hours of Machine Shop Workers

WASHINGTON, (FP) July 12.—Unions in the machine trade hope to gather valuable information for their organization work from the scheduled survey of wages and hours in foundries and machine shops, to be undertaken by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The survey will be completed by the end of the year after taking samples of statistics in shops employing 125,000 workers. The principal states to be covered are Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Who Am I? One of the main attractions on the excursion will be the great "Who I Am" contest. All the "I am's" will be there, we hope. Lake Michigan is deep and wide.

The Doubting Thomas.

Sam Hammersmark had the toughest job in his long public career trying to sell a ticket to Paul Simonson, who did not remember having ever heard of Michigan City until he was informed that several wrestling exhibitions were given there. Paul would just as soon fight as sneeze.

Bathing Suits in Heavy Demands for Big Chi. Excursion

CHICAGO, July 12.—Excursionists to Michigan City, Indiana, on Sunday, July 17 are urged to buy their tickets in advance, on pain of getting a ducking in Lake Michigan.

This is the threat voiced by Sam Hammersmark who is charged by the Workers (Communist) Party with engineering the excursion which is expected to bring considerable shekels into The DAILY WORKER treasury.

The excursion will leave Goodrich Docks, Municipal Pier at 9:30 a. m. sharp and will return at 7 p. m. This is one of the most popular outdoor sports in the Windy City. On the most sweltering dog-day, cool breezes fan the waters of Lake Michigan and music will charm the savage breasts of the most serious comrade. There will be dancing, singing and impromptu entertainment. As far as that is concerned nobody need worry about fun. Where there are hundreds gathered together in the name of Pan and other equally popular gods of ancient vintage there should be no dearth of hilarity.

Strangers Will Be In Town.

A contingent from Los Angeles passing thru the city on their way to New York were induced to stop over for the excursion. The Chicago is not a provincial, one-horse town by any means, the natives are always glad to entertain outsiders.

Another attraction is free bathing, but the daring are warned that they must bring their own bathing suits, otherwise they can only have a dip over Hammersmark's dead body.

"In conclusion," said Sam to the representative of The DAILY WORKER, "make it as emphatic as possible that tickets must be paid for in advance and bought in advance, otherwise my name may be added to the list of those who have laid down their lives in behalf of great causes."

Three German Fliers To Rival French Ace In Trans-Atlantic Hop

BERLIN, July 12.—The reported imminent flight of the American war profiteer Chas. A. Levine from Europe to America under the pilotage of the French ace, Drouhin, has excited similar plans among the Germans.

Herr Udet, also a war ace, tho on the German side, has been stirred to rivalry, and wants to try the stunt in a Rohrbach multi-motored plane. Koennick, also a war flier, is willing to try in a Rohrbach plane. Professor Junkers of the Junker Corporation will give a single motored plane from his factory to Schnebele, a German flyer of experience in the Asiatic flight last year for an Atlantic hop.

Freight Train Derailed. JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 12.—Officials of the New Jersey Central Railroad here reported that a freight train was derailed about thirty miles from Wilkesbarre, Pa., today blocking the tracks and holding up traffic west.

FORD KNEW ABOUT ATTACKS ON JEWS SAYS EX-EDITOR

Cut in Sales Caused Ford Conversion

Despite his denials, Henry Ford not only knew about the articles containing vicious attacks on the Jews, but actually ordered them. This is the evidence submitted by E. G. Pipp, a former editor of the Dearborn Independent, which will appear in the American Hebrew next Friday.

Aspirant to the presidency and hoping to gain votes in backward communities, Ford had the articles published, Pipp says. "When Ford first launched the attacks on the Jews," he declares, "he was a candidate for the presidency of the United States—firmly so in his own mind. He figured that the prejudice in small communities thruout the United States was so strong against the Jews that he would gain three, four or five votes for every Jewish vote he would lose."

Ford's sudden reversal of his position is ascribed to the rapid inroads made in his sales by the General Motors, which is engaging in a titanic struggle with the Ford Company for control of the automobile market. The recent decline in Ford's production has led to sudden benevolence toward the Jews, it is stated.

Boston Street Car Men Win Six-Day Week But Suffer Big Pay Slash

BOSTON, (FP) July 12.—Winning a 6-day week for the first time, 4000 union Boston street car men have taken with it a wage cut. Hourly rates have been increased 2 1/2 an hour, but the higher rate leaves weekly pay about $5.16 short of former earnings.

Motormen and conductors, one-man car operators and bus drivers and 100 miscellaneous employees are affected by the new agreement. The basic rates for motormen and conductors is 75 cents an hour with the increase. This is the second consecutive year the Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Railway Employees has dealt directly with the Boston Elevated Co., instead of resorting to arbitration as previously.

Hunt Murderers of 8 In Chicago Booze Feud

CHICAGO, July 12.—Heavily armed detectives tramped the streets of "Little Italy" today in an effort to halt the feud that has resulted in the death of eight Italians within the last twelve days.

The heavy police guard was thrown into the district last night after the latest victims, Viviani Blandina and Caspar Alagna, had been shot to death, the men were neighbors and friends.

Police believe all eight recent slayings can be traced back to the Vendetta which originated when the Genoa gang of alcohol peddlars was in its prime.

3 Die In English Storms.

LONDON, July 12.—Only three deaths have been reported as the result of the terrific rain and thunderstorms which swept Lancashire and other sections of England last night.

Thirty families were driven from their homes when the Mosshead Reservoir broke after four hours of steady rain. Rescue work was carried out under the greatest difficulty.

The London-India cable service has been disrupted by severe storms in the Black Sea.

NINE ARRESTED FOR DEATH OF IRISH MINISTER

New York Priest Says Ireland Is Lucky

DUBLIN, July 12.—The Free State police have arrested nine men on suspicion of being involved in the execution of Kevin O'Higgins vice-president of the executive council of the Irish Free State foreigner minister and minister of justice.

O'Higgins met his death last Sunday while walking in the vicinity of his home.

Among those who condemned the execution of the man who was directly responsible for the shooting of 77 Republicans was Eamonn De Valera, head of the Fianna Fail faction of the Republicans.

George and Kellogg Condo. King George of England and Frank B. Kellogg, secretary of state for the United States sent condolences to Cosgrave and to the O'Higgins family.

A new side light on the ferocity of the dead man's character was shown when it was revealed that Rory O'Connor the man he sentenced to be shot by a firing squad for opposing the treaty with the British empire left his entire fortune to his executioner.

While none are ready to openly express jubilation over the death of the "Irish Mussolini" there is general relief that he is at peace with the world. The people were fearful that this man would suddenly let loose his murder squad and take another blood bath.

Commenting on the execution of O'Higgins, the Rev. John H. Dodey, pastor of the Church of Corpus Christi, at 535 West 121st Street, felt it to be his spiritual duty to hope that the soul of the dead man would not suffer for the sins of his own and went on:

"But at the same time we must feel that it is to Ireland's benefit that he has gone. The Christians in Rome must have felt a relief at the death of Nero, and this is an incident that brings the same feeling. The recent elections caused the fear, no doubt, that O'Higgins would be placed in charge of work similar to that done by our Attorney General in this country, and his power was feared. "This man, who is held responsible for the killing of fifty or sixty young men who dared to defy his power, was held to be nothing less than a Nero and, no doubt, the feeling ran rife that Ireland was in for a reign of terror. He was known as a merciless person; hundreds of persons have fled for their very lives, to this country because of the fear with which they held O'Higgins. I do not think there will be any political effect, but I do think that sheer fear caused this group to determine to kill him as the only means of safety."

U.S.S.R. Appoints Anna Borisovna Goldfarb to Be First Woman Censor

MOSCOW, July 12.—Anna Borisovna Goldfarb, age 28, has the honor of being the first woman censor in the Soviet Union, and in the world. Miss Goldfarb was appointed on temporary duty during a month's leave of the regular censor, and began her duties on last Wednesday, assuming the full responsibilities of the position.

The U.S.S.R. once more takes first place in permitting its women to function in places of honor and responsibility on an equal footing with men, having set the precedent in the appointment of the first woman Ambassador, Mme. Krilontai, first accredited to Norway and then to Mexico.

Miss Goldfarb has been Press Secretary at the London Embassy for the past two years. She has also had five years training in the Soviet Foreign Office and three as personal secretary to Theodor Rothstein, Director of the Press Department.

Hate Campaign of 'Daily Mail' Booms Sale of Soviet Oil

LONDON, June 26 (By Mail).—The campaign of Lord Rothermere and his reactionary "Daily Mail" against the sale of Soviet oil in England, has proved a boomerang. Not only have the sales shown no falling off, but, on the contrary, the Russian Oil Products Company announces that the 31.3 million gallons of Soviet oil imported for the six months ending April, 1926, has grown to 62.5 million gallons for the six months ending April, 1927.

The "No Soviet Petrol Sold Here" campaign has defeated its own end in bringing the Soviet product to the attention of thousands of new consumers. "The present flood of publicity would cost tens of thousands of pounds if we had to buy it," said a representative of the R. O. P. "Without doubt, a continuation of the 'Daily Mail' campaign will cause the rate of increase to be more than maintained in the future."

Lord Bearstead, Chairman of the Shell Transport Company, which has retailed in the neighborhood of 500,000 tons of Soviet oil in Britain since 1921, at 2 shillings a gallon, now speaks of it as "stolen" oil. He is not the only oil profiteer who is discomfited by the fact that the Russian Oil Products Company has succeeded in bringing retail prices down from 2s. a gallon to the present price of 1s. to 1s. 6d. a gallon.

Negroes Herded Back to Slave In Flood Region

the flood. When their land dries out, Hoover's string of "credit corporations" agents will see that the farmers pay thru the nose for every cent they borrow to rehabilitate their fortunes, and that is all there is to that.

Certain southern senators have shouted for an extra session of Congress to donate money to the flooded regions; but even these have grown quieter lately—the farmers observe that many of them are now connected with Hoover's "credit corporations" and become cynical over the prospects of Congress doing anything that will hurt business for the money lenders.

Poor Suffer Most.

The blow is heavy on the great plantation owners, but these at least can take a mortgage on their property and plant and rebuild. The blow is crushing to the tenant farmers, most of them Negroes, who have seen their crops wiped out, who have nothing to pledge for seed or farm stock, who find the planters chalking up their debt higher and higher, and sinking them deeper into the mire of peonage because of the disaster.

Negroes Suffer Most.

These Negro tenants have a woeful tale to tell. When the flood came down upon them, they were saved last. The white landlords and their kind, the white business men of the towns in many cases saved their live stock before they saved the colored worker's wife and child. In the refugee camps, the whites had whatever comforts there were. The plantation owners hunted down "their" Negro tenants and sequestered them. If any tried to escape, they were pursued with all the powers of the law, and haled back to their levee prisons, where many still abide, fretting, sick, starving, hopeless, and forever unable to escape the pressure of the debts that the flood has added to, and which in the South, despite laws and constitutions, mean slavery for the Negro farmer.

Construction of a New Line of Electric-Transmission From the Volkhovstroil Hydro Station. In Leningrad the new air line of the Volkhov electric-transmission has been begun.

This new line is being constructed to relieve the main Northern sub-station and to be able to supply Leningrad uninterruptedly with electricity from the Volkhov station should there be any accident to the cable.

In this manner it will be possible to electrify completely all works of the Moscow-Narya district, the "Krasnyi Putilovetz," "Krasnyi Treugolnik" and others. Moreover, by instituting a branch line for electric-transmission at the Sapernaya station the complete electrification of the Izhora works will be possible.

All the orders for the electric-transmission line, and for the Southern sub-station are placed with Soviet works (Sevcable, Izhora works "Marty" works). The plant for the Southern sub-station will be made by the GET. (State Electrical Trust). The construction of the new electric-transmission line will cost 1,700,000 roubles.

The First Electric Combine. In connection with the construction of the Maritz district electric station in Kursk, interesting work is being done in order to create a model electric-combine, the first of its kind in the U.S.S.R. This work is on the following lines:

It is impossible to utilize in the "Karl Liebknecht" sugar refinery the steam used in the process of sugar boiling much more effectively than has been hitherto the case. With the help of the turbine-generator it is possible to convert a considerable part of the heat energy into electricity. This will provide the Maritz electric-station with cheap energy. (at 3 kopeks per kilowatt-hour whereas its own energy costs 7.5 kopeks). This question has already been decided at headquarters and 1,550,000 roubles have been assigned to organize the combine.

Moreover, through the organization of the electric combine it will be possible to electrify 11,000 peasant farms. The Central Agrarian Bank has already granted 440,000 roubles for this purpose. Power will be obtainable from the electric combine next autumn.

Growth of Oil Production. At the end of the last half year 414 oil springs were exploited as compared with 400 at the beginning of the year; 1,429,303 tons of oil were produced in 6 months—103.9% of the half year's or 50.3% of the full year's programme. 1,314,604 tons of oil have been refined—98.2% of the programme. In connection with boring operations 92% of the programme has been carried out as to area and 94.5% as to rapidity of operations. The year's programme will be carried out to the full. The sale of Naphta-products is increasing; during the last half year 235,000 tons were sold compared with 226,000 tons during the whole of the preceding year.

Work in connection with the construction of the Grozny-Tuapse oil circuit is in full swing. In the current year 9,856,000 roubles is being spent for its construction. An initial instalment of 6 million roubles has been assigned for the construction of oil works in Tuapse. Preparatory work has started on the Black Sea coast for the construction of an oil distilling battery, cracking plant, an electric-station and a settlement with 150 dwellings.

Oil By-Products. Preparations are made in Grozny to open paraffin works capable of producing 30,000 poods of paraffin, one million poods of asphalt tar and 1,400,000 poods of distilled machine oil annually. A cracking plant producing 1,250,000 poods of benzine will soon be opened. Mechanization and rationalization of production have resulted in economizing millions of roubles per year. In May the construction of an electric station has begun, which, when it is finished, will provide electricity for the entire Grozny enterprise.

The number of permanent workers during the half year has increased to 14,174, an increase of 4.2%. Five hundred and twenty-two Chechentsi (a native tribe) have been drawn into the process of production.

Big building operations are being carried on for the erection of dwellings to accommodate over 1,000 people.

The orders placed with the British firm of Vickers for plant for the new works and industry to the amount of four and one half million roubles, will probably be transferred to America and other countries. However, delivery of Naphta products to Great Britain on the strength of previous contracts continues and will be continued.

Coal in the Donetz Basin.

In the Don coal-mines 93,200,000 poods (pood equals 36 lbs. avirdupois) of coal and anthracite were produced in May, an increase of 6 million poods compared with the April production. Average daily production in May amounted to 3,700,000 poods against 3,600,000 poods in April.

Five Years Plan of the Development of the Moscow Industry.

The above plan provides for an expenditure of 300,000,000 roubles for reconstruction and new construction. It is proposed to spend 100,000,000 roubles for the construction of new factories and works, 164,000,000 roubles for the reconstruction of enterprises, 42,000,000 roubles for office repairs, etc.

The plan provides for the construction of 41 enterprises in the course of 5 years.

In the textile industry it is proposed to build up during the next three years, three weaving mills for 3,700 looms, several spinning mills with altogether 376,000 spindles, 2 wool spinning mills for 14,000 spindles and one wool cleaning mill for 47,000 spindles.

In the metal industry it is proposed to build works for the manufacture of textile machinery which will require 2,050 workers, and cost 7,000,000 roubles, a tool factory for 618 workers, which will cost 3,600 roubles, an electrical appliances factory for 550 workers, a bicycle factory for 235 workers and a works for the production of equipment for transport within factories, to employ 750 workers.

In the basic chemical industry it is proposed to build one oxygen works to employ 100 workers and 1 super-phosphate works for 150 workers.

In regard to the chemical fat industry, it is proposed to build 6 works: soap boiling, margarine, hydrogenation works, a scent factory, one glue factory, and finally, a heat-power station for new soap-boiling and bone-dressing works.

New Factories in the Dnieprstroil District.

The presidium of the Supreme Economic Council of the U. S. S. R. decided to provide for the planning of some factories to be built in the Dnieprstroil district. The administration of the Dnieprstroil will have to submit a detailed plan by January 1st, 1928, on the economic possibilities of the Dnieprstroil as a whole.

The presidium of the Economic Council also approved of the decision of the administration of the Dnieprstroil that a sluice be constructed to permit river navigation, and the plan to build two-storied railway bridges each with double tracks. The administration of the Dnieprstroil was instructed to work out the problem of constructing two dams and hydro stations in the lower Dniepr and to establish a sea route from the above the Dniepr, etc.

It has been decided to set up in connection with the Industrial Economic Management of the Supreme Economic Council of the U. S. S. R., a special commission to deal with the problem of the Dnieprstroil as a combine, including all questions connected with this problem in the five years plan of industrial development. To this work the workers of the Dnieprstroil are to be drawn in. The plan of industrial development based on energy from the Dniepr will have to be so fixed that the newly-built factories should be ready to start when the Dniepr station will begin to supply power.

Italian Protestants Face New Inquisition in Catholic Crusade

ROME, July 12.—A new crusade against the Protestants of Italy has been started by the Union of Catholic Men of Genoa, "Osservatore Romano," the Vatican organ, publishes a document today wherein a demand is made for the suppression of all Protestant newspapers, clubs and schools, and calls on the government to wage war "against the numerous Protestant propagandists paid by foreigners." The government is especially urged to investigate the activities of the Young Men's Christian Association.

The Protestants are accused of spreading "heresy" among the Italian people, sowing religious dissension and disrupting the Italian Catholic tradition.

Under the Italian constitution, religious liberty is guaranteed, and it is feared that if the crusade becomes sufficiently powerful, it may involve an amendment to the constitution and usher in a new Inquisition.

Thousand Die as China Flood Sweeps Villages

SHANGHAI, July 12.—More than one thousand persons have been drowned and extensive losses of property, crops and cattle have been occasioned by floods in the King Hsien and Hsian Shan districts, following the breaking of Dykes in South Anhwei, according to reports received here from Wu Hu.

Waters ten feet deep are reported devastating villages along the river.

Tag Day Fixed to Aid Soldiers Wounded in Fight for Free China

In response to the cabled appeal of Mme. Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the International Workers Aid, Local Chicago, will conduct a collection on July 23rd.

The funds raised will be used to purchase bandages and other medical needs for the revolutionary Chinese wounded soldiers who because of lack of these supplies are undergoing unspeakable suffering and hardships. In some instances hundreds have died in agony, who would have been saved from a torturous death if sufficient bandages, disinfectants and other medical requirements were plentiful.

All those in sympathy with the Chinese Revolutionary movement are urged to volunteer their services on Saturday, July 23rd, so that a substantial sum may be raised for the Chinese Revolutionary soldiers. All those desiring to help are urged to report to one of the stations listed below. International Workers Aid, 1553 W. Madison Street, Room 803; 19 S. Lincoln Street; Rovnost Ladu, 1510 W. 18th Street; Freiheit, 3209 Roosevelt Road; Ukrainian Hall, 1532 W. Chicago Ave., Vilnius, 3116 S. Halsted Street; Book Store, 1806 S. Racine; Russian School, 1902 W. Division St., 2409 N. Halsted Ave.

If you cannot give the entire day a few hours will be appreciated.

HIT AMSTERDAM REFORMISTS FOR LABOR BETRAYAL

Moscow Daily Exposes IFTU Bankruptcy

MOSCOW, July 12.—Referring to the report of the activities of the Amsterdam International for the last three years, Trud, the organ of the All Central Council of Trade Unions points out that the reformists are unable to record any substantial achievements.

The deficit in the balance of the budget, Trud says, illustrates the political impotence of the International Federation of Trade Unions.

Oudegeest Fights Labor Unity.

Referring to the proposal union of the Red International of Labor Unions and the Amsterdam International, Oudegeest in his report advances the following arguments against negotiations: That verbal negotiations are impossible as long as preliminary common views are not formulated in writing. (This argument Trud remarks is especially convincing on the part of reformists who are striving by all means for unconditional agreements).

Secondly, Oudegeest says, the differences between the Amsterdam International and the Red International of Labor Union are so profound that they cannot easily be reconciled.

In reference to this Trud remarks that despite Oudegeest's denial, he had actually stated that the Amsterdam's only principle consists in the full freedom of national organizations affiliated with it. Amsterdam easily overlooks open strike breaking activities on the part of its members and remembers the purity of its principles only in regard to revolutionary trade unions, Trud says.

Expose Reformist Hypocrisy.

In the third place Oudegeest warns that the Amsterdam International will not be able to undertake any serious steps without first receiving the sanction of the next congress. This admonition was written in September, 1924 while the next congress is due to meet in August 1927.

Oudegeest makes the following charges against the All Union Central Council of Trade Union: In issuing the manifesto to world workers on June 7, 1926 the U. C. C. T. of U. criticized the General Council of British Trade Unions, which in Oudegeest's words, irritated Arthur Pugh, chairman of the congress.

"The third charge and the one which best illustrates the corruption of the leaders of the Amsterdam International refers to the relief sent by the workers of the Soviet Union to the striking miners of Britain and shamelessly tries to convince the trade union movement that millions of roubles were given to the miners 'for the sole purpose of propaganda,'" says Trud.

The workers of the Soviet Union helped their British brothers because they considered the struggle internationally important; a victory for the miners of Great Britain would have been a victory for the workers of the world.

"The miners of Great Britain know," Trud continues, "who helped them with money and with propaganda and who broke the struggle by sabotage and anti-proletarian propaganda."

Oudegeest's attacks don't hit the Soviet trade unions as much as they expose the reformist leaders who are helping international capitalism in its attacks against the workers throughout the world."

Turkish Writer Hailed Into Court for Heresy

CONSTANTINOPLE, Turkey, July 12.—Turkey is having her first heresy trial. The defendant is Saad Manem, one of Turkey's most beautiful women and a well-known author. She is being tried in the Stamboul Court.

Utterances of the heroine in her latest novel that religion is more harmful than opium and that all prophets are charlatans brought the novelist into court. One section of the code under which she is being prosecuted provides a penalty of from two to six months' imprisonment for ridiculing religion.

Mexico's Educational Progress Lauded Even ByMasonic NewsBureau

WASHINGTON, July 12 (FP).—Mexico's educational advance wins the praise even on the Scottish Rite News Bureau, a Masonic service which has shown great interest in the southern republic since President Calles' religious difficulties. Calles' program for 5,000 rural schools, 2,000 of which have already been established with 1,000 more scheduled for this year receives the Masons' cordial approval in articles which it broadcasts to all magazines of that order.

"Mexico is alive with educational enthusiasm," the Scottish Rite Bureau quotes approvingly. "In fact the country is in advance of ours in having a national university, to which students are invited from all over the world. American teachers and students are especially solicited to come to study in this 'laboratory of international friendship.'"

22,000 Headstones

Twenty-two thousand headstones of Italian marble are being sent to France to mark the grave of the American soldier boys who lost their lives in the last World War.

The war-mongers and munition manufacturers are thus unconsciously calling again to our memory the last blood bath of 1914.

Our memories are still fresh to the days of the last World War.

The twenty-two thousand dead, who lie buried in France and the thousands upon thousands of others who have been mutilated for life in the last world slaughter, are still in our minds.

So keen is this memory, that the new Daily Worker Army of 1927 has determined that never again will capitalism be permitted to launch another such bloody war.

We have determined that instead of 22,000 headstones, we will build a stronger and bigger army of Daily Worker Readers, equipped with the necessary weapons of knowledge and fighting spirit, to successfully prevent another world catastrophe.

Let the memory of those who died in the last devastating orgy, inspire us to build a new army that will crush the militarists and hasten the onward march of a Workers' and Farmers' Government.

The Passing of General Max Hoffmann

By H. M. WICKS.

LENIN perceived that the masses of Russia were exhausted by the war, he knew that they had risen and overthrown the czar, then successfully waged struggles against the various governments that tried to continue the war and finally smashed the Kerensky government in response to the slogans of peace, bread and freedom.

Eva Le Gallienne to Send "Cradle Song" On Tour

The Civic Repertory Theatre will organize a special company under the personal direction of Eva Le Gallienne to present last season's success, Gregoria and Martinez Sierra's "Cradle Song" on tour beginning September 1st.

The Lakewood Players of Skowhegan, Maine will be associated with George C. Tyler next week in the metropolitan showing of "Hoosiers Abroad," a new version of "The Man From Home" which Booth Tarkington has just completed.

The Shuberts are also planning a musical version of "Tribby" and another of "Arizona." Both productions may be shown on Broadway early next season.

Charles L. Wagner is planning to present here a new play by Zoe Skin, a dramatization of Mrs. Wharton's "The Old Maid." Josephine Victor and Marjorie Wood will head the cast.

The Farmers and Coolidge

The offensive against Coolidge's vacation seems to be getting under way.

Delegates from 14 states to the Northwestern Agricultural Conference held in St. Paul 49 farm organizations are represented at the conference and judging from dispatches the discussion centers entirely around the failure of the Coolidge administration to do anything but sneer at the farmers' demands for relief.

There is also creeping into the news from Rapid City which is at variance with the first lyrical description of the welcome accorded Coolidge. The New York Times correspondent, for instance, goes so far as to say:

"According to reports President Coolidge has found since coming here that the West is fairly evenly divided on the merits of the McNary-Haugen bill, with its advocates MORE ASSERTIVE AND APPARENTLY IN THE MAJORITY." (Our emphasis.)

The expressed opinion that the western visit of Coolidge would shove the question of farmers' relief into the background seems to have received a damaging blow as reports come in from the firing line.

There is considerable significance in the fact that, altho the delegates to the St. Paul conference are largely adherents of the two capitalist parties, they are meeting in the capital city of a state where the Farmer-Labor Party is the second largest political organization and is made up for the most part of farmers who were formerly supporters of the republican party.

But in spite of the tremendous opposition to Coolidge in agricultural states there is not much evidence outside of Minnesota that indicates as yet any strong tendency to break with the republican party. Unless this break takes place and develops into a powerful stream flowing in the same channel as that already marked out in Minnesota, the farmers are doomed to be fooled again by some sort of fake farm relief bill designed to allay the discontent.

That this is the tack the Coolidge administration intends to take is shown by the following dispatch of July 11 in the New York Times:

"Nevertheless, he (Coolidge) is disposed to recommend to Congress the consideration of a farm bill which some of the farm organizations and the committee working with the government favor. This compromise bill, which will appear in the next Congress sponsored by the farm associations, is likely to receive President Coolidge's support, it is said."

We can be sure that the "farm associations" which will sponsor this "compromise" bill will be far less "radical" than even the advocates of the McNary-Haugen bill, itself a totally inadequate piece of legislation.

We have commented before on the utterly cynical attitude of the two capitalist parties towards the question of farm relief.

Nor will this attitude change as long as the leaders of the two capitalist parties can convince the great majority of farmers that their class interests can and will be taken care of by political parties whose purpose is the protection of the class interests of bankers and industrial capitalists.

If the farmers will make a clean break with those who rob, rule and fool them, join with the workers in the creation of a powerful mass party organized in the interests of both, they will find that a great change will have taken place in the attitude of the capitalist spokesmen. Instead of contemptuous expressions the farmer leaders will be slandered and vilified by the capitalist press—always a good sign that a fear has taken the place of contempt, a fear inspired by the knowledge that a suppressed class has begun to take stock of its potential power and is preparing to bring it into use for the purpose of securing immediate class demands.

How About Other Labor Banks?

The revelations regarding the disastrous labor banking adventure of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, whose banks were the most powerful institutions of that kind in the world, have evoked much comment from the ranks of both labor and capital. Many financial writers and other spokesmen of big capital frankly express their disappointment at the collapse of the illusion of labor banking. It was one of the best schemes ever devised to fool the workers into believing that they could graduate into the ranks of the capitalists.

It caused them to abandon the fight for better conditions through an open struggle with the employers and try to achieve by "boring from within" capitalism what they had abandoned hope of obtaining otherwise.

Even James P. Eagan of the editorial staff of the publications of the American Federation of Labor declares that labor officials generally are pleased that the outside activity in the realm of labor banking has been curtailed and predicts a "lessening enthusiasm for business ventures."

The collapse of the Brotherhood banking schemes, the father of all labor banks, ought to provoke some serious thinking on the part of those labor leaders who have hoodwinked their unions into such ventures. The rank and file of labor ought to demand investigations of other "labor banks."

How about Peter J. Brady's "Federation bank," or the "Amalgamated Banks" and other ventures in "labor-capitalism"?

One thing is certain to be revealed on investigation: Labor banks cannot by any stretch of the imagination benefit labor and they have thus far been used as instruments for incalculable harm to the movement, not merely because of the financial losses suffered by workers (after all they are trivial, because of small amounts involved) but principally because of the illusions they engender about labor growing into the status of capitalism.

The Brest-Litovsk delegates were called back to Russia and Lenin demanded that they sign the treaty in spite of its humiliating terms. When Trotsky asked him how he knew the soldiers would no longer fight, he replied simply that they had shown with their feet when they ran away from the front that they would no longer face the enemy in the trenches. He also knew that the signing of such an obviously imperialist document would reveal to thousands upon thousands of German workers that it was not a defensive but an aggressive war of conquest that Germany was waging and that the imperialist agents in the ranks of the social-democracy would no longer be able to deceive the masses as to the real character of the war.

The treaty was signed, General Hoffmann returned in triumph to report to his kaiser, the Ukraine was ceded to Germany. According to the ethics of bourgeois diplomacy Russia suffered a humiliating defeat—and indeed it was a defeat, but unavoidable.

The question was not whether the Soviet government should or should not yield territory to Germany, but whether the Bolshevik government should try to defend that territory without men and face certain defeat of the revolution throughout all Russia, or hold the heart of Russia for the revolution and await a more favorable opportunity. Lenin faced the accusations of pessimism about the

Headstones for Unknown Victims of Morgan's War

Headstones to the number of 20,000 for America's unknown war dead in France have been ordered by the war department. They are all to be installed before the annual debauch known as the American Legion convention which is to take place in Paris, France, in September. There will be 10,750 graves of victims of Morgan's war that will have no headstones.

Each of the headstones will bear the inscription: Here Rests in Honored Glory An American Soldier Known But to God.

That means the victims are unknown to anything or anybody. They are utterly wiped out and not one of them knows that he ever lived. They sacrificed their all in order that Morgan's investments on the side of Britain, France and Czarist Russia might be made safe. Some day the lying, deceptive headstones erected by the navy department will be torn down and the revolutionary workers of France will erect a monument signifying that these victims were sacrificed, not to make the world safe for democracy, but in a predatory imperialist war, in a fight in the interest of the ruling class of the United States that was not worth the shedding of a single drop of working class blood.

The time is fast approaching when the workers of the world must realize that the only fight worth while is the fight on the part of the working class against the capitalist class.

Mr. John Drew, Court Jester

The death of Mr. John Drew, the famous light comedian, removes from the American stage one of its foremost actors. He was a darling of the bourgeoisie, their best court jester. His favorite role was that of the suave, well-bred man-of-the-world, the unattainable ideal of every petty penny-grabbing shop-keeper with an ambition to climb the social scale and mingle with the swine of the exclusive sets. Polite comedy was the proper setting for his performances.

An ornament of the stage for more than fifty years this old codger was a social symbol. He was the embodiment of that code of capitalist ethics that has developed with the ascendancy of the big capitalists; a code that viewed the daughters of the working class as legitimate prey for the gentlemen of the upper crust. As the polished seducer of other men's wives, as the full-dress Don Juan the late Mr. Drew was captivating (on the other side of the footlights) even in his toothless and tottering dotage.

He is mourned by many of those whose debaucheries he glorified as he strutted through a vast array of polite parts, written by sycophants whose greatest aim in life is to please the master class, to "crook the pregnant hinges of the knee, where thrift may follow fawning."

Russian Industry Still Advances.

Yesterday's DAILY WORKER carried a report from the Soviet Union of the beginning of work on the great Dnieper river hydro-electric plant, which will be by far the largest of its kind in all Europe. The consulting engineer of this project is the American builder of Muscle Shoals, Col. Hugh L. Cooper. Much of the machinery used for the purposes of excavating is purchased from the United States and many orders that had previously been placed with British producers of industrial machinery have been withdrawn since the Arcos raid and the breaking of trade and diplomatic relations by the Baldwin tory government of forgery.

If the United States government was on diplomatic terms with the Soviet Union there is no question that most of the orders for such machinery as well as for other products of heavy industry would come to this country.

Aside from all other considerations there are indications now that at the next session of congress the administration is going to face a much more determined demand for recognition of the Soviet Union than ever before, precisely because of the fact that in Russia alone, of all countries of the old world, is industry advancing and economic conditions constantly improving.

Aside also from the class demands of the advanced workers for recognition of Russia, the most backward American worker cannot fail to perceive that orders for millions of dollars worth of machinery of production placed in this country will assure more workers steady employment.

43 MORE FURRIER WORKERS JAILED WHEN PICKETING

Two Forward Reporters Among Those Released

A large picketing demonstration was held in the fur market Tuesday which resulted in 43 arrests. The workers responded to the call of the Unity Committee in large numbers and showed a remarkable spirit for the beginning of the sixth week of the struggle.

When brot before Magistrate Brodsky, the first 11 were dismissed while the other 32 had their cases adjourned until Wednesday morning.

Among the 11 who were dismissed were two reporters for the Jewish Daily Forward, Z. Libin and B. Weinstein. Many workers remarked that it was odd that the batch including the Forward men were discharged, while the others were held for further examination.

Fanny Marin, a fur striker who was arrested last week on the complaint of a right wing scab, had her case postponed until September when it came up before Magistrate Joseph Weil in the Six District Court of the Bronx yesterday morning.

Charge Mal-Practice In Coma Case LOS ANGELES, July 12.—Leaders of the "Medical War" waged over the treatment of Mrs. Clara Drummond, 21-year-old "sleeping beauty," prepared today for a clash in court tomorrow. Dr. W. J. Peacock, chiropractor attending Mrs. Drummond, will then defend himself against charges of running a hospital in violation of city ordinances.

Dr. George Parrish, Los Angeles City Health Commissioner, filed the charges against Dr. Peacock when the latter turned away two brain specialists whom Dr. Parrish sent to examine Mrs. Drummond.

MONTEREAL, Que., July 12.—Five drownings in the past 24 hours in the St. Lawrence river and La Chine rapids were added today to the season's death toll from water sports in this section.

Another Engineer's Official Convicted By Their Convention

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 12.—One more official of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has been found guilty of the charitable phrase crime of being "careless, lax and indifferent" with the hard earned money of the members of the union. The convention now sitting, after due investigation decided that Harry P. Daugherty, second vice president was one of the same class as C. E. Lindquist, Secretary-Treasurer, and L. G. Griffing, first vice-president. Another involved in the same charges Wm. B. Prenter, president of the union, who has so far avoided trial by the conventions because of illness.

All Fired.
All these officials have already been removed from office, but what other punishment will be meted upon them, the convention has not decided.

All were involved in the extremely high finance associated with the management of the class collaboration schemes, labor banks, scab coal mines, and Florida real estate ventures of the late Warren Stone, who started them while still grand chief of the union.

Wrong and Badly Managed
The labor capitalism thus originated has been so badly conducted, the convention's investigating committee found, that there is grave danger that all the engineer's money will be lost, and an assessment of five dollars a month on each member, to continue for over a year, and perhaps longer, has been voted.

Officers Got Money.
Lindquist admitted, while on trial, that he and other officers charged were given personal presents of $2,500 a piece by real estate interests in New York to make easy the sale to those interests of a skyscraper the union owned. He argued that as long as the union officials had kept their money so acquired intact, they were not bribed. But the convention found him guilty of "carelessness, laxness and indifference" anyway.

Progressives in the union have all along insisted that the money of the union is a fund intended by its members for use in strikes and in other benefits and not a treasury for stock exchange and real estate speculation by the officers, and point to the recent revelations of the corrupting power of such activities as proof.

Pullman Terrorism Used in Fight On Union of Porters

WASHINGTON, July 12 (FP).—Czarist Russia, which forced trade unions underground, has a rival in the United States where a large and growing trade union has been forced to work almost entirely by underground methods. That organization is the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters whose Negro members are obliged to conduct propaganda and union business in secret, due to the elaborate espionage system maintained by the Pullman Co.

"Occasionally we hold public meetings," declared A. Philip Randolph, general organizer, in Washington to confer with officials of the Railway Mediation Board. "The rest of our activities have to be carried on in secret to outwit the alert, far-reaching Pullman spy service. But we have been successful, as the Mediation Board found out when they investigated our membership rolls and discovered we have a majority of all Pullman porters in the brotherhood."

Terrorist Tactics.
"Terrorism is part of the Pullman tactics in fighting the young brotherhood. Many of our best men have been disciplined or discharged for having 'outside interests.' Pullman has even corrupted one or two Negro papers."

"Last October we filed our petition for recognition as the legitimate union of our craft with the Mediation Board. Edwin P. Morrow of the board has just left Chicago to hold hearings on our case. As soon as we win recognition, we can come up from underground and function in the open like other trade unions."

The board and brotherhood alike have scotched canards spread by a news agency—that the union's claim for recognition as representative of the sleeping car porters had been rejected.

Brophy Tells Miners To Stand Fast; Urges Organization Drive

DILLONVILLE, O., (FP) July 12.—Addressing a large audience of striking miners and their families at the annual picnic of the Cooperative Store Society John Brophy, former chairman of the Nationalized Research Committee of the United Mine Workers urged the workers to hold their lines steadfastly in the present struggle.

Urging them to bear in mind the goal of public ownership and democratic management of the coal industry to which the union has been pledged at three conventions he told them that their hope of achieving this end depended on the maintaining of the union.

To maintain the union, said Brophy, it is necessary not only to stand together in the union states, but to prepare to organize the great West Virginia fields, a few miles away, across the Ohio River. Even before the strike many Ohio mines were idle as West Virginia and Kentucky coal took their markets away.

The Cooperative Store Society is one of the most successful consumers' cooperatives in the United States. Half a million dollars a year business is done by its three stores at Dillonville, Piney Fork and Bradley, three mining towns, and dividends of 8 to 11 per cent are paid on purchases. The Dillonville enterprise, under the management of Joseph Blaha is housed in a fine $100,000 brick building, and has a general grocery department, meat, furniture and dry goods departments.

Try Five for Beating Man; Leader Whipped Mother and 15-Year Son

TOCCOA, Ga., July 12.—Five men who floored Bart Singleton, Stephens County farmer, will be tried today on charges of assault with intent to murder, rioting and carrying firearms.

One of the men to be tried, W. G. Acree, former principal of the Eastonville High School, has already been convicted of flooring Mrs. Ansley Bowers and her fifteen year-old son, Floyd, but has not been sentenced.

Arrest 9 In Speak-Easy Raid.
NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., July 12.—Nine men were under arrest today as a result of a number of raids on alleged "speak-easies" and gambling dens on Huguenot Street here.

The raids were made by a squad of men under Captain John MacGowan of the New Rochelle detective bureau, after Frederick Dahl, of 34 Walnut St., had been taken to Grasslands Hospital in a critical condition. He told the authorities he had purchased a drink of liquor in an establishment on Huguenot Street. It is feared he may lose his eyesight.

All of the places raided were in the space of a few blocks.

NATIONAL CIVIC FEDERATION WARS ON AGE PENSIONS

Matty Woll Approves Action by Silence

By ESTHER LOWELL.
(Federated Press)

No representative of organized labor in the National Civic Federation (of which Matthew Woll is acting president) joined its conference on Old Age Pensions, printed reports of the session show. The conference occurred April 29 under auspices of the Industrial Welfare Department of the organization. Printed proceedings have just been issued.

Employer members of the Civic Federation participating in the conference agreed that state old age pensions are not desirable from their viewpoint. Industrial pensions, to which workers themselves contribute, were generally deemed best.

Blend Fur Workers.
Arthur Williams, an officer of the New York Edison Co., emphasized that there was a definite object in employer's giving old age pensions. This object is "long and satisfactory service" from the workers. He quoted Justice Elbert Gary's remark about U. S. Steel Corp. welfare work—"It pays."

Percy S. Straus of the big Macy department store presided at the conference. P. Tecumseh Sherman, corporation lawyer and chairman of the federation's old age annuities committee, attacked state pensions. He referred to the Pennsylvania Old Age Pension Commission of which James Maurer, state federation of labor president, is chairman.

Keep Workers Docile.
Yearly instead of long term promises were advocated by E. C. Roth of Western Clock Co., La Salle, Ill. Roth argued that workers must be assured that they will actually get what is promised and so it is better to promise only the amount of pension earned each year.

This plan offers extreme flexibility, Roth stated, "rendering it easier for the company to pay lower benefits in the future than at present." To date the company has increased its promised pensions instead of decreasing, however, he stated.

Woll and Company.
Col. A. G. Mills of Otis Elevator Co. praised the Civic Federation for its "patriotic" work on industrial pensions as against state pensions favored by organized labor.

Other employers represented at the conference were Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., Bethlehem Steel Corp., American Telephone & Telegraph Co., Radio Corp. of America, General Electric Co., U. S. Rubber Co., All America Cables, National Lead Co., etc. Most of them are openshop concerns practicing various forms of welfare work and company unionism to offset real trade union organization.

New Jersey state labor department was represented. Matthew Woll, vice-president American Federation of Labor and acting president of the National Civic Federation, is not listed as a participant in the conference.

Open Long Island City Ferry.
Service will open August 15th on the Thirty-Fourth Street-Long Island City vehicular ferry. It was announced today by William McGuirk, head of the company which is to operate the route.

All the under waterwork on the new slips is completed and superstructure work is progressing rapidly, he said.

TO WHOM DOES VOLCANO MADE LAND BELONG?

While Kilauea (Lake of Fire), Hawaii, has been erupting, Hawaiians have been trying to settle a land dispute caused by an eruption last year of Mauna Loa. At that time the rushing lava added 43 acres of ground to the Island of Hawaii. Who owns the ground? The territorial legislature wants to erect a wharf there, but old residents of the region have staked out the new area as homesteads, saying it is simply their old homesteads moved down closer to the sea by the volcano's action. Photos above are of the disputed region. The top picture shows the village of Milolii, isolated by flow; lower left, road under construction across lava flow; right, above, road over lava, four miles from sea, showing steam still escaping more than a year after eruption; right, below, new beach created by lava.

Call Conference to Defend the Foreign Born; Meet July 31

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 12.—The Cambria Council for the Protection of Foreign Born Workers has issued a call for a conference to meet July 31 in Moose Hall, Portage, Pa., to devise ways and means to defend the foreign born. The conference has the endorsement of the May, 1927, convention of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, and is as follows:

Proposed legislation introduced in congress by Congressmen Aswell, Holdaday, Brand and others aims to stigmatize the foreign born by treating them as if they were criminals. They propose that aliens be fingerprinted, photographed, registered and taxed, and that they carry "passports." The police are to have the right to search the person of aliens and their homes for the cards of identification. The punishment is to be a fine, imprisonment and deportation.

The powers that be aim to intensify the race conflict by fomenting the foreign born population, humiliating and stigmatizing them for the purpose of increasing racial and national prejudice, to keep labor divided and so weaken the labor morale.

A very strong organized force is preparing to support the measures to register aliens. Wall Street is behind this movement. Our Council is calling upon all progressive organizations to stand united with us. This proposed, undemocratic legislation must be defeated. You must help preserve our cherished American liberties for the greater liberties we are destined to achieve.

Cambria County Council Protection Foreign Born Workers is calling you to a conference, Sunday afternoon, 2 p. m., July 31, 1927, at Moose Hall, Portage, Pa. The object is to plan ways and means for concerted action and to be ready to act when Congress reconvenes. Prominent speakers will address the gathering. We want at least five delegates from each fraternal organization, church and local unions. Visitors are welcome.

American liberty is in danger. You must not be indifferent to this danger. You are called upon to do your duty. We are counting on you.
Jeannette D. Pearl, Field Organizer.

His Wife and Baby Ill; 18-Year-Old Youth Robs

Desperate because his girl wife and their five-months-old daughter lay ill at home, Lester Betterly, eighteen, of 109 Oak Street, Brooklyn, took his wife's twelve-year-old brother with him as a lookout and staged a series of robberies in the Greenpoint section, police say he admitted today, following his arrest.

Out of employment and his wife, Ethel and their daughter, Dorothy, growing weaker and weaker, Betterly decided no ends were too great to save them and turned robber, police say he confessed.

Detectives arrested him at Guernsey Street and Normand Avenue, when they saw him hurrying along with a suit of clothes under his arm. They say he told them he was headed for a pawn shop where he expected to turn the clothes into cash. Police say he figured in eight petty robberies in the Gravesend section.

New York Workers in Constant Danger From Fire Trap Tenements

The lives of hundreds of thousands of New York workers are endangered by the lack of adequate fire escapes. This is the conclusion of a report made by Harold Riegelman, counsel for the State commission for the revision of the Tenement House Act after investigation.

Plimsy wooden tenements, which house thousands of New York workers, left members of the State commission "thoroughly shocked," Riegelman said. "A lack of fire escapes, sealed roof scuttles, narrow wooden stairways and non-fire proof walls characterized all of the houses that the commission investigated."

"Most New Yorkers who live in converted dwellings live in complete and inescapable fire hazard," Riegelman declared. The commission will continue its investigation of New York dwellings, it was announced.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 12.—Eight persons were injured, some seriously, in a collision between two automobiles on the outskirts of the city today.

Toronto Workers in Successful Meeting For N. Y. Furriers

A telegram received yesterday at the office of the Joint Board, Furriers Union, from H. Englander, manager of the Toronto Joint Board of the Furriers' Union, announced that the Unity Conference of the union held a most successful meeting there Sunday, which resulted in some very important decisions.

This is the first of a series of conferences to which the trade unionists of various large cities will be invited to learn of the struggle in the Furriers' Union and join with the Furriers' Unity Committee in an effort to bring about peace and unity in the International Fur Workers' Union of the United States and Canada.

Mass meetings will follow the conferences in the various cities and Ben Gold, manager of the New York Joint Board, will attend many of these meetings and tell of the present strike in the New York fur industry and the struggle against the reactionary forces which are seeking to destroy the furriers' union.

Poland—It Is the Land of Strutting Soldiers With Barefooted, Ragged Workers

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

THERE was martial law in the bitterly fought copper miners' strike in Michigan's upper peninsula in 1913-14. As the correspondent of a labor newspaper I had to have a military pass in order to get about.

There was also martial law in the coal strike in the Paint and Cabin Creek Districts in West Virginia, in 1913, as in many other industrial struggles in that state. As publicity director of the United Mine Workers' Union, I found it difficult to get thru the various sections of the war zone.

I got the same feeling of the grip of the military, only intensified, at Stolby, in Poland, where we leave the train behind that has brought us from Moscow, U. S. S. R., pass the customs officers and board the train that is to take us on to Paris.

Everybody salutes! The porters carrying baggage salute! Maybe it is the baggage master or the station master, I can't make out, that receives this attention. The Polish imitation of the American boy scouts and of the high school and university cadets is very much in evidence. But then there are also the many branches of the regular army, in a multitude of vari-colored uniforms, all seemingly represented.

This railroad station with its martial surroundings gives the feel of a military outpost close to the front line trenches in war time. You might interject that, "The Polish Pilsudski militarism doesn't know that the war is over." But that would be hardly true. The Pilsudski tyranny only knows that for it, the war never ended, because with the signing of the Versailles bandit peace, the Polish reaction merely became the catpaw of the imperialisms at Paris and London, in the new attacks on the Union of Soviet Republics. Always ready with their dollars, the international bankers in Wall Street have been continuously on the job bolstering the Polish reaction financially. Polish fascism, like its Italian counterpart, has the full sympathy of the capitalist regime in Washington.

Poland is today an imperialist outpost against the Soviet Power of the workers and peasants, and Stolby on Poland's eastern frontier is near the edge of the feared border of the First Workers' Republic. Hence the soldiers, the strutting officers, the pompous general who comes thru the station and boards the train, looking for all the world like the Russian prince that I had seen in the Moscow prison that I had visited.

It was a motley train made up of first, second and third class coaches and sleeping cars of Polish, French and German origin, shrieking testimony to the many national divisions in bourgeois Europe. Yet there was some relief when this train started moving toward the west.

But what a nation we passed thru of men and women in rags and barefoot, Polish workers who showed to all the world their dejection.

It is not unusual, of course, for the peasant to walk barefoot in the fields, following the plow, or tending his herds and flocks.

But here in Poland the city workers, men and women, called barefooted, feet bleeding. At one station, I did not take down the name, but it was typical of all, a huge basement was being excavated for some new building. There was no giant steam shovel to do the heavy work. Men and women were massed together, in large numbers, shovelling, passing the dirt from level to level, like Japanese coolies coaling a ship, passing the coal up its sides.

The train stopped for a few moments at one station during the noon hour. Many of these workers dropped their shovels and came running across the tracks, finding a place on the station platform to eat their lunches. Some of them had their feet bandaged.

The employer might claim that many of them are strong and well equipped physically for this manual labor. The fact was that many were very frail in appearance. One pathetic sight was that of a very young and weak appearing woman worker who had wore a cheap necklace as if to defy the Polish reaction to destroy her womanliness.

Another sight was of many men workers, picking their way barefooted about as they unloaded freight cars, especially cars loaded with huge timbers.

It isn't because there is a scarcity of labor in Poland that women as well as men must thus toil. There are from a quarter to a third of a million unemployed in Poland. These are oppressive conditions that American capitalism upholds because it would like to see the workers in the United States reduced to the same level.

We passed over a river. Cavalrymen of the Polish army could be seen at the water's edge. They had removed their polished boots, rolled up their colored trousers and were bathing their feet in the cool water. Their feet were not bleeding, like the feet of the workers we had just seen.

That is Poland. And so it was all the way to Warsaw, that we reached toward evening, arriving at the railroad station in the Polish capital on the platform of which Peter L. Voikov, the Soviet Ambassador, had been shot down by an assassin inspired by the imperialist attack against the Soviet Union.

It is a rather forlorn looking railroad station where priests with robes that dust the ground vie for attention with the soldiery. Numerous guides offer to show the travelers about the town, until the train shall continue on its journey. One guide even has a slip of paper signed by someone with an address in Brooklyn, N. Y., testifying to his reliability. There are cathedrals and palaces to be seen, they say. But Europe is full of cathedrals and palaces and they all look more or less alike, and there are more interesting ones in Berlin and Paris. The most interesting, of course, are in the Soviet Union, where the workers have turned them to useful purposes as rest homes and museums.

But train time is welcome again. I find that for the night I am to share my sleeping compartment with Dr. W. De Vrient, who is on his way to Berlin to participate in an International Conference of Scientists. He says that 20 scientists, the best known in Russia, are planning to leave the Soviet Union in a few days to journey to Berlin for the same purpose. We talked until long after midnight.

The Development of the Chinese Revolution And Vacillations of the Kuomintang Leaders

(Leading article from "Pravda" June 23.)

The depths and the swing of the revolution is expressed most clearly in the racing tempo at which the events in China are developing. Hardly eighteen months have passed since the commencement of the campaign against the North which led the national army to the borders of Kwangtung in the Yangtze Valley. How much has happened in these few months, what tremendous progress has been made in the relation of class forces, how much the measure has grown which must now be used to estimate the situation! In this period, Wu Pei-fu, Sun Chuan-fang and Chang Tsung-chang have been developed. New millions of workers and peasants have gone into the revolutionary struggle. The tremendous growth of the workers' and peasants' movement on the one hand and the open and hard pressure of the imperialists on the other have intensified the differences inside the national-revolutionary camp. Chiang Kai-shek has betrayed the revolution and the bourgeoisie which up to his treachery played the leading role has gone with him into the camp of the counter-revolution. The hegemony is going over more and more obviously to the working class, but at the same time the line and the methods of the struggle are becoming more definite. The Wuhan government and the Kuomintang are now faced with the necessity of fighting upon two fronts, against Peking and against Nanking. At the same time the revolutionary solution of the agrarian problem as carried out by the peasant unions caused a further split in the Wuhan ranks. The counter-revolutionary officers' insurrection broke out in Changsha.

This stormy change of events and of the general situation is taking place upon an extremely kaleidoscopic basis in a country where new and modern methods of capitalist exploitation rub shoulders with the remnants of the most extreme feudalism, where in an extremely complicated system, the most varied relations exist side by side. Between Shanghai and any Sitchuan there is not merely a 1,000 kilometers, but a century of economic development. This tremendous variety of existing social forms, this great inequality in the development of the various provinces and districts, the great differences in the degree of dependence upon the imperialists, upon the foreign market, the differences in the forces and importance of the remnants of feudalism, all this causes a great variety of interests, causes the existence of a great number of middle groups and sections. This must be taken into consideration in the present epoch of development in which the re-grouping of class forces has by no means ended.

"The forces of the petty-bourgeoisie is a vacillating force." This statement of Lenin applied to the present situation in China means that one may not reckon that with the defection of Chiang Kai-shek to the side of the counter-revolution laid the definite border between the revolution and the counter-revolution, between the forces for and against the bourgeois democratic revolution. On the contrary, the content of the bourgeois democratic revolution will become deeper every day and more definite. This makes a further differentiation in the Wuhan camp unavoidable. The intellectual radical bourgeois elements in the Kuomintang will vacillate according to their class character, they cannot take a decisive and definite line. We must therefore be prepared for new defections, for new treachery. To close one's eyes in the face of this possibility would be just as stupid as to fall into a panic on account of it.

Chiang Kai-shek has openly betrayed the revolution. But a number of elements related to him are still in the Kuomintang. The swing of the workers and peasants' movement brought in its first period the defection of the bourgeoisie with it. Its further development, the tremendous extension of the agrarian revolution from below must result in a further defection of the bourgeoisie and the troops most nearly related to it. The officers' insurrection in Changsha has a symptomatic significance in this connection. The officers of the Wuhan army opposed the peasants who had decided to take the land and the power into their own hands. The social and political significance of this action of the officers was fundamentally the same as that of the defection of Chiang Kai-shek.

It is extremely typical of the lack of determination, the half measures and the lack of character of the petty bourgeoisie, that the Kuomintang and the Wuhan government were not able to crush the counter-revolution in Changsha in its beginnings. When the moment came to support the agrarian revolution not in words but in deeds, the petty bourgeois leaders showed openly that their force, is a vacillating one. And that is the extremely great danger for the Chinese revolution.

This vacillation of many political and especially military leaders of Wuhan is intensified by the following circumstance. The northern crusade was initiated in a block with the bourgeoisie and under its leadership as a war against the imperialists and against the northern militarists. The

THE YOUTH AND PATRIOTISM

It was my good fortune to have been graduated a few weeks ago from an American high school. The good fortune lies in the idea of getting out of one of the worst beds of reaction that it is possible to find among American institutions. In this school, patriotism, although not a subject that was taught outright, was a sentiment that was imbibed by the average student with the aid of the faculty and of the orators who came to the school to speak every now and then.

It is true that "I pledge allegiance to my flag" is not said every day, and that "The Star Spangled Banner" is not sung every day, but—do not think for a moment that "patriotism" has been forgotten, and that this reactionary American institution has realized the destructibility of this decadent sentiment. The boards of education realize that the average high school student is able to comprehend a little more than "I pledge allegiance," and they also realize that he is not very analytical—that if anything were told him in a high and mighty manner, he would swallow it without a grain of salt. It is upon this state of mind that the capitalist tools play with their patriotism, anti-Sovietism, Yellow Peril, etc.

In celebration of Memorial Day, the whole student body of this school was asked to donate a few pennies with which to purchase a new silk American flag to beautify the Auditorium and to instill that beautiful and uplifting sentiment of love of country. Those who refused to help this worthy cause (they must have been in the pay of the Soviet Union) were lectured by the teachers and shunned by the students. When the day for celebrating arrived, half the student body was assembled in the auditorium where could be seen the newly purchased flag.

The program was opened by the orchestra which played some patriotic airs. Then followed a playlet in which the colors of the flag were personified. A boy made a speech for each color—Red representing valor, White representing purity and Blue representing loyalty. He then recited "your flag and my flag—your land and my land." Five members of the faculty (ex-service men) then sang some war songs. At last the big event of the day took place. Congressman Clyde-Kelly made a speech in which he stressed the false idea that patriotism was an uplifting sentiment, that Lindbergh's father was a great man and a great patriot (this was news to some of us), that Colonel Lindbergh was a daring and courageous patriot because he was following in the footsteps of his father (some more news), that the war did good in that it established a stable democracy, (?) that at present in the United States there was a "blight" which was undermining the wonderful institutions of our blessed country and that this "blight" must be strangled in its infancy—as one rotten apple rots the whole barrel full. He did not name the "blight" probably because a sixth sense told him that he might find a few in the audience. Of course he made no contrast between destructive war and constructive peace. The applause was very prolonged.

This program, of which I have just spoken, is only one of many. The jingoes realize there is to be an armament race which will result in a terrible destructive war, that the masses (especially the youth) must be prepared for it by propaganda, and that the place where this propaganda will have the most effect is in the schools, nourished by the American capitalism. It is up to the students to realize that they must fight against this coming war, must question the words of flunky instructors; that sooner or later the youth will be forced to choose between proletariat and reactionary; between a new world and a decadent one. To follow the old means to be an aid in the prolongation of civilization which is characterized by the cold-blooded murder of millions of people and the exploitation of those who remain alive. All this for private profit. To follow the new means to be an aid in the destruction of civilization and the construction of that culture which is only possible with the establishing of the Union of the Socialist Soviet Republics of the World, which will be founded on economic equality.

JAN—THE UNCONQUERED

By MEYER DWORNIK.

In the autumn of 1919, soon after the great steel strike, led by Comrade Foster I lived next to Jan, a tall, strong Pole, who wore a pair of long black mustaches, and had an awry bony face. He was a steel worker and slaved nights in Judge Gary's flaming steel-hells somewhere in the south side of the smoke-laden city of Cleveland.

The brutality of the police, together with the terrible black power of the local capitalist press, was instrumental in breaking the morale of many a striker, but not so with Jan. He always remained the same unconquered Jan. And in spite of the outcome of the steel strike Jan's fighting spirit was even more tempered and he was more embittered against the steel magnates than ever before.

Soon afterwards I noticed on the eastern wall in his small house, among other ornaments, a good sized picture of Comrade Foster.

Jan's loyalty and belief in Comrade Foster's honest leadership and devotion to the steel-striker has never diminished, although Jan went through terrible privation with his large family during the strike, and even greater suffering and privation after the strike was lost.

I remember, early at dawn, when Jan returned from the steel-mill, he lingered about his small grassy yard, for a long time, silent and embittered, and stood watching the flaming-red, rising sun. He stood leaning against the fence in a forest of tall fire-red hollyhocks, silent and in deep thought.

Close by his small house a black stream of factory workers, thousands of them, hurried to work in nearby factories. When Jan saw them, his eyes filled with indescribable sorrow.

"Such an army, if it had only come to our assistance at the time of our strike," he sighed.

"But this is not yet the end."

Jan was bitterest when he saw the thousands of toil-worn workers reading the Plain Dealer; as they scurried through the early morning autumn mists like bundles of rags, to work; the very newspaper that employed all its capitalist viciousness to break the morale of the striking steel-workers.

After witnessing such a spectacle, Jan entered his house and went to bed; and in his sleep he raged on:

"Damn'd we be all! Who is to blame that we are in such a mess! Who is at fault for the bitterness of our life but ourselves?! Damn'd we be all!"

And whenever I met Jan he never ceased talking about a new strike in the steel-trade.

Jan remained unconquered.

TURPENTINE MILL IN U. S. S. R.

In the midst of the dense wood of Veluzhski the erection of a huge turpentine-resin works has been completed. In equipment and annual output this works is the only one of its kind in U. S. S. R. and the second in the world.

On the eve of May 1st, this works were put into action.

In Chiti (Far East), the erection of the first wolfram factory in the district has been completed.

Chester Textile Workers in Strike Ferment

Calls Bosses' Bluff. The meeting on Tuesday 21st was somewhat disappointing. A big carnival (something that is really a treat for the oppressed workers of Chester), was in full swing. The bosses had been more open in their disapproval of the workers attending the meeting, many workers had been laid off, county police and deputies were on the job surrounding the hall, the superintendent's intended son-in-law was not to go inside the hall.

Withal quite a fair enthusiasm to the talk about the arrests and the future policy to be pursued. Foremen, teachers, stool-pigeons and detectives present at the meeting actually looked uncomfortable as Devine built up a case against the inhuman treatment meted out to the workers in Irving's mill. In pointing out the visit of the superintendent's son-in-law, Devine called the boss's bluff. "I have been approached unofficially and told that Mr. Irving would be prepared to meet a committee of workers with myself included for the purpose of discussing the dispute—and that a compromise would almost certainly be arrived at," said Devine. "I now publicly say we are prepared to meet Mr. Irving at anytime to discuss the grievances."

The meeting unanimously endorsed that attitude. It was decided to call a further meeting if anything develops.

During the following afternoon Devine telephoned Mr. Atkinson, the superintendent, who refused to acknowledge the unofficial representative of Saturday morning. The superintendent tried to bring in many side issues but was not allowed. The talk concluded with the intimation by Devine that a committee of workers would meet him when he realized how necessary it was. Meantime things are moving as formerly.

The workers are not yet solid, but the signs are that a struggle is brewing. It may be weeks, it may be months, it does not matter. One thing is certain and that is, the workers are covertly talking strike. A continuation of the present terrible conditions will accentuate that feeling and bring the workers definitely to the point of fight. Keep your eye on Chester.

Kirchwey Hits Baumes Law. Hitting the Baumes law as a "hit and miss remedy which will exert no influence on the vast majority of criminals," Dr. George Kirchwey, former warden of Sing Sing prison and one-time dean of the Columbia Law School urged its repeal in speaking to a group of visiting social workers at the Charity Organization Society, 105 East 22nd Street.

Letters From Our Readers

The workers would not listen to this, and again, called upon him to speak. But as they were again ignored, the demand for Gold increased when they carried him on their shoulders to the platform.

The socialist leaders refused to let him speak and kicked him in the face. Rather than give Gold the platform, and allow the demonstration to go on successfully, the socialist called on their assistants, the police force, to break up the meeting.

The socialist party never intended from the beginning to carry through this important protest meeting. It was all prearranged from the outset, by the socialist party and the right wing labor leaders. They knew the composition of the fraternal and political organizations and trade unions, who responded to the strike call, and would demand equally representation to speak. The socialist party wished to dominate the meeting and exclude the other duly elected delegates who disagreed with them.

When they saw it was impossible to do this, owing to the overwhelming of the audience to hear their own delegates they destroyed the demonstration. What the socialist party and the Forward gang have done to honest and militant workers in their trade-unions, and on the picket lines, they have done here.

A great many thousands of workers who have not witnessed before the socialist party and right wing labor leaders, do dirty-destructive injury to the workers and to the labor movement, have seen it now with their own eyes.

The socialist party, has deeply insulted Sacco and Vanzetti, by their despicable actions. They have no intention of helping to liberate these two innocent workers, when at the same time they kill the spirit of militancy in their own unions.

All honest men and women of the tolling class should raise their voice and demand of Governor Fuller of Massachusetts the unconditional release of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Yours Fraternally,—Mark Stone.

Dear Comrades:
Enclosed please find check for $30.00 for The DAILY WORKER as the sum realized from the picnic which was held by the Workers (Communist) Party of Scranton on June 26.

This was the first picnic of its kind ever held here and brot out a large crowd.—P. Shlekastis, Scranton, Pa.
