and public officials at Washington, D. C., on Dec. 29, Otto T. Mallery, a leading American economist, in setting forth the supposed "solutions which capitalism might have for the crisis which daily deepens, indulged in some plain speaking, according to the following lines from the N. Y.

"Mr. Mallery asserted that no government had ever stopped a depression except by war, and while it was dangerous to try to halt a depression, it was also dangerous not to attempt to do so."

This, workers, is the best "cure" that capitalism can suggest. The 'cure" that throws millions of you onto the battlefield, so that in the destruction of the billions of dollars worth of goods, a means may be found to use up the "over-production" of these goods and again start wheels of industry-again, inevitably, if the process works as the capitalists wish, to pile up another "over-production" and new wars to

That many millions of workers will certainly lose their lives thus in the expected "cure" of the capitalist crisis, is a matter of little importance to the capitalists. Indeed, if we accept Mr. Mallery's own words tor it, not to have a war is at least equally dangerous to capitalism as

Why is it "dangerous" to capitalism not to have war? Why if not that the masses bearing the burden of the capitalist crisis refuse to bear starvation any longer and threaten to end capitalism by revolution. It is up to the working class to make the capitalists understand that war making is loaded with even more certain and speedier dangers to capitalist rule. It is the duty of the working class now, before war comes, to prepare itself to turn the coming imperialist war into a war of the coiling masses to overthrow capitalism.

War, in spite of Mr. Mallery, is thus no "cure" for capitalist crisis. But it is clear to workers that the revolutionary overthrowal of capitalism-18 the cure for the miseries and starvation the workers bear in a capi-

Indeed, it is ONLY in the country where capitalism has been overrown, that the world crisis of capitalism has had no effect on the lives the workers. In the Soviet Union, there is no unemployment, no wage uts, no unbearable misery and insecurity for the workers, no starvation haunting the door of every worker's home as today it haunts the homes of American workers.

But the American workers should be forewarned of what their bosses have in store for them in addition to the starvation they now suffer. And profiting by the living example of the Union of Socialist Soviet blics, and armed with the lessons of revolution taught by the Russian workers led by Lenin, the American workers should look confidently into the future when, either with war or without it, they will overthrow capitalism with all its starvation and war, and establish a Workers' and Farmers' Government.

BEST WEEK IN DAILY WORKER DRIVE LIKELY A 493 MONTHS OF SUBS COME IN WEDNESDAY

WEDNESDAY'S mail brought in 493 months of subscriptions for the Daily Worker, which shows that the campaign for 5,000 12-month criptions to the Daily Worker has not slackened this week but has gone steadily upward. Now is the time for a great united effort in all districts to keep up the progress and bring us up to and over the 20 per cent mark on the way of the coal.

Chicago, with 123 months of subs Wednesday, gained on New York, thich sent in only 28 months. Philadelphia, with 82 months, did better than it has been doing for a long time. Minneapolis shows it is getting into the race, sending 58 months for the day. Connecticut, Detroit, and Cleveland also did pretty well. Other districts fell behind. Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Seattle, especially must wake up and join the march.

SPREAD socialist competition in the Daily Worker drive among individuals, units, sections, districts and mass organizations. Socialist competition is spreading in the membership recruiting drive of the et into the lead in both drives. Canvassing makes new contacts. Daily Worker subscriptions draw new contacts into the Party.

Unite the workers of America behind the impending Kentucky strike. Unite the workers of America behind the widening struggles against wage cuts and terror. Help build a mass Communist Party with subscriptions to the Daily Worker.

A strong Soviet movement is developing in Manchuria on the background of the Japanese banditry and the tremendous mass upsurge against the mperialists and their Kuomintang lackeys. Red workers and peasant troops have given battle to the Japanese invaders in several section of Manchuria. The town of Nji-Dscang, in South Manchuria was under the control of a Soviet for two days. The Japanese newspaper "Nichi Nichi Shinbun" in Shanghai reported in its evening edition of Nov. 5:

"The mounted bandits in the two spheres Liao-zung and Tai-An (in South Manchuria) were organized early this year under the ledaership of the Manchurian Committee of the Chinese Communists at the Red Defense Corps. The Red Defense Corps took about $100,000 from the rich peasants. Soon after it united with the Anti-Japaness Fighters League and changed its name to 'Fighting People's Army of the North East. Not only it this true for the year that is now draw- the capitalists of the crisis stricken ing to a close, but the following year will see an even greater growth, an increase of 30 per cent in national income at a time when capitalist industry all over the world is rotting away because of the crisis.

The working class, of course, is view of the control figures for the the main beneficiary of this tremendous victory. With every assurance that the Five-Year Plan will be completed in four years, the Soviet Plan in four years!" workers are gaining increases in their tandard of living all along the line.

The stark contrast between the totals of unemployment in the capitalist countries and the virtual shortage of workers in the Soviet Union is further emphasized by the control igures of the Five-Year Plan for 1932, which calls for an increase in the number of workers from 18,700,-000 to 21,000,000.

With the capitalists of America lashing wages right and left, the Five-Year Plan envisages an increase in total wages for Soviet workers of 7.700,000,000 rubles. In addition to this monetary increase in wages, the Soviet worker will receive the increase in real wages in the form of an increase in governmental expenditures for cultural and social requirements, including free medica treatment, social insurance and education of 2,600,000,000 roubles.

Red Division Defeats Counter-Revolutionary Troops

It also indicates that in the zones of Hai-Zen and Liao-Yang, as well as in the valley of the Liao River, South Manchuria, there are strong armed detachments of anti-imperialist masses. In the Hai-Zen zone a Red division, 600 strong, defeated the troops of the counter-revolutionary Chinese adolords and bankers who are co- tion and terror has been increased operating with the Japanese in the armed seizure of Manchuria and murderous attacks on the masses. One thing that is favorable District is that we got in in this 2 weeks etal workers-if we take the past we will see that in a period of a month or 6 weeks, we have gotten 6 or 7 at most. But the needle trades 8 in a period of 2 weeks which shows that in the union we have not yet learned to recruit from the Fraction. Out of 114 only 6 egro workers. The Negro work in this District very weak. It is in a very bad situation due to the confusion, due to the fact that we have no definite program and that many did not and still do not understand the question of LSNR, etc., and the whole question of approach to the Negro workers. All this has been so seriously neglected that we have in this 2 weeks recruited only 6 Negro workers. Then the fact that we have only 13 native born. It is quite true that some of the others are American citizens, but still it shows that while we talk of reaching the American workers we have not yet overcome this serious situation. Then we have only 10 women, most of them housewives. This is a serious shortcoming in connection with the work among women because it shows we have not orientated toward the factories as far as women workers are concerned.

You have received our plan which insofar as it distinguishes itself from past plans in that we do not give the comrades definite figures, we ask them to discuss it and on the basis of their strength in the fraction and union, to decide on a figure. We held section functionary meetings to discuss this and held District functionary meetings. Last week the unit meeting took up the question of recruiting and on the basis of their discussion we are getting the quotas for the recruiting drive. Also special fraction meetings are taking place this week where we have a district representative take up with the fraction the problem of recruiting-recruiting through the fraction for the Party and building

SOME TENDENCIES OF OPPORTUNISM WHICH MUST BE FOUGHT AGAINST

In the recruiting campaign that the Party is arrying on at the present time, it has become ecessary, especially in this period of sharpened struggles, to draw into our ranks new proletarian elements, workers who may not have a theoretical background, but who are ready to come into the ranks of our Party on the basis of daily struggles around the concrete issues confronting them in their particular factories at this time. This becomes necessary, especially in view of the fact that in the registration of he Farty, and the functionaries meetings, that re have held in the last few months, we see hat in many cases our section and unit funcionaries are not workers who have been hit by the crisis very hard and do not fully understand the tasks facing our Party at this present eriod. We have a situation where leading omrades in the sections do not consider one a istrict representative if he is "just" a worker, nd one who does not possess a knowledge of he English language, but who speaks with an ecent; in spite of the fact that this comrade may have a clear understanding of the line and tasks of our Party. There still exists the tenency to consider only leaders those who can eak very long, who can generalize, who may o in the process of struggle have become deand can present concretly tasks facing

able to debate on theories, but not workers do not intend to belittle the importance of ory nor the necessity of theory, but, theory in the abstract does not mean a thing for us We must have these theories concretized around the daily needs of the workers for only when theory becomes clear to the workers around their daily issue can we hope to carry on the real struggles of the workers. Such tendency on the part of functionaries must be fought against by the Party as sharply as possible for this tendency hinders the Party in bringing forward and developing new proletarian forces as the leaders of our Party and the struggles which

It is clear that when a new worker comes into our Party as a result of struggles, he has read very little, and has not got a glib tongue. He is sometimes lost among some of these comrades who talk much, and in reality say and do

In this Recruiting Campaign, we must bring in real proletarian elements, especially from the basic industries in this district, marine, metal, transport, etc., and bring these proletarian elements not only into the ranks of the Party, but draw them into activities and develop them as quickly as possible, and in many cases, where necessary, change with the help of these new forces the functionaries in some of our sections and units. In that way we can really proletarianize the ranks of our Party and develop new forces in the leadership. If we do not take this step and fight against these tendencies of opportunism, we will not be able to enrich our Party will the experiences of these workers who are joining our ranks at the present time.

COMPADE FOSTER, in a recent article in the Daily Worker, pointed out some of the very serious shortcomings in the work of the revolu-tionary unions among the Negro workers. While the Trade Union Unity League in New York has made some decisive advances for the past we cannot, however, say that these adwere also reflected in our work among gro masses. So much so, that this beone of our major tasks at the present our slowness in organizing the Negro proleat into the revolutionary unions and indusleagues is a reflection of the wrong attitude nany unions of the Trade Union Unity amely, not to concentrate on the most pited and oppressed sections of the working class. This is also coupled with strong white chauvinism (race prejudice) that expresses itself in the failure not to seriously undertake, outside as well as inside our ranks, the struggle against "white supremacy."

The Liberator, if made a mass paper, can become the bridge between the revolutionary unions and broad masses of Negro workers if those unions, especially those that operate in industries where we have big numbers of Negro workers, such as Needle, Building, Metal, Laundry, Building Maintenance, take an active part in the campaign for 10,000 new readers. The campaign for The Liberator must become a real beginning in orientating our unions towards this very burning task of drawing in the Negro workers into the ranks of the T.U.U.L. Concretely, each union should order regularly the shops and factories. Each union and league shall invite a representative or the League of Struggle for Negro Rights to its membership meeting with a view towards initiating a discussion on the role of The Liberator and the relations between the T.U.U.L. and the L.S.N.R. Each union and league, despite its own financial difficulties, must work out a system for the maintenance of The Liberator in the form of individual donations and a regular monthly sum as a Sustaining Fund for The Liberator from the union as a whole. The L.S.N.R. must likewise develop a broad discussion in its own ranks on the role of the Trade Union Unity League and the necessity for members of the League of Struggle for Negro Rights to join the revolutionary unions. Every member of our trade unions and leagues

Two Books Tell a Story of Contrast

"Eyes On Russia," by Margaret Bourke-White; Simon and Schuster, Publishers.

"Oh, Yeah?" compiled by Edward Angly; Viking Press. Publishers.

THESE books really go together, though the authors never intended it. But where Margaret Bourke-White, an artist in industrial photography—and no less an artist in the written word, leaves off, with one more than a little enchanted with her story and pictures of the tempo of socialist construction in the Soviet Union, Edward Angly takes up, quite unconsciously, of course, the contrast, and develops the de-bunking exposure of American "prosperity" peddlers, the story of the crisis and decline in American Angly doesn't write his book. He merely lets the capitalists, their politicians and apologists expose themselves. Going on the slogan: "Out of their own mouths," he compiles the book "Oh, Yeah?" from the first paragraph, taken from Coolidge's Dec. 4, 1928, message to Congress, to the last line, which devilishly is taken, also from Coolidge, out of the sayings of others who saw prosperity" everywhere and eternal—and then has them contradict themselves.

Just this sample: Coolidge on Dec. 4, 1928, said: "The country can regard the present with satisfaction and anticipate the future with op-

Then, on Jan. 20, 1931, Coolidge said: "The country is not in good condition."

But there are richer ones, from many a politician and "economist." When "Puddler" Davis was still Secretary of Labor, on June 29, 1930, he said: "The worst is over without a doubt." Then, Sept. 12, 1930: "We have hit bottom and are on the upswing."

Lamont, Schwab, Roger Babson, Irving Fisher, and last, but not least. Hoover all are shown up as the stupid prophets they are, "out of their own mouths." The ever-deepening crisis wrecks them all. And the ruthless record of their words is set down against them, telling the story of capitalist decay and decline, of unemployment and the bevilderment of the leaders of capitalist thought who see their system crashing about their ears.

Turn, then, for contrast, to Bourke-White's book, which is written by a young lady who knows nothing much about Communism, but who starts out to photograph the Five-Year Plan, as the official guest of the Soviet Government. A lover of machinery and an artist of the first water in her chosen field of industrial photography, she is captivated by the scope and spirit of the Five-Year Plan and the Soviet masses who are building socialism.

Her photographs, and there are many in her book, are each worthy of framing as a masterpiece. But she writes even more charmingly, if that is possible. Tales of bureaucracy she encountered are there, of course. And who would wish them excluded. Her viewpoint is somewhat naive, naturally; but her plain friendliness and sympathy for the workers and their heroic exertion reveals an understanding that is the more welcome because unexpected.

Here are her lines, written about the scene on the Verblud State Farm:

"Great skies piled high with cloud, torn into swirling shapes like whipped cream under the egg-beater. A silver radiance over the gray stubble in the early morning light; a delicious contrast with strips of fresh harrowed earth running neatly beside it. Silhoutted against the sky, majestic in the morning, was that new god of Russia, the Tractor."

she pursues the machines and the workers engaged on them, from one project to another. In Dniesrestroi she tells the story of gifantic endeavor-and success. How the Russian workers learned, at heavy expense, to use strange machines. Of the huge constructive cranes, she says: "As one watches the Russian workers skillfully maneuvering giant American cranes, it is hard to believe the stories about their early experiences with these steel monsters."

Margaret Bourke-White's work is -a-friendly,

TO THE PROPERTY OF

We Nominate

"And now," writes L. J. K., "the American newspapers once more print that well known story about the bishop who was killed by the Bolsheviki. We have always wondered where the Bolsheviki get so many bishops to murder. Is it possible that they have a special seminary where would-be bishops are being trained for the sole purpose of being murdered by the Bol-

Well, that might be possible. You know there are many projects in the Five Year Plan. So why not a Five Year Plan for murdering bishops? And the raw material must be worked

But if the Bolsheviks run out of candidates for the bishop industry, we'll nominate the representatives of what is called the "Christian and Missionary Alliance" which seems to operate in Russia, and if none of them are obtainable, as a second choice we suggest the Rev. Dr. George S. Hunter, who is going about America peddling lies told him, so he says, by the said "alliance"

According to the Pasadena, Calif., Star-News, of Dec. 14, Rev. Hunter, who is field secretary of the America-European Fellowship, spoke at the Pasadena Congregational Church, and-

"Dr. Hunter said he had been informed by representatives of the Christian and Missionary Alliance in Russia that some 1,200 children of broken homes, diseased because of social conditions, had been herded together by Soviet authorities on the promise of a dinner, and then slain by machine gun-fire.'

If that lie isn't worthy of a bishop, and such a bishop worthy of execution, we miss our guess.

Spilling the Beans

Now and then somebody like the Doak rises up and declares that "on the whole" employers have "maintained wage scales" during the crisis; that only "some" have reduced wages. And then every capitalist paper always tries to convince you that no wage cut has ever been made of more than "10 per cent."

We're getting kind of sick about that "10 per cent" limit. And, fortunately, a comrade sent us in a bulletin published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Agricultural Economics, for November, 1931, concerning mainly the livestock, meat and wool industry, which comments on the general business conditions and goes on to say:

"The amount of money being paid out as wages by manufacturing concerns in the United States is now nearly 45 per cent less than that of two years ago."

Of course a big part of that 45 per cent is accounted for by paying no wages at all to the workers who have been thrown on the streets unemployed. But none the less, that 45 per cent represents wages which the working class as a whole did get, but have not been gettinghence it is a cut just that much in the wages of the workers as a class.

Then, those workers who are employed, are asked, or rather forced, by their employers, to contribute to charity to "aid the unemployed" that the employers threw on the street. Wouldn't that make Captain Kid turn green with envy? And wouldn't that make the employed workers see that they, too, have an interest in joining with the unemployed in the fight for unemployment insurance at the cost entirely of the capi-

We think it would, so go out and tell them about it at their shops. And get the whole gang out for February 4th!

On Matters of Decorum

Some time ago we mentioned that some Party comrades in a workers' club had insisted on "evicting" a group of Young Pioneers who had been given the use of the club rooms for their meetings. We dwelt especially on the report that a Party member, who was an official in the club, said he would refuse to carry out a fraction decision if it made one against it. Which was wrong on his part, of course, But there's another angle to the whole ques tion. And that is, we are told: "The comrades objected to the 'activities' of the Pioneer group in breaking chairs, defacing walls, tearing down wall paper, etc." And we must say that when Pioneers act that way; well, they can expect to be chased out.

But the young comrades are not alone in this vandalism tendency. We all know how comrades come to mass meetings to chew the fat with each other and fill the air with smoke and noise to the disgust of non-party workers who attend to hear the speakers.

That is just one form of hooliganism. But from the Jewish Bureau we get another staight out example, which the Bureau speaks of as

"Our Middle Bronn Club had given permission to the Unemployed Council to use the club rooms as its headquarters. We are informed that the greatest pastime of the unemployed comrades in the club rooms is throwing cups at chosen spots in the ceiling, or splashing coffee all over the tables, cutting up wall papers, etc. The result is that the club rooms have taken on the appearance of a corner saloon and members are running away by the dozen. If this keeps up, the club will be out of existence in a few weeks. We cannot afford to build up mass organizations and have them ruined by vandalism in this fashion."

Which is quite true as to the moral drawn It seems that there is need for some stragiht talk on proletralan discipline and comradely behavior which might be taken up with benefix in nearly every organization we know of.

Silly Sayings of the Great:-"England was compened to go off the gold standard because other nations did not play the game of the gold standard in a sportcmanlike manner."-H. B. beautiful book. And, as we said at the beginning, it goes well with "Oh, Yeah?" because it reveals the virility and progress of Soviet industry, against the rotting economy, insanity and cynicism of capitalist America.—Harrison George
