"It's impossible to be immoral anymore", said Sherwood Anderson, noted novelist, on his return here from a sojourn in Europe. "The only salvation for sound immorality is to restore long skirts," said Anderson. "Unimaginative people need something to work their imaginations on and the long skirts would turn the trick."

Asked his views regarding censorship of novels, Anderson said ownership should be applied only to bad grammar and poor style.

Morality Minor Issue To Offer Proof Sapiro Cheats Farmers

Reed Says Ford's Opponent Drained "Cooperatives"

DETROIT, Mich., March 17 .- Senator Jim Reed, presidential possibility for the democratic party, today defended Henry Ford, the richest man in America, with a great outpouring of eloquence against Aaron Sapiro who is suing Ford for a million dolars for libel.

"Ford's defense will be that the Dearborn Independent printed the truth about Sapiro," said Reed. He relegated to the background the charges of "Jewish control," said nothing about the "radical" accusations made against Sapiro by Ford, and declared that every charge that Sapiro mulcted the farmers by a series of fake cooperatives would be proven to the hilt.

Sapiro Dislikes New Trend. An effort by Sapiro's attorneys to stop this line of argument resulted did not care who he injured in the judge's chambers between opposing arrival. Fred S. Raymond ruled that Reed could continue while the judge looked up precedents

After Sapiro got $142,-000 in fees from the association, said Reed, a receivership was asked bereferred to by the British note had cause it was in bad financial straits. Reed next followed Sapiro's activities into Kentucky where the plain-tiff organized tobacco growers. Says Sapiro Lobbied.

"The evidence will show that Sapiro went through the states lobbyng to get state legislatures to enact bills validating the contracts of his operatives," said Reed.

Reed declared Sapiro had told the farmers that the average earnings of each cotton worker's family was $340 involved in the strike-celebration of

Coal Operators May Lock Out Illinois

Lewis Continues Temporary, Separate Agreements

HILLSBORO, Ill., March 17.—Signs of a union mine shut-down for three months are strengthened by announcement that the Perry mine at Hillsboro will remain closed 90 days. Perry, the owner, was chairman of the abortive national conference between op-erators and the United Mine Workers at Miami, Fla. A recent tour of the Illinois mine fields revealed unprecedented stores of coal above

The progressive forces in the United Mine Workers of America, who backed John Brophy for president in the last international election, have steadily warned that the coal industry is producing more than it can find a market for, and that the only way to prevent unemployment is a smashing campaign of organization thruout the non-union fields, with the development of union power to shorten the day's work, and distribute the labor requirements over the whole group of miners.

The unprecedented profits made in non-union fields by the operators there can just as well be utilized, in part at least, towards lessening of the danger of a shut-down, say the progressives.

Companies Prepare. The present situation is aggravated by the fact that under the leadership of John L. Lewis, no organization campaign was made in preparation for the expiration of the present contract (March 31) and the employers, feeling sure of winning a strike if they only had enough coal above ground, mined extensively during the last few months. Now Lewis announces that there is going to be no strike, and the coal operators counter by declaring what is in effect, a lockout.

Continue Separate Contracts,

Lewis reported to labor department officials today that he was making substantial progress in signing provisional wage and working contracts with soft coal operators outside the central competitive field of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Western Pennsyl-

Raison Says Son Sent to Unhealthy Building

TRENTON, N. J., March 17 .- Supreme Court Justice Frank T. Lloyd here today signed an order asked by John F. Raison, a Negro, directing the board of education of Berkeley township to admit Raison's son, Frank, 10 years old, to the Toms River public school, or, failing that, to show cause on April 6 next for refusing to admit the boy to that school.

While Raison was asking for this order, State Senator Alexander Simpson, democrat, of Hudson County, introduced a bill in the senate, making the segregation of children "by reason of color, race or religion," a mis-

And after wrapping himself around his fellows would cast longing eyes on the druids. The saint had easy sailing after this. It is true that a few diehards here and there clung to the old system for a while, but St. Patrick finally convinced them that they could have anything they wanted from him as long as they did not make any trouble. He was a good politician.

ST. PATRICK informed the Irish people of that time that there was nothing entirely new under the sun. A spiritual revolution had taken place in Ireland-that was all. Whereas formerly the people worshipped rivers and trees, the sun and the moon, from now on they would worship a god who never came into undignified contact with his followers. After all, gods must insist that their followers do not get too familiar. Anybody could go and scratch his back against a fir tree and pretend that he was looking for spirit-ual satisfaction instead of physical distance and expected his followers and Italy that they may come into Passaic, appeals to all those who have was superior to the old. 10 CENTS EACH explain the phenomenon to their followers. Under the new dispensation there was no need for explanations since it was a sin meriting eternal damnation to ask the priest questions, once christianity was accepted.

SO we are for St. Patrick. Long may be thrive. Furthermore be may have been a revolutionist for all we know. Revolutions have a habit of happening in March. Spring is an intoxicating season and the people have a tendency to develop a fever for toppling things over when the trees begin to sprout and the birds begin to twitter in the fields. Here is a good idea. Let us prove that Patrick was either a revolutionist or the predecessor of the great magleian Houdini. We are bound to win either way. Tammany Hall would never allow the 69th regiment to march in honor of a dead radical and it is not reasonable to expect that Tammany would care to play second fiddle to a man who was sufficiently well up in magic to be capable of stealing an election without having to resort to the crude device of stuffing the ballot boxes.

The Coolidge-Kellogg Collection of Colonial Traitors

There is cold comfort for the Coolidge administration in the recent Latin-American news.

The forces of Kellogg's pet, Diaz, have been given a workmanlike drubbing by the popular army at Muymuy in spite of the "neutralization" of sections of liberal territory by U. S. marines which left the popular army just about enough land to stand on.

Textile Workers of Passaic Promise to Fight for Communism

PASSAIC, N. J., March 17. -The Ruthenberg Memorial meeting held here at The Workers' Home, 27 Dayton Ave., adopted the following resolution:

"We, hundreds of workers of Passaic, N. J., assembled at a memorial meeting held March 13, at the Workers' Home, 27 Dayton Ave., express our greatest grief on the death of Comrade C. E. Ruthenberg, general secretary of the Workers (Communist), Party of America.

The year long textile strike, we just went through, taught us the correctness of Comrade Ruthenberg's teaching. The brutalities of state power against the strikers, the help of the Workers (Communist) Party in our struggle shows us that the only right road to follow is that of the party of the working class.

We pledge ourselves to fight, to continue to fight for the working class. Comrade Ruthenberg gave his life for.

Ruthenberg, the Leader, Marks New Advance of the American Working Class

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

C. E. RUTHENBERG was the outstanding representa-tive of the new type of revolutionary leadership that is developing in the United States.

The mere fact that the American working class struggle for power could produce a Ruthenberg, and the party of Ruthenberg, the Workers (Communist) Party, is the best reply to those pessimists who refuse to admit the forward surge of the labor movement in this country.

Ruthenberg, as the founder and leader of the Workers

Thus the progress of the American revolutionary movement may be judged by the type of leadership of labor in the various stages of advance achieved by the working class in this country.

He made some contribution to the socialist literature of the time. He showed no qualifications for the political direction of the forces of labor, however, being content to fall in line with the Berger-Hillquit-Spargo leader-One characteristic anecdote concerning Hunter told of his attending campaign meetings on New York's East Side during the heat of an electoral struggle. Great throngs were in the streets, as well as at the meetings held, which led Hunter, who lived over in less populated Connecticut to declare, "With such numbers following us, the revolution is surely near."

A WORKERS' PLAY.

The Machine-Wreckers," by Ernst Toller. Alfred A. Knopf, New York. $2. We have our poet of the revolution in Ernst Toller. Toller is the proletariat's own dramatist, writing with a burning pen of the workers' at another table. After that we went to the Miners' Of- struggles and aspirations. He is no slinger of fine phrases or painter of pretty pictures, sitting aloof in a quiet room far from the fight and composing. No! Toller's finest works were written, seated on a hard stool behind steel prison bars. And he was behind those prison bars because of his active participation in the memorable revolutionary uprising in Germany during the Spartacan struggle. Surely a fine schooling for a revolutionary

> This play is a dramatic version of the uprising in 1812 of the English Luddites against the introduction of machinery in the weaving industry. Hundreds of weavers, skilled craftsmen with a trade, are thrown out of work and replaced by one "iron man." There is no more necessity for trained mechanics. Women and children can do their work for smaller wages and labor longer hours. The weavers strike in protest. Not only savagely exploited, but they feel their manhood has been insulted by this dumb iron monster, feelinglessly taking their places. The weavers are left to starve with all its attendant miseries. Their wives sell their bodies for a bread crust and their children begin to resemble bony skeletons. Finally they gather at the factory and in blind fury smash the machines and their leader who counsels patience and international organization. The military arrives with the usual results.

STILL MORE ABOUT "THE NEW MASSES".

"It seems to me," writes Lawrence Williams, "that Benjamin Weiss in his letter about "The New Masses" commits a flagrant injustice against the magazine. > "I agree with Mr. Weiss that there should have been something about China in the last issue and that there should be a more unified expression and support of specific working-class struggles. But this doesn't mean that discussions of sex are irrelevant and fatuous. The fact that sex has been overwritten in novels and vulgarized in the tabloids doesn't mean that it is unimportant. It seems to me that any discussion of a new social and economic order must make some provision for a reorientation of the relations between the sexes, which are at present to so large an extent based on the conception of private property. Perhaps the editors phrased it rather pedantically when they called it "the correct revolutionary proletarian attitude towards sex," but that doesn't invalidate the discussion itself.

"Personally "The New Masses" has meant a great deal to me and I should hate to see it cease publication. There is no magazine in the country

CELEBRATING WITH THE AMBASSADORS.

It is highly probable that the two million six hundred thousand readers of the SATURDAY EVENING POST are beyond regeneration; that the psyche of these readers corresponds in level to the bilge and pie-in-the-sky material contained in its pages, but it may be instructive to make a brief examination of the species of canard gobbled hook and sinker by the more ignorant of the farmers, and that portion of the wage slaves which has deluded itself into a belief that it has something in common with the cap-It was the same outlook that brought Joseph Medill Patterson, now one of the editors of The Chicago Tribune, and also editor of its weekly magazine, "Liberty," is cleverly healed."

Strong Dackers. They should be brief, not over 200 of Kelloggism, Richard Washburn Child, who, unless I am greatly mistaken, at one time served as an ambassador from these states, will serve in this instance.

Mr. Child makes a long-winded and platitudinous rejection of the accusation that Kellogg & Co. are imperialists, with ears straining to hear the clink of golden kale jingled in the hands of Morgan & Co. Any intelligent person who has escaped the obviously capitalistic curriculum in our public schools will have only a snort of disgust for the Rev. Child. For, after several thousand words, we are only more convinced that Kellogg and Cal are

He wants us to take particular notice of the facts. That alone, he intimates, would convince one that the Saint from Minnesota is a humane and far-seeing gentleman. What the facts are is common knowledge to nearly every one by now. He also asks the two million six hundred thousand readers of the Post if we want to see a foreign country controlling the Latin-American states. In his tremendous effort to make a good case for Cal he raises the dubious red herring of a foreign nation only too willing to grab control of these Latin states. Of course terrible Bolshevism is also working its insidious propaganda. . . . We must, he urges, even protect the citizens of these republics when the republic itself arms. He accuses Mexico of supporting a revolution in Nicaragua, by sending arms and ammunition into the territory parceled by God to the exploitation by the U. S. A. He has conveniently forgotten that what the U.S. is actually doing is helping a revolutionist, Diaz, and attempting to suppress Dr. Sacasa, the constitutionally elected president. The adult Child has forgotten many things. But it will hardly matter. The readers of the Saturday Evening Post will hardly notice or attempt to correct any error.

I suppose Mr. Child includes this passage in his argument against the aforementioned accusation: "Will we say goodbye, Panama Canal; au revoir Magdalena Bay; adios, Fonseca; farewell, Nicaragua Canal?" That, in effect, is the essence of imperialism. Get the Nicaragua Canal before England will get it. . . . It might be well to ask here if the U. S. is so intent on being the new Messiah will Nicaragua be the first party to benefit from the proposed canal, or will the United States? And will the United States benefit with the consent of the Nicaraguans and at their expense? The fact that there is a revolution seems to suggest that Diaz is given aid by imperialistic United States because he will make no objections to exploitation. And that Dr. Sacasa is such a nit-wit as to believe that Nicaraguan land should belong to Nicaragua. That is to say that Nicaragua should herself realize on her natural resources, and not the United States. The trouble in Mexico amounts to this: Calles believes that the people of Mexico should be benefited by her natural resources; while the United States imperialists believe that the Standard Oil Co. should benefit.

The workers should, indeed, look at the facts. But they can hardly expect to get accurate impartial facts from Child. His facts are all ambiguous. You can look at them and be convinced that the United States is wrong, but if you are a reader of the Saturday Evening Post your psyche would already have been prepared to accept the view that the United States is right.

This article is probably one of many that will soon be issued, subtle propaganda to prepare you for the next war. We shall soon undoubtefly see many profound articles and editorials "proving" that China is in the wrong. Yes, we may soon expect impartial and accurate reports to the effect that the Nicaraguans, Mexicans, and Chinese are cannibals, crucifiers, rapers of helpless women and children, and all the rest of the bilge that convinced so many people that the last war was fought for democracy.

Organized labor should present a solid front against the imperialistic activities of "our" government. If they don't—we will soon enough bathe once again in blood, in order to preserve the inalienable rights of the capital-
