GASTONIA TRIAL REOPENS TODAY IN WORLD SPOTLIGHT

The Gastonia Struggle Goes On Outside as Well as Inside the Court Room

As the trial of the Gastonia textile workers reopens today at Charlotte, the class struggle that has raged outside the court room, in the slave pens and upon the public highways of North and South Carolina continues unabated. While Carpenter, the fascist leader of the prosecution staff of the state, temporarily lays aside his personal leadership of the armed fascist bands outside of the court room, to utilize every device known to legal tricksters in order to give a legal veneer to the process of railroading to the electric chair or to prison for life the sixteen working class defendants, the superintendents, the foremen, the paid thugs and gunmen, the small business men and kept editors dependent upon the big financiers who own the mills, and the rest of the riff-raff that make up the fascist gangs will continue the campaign of violence and terror against the other organizers and members of the National Textile Workers' Union in an effort to stop the movement against starvation wages, the speed-up, lengthening of hours, women and child slavery.

And even as the new trial begins the employers and the government of North Carolina do not rely upon the legal machinery alone to defeat the working class.

On Friday a blood-thirsty band made a fascist attack upon Charles Bellew, organizer of the union, who was seriously injured by gunshot. The attempt at legal murder in the court room is merged in the fascist combination with the murder campaign by extra-legal means. Workers outside as well as inside the court room are in danger of assassination at the hands of the hirelings of the mill owners and in both cases the workers must defend themselves to the limit and be defended by the rest of the working class.

The slave drivers of the South are goaded to fury because their attacks against the working class, far from defeating or terrorizing the workers, results in an intensification of the drive against rationalization. The working class of the Carolinas and other sections of the industrialized South, under the leadership of the Communist Party, definitely launches a counter-offensive against the miserable conditions imposed upon the workers by the greed and avarice of the mill owners.

The mill owners and their agents in the court room at Charlotte today know that while they are preparing further steps in the legal lynching campaign, the National Textile Workers' Union is busy thruout the textile industry prepare the Textile Workers' Conference of October 12-13, where the gauge of battle will be thrown at the feet of the entire outfit of slave drivers. More than that, the whole capitalist class of the South realizes that it is under fire, that its power of exploitation, heretofore confined only by the limits of physical exhaustion of men, women and children, is to be challenged by the Trade Union Unity League, the new national militant trade union center, that will hold its Southern conference at Charlotte on October 13, concurrently with the Southern Textile Workers' Conference which begins on the 12th of October.

Thus, while the trial is proceeding, the class conflict rages also on the outside of the court room, and is reflected in the court room.

The working class of the United States and of the world must mobilize in millions to defeat the murder conspiracy against the sixteen working men, women and youth on trial today in Charlotte and to enable the Communist Party and the National Textile Workers' Union to defeat the mill owners and their fascist gunmen outside the court room

The militant labor movement is in Gastonia and the South and it is there to stay. The workers must and will answer the attacks of the bosses by a determined, unrelenting struggle for the shorter workday, for unemployment insurance, against capitalist rationalization, for higher wages and for the right to organize, for the organization of workers' defense committees and for the right of workers to defend themselves against attacks of the bosses' agents, for disarming of the the mill bosses and preparation for a mass strike on behalf of the strikers in Gastonia who are fighting the battles of the whole working class.

Charles Bellew, active member of National Textile Workers Union, has reported to the office in Charlotte an attack upon him, which proves the mill bosses' reign of terror continues, and that the life of every organizer and active member of the N. T. W. U. is in danger.

Bellew was discharged from the Cora Mill in Kings Mountain for union activity. He was looking for another job, and at the same time getting union members. When he went back to the Cora mill to talk to friends there, he was attacked by three of the bosses thugs.

"Get the hell out of here, or we'll kill you!" they shouted, waving their guns at Bellew. As he ran, several shots were fired at him. One bullet grazed his side, inflicting a painful flesh wound. He fell, but was able to crawl through the grass and weeds into some tall brush where he hid. After night-

BULLLETIN.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 29 .- On the eve of the Gastonia case trial, the defendants are encouraged by word received of great and militant mass meetings in San Francisco, conferences in Philadelphia, a world drive of meetings by the joint W.I.R. and I.L.D. committee, resolutions of solidarity by militant labor organizations, the continued activities of the National Textile Workers' Union for its Charlotte Textile Conference, October 12-13, and the Trade Union Unity Southern Convention called to meet at the same place and date to establish a wide labor movement, which will also be a defense for the workers on trial.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 29 .- The Gastonia case begins again in the court room here tomorrow. The mill owners' battery of special prosecutors, including Clyde Hoey, supposed to be the sharpest in the South, and connected by family with the biggest mill owners, is again up a Gastonia open air demonstra- ready with his arguments for killing in the electric chair all organizers of unions that interfere with profits by trying to win any increase in wages or betterment of conditions for his mill slaves. Solicitor Carpenter of Gastonia, and Major Bulwinkle, the Manville-Jenckes attorney, have taken a few days' vacation from their regular work of leading mill owners' gunmen on by workers fighting and protecting murder forays against unionists, and will be in the Charlotte courtroom, actively prosecuting the sixteen workers on trial there. Manville-Jenckes agents have been actively visiting, spying upon and endeavoring to for several blocks, and then re- corrupt or terrorize the juror material in Mecklinburg County, as they did in Gaston Counopened the meeting. Placards bear- ty before the change of venue was granted.

A whole series of terroristic outrages have taken place since the mistrial was declared in the first Charlotte trial, nearly a month ago.

The night of the mistrial, Solicitor Carpenter and Major Bulwinkle led a gang which kidnapped Organizer Ben Wells of the National Textile Workers' Union, and C. D. Saylors and C. M. Lell, and later flogged Wells into unconsciousness. A part of this gang paraded in autos to Charlotte with the expressed intention of lynching the defense counsel, and union leaders.

This was followed Sept. 11 by an attempt to lynch Organizer Frank Fortner at Dallas. He drove away his attackers with gunfire.

Eight organizers were arrested Sept. 12, and charged with sedition. The case had to be dropped, as there was no evidence for the prosecution. Murder Woman Unionist.

What to Do for the Defense of the 23 Gastonia Prisoners

The 16 Gastonia prisoners go on trial again inside of ten days, Sept. 30, while workers throughout the world are demonstrating on their behalf-demonstrating against their imprisonment and against the reign of terror in the South. The trial of the seven other workers, charged with assault, also will start soon.

But not enough has been done! You must broaden the base of the united front! You must bring into the protest movement millions of workers who have not yet heard of Gastonia.

From today until the trial reopens every worker in America conscious of the class struggle in Gastonia should do the following: 1. Broaden the base of the united fronts in all cities by calling all local trade unions and other workers' organizations to a delegate conference before Oct.

15. 2. Send speakers to all local trade unions and other workers' organizations, explain the issues in the Gastonia case, ask for donations.

3. Continue city-wide mass protest meetings, but pay special attention to street meetings and factory gate meetings.

4. Induce every labor organization in your city to pass a protest resolution and send a telegram of greeting and solidarity to the Gastonia defendants, Mecklen-

PARTY LIFE

Notice of Central Control Committee Decisions on Zimmerman, Bail and Kruse

Sasha Zimmerman is expelled from the Communist Party of the United States of America for anti-Comintern and opportunist counterrevolutionary attitude and activities, for a defeatist position on the question of mass struggles of the workers, for being an active agent of the renegade Lovestone group, taking leading part in their anti-Party meetings, fighting for their renegade line, and carrying their disruptive and splitting activities even into the mass organizations of the workers.

Alex Bail has been expelled from the C.P. of U.S.A. for aligning himself with the renegade Lovestone group, for taking an active part in their disruptive and splitting activities, for issuing lying statements against the Party, and for having used his position as District Organizer of District 1, while pretending acceptance of the C.I. Address, to disrupt the organization of the Party in that district and to steal Party records from the District Office.

Wm. F. Kruse has been expelled from the Party by action of the District Executive Committee of District 8, in which the Secretariat and the Central Control Committee have concurred, for having aligned himself with the renegade Lovestone group and taken an anti-Comintern and anti-Party attitude.

A functionaries meeting in Detroit endorsed unanimously a motion condemning the Lovestone Party splitters, endorsing the actions of the Polcom against the adherents of the Lovestone group and condemning the raids of Lovestone and his agents on Party headquarters "as methods of the police department." The meeting pledged itself "to conduct a merciless fight against the Right wing organized outside the Party under Lovestone and demnants of the right wing inside the Party. We condemn Lifshitz, Freeman and other comrades who are sending out anti-Party bulletins in Jewish and recommend their expulsion to the Central Committee."

The Suppression of 'Radnik' in Canada

On August 6th the Chicago Tribune carried a press notice to the effect that a Chicago South Slavic daily paper, "Radnik" has been barred from the mail in Canada. A few days later a Serbian daily in Pittsburgh, "Srbobran," serving as the mouthpiece on the American continent of the Jugoslavian bandit regime, carried an announcement of the Jugoslavian consul in Canada that "Radnik" has been suppressed in Canada, and any worker found with copies of "Radnik" in his possession is liable for arrest and deportation. This announcement appeared on the first page, featured as the main news, under a huge headline across the whole page. The workers throughout Canada were officially warned by the consul not to accept "Radnik" if it is sent to them in any form or way, since it is illegal to possess copies of "Radnik" in Canada.

The management of "Radnik" received a notification days later from the custom officials in Canada, stating that under the Canadian custom regulations "Radnik" is barred from entering into Canada. No reasons were given for the action taken in barring "Radnik" from Canada

Although no official reasons were given for suppressing "Radnik" in Canada, we know the reasons that prompted the Canadian authorities to take the action that they took against "Radnik." We can detect two major reasons behind this action. First, the suppression of "Radnik" is a part of the campaign of suppression and terrorism carried on against the Communist movement in Canada, and second, we have unmistakable proof that the bloody regime of the military dictatorship in Jugoslavia also played a role in this act of suppression. These two points do not exclude, but rather complement each other. They reflect the sharpening of the class struggle within Canada and the process of unification and consolidation of the anti-Bolshevik front on an international scale, in which Great Britain plays a leading role. The Canadian agents of the military dictatorship of King Alexander and his executioners assisted greatly the Canadian authorities in suppressing "Radnik," while these authorities did an inestimable service to the hangers on of the Jugoslavian regime in suppressing "Radnik."

SKINNING THE IMMIGRANTS.

After the restriction of immigration to the United States, the bulk of the South Slavic emmigrants that left Jugoslavia went primarily to the South American countries and to Canada. Many came to Canada with the hope of eventually, in one way or another, crossing the border into the United States. In Canada these new arrivals were an easy prey not only to the Canadian employers who skinned these unfortunates alive, but also to various "patriotic" swindlers, that fleeced these helpless immigrants in the name of their own nationality, country and religion. These "patriotic" swindlers in many cases worked hand in hand with the most ruthless exploiters for procuring cheap labor. Not knowing the language and custom of the country, most of these immigrants had to depend on "friends," agents and "influential" people for getting jobs. And in order to get a job they had to put up from ten to fifty dollars, only to find out that the jobs that they did get through this kind of "influence" were of such a nature that they could not endure them. Invariably the pay would be too low, far below the average Canadian standard, so that they could not make a living on them. It mattered little if in a day or two they would quit such a job, there were plenty others in need of jobs, and business was really lucrative in this manner. Many instances could be noted where foremen in shops played this game with the Jugoslavian "patriotic" citizens in thus skinning the workers. A worker would get a job for a certain amount of money, and then after a day or so he would get discharged, and the process would be repeated with another victim.

The Foreign Policy of the British Labor Government

It is characteristic of the present period of sharpening imperialist antagonisms and war-preparation that the principal activities of the new Mritish Labor Government in its first three months of office have been in the sphere of foreign policy and Empire policy; and that these activities have displayed from the outset an openly aggressive national-jingo character which has considerably taken by surprise the pacifists who placed their hopes in the return of a Labor Government in Britain as the opening of a new era of world peace.

The Labor Government came into office on a program of "peace" -peace in industry and peace abroad. This was the tone of their election campaign. This was still the character of expresson of i their initial King's speech. The Second International, at the Zurich meeting of its Executive, built up upon the return of the British Labor Government as its central pillar an international perspective of diminishing antagonisms and advance to peace.

Within three months the harsh character of realities has broken through these dreams. These three months have seen as their most characteristic feature the chauvinist stand of Snowden at the Hague, bringing the whole European situation to renewed crisis and tension unequalled since the Dawes settlement; the repture of the Soviet negotiations; and the direct opening of war by the Chinese Counterrevolutionary Government, with British assistance, against the Soviet Union. At the same time, the internal situation has been marked by the cotton lockout of half a million workers for two weeks, nivolving the largest struggle since the general strike, and "settled" by the Labor Government only on the basis of an all-round wage-cut imposed by arbitration under its auspices.

This contradiction between the profession of the Labor Government and the realization goes to the root of the whole present situation. The easy "pacific" role of 1924 is no longer possible. The tasks to which the Labor Government is called by the bourgeoisie are now of a sterner character, and directly related to the advance to war.

The Labor Government is carrying forward the policy of the Conservative Baldwin Government through new forms. As a Labor Minister, the Under-Secretary for War, Earl de la Warr, boasted at a Labor Party meeting: "We are doing the things the Baldwin Government only talked of doing."

What are these new forms of the continuous policy of British Imperialism, which is today expressed through a Labor Government, with the united support of the capitalist press from right to left behind it?

The Conservative Government had reached a dangerous impasse in its foreign policy. With the breakdown of the Geneva Naval Conference, and the crisis over the Anglo-French Naval Agreement, the Anglo-American antagonism had come out into the open, and was reaching a point of extreme tension, at the same time as the break with the Soviet Union was leading the way to war on that front. Conservative policy was thus leadnig Britain straight in the direction of war on two fronts, and with the Anglo-French alliance as its only positive basis of support. But British Imperialism is not yet ready, without a previous period of preparation and consolidation both internally and externally, to face directly American Imperialism; nor can the primary aim of war on the Soviet Union be successfully realized except on the basis of agreement with America. Therefore a halt had to be called, and some basis of understanding reached with America, to gain a breathing time; and during this breathing time some measure of relations might be re-established with the Soviet Union, thus meeting the demands of the industrialists, until the time should be ripe for attack.

The Labor Government, accordingly, came into office with the following tasks in the sphere of foreign policy:

1. By "peace" gestures to deceive the masses as to the real advance to war, and to attach the workers to imperialist policy and to the coming war (this essential task of war-preparation can only be accomplished by a "left" government, not by a Conservative Government, which is suspect of the masses).

2. To endeavor to reach a temporary understanding with America, and to secure American co-operation or agreement fo rthe campaign against the Soviet Union.

Reparations Bank, to be the guiding centre of all the leading central banks except New York, i. e. to subordinate London and leave New York independent and supreme.

At the same time New York and Paris have carried through a very deadly offensive aganist London's gold position, the final outcome of which is still uncertain. The gold reserve falls steadily; the forced raising of the London Bank Rate to 5.5 per cent ni February last was already a very serious step; and now the new raising of the New York discount rate to 6 per cent, or above the London rate (exactly two days after the opening of the Hague Conference, or immediately on receipt of the news of Snowden's stand), has produced very menacing position. Not since 1914 has the City and Bank of England had to face so heavy a crisis.

British Imperialism, through the Labor Government, fought to secure control of the Young Plan Conference by obtaining its site in London, and consequently the probable site of the International Bank in London, which would render it subordinate to London. The stubborn opposition of France prevented this. This was the second defeat, after the Experts Conference. The third round, the Hague Conference itself, now became of decisive importance. It was a case of fight or go under.

In consequence, British Imperialism at the Hague Conference has had to throw pacific pretenses to the winds, and fight like a beast at bay, ready to wreck the whole conference and the Young settlementh rather than suffer defeat. For this role, the acid Snowden, the daling of the city, was aptly chosen. In this way it has fallen to the Labor Government, the "conciliator," the "pacifist," to have to appear as the wrecker of the peace of Europe, and to display the most reckless intransigent chauvinist role since the days of Curzon. It has fallen to these "socialists" to play the role of the militant gladiators of the city. The irony has not been lost on the world. The Second International has been thrown into typical nationalist confusion, with its Chairman Vandervelde solemnly rebuking Snowden for violating its principles. When MacDonald comes to Geneva to mouth his pacifist platitudes, they will fnid a less enthusiastic audience than in 1924.

The jingo stand of Snowden at the Hague is of profound significance as a weather-signal of the whole international situation. For Britain and the Labor Party it has been nothing short of a trial warmobilization. The entire capitalist press has stoked up the jingo spirit behind the Labor Government. The unity of parties has been proclaimed. "I have not in my time seen such unanimity" writes an old member of the Independent Labor Party (William Stewart in the "Forward"), "excepting only once, and that was when Lord Grey made the speech which ushered this country into the war." The Daily Herald has swelled with patriotic pdire; it fnids in Snowden a-Disraeli! "Not since Disraeli has any British statesman uttered across a conference table words so sharp in challenge, so pregnant with ardor, so significant ni their implication" (Daily Herald, 13, 8, 29). "The people of this country," has declared a Labor Minister, "irrespective of all party ties and alliances, are coming to the conclusion that the country is at last governed, and really governed . . . We all feel today at last that England once again counts in the Councils of Europe; we are once again a nation." The Labor Party is finding its role as the war-leader of the nation.

Meanwhile, while Snowden has been maintaining the fighting front at the Hague, MacDonald has been manoeuvering desperately against time in Mritain to buy off the American offensive, and reach, on a basis of naval concessions, a paper agreement, and economic help to save the pound. The outcome of these negotiations is still to be announced; but the American price is likely to be a high one, both in rsepect to naval concessions, and for economic help.

Closely in connection with this situation must be taken the sharp turn in Soviet relations. In refiance of its election promises, and to the surprise, not only of its own supporters, but also of the Liberals, the Labor Government, after long delay in niitiating even the appearance of negotiations, has ruptured negotiations at th eoutset by taking the full Chamberlain position as a preliminary condition. Despite the pressure of o considerable section of British industrialists, whose dissatisfaction has been directly voiced by the Liberal Party, the basic hositlity of British Imperialism and financial interests to the Soviet Union has proved dominant. The economic advance of the Soviet Union, and the successes of the five-year-plan, have undoubtedly had an important part in determining this attitude. Even more clearly than in the rupture of negotiations, the Labor Government's role in relation to the Soviet Union has been displayed in the open war-provocation of the Chinese militarists. The war advance of the Chinese Government has gone hand in hand with the break of the Anglo-Soviet negotiations. The relations of the British Labor Government with the Chinese counter-revolutionary Govern of the closest. In the short period since its accession to office, not only has a Trade Tready been negotiated, but the sending of a Naval Mission has been further announced. Behind the Chinese militarists is the hand of the British Labor Government. The immediate future outcome is likely to depend in large measure on the projected Washington Conference in the autumn. This conferenc ewill determine, firstly the possibility of a temporary agreement with America on the basis of naval concessions by Britain, and secondly the possibility of Britain securing American co-operation in a common policy in relation to the Soviet Union. If these two objectives are secured, then the conditions are laid for a very rapid advance to imperialist war on the Soviet Union under British auspices. if the Chinese provocation will not have already forced the situation and produced this result beforehand.

HOMECOMING.

FROM this point began a line of workmen's houses, little detached villages and huts; San Sebastino stretches out in one long line along the main road. Here and there, houses in clumps. He was coming to one of these little colonies. It was still a good two or three miles to his house.

But as he drew near, a figure loomed in the doorway of one of the houses, and seeing him, threw up both arms. "Jose!"

It was Santander, his companion of old days in suffering, in the fight.

"Jose! I knew your face! So its's you, then?"

Standing there motionless, with voice half-choked by the haste of his journey, and by a sort of bar that lay across his heart, Jose replied quite simply: "It's me."

"I knew your face!" Santander shouted, louder than ever. "You havent changed much. Besides, Clemence your wife told us you were coming," he added; she was here actually last night, thinking that you'd be here sooner. But as she saw no one coming, she went home when dark came on."

And ony a few steps away from the place where he had dropped down to sleep! If he had known that Clemence's arms were waiting for him there, he would easily have walked a minute or two longer.

. . . WHILE they were talking, friends and comrades of old times had come out of house doors; up went their arms, too, in amazement. Now they drew near, shouting in chorus, and their eyes rolled under their swarthy brows. They even had tears in their eyes as they seized hold of Jose, kissed him, clapped him to their fond and manly chests.

Women, too, were gathering round. And the children round about had stopped their play and were watching the scene.

Even Father Leonte was there-Jose hadn't been on good terms with him in the old days. Father Leonte had grown round and fat, and his thick underlip seemed to have been rubbed quite recently in fresh butter. He smiled and waved his hands, but something a little sly and unpleasant still lingered in his eye.

"Jose! Come in! A drop of wine!"

A drop of wine offered on such an occasion was not a thing to be refused; besides, it would give him strength.

"Yes. But only one glass, and I'll drink it standing. Then I must be off."

"Yes, yes, they're expecting you at home."

None the less, he yielded to the entreaties of his friends and sat down (for he was already tired after covering this tink stretch of road and his body felt the need to relax), while Santanler's wife rushed off to find bottles.

"	COME on,	old chap.	just	one more."

"There! Now I must be off." Then he found he simply couldn't get up.

His head was dizzy with the three glasses he had drunk. In desperation, to put heart into him and life into his legs, he poured himself out a fourth glass, brimful, and swallowed it down at a gulp. The effect was as if an axe had thundered down on the back of his head, and he understood vaguely what a crime he had just committed.

The friends standing round asked: 'What's the matter with him ?" and were mystified-for it isn't so easy as all that to understand what it's like, to stay shut up in a cage for years and years and only eat soaked beans and watery soups and drink nothing but water. And the four glasses he had drunk produced the same effect on him as four pitchersfull would on an ordinary wayfarre.

His brain seemed to be in a pulp, and though he was sitting down, he had to put out both hands to stop himself from falling. The heads and shoulders round him doubled and trebled, and the smile of welcome on their mouths spread out and out, away to the horizon; the walls slanted and the people passing to and fro made zig-zags in the air. and then were blotted out.

But the worst thing of all was that to begin with, he remained lear-headed enough on the surface, on top of it all, to understand what a gulf he had tumbled into.

FIT of fury came over him. He rose and yelled. But the sudden outburst choked him and he fell back into his seat.

COMMUNISM-THE ANSWER OF THE WORKERS.

The lot of the South Slavic immigrants in Canada is indeed a miserable one. Exploited to the very marrow of their bones by the ruthless employers, robbed and swindled by their own patriotic countrymen at every stop, these workers are very responsive to Communist agitation. The ideas of Communism spread with a remarkable rapidity among them. In many cases they themselves, without any outside inducement, would write to "Radnik" for literature and send in subscriptions, as well as make requests for speakers and organizers to come to Canada and organize the South Slavic workers in Canada into the Communist Party, the International Labor Defense, and into militant unions. A real indignation swept over these workers when they learned about the suppression of "Radnik."

A RENEGADE AT WORK.

The bandit regime in Jugoslavia sent its agents after these workers to keep them in check and "loyal" to their home country, that is, to the ruling bourgeoisie, but without any avail. The memory of the horrors under the regime of white terror was too fresh in the minds of these workers. The priests, the patriotic politicians, and the rest of the agents that the ruling regime sent after the workers had no effect on them. The government of the military dictatorship of Jugoslavia went even so far as to send a renegade of the Communist Party to Canada, a certain Stankovich, who was deported from the United States on a previous occasion, and later put himself at the disposal of the bloody regime of Jugoslavia, furnished him with money to issue a paper, and keeps financing this paper, in the hope of winning the South Slavic workers in Canada for the support of the existing government of Jugoslavia. But in vain, this notorious renegade of the Communist Party, this hireling of the bloody regime has carried on a systematic campaign among the South Slavic workers in Canada against the Communist movement and tried his darndest to popular'" the regime of blood and murder among these workers, but he might as well try to run water uphill. His paper, the "Canadian Herald," has no circulation, the workers turn their backs on it, it is able to come out only through the subsidy of the Jugoslavian government. And the Jugoslav government itself makes no bones about subsidizing papers outside its borders; it openly proclaims that as a necessary policy for keeping the emigrants loyal to their home country. The fact of the matter is that only subsidized papers support the existing regime, which today finds support only by bayonets, terrorism, murder, im-prisonment, etc.

THE BARRING OF "RADNIK."

It was in the interest of this bloody regime that "Radnik" should be suppressed. "Radnik" carried on a consistent campaign against the military dictatorship in Jugoslavia, and its policy of massacreing

3. To re-establish British independence of action in Europe, and check the one-sided dependence on France, which was hindering the possibility of a temporary agreement with America.

4. To carry forward the preparations against the Soviet Union, which might include temporary negotiations or relationships, at the same time as war was being pushed aheadk

But the situation since the Labor Government has come into power has shown a sharpness of antagonism which has not made the accomplishment of its tasks easy, and has considerably precipitated the rate of development.

The Paris Conference of Experts had already shown this increasing violence of imperialist antagonisms. At the Paris Conference America succeeded in forming a united front with France and Italy against Britain, by offering concessions to France and Italy at the British expense, and thus isolating the British representatives, who had either to bear the onus of sole rejection or capitulate. And in the same Young Plan, htus carried through in the face of very considerable protests and threats on the part of the British to leave the Conference, the American financiers succeeded in incorporating their own plan of the International Bank, to be far more than a the working masses, the peasants and national minorities. The white terror in Jugoslavia has become so fierce that the police authorities gave open instructions to the gendarmerie and the police that it is not profitable to take Communist prisoners and go through the inconvenience of trial, imprisonment, etc. It is much more efficient to shoot them on the spot, excuses can be easily manufactured for the course taken. As a result, Communists, or those suspected of sympathy to Communism, are being murdered on the spot by the police and gendarmerie. The campaign against the authorities of the white terror dictatorship in Jugoslavia had a big effect on the working masses in the United States and Canada. As a consequence, the agents of the Belgrade bloody regime intensified their denunciations of workers sympathetic to the Communist movement. They translated articles from "Radnik" whenever the British or Canadian government and ruling class was attacked, and they pointed out alarmingly the rapid growth and influence of "Radnik" among the Jugoslavian workers in Canada. No doubt direct requests were made by these agents for the suppression of "Radnik."

CO-OPERATION BETWEEN MacDONALD AND KING ALEXANDER.

It would be incorrect to think, however, that the suppression of "Radnik" in Canada is exclusively the work of the agents and stool pigeons of the Jugoslavian government. But that there was cooperabetween them and the Canadian government there can be no doubt. It is to be remembered that the Jugoslavian delegates, representing one of the bloodiest, labor-hating dictatorships in the world, supported the representatives of the British "labor government" in the recent conference on the Young Plan in Hague. The military dictatorship of King Alexander and his reactionary generals found it very easy to support the propositions of the "Labor" government of MacDonald. In the same way the MacDonald Government of Great Britain, acting through the agency of the Canadian government, found it easy to cooperate with the agents and stool pigeons of the white terror govern-ment of Jugoslavia in suppressing "Radnik." In this action they performed a mutual service.

The suppression of "Radnik" must be linked up, not only with the strikebreaking activities of the agents of the Jugoslav government, but also with the growing acuteness of the class struggle in Canada. Canadian capitalism, together with British capitalism and world capitalism generally, is running into ever greater difficulties. These it tries to solve by means of rationalization and war. On the one hand it is carrying on a campaign of rationalization, which means a keener exploitation of labor, and on the other, it is actively engaged in the war preparation against the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, as a part of the British Empire and world capitalism, and likewise it is drawn into the world conflict of the imperialist powers themselves. The working class of Canada, like the working class of the United States and the world over, is showing signs of militancy and resistance to capitalist rationalization at the expense of the very life blood of the workers, and to the war preparations. From this follows the most savage attack on the Canadian working class, especially on the great mass of the unskilled and immigrant workers. The Communist Party of Canada, being the advance guard and leader of these struggles of the workers, naturally receives the brunt of these attacks of the employers and the government. Not only has "Radnik" been suppressed. but other Communist publications from the United States have been barred from Canada. The Canadian authorities recently took action to suppress the organ of the Communist Party of Canada itself, the "Worker." So we see that the suppression of "Radnik" is a part of the general assault on the working class and the Communist movement in particular.

The British Labor Government has thus already in less than three months abundantly shown itself, as the Communists predicted, not a government of "peace and reconciliation," but a government of direct war-preparation, and ready, when the occasion arises, to stand for. ward as the leader of British imperialist at war. The workers in Britain and throughout the world need to prepare urgently for this perspective.

These attacks are being carried out under the MacDonald "labor" government, the same government that talks hypocritically about peace and goes full power ahead in its preparation for war and in lining up the imperialist governments for an armed attack against the Soviet Union, and is making alliances with and pressing into its service the bloodiest regimes the world has ever known, whose very existence depends upon the wholesale butchering of the rebellious working masses. This is the same government that is shooting down revolutionary workers in India, that is suppressing the struggle and revolt of the subjugated and oppressed colonial people the world over.

Our answer to this suppression and terrorism must be a general intensification of our activities all along the line. We must build our revolutionary movement and extend its influence everywhere. We must build new militant industrial unions. We must resist capitalist rationalization and fight their war schemes against the Soviet Union. We must coordinate our revolutionary activities and struggles with the struggles and movement of the workers in Canada and every other country in the world. This must be our answer to the capitalist campaign of suppression and terrorism carried on against the Communist movement and the working class generally.

Then up he got once more, head straining towards the door and road, the look of a damne dsoul in his eyes.

They rushed towards him, supported him. They were ashamed, they were horror-struck and yet they weren't to blame and they were innocent. They hadn't stopped to think, and that was how the harm was done.

Jose clung to the door-post, supported by Pablo. "The air will do him good."

But the air, in its turn, turned traitor in all innocence, and instead of blowing away the intoxication which a few glasses had instilled into the home-comer's oversensitive brain, it only fanned the flames within.

HE talked long to her in supplicating tones.

"What, don't you recognize me? Where are the kiddies and the tiny 'uns? Where are they hiding? Let's have a look at them."

His friends tried to pull him together by yelling all sorts of objurgations into his ears. Some shook him roughly, others implored him, not knowing which was the wisest course. The uproar was deafening.

Father Leonte stood a little to one side, behind the group, watching it all with a wicked little smile.

Meanwhile a young woman had come down the road from Sebastiona. Her face was all smiles as she arrived. Seeing the gathering there, her face grew brighter still. "He's there!" she said to herself. When she saw the wretched blear-eyed, slack-kneed man who was struggling there, she screame daloud.

The sound of that voice had a strange effect on Jose Real's senses. We have heard of the 'voice of the blood' and perhaps there is something in the phrase, for he instantly calmed down and looked towards her.

But the young woman had covered her tear-stained face with her hands, so that the father could not see the lingering traces of little Saravia's childish features, and he looked away. Nor did he see the little child clinging to his mother's blue skirt, hiding behind her, in sudden fright. . . .

ND then a kind of evil dream or hallucination came over him. He A thought that he was standing before a door and that they would not open for him.

"Open the door, darling, it's me," he cried, clasping both hands.

Then he collapsed on a boundary stone. Roud him the folks rushed to and fro, literally not knowing what to do; they held him, to prevent his falling and hurting himself. But those who stayed with him therethe rest had been compelled to go away to their work-were unable. do what they could for hours and hours, to rouse him from his torpid condition.

At last, the moment came when the individual who had travelled with him and shadowed him came up and explained that it was time for him to go back to catch his train. They had to carry him to the station in a carriage. Thence the train would bear him almost to the prison gates, which would never open to let him out again until he came forth "feet first," as French workmen say.

He collapsed in a corner of the carriage and slept. But while he slept, his face suddenly lit up. And no doubt he accomplished in that dream what he had failed to do in life. That was the only path to happiness left to Jose Real-that victim of his own wretchedness and of the clumsy, well-meant kindness of his brothers in wretchedness.
