DOAK IGNORES LABOR DEMANDS

GARY, Ind., Oct. 11.—Deportation Doak, Secretary of Labor, who is stumping for Hoover, last night told a meeting of steel workers, all of whom are either unemployed or working on a couple of days a week at miserable wages, that their salvation lay in a high tariff—republican brand. Doak attacked the democratic tariff proposals, which are essentially stead of the forced labor scheme of the steel trust, and struggle against wave of wage cuts sweeping the steel industry.

The two big parties of Wall Street capitalism—Republican and Democrat—tell the working class that they represent both the interests of capital and labor, that they protect both the interests of the big banks and corporations and those of the workers and toiling farmers.

The Democratic Party and Roosevelt, its candidate, make a pretense of sympathy for the 16,000,000 unemployed workers and the bankrupt and ruined farmers. This is a fake and a fraud. It is intended to fool the in "liberal" capitalist papers like the New York Times and in "liberal" capitalist papers like the New York World-Telegram and the masses, split their ranks and cajole them into supporting their class enemies.

The Democratic Party of Roosevelt, Raskob and Owen D. Young is a party of Wall Street, the same as the Republican Party of Hoover, Rocke-feller and Ford. Both parties are weapons of Wall Street, of finance capital, of the Morgan-Rockefeller banks.

The program of the Republican and Democratic Parties is a program for saving capitalism and its profit system at the expense of the lives, liberties and living standards of the American masses.

The capitalist program means war on the Soviet Union; it means new imperialist wars, it means the butchery of millions of workers and farmers for imperialist victories which would usher in a still worse slavery for the toilers of the factories and farms.

Reject the capitalist program of hunger, slavery and war. Support the Communist Party program in defense of the interests of the working class and all exploited and oppressed under capitalism. Support the Communist Party program to end capitalism and establish a government of workers and farmers.

The Socialist Party Service to Capitalism

The Socialist Party is the chief ally of the open parties of capitalism-Republican and Democrat. Its main tactic in this respect is to claim to be a party of and for the working class. This is a swindle.

The Socialist Party is shown every day by its deeds and those of its capitalist masters to be their outpost in the ranks of the working class. The Socialist Party candidates constantly receive praise and favorable menwhole Scripps-Howard syndicate.

The Socialist Party is brought forward by the capitalists to prevent workers whom the Republican and Democratic Parties can no longer fool from taking up the struggle against capitalism led by the Communist Party The Socialist Party helps the capitalists put the burden of the crisis on the toiling masses by confusing and checking their struggles.

The Socialist Party is against mass struggle. It tells workers that by voting the Socialist ticket capitalism can be changed from a system of hunger, robbery of toilers, and war, to a system of plenty, freedom and peace. This is a lie. The Socialist Party utters these lies in order to save capitalism. Their only difference with the capitalist parties is their claim that they can run the capitalist system better than those who now manage

The Socialist leaders in the unions have helped the bosses cut workers' wages. The Socialist-controlled Amalgamated Clothing Workers, the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, the Hosiery Workers' Union and others, have been in the very forefront of the wage-cutting and speed-up carried on by William Green and the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, in co-operation with the bankers, employers and the Hoover administration.

Judges Have Records of Anti-Working Class And Anti-Negro Decisions

Increase Mass Struggle to Save Boy's Lives; Send Protests to Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 .- The United States Supreme Court yesterday postponed its decision on the Scottsboro case, probably until after the Presidential election. Alarmed at the mass demonstrations which have been sweeping Europe and America, and fearful alike of the effects on the election if the Scottsboro boys are condemned to death or given a new trial, the Supreme Court decided to mark time and wait for a safer moment to render its decision. In the face of the world-wide mass pressure, a verdict against the boys would have proven beyond a doubt to the whole world the capitalistic, terroristic character of the Supreme Court. But if the Supreme Court had yielded to the mass pressure and consented to a new trial, the whole world would see that the determined class struggle method of the International Labor Defense is the only way to defend working class prisoners, and that the Communist Party, the re-volutionary leader of the American working class, is the only party worth voting for. So the Supreme Court temporarily avoided the issue by postpening decision on the case

DISPLAY OF ARMED FORCE But the pretentious display of armed police around the courthouse the attitude of the nine justices, the whole grim atmosphere of the courtroom and the proceedings, made it very clear that the fight to save the lives of the nine Scottsboro boys is only just beginning. Now, while the judges are waiting until the elections are safely over, and the capitalist press is trying to suppress the Scottsboro issue, it becomes more necessary than ever to force the Supreme Court to render a decision favorable to the condemned boys. As soon as the postponement of the decision was announced, the International Labor Defense which is fighting the case, issued a call for mobilizing the whole American working class in defense of the Negro youth. MOTHER MOONEY ARRIVES The Supreme Court opened its doors at noon, but by nine o'clock an enormous crowd, mostly Negro workers, were standing in line. At 10:30 Mother Mary Mooney, frail and aged, exhausted by her recent long tour to rouse support for her son, Tom Mooney, arrived at the courthouse was recognized by many of the Negro workers who ran to greet

The United States marshall in charge of the Supreme Court, dressed in a cutaway coat and wing collar, barred Mother Mooney's way. He insisted that since she had no personal interest in the case, she must wait two hours on the long line before being admitted. "But I have a personal interest in the case," cried Mother Mooney. "I know how the Scottsboro mothers must feel, and I want to see what will be done to these other mothers' sons." With the workers backing her up, Mother Mooney was finally admitted.

The Japanese Foreign Office would of the Socialist Party do well to hire this prominent so-cialist as a paid propaganda agent.

291 delegates to the Anti-War Congress at Amsterdam were members the congress, and are disciplining all rank and file sections that dare to the congress.

Another comment on the sincerity of socialist professions of "war against war!": The leaders of the Second International have refused to place vital question of the attitude of socialists in case war breaks out upon the agenda of their coming World Congress.

The so-called "Left" government of C. P. Fights for the France, openly supported by the French Socialist Party, professes its Daily Needs of the Workers desire for peace and signs the Kellogg-Pact. That does not hinder it from carrying on ruthless war against the natives of Morocco, fighting for their independence. La France Militaire reports that 300 insurgents were killed in a recent battle, while 2 officers and 22 soldiers of the Foreign Legion were the French losses. The French daily press (as well as the yellow journals of New York) suppressed this news, claiming that the 'pacific occupation" of Morocco was proceeding apace.

Fritz Ebert, jr., son of the notorious social-democrat and first President of Germany, made the following statement of socialist aims in the disarmament question before a meeting of Socialist Party officials in Brandenburg:

"Together with our French and Belgian comrades, we demand the fulfillment of the Treaty of Versailes—the establishment of equal military rights for all through joint disarmament. But if the world refuses to fulfill its solemn pledge, we must have the courage to act as German socialists. We are faced by difficult decisions! They prove that the German Social Democracy, even when it is in sharpest opposition to a government, is not released from obligations to its country."

Comment superfluous; file under heading "Socialists and Militarism."

The perjury methods of the German Fascists are revealed in testimony by a former member of the Nazi storm troops who resigned from the Hitler Party in disgust. Testi-fying at a trial of revolutionary workers in Halle, said: "I am no longer a member of the National Socialist German Labor Party (Hitler's party) and have resigned from the storm troops so that I now can tell the court the truth. Much of Hitler's propaganda centers around the phrase "The Third Reich", in which he promises prosperity death to the Jews, and heaven on earth. The hypocrisy of this slogan has been disclosed in Nazi testimony during a treason trial in Bruenn, Czechoslovakia. The Nazi attorney for the defense defined the "Third Reich" in his plea to the

"The "Third Reich" is a concept which anyone can interpret as he likes; a term that was launched by likes; a term that was launched by the party for agitational purposes only. Communist Program Only Revolutionary Way Out of the Crisis

The Program of the Communist Party is the only way out of the crisis of capitalism for the tolling masses short of submission to the capitalist program of hunger, slavery and imperialist war.

C. C. of Russian Communist Party Sends Telegram

(Cable by Inprecorr) MOSCOW, Oct. 11. - The Central Committee of the Communist Party and the Council of People's Commissars sent the builders of Dnieprostroi a telegram of congratulation to the following effect:

"The Central Committee of the Communist Party and the Council of People's Commissars of the Soviet Union heartly congratulate the workers, engineers, technicians and the entire personnel of Dnieprostroi. We congratulate you, comrades, upon the completion and the opening be-fore the scheduled time of this giant of electrification, having no equal in the world."

"The Soviet Power," the telegram further reads, "has been able to accomplish this gigantic piece of construction in a short period, at a time when the most destructive crisis and unemployment are ravishing in the entire capitalist world, only because the Soviets are the only power in the world having the unlimited support of millions of workers and pea-sants. Long live the workingclass! Long live the power of the Soviets! Long live the Party of Lenin!"

Victory for Leninist (Cable By Inprecorr.)
MOSCOW, Oct. 11.—The entire

Plan, namely, the opening of the Dnieper Hydro-electric Power Station, the largest in the entire world.
"Pravda," the central organ of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, editorially stressed the importance of the Dnieprostroy as the real and vivid embodiment of Len-in's policy of industrialization and regarded this giant electric station as a victorious banner of the Bolshevik speed in building up a new socialist society.

A Light In Darkness of Capitalist Crisis.

Pointing out that Dnieprostroy is a remendous sign of the tempestous growth of industrial forces in the Soviet Union, Pravda stated: "The light of the Dnieper Hydro-electric Power Station is burning with par-ticular force in the darkness of the unprecedented crisis embracing the entire capitalist world. The electric lamp of capitalism is burning out. KICHKAS, Oct. 11.—On the eve of its incandescence is still more fading its formal opening, Dnieprostroi was round of proletarian revolutions and imperialist wars. Only the Soviet Union is able to move forward in the development of industrial forces creating a firm basis for the growth of the toilers' welfare."

> More Houses, More Bread for Toilers.

Pravda further pointed out that Dnieper Power Station, this giant of the first Five-Year Plan, is just a base and that now its place is overshadowed by the new giant of all questions. Recalling the heroic struggle which companied the construction of the Dnieper Hydro-electric Power Station, recalling the entire road passed by the proletariat from the Volkhovstrok, the first child of Lenin's formula of electrification up to today's opening of the world giant Dnieprostroi, Pravda declared

"Oyez, oyez, this sess on of the court now opens . . . God save the United States of America and this Court!" What a mockery, with Mother Mooney sitting there, and the lives of the Scottsboro boys at the mercy of a capitalist court!

Preceding the Scottsboro hearing, the court heard two liquor cases and a white slave case. The judges, as usual, took an active and talkative part, asking many questions of the lawyers. Fut when the Scottsboro case came up, the judges became vry silnt. Not one asked a single question during the hearing: The concerted silence was obviously a move to minimize the importance of the case

AND ON THE BENCH But the real attitude of the court was made clear long before they reached the Scotteboro case. The case just preceding it was argued on one side by a Negro lawyer, and Justices McReynolds and Sutherlands, the most notorious Negro-batters on the bench, drove him unmercifully, asking him questions in a contemptuous and insulting manner.

Finally the Scottsboro case began. Justice James C. McReynolds of Tennessee leaned forward, holding himself in leash, his enormous hooked-nose giving him the appearance of a bird of prey. Justice McReynolds had voted in his usual lynching manner even in the famous Moores Dempsey case when, after a mob attack on a group of Negro sharecroppers, it was proven that Negro witnesses were whipped outside the courtroom. Justice George Sutherland, appropriately enough, sat next to McReynolds. He votes with McReynolds on every issue.

As Winter Comes

THE DRIVE on the living standards of the working class, I the suppression of their struggles, becomes more ruthless as the fourth winter of the crisis approaches.

The entire Hoover administration, and its creature, the Reconstruction Finance Corp., is playing with the lives of hungry and starving jobless workers. Its method of handling $2,100,000,000 voted last July for "public works", ostensibly to provide employment, shows that it has no intention of providing work on an extensive scale even by the Hoover method of "self-liquidating public works", but that the funds it loans are handed out for the purpose of boosting Hoover's

Its loan of $62,000,000 to California for the construction of a toll bridge across San Francisco bay, was given wide publicity recently. But after the inflated figures of the number of men to be employed (sometime in the distant future, of course,) had been ballyhooed, the numbers of tons of material that would be required (also in the dim and distant future) had been itemized, not a single paper stated the obvious fact that California is a "doubtful" state for Hoover and that this is the only loan actually made out of this R.F.C. fund-so far.

$53,105,000 in loans are under consideration but have not yet been made—although 243 applications for loans—amounting to $800,000,000 are in the hands of the Corporation. IT WAS Hoover, aided as usual, by President Green and the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, who, while he was still secretary of Commerce, brought forth the plan of public works as a means of preventing unemployment "during periods of depression" The amount spent on public works-city, county, state and national-has decreased during the Hoover administration from $3,000,000,000 per year to less than $800,000,000. The banks, railways and industrial corporations, as the Daily Worker showed on October 11, have received over a billion dollars from the R. F. C. But they are not putting workers back on the payroll. Those employed part time are getting new wage slashes.

The Hoover government does not wish to interfere with the wage cutting offensive of the big corporation even to the extent of giving employment to a few thousand unemployed on public works. On the contrary, it leads and stimulates the wage-cutting offensive

THIS IS the key to the whole starvation relief program of the Repub-I lican and Democratic Parties. The capitalists they represent are not yet satisfied with the reduction of living standards of workers by 70 per cent. Labor power still is not cheap enough for them

Nothing for the 15,000 unemployed from the federal treasury-more wage cuts for those still working. This is the line of the capitalist offensive. It effects are to be seen in the 33 1-3 percent wage cut in the Ford plants and the growing misery of the unemployed and their de-

The United States has never witnessed such widespread and acute suffering as this fourth winter of the crisis brings.

The organization of mass struggles for these demands in every city and state, before the relief agencies and city and state governments, will provide the base for the organization of a powerful mass drive on Washington. The most determined struggle on all fronts against wage cuts, for adequate unemployment relief and jobless insurance, bound up with the fight against imperialist war, is the immediate and all-important task of the Communist Party. The Hoover stock market bubble, swelled by the manipulation of hundreds of millions of dollars, has burst. This presages still fiercer attacks on the masses.

The recent murder of an unemployed worker by police in Chicago, the bayonet and gas attacks on striking miners, on men, women and children, by troops in the Illinois coal fields, show the new wave of brutality with which the capitalist offensive is being pushed.

NLY the program of united front struggle of the Communist Party meets the needs of the working class. Only by putting this program into action in the factories, trade unions and neighborhoods, throughout the industrial centers and the countryside can the capitalist offensive be checked, wage cuts stopped, relief and unemployment insurance be won.

This is the work of our comrades in the unions, the unemployed councils and other mass organizations—to carry the Communist program to the masses and organize them for the most militant battles against the capitalist offensive.

Glassford's Challenge

MALL STREET government in Washington is digging in for the winter.

It is throwing up fortifications and mobilizing its armed forces for war on the unemployed workers, ruined farmers and hungry ex-servicemen who will come to Washington to put their demands before Congress.

It need cause no surprise to find that Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police of the District of Columbia, and organizer of the spy system among the bonus marchers. has taken the initiative in these preparations.

Glassford has requested "undisputed authority to evacuate any army of indigents after their constitutional rights of netition have been exhausted." In other words, Glassford wants a nopoly for the suppression of mass movements in the capital. He believes that the use of police rather than troops will not cause such storms of anger and protest as followed the military attack on the bonus

THERE is still in effect the emergency order issued by the Board of 1 Commissioners following the murder of two veterans and the forcible expulsion of the bonus marchers last summer. It reads

"Until further orders, in view of the conditions now existing in the District of Columbia, all organized bodies or groups of persons attempting to enter the district shall be prevented from doing so unless it is established that such groups of persons have a lawful purpose in coming into the district and are not intent upon disturbing the peace or upon becoming public charges or engaging in any lawless conduct. This order is equivalent to the declaration of a state of siege in the nation's capital whenever the authorities feel like enforcing it. The capital of the nation has been blockaded against its unemployed and hungry working class citizens. Hoover sits behind a triple guard of secret servicemen or fares forth, surrounded by detachments of troops, to make quavering speeches about the return of prosperity

This Wall Street hero creates the impression that the hungry mil-Hons want his life. What American workers want is enough to eat. They want work at decent wages. They want unemployment insurance. They want something more than the starvation handouts of stingy charity. They want the right to organize and strike, they want the right to the streets for their demonstrations, they want an end to the growing system of starvation and suppression.

They are going to fight for these rights, and Glassford knows it. The Communist Party will organize and lead masses of workers, farmers and ex-servicemen in these struggles. American toilers are not going to lie down quietly and die because a Glassford is calling his cops before a single march has started for Washington.

IT is a strange sight—the capital of the richest nation in the world fortified against the hungry millions for whom American capitalism has no work and whom it refuses to feed, clothe and shelter.

Workers know that there is plenty to eat in this country-but that it is in the hands of their enemies. They know there are billions of dollars in-and paid out-of the government treasury for these same class They are coming to know, millions of them, that the crisis and mass unemployment, for which the capitalists and their system are solely responsible, is being used to beat them down into actual slavery

Glassford, speaking in the interests of Wall Street capital, has issued a challenge to every worker and poor farmer in the United States.

WORKERS and farmers, led by the Communist Party, the militant trade unions and the Unemployed Councils, will not "evacuate" the positions of struggle they have already taken. They will defend their ele-mentary economic and political rights. The fight for relief from hunger, the struggle for jobless insurance and the bonus must include the fight for the rights to the streets. The Hoover police must be forced to keep their bloody hands off the hungry. A united front struggle enrolling the workers in the mass organizations, factories, neighborhoods can do it,

Recruiting --

Campaign or Daily Task?

THE Election Campaign of the Party began with the mobilization of the Party and the members of sympathetic mass organizations to collect signatures to place the Party on the ballot. During the last three months we convinced 265,000 toilers to sign our lists. In the course of this collection we visited and talked to at least twice as many workers. Comrades Foster and Ford spoke to hundreds of thousands of workers in their elec tion campaign meetings. again we reached with agitational material (leaflets, stickers, posters, pamphlets, etc.) at least five times as many workers as came to these meetings. In the past two months in the Southern Illinois mine strike, the miners fought militantly against a wagereduction, against the policies of the leaders of the "Progressive" union, against the state forces. Thousands of workers were involved in strikes of the textile, steel, metal needle and shoe industries. Tens of thousands of unemployed participated in the struggles for immediate relief, in hunger marches and demonstrations. The fight of the veterans for the bonus set a wide strata of the population in

LITTLE PARTY RECRUITING

The Party participated and in many cases played a leading role in all these actions. Yet if we examine how many new members we recruited during this period we will find that all these struggles, strikes, campaign meetings and other activities passed by without being re-flected in our recruiting.

The Party members are active among the masses, but we fail to understand how to bring out the role of the Party as the political leader of the struggles. We have not yet learned how to demonstrate to the workers that the Communist Party is in the forefront in their struggles; that the Party is a part of the working class, the most advanced part, and the in-terest of the workers, is the interest of the Party.

We talk about this to the workers, but we fail to show it to them in practical work. We repeat in all our articles, speeches, the magic word-link up the struggles of the workers employed and unemployed. with the election campaign, link up the struggle against wage cuts in the factories with the fight against the war danger, etc., etc.

LET us consider the followinng example: In a block where a street nucleus is functioning there is also a fairly good functioning block committee with the members of the unit leading the work there. In the face of this, the unit assigned a group of comrades to canvass the houses in order to find starving families and go with these families to the Home Relief Bureau to demand relief for them. This was done in the name of the Communist Party.

'LINKING UP"

What do we see here? A unit having a real desire to do mas work, yet because of deep-rooted sectarian habits, instead of organizing through its members the block committees, themselves as organizers of the struggle for relief this is done in the name of the Communist Party. We wouldn't be far from wrong if we said that workers would rather fight for relief in the name of a block com-mittee than of the Communist Party, a political organization with which they may not have any sym. pathies as yet, leading their direct immediate struggle for relief in the block where they live.

One of the reasons, we assume why the unit where there is also a functioning block committee its territory, carried the fight for relief in the name of the Party is because the camrades wanted to link it up with the election campaign. What is the proper method of linking up the struggle for unemployment relief with the election campaign and how can the street nucleus, as a political unit of the Party, appear as the leader of the struggles for unemployment relief? Here too let us consult the experi-The Communist candidate of the territory in which the block committee is functioning, partici-pated personally and actively in the struggle against the eviction of a family in the territory. He set a good example himself, also helping to carry back the furniture together with the members of the block

Here we could very well bring out to the workers the fact that the Communist candidates standing on the platform of the Party, are in the lead of the struggle against evictions and for unemployment re-lief, also, to discuss with the workers the role and activities of the candidates of the other, bourgeois parties and the platform of the other, bourgeois parties on unem-ployment. In connection with this immediate struggle against evictions and for relief, the Party unit should have arranged open-air and indoor meetings, with our candidate as the main speaker, discussing the election campaign, par-ticularly around the issue of immediate relief and unemployment insurance. Thus the Party would appear both participating directly in the struggles of the unemployed also the Party unit would appear as the political leader and organ-izer of the struggles of the unemployed. The election platform and issues of the Party would then be considered by the workers as their very own, tested and understood in the light of their own experi-

U. S. S. R. Progress Contrasted With Capitalist Crisis Brings Flood of Lies; Yarns in London "Express" Typical of Bourgeois Press Thruout the World

(The following article, although referring to the British capitalist press, and particularly to the don "Daily Express" nevert less applies with equal point to the numerous newspapers and magazines in the U.S. who carry on a continuous campaign of lying misrepresentation against Soviet Union and its tremendous achievements. Editor's

By L. MOSKWIN.

Judging from Miss Clyman's articles it would seem that she had actually been in Kem. She openly states for what purpose she went to the North of the Soviet Union. She wanted, just think, after visiting the concentrating camps, to expose the "horrows of the Cheka" she wanted to write about what had seen of "forced labor." In the first article of the series entitled: "Town of the Living Dead", Miss Clyman declared that the name of this little town "though mentioned aloud, is now seared on the souls of millions of Russians. Mothers use it to frighten naughty children, grown men tremble when they hear it pronounced in court."

MISS CLYMAN wanted to give a highly colored description of Kem employing plenty of effective words and phrases, but she overreached herself. She states that Kem is a place for all undesirable and that in the whole of the Soviet Union there is not a single family which has not contributed a vic tim to "the town of the living

Miss Clyman however, has had really bad luck. There was nothing to expose. Miss Clyman has only exposed herself. In the article, en-titled "The town of the living dead" Miss Clyman, against her will des-cribes the living peaceful and creative work for educating people who are not punished for the crimes they have committed as bourgeois justice punished criminals in its efforts to be rid of them, but by means of a definite regime of work converts these people into new useful members of society.

Secondly, in spite of her provocative attitude, in spite of her intense desire to bring about collisions, nothing happened to Miss Clyman. To her great regret, we assume, the authorities displayed the greatest patience towards her. Miss Clyman, who set out to make discoveries, according to her own account, did not spend the days she was at Kem in the dungeons of which she had dreamed, but in a clean, spacious room of one of the

Miss Clyman sheds big crocodile tears over the lot of the "poor victims of the Soviet Government. She constantly seeks to harrow the feelings of the readers of her paper with descriptions of the "terrible Chekists" who later however, according to her own description, to be thoroughly obliging, cultivated people. Also the guard in front of the commander's office supplied Miss Clyman with material for making her readers' flesh creep. Here her fantastic imagination causes her to write: "I knew that the sentry would shoot me down if I ventured to enter the building without a pass." (We would like in passing, to ask Miss Clyman what would sentries in other countries have done in such a case?)

In almost every line Miss Clyman makes use of the expression "living dead." She boastfully calls attention to her "courage," her bold behavoir. The emissary of Lord Beaverbrook is compelled to make the following admission: "There is nothing in the outward appearance of Kem to associate it with the horrors of prison and exile." Miss Clyman relates what the obliging commander of the camp told her.

"We have dairies orchards and gardens which could very well compete with those in England. We have never made use of force."

HERE our good Miss Clyman has evidently noticed that she has not described Kem in the way Lord Beaverbrook desired. Quite with-out reason she suddenly changes her tone and attributes to the camp commander a statement which he of course never made: "And if they do not work, declared the camp commander, we shoot them."... "Daily Express, August 31.

NOTHING HAPPENED ALAS!

Miss Clyman is obviously not pleased with such facts as a well organized school and a magnificently equipped laboratory in which interesting inventions made, orchards in which right in the North of Soviet Russia peaches and strawberries are grown. These and various other facts at which the "Daily Express" correspondent is painfully surprised, are only casually mentioned and then she turns her whole attention to the so-called "forced labor." Miss Clyman however, is pursued by ill-luck. In her presence one of the "living dead" is handed his trade union card and, what displeased her still more, his wages were according to trade union rates. What is there left for such a "reporter" in this case? She must again a tempt to make her readers' flesh creep. She writes that 'it is impossible to imagine what can happen to me here. Nobody in Moscow knows where I am. They will search for me for months."

But as a matter of fact, nothing happened to Miss Clyman. The camp commander made reference to some of her fellow-countrymen who in the years 1918-20 invaded this district and tells her that he himself fought against them, that he took part in the civil war.

What does our traveller then do? She attempts to get past the sentry by showing him papers which have validity (she admits this herself) in order to gain admission to places which can only be entered with a special passs. (And again we would like to ask Miss Clyman in passing what, the Britih authorities, for instance, would say to such actions on the part of a foreign correspondents-say a reprepresentative of the Soviet press?) Miss Clyman finally arranged something in the nature of a public political demonstration in memory of the British intervention troops She went to a church during a divine service and to "the astonishment of all present" handed over to the priest ten roubles with the words: "I give you this money in the name of my fellow-countrymen who are buried here in North Russia. Please include them in your

The priest, greatly touched, invited Miss Clyman to a cup of tea which was gratefully accepted.

ONE could quote numerous other examples to show how Miss Clyman has endeavored without success to carry out the orders of Lord Beaverbrook how she, who wanted to make exposures has only succeeded in exposing the provoca tive purpose of her journey. Lacking actual material she indulges in an unbounded incitement against the Soviet Union, in the course of which she allows herself to make such statements as the following: "Arm a bandit and you have a "Red Guard." ("Daily Express"

What has been said appears to us to suffice for the following conclusion: The visits of representatives of the bourgeois press to the Soviet Union and the permanent residence in Moscow of correspondents of the big bourgeois papers and news agencies are, in our opinion, a good sign showing that the circle of readers of these papers and agencies desire regular and authentic information about the Soviet Union. Newspapers correspondents who come to Moscow for this purpose must and do have every possibility of carrying on their profession unhindered in accordance with the laws of the country in which they were staying.

NO PLACE FOR THEM

Should, however, some organiz of anti-Soviet campaigns be of the

The World Situation As Seen by 'Pravda'

We are publishing this leading article from the August 25th issue of "Pravda," official organ of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union which strikingly summarizes the world situation, and answers the deliberate lies of the bourgeoisie and its press that the economic crisis has past its most critical stage, and that pro-sperity is returning." A careful reading of the following article will enable workers to understand the major tasks in stimulating and developing the mass struggles against the growing attacks of the capitalist by developing the wid-est united front from below.— EDITOR.

DURING the past year history has confirmed very conspicously the correctness of the Bolshevist an-alysis of the international situation. COMMUNIST ANAYLSIS

The ecomomic crisis in the capitalist countries has become acuter it has aggravated all the inconsis tencies inherent in the capitalist system, it has weakened this system, and exposed its rotteness more plainly than ever in the eyes of hundreds of millions of human beings. At the same time the economic crisis, and the frightful increase of want and misery among the masses, have awakened to political activity broad strata of the oppressed and exploited toilers, and taught millions of proletarians the necessity and inevitability of the struggle in defence of their elementary interests. During the time of the crisis the proletariat has passed through a stage of development which under ordinary "normal" conditions would have required at least a few decades.

The petty-bourgeois illusions and dreams of pacifism are being torn out by the roots, for the war in the Far East has begun, and the aggravation of all the international contradictions of capitalism has shaken the whole system of treaties upon which the equilibrium and the relative stabilization of capitalism, which set in 1923, were based.

The petty-bourgeois illusions on state, capitalism, and "democracy" are being dispelled for the masses recognize that in actuality the state consists above all of the troops of armed men, with the prisons as material addition (as Engels says). If we separate ourselves from realities and sail into the cloud of dreams, then of course

"capitalism can give dozens of mil-lions for the poor and the workers can force the state to such things it needs the pressure of a real revolution" (Lenin).

The fact that the Soviet Union is finally consolidated on the way to socialism, a fact which cannot be concealed by any amount of lies from the bourgeois and social democratic press, shows the masses of the toilers in the capitalist countries that the sole way of escape from poverty, want, and unemploy-ment, the sole salvation from fresh wars, is the dictatorship of the pro-Under these circumstances the bourgeoisie is in a great hurry.

STABILIZATION OF CAPITALISM AT AN END

In foreign policies it seeks a loophole of escape in new imperialist wars and in the intervention against the Soviet Union; in home politics it seeks the way of escape-espe-

The general crisis of capitalism becomes daily acuter, and has entered a new stage. The stabiliza-tion of capitalism is over. We are in the transition to a new epoch of wars and revolutions, accelerated by the military policy of Japanese and French imperialism. Capitalism has reached a catastrophic stage, phase of violent class struggles, of attempts to redivide the world by means of war.

"Out of the partial stabilization of capitalism there grows a still acuter crisis, the growing crisis destroys the stabilization—these are the dialetctics of the development of capitalism in the present historical moment" (Stalin)

This Bolshevist prognosis has been completely confirmed in the course of development of the pres-

The transition pointed out by Comrade Stalin at the 16th Party Congress of the C. P. S. U., the transition leading to decay in the capitalist countries and to a mightly economic upsurge in the Soviet Union, has now reached a new and higher stage shown in the leading capitalist countries in the increas-ing weakness of the bourgeoisie on the one hand and in the increasing strengthening of the revolutionary proletariat on the other.

But there is as yet no revolu-tionary crisis in any of the decisively important imperialist countries In China alone the Soviet revolution has been victorious over a wide territory; in Spain alone is there a struggle to convert the bourgeois democratic revolution into a socialist revolution.

The capitalist countries which are advanced in the sense of revolutionary development (Germany, Poland), are just beginning to approach directly to the revolutionary crists. The capitalist attacks on the standards of living of the workers continue. The proletariat is still on the defensive. But it is beginning more and more to go forward to the counter attack on the lives of the revolutionary movement of the most advanced coun-

The peculiarities of the tactics of the international revolutionary movement at the present stage result from this situation.

The material productive forces of capitalist society have come into decided contradiction to the existing conditions of production; that is to say, contradiction to the conditions of ownership under which they have developed. The present poverty and want, the starvation and unemployment, appear to be unsurmountable; the standards of living of the masses, already lowered, will sink further. There is no progress possible, there can never again be a capitalist era of prosperity. The sole radical way out for the toilers is socialism. Realizing all this, the international Communist movement mobilizes the masses, and prepares them for the decisive struggle against imperialist war and against fascism, for the dictatorship of the proletariat which realizes socialism in actual

The Literary Supporters of Mr. Norman Thomas

"HOOPLA! Anything the Reds can do we can imitate!" cry the American Socialists. And they have done it again. Leading American writers have come out for Foster and Ford. Sherwood Anderson, Newton Arvin, Sidney Howard Langston Hughes, Matthew Josephson, Lincoln Steffens, Edmund Wilson, and on and on and on, to the tune of over sixty strong -all have not only declared themselves for the revolutionary way out of the capitalist crisis, but have banded themselves together to rally the intellectuals of America to election standard of the Communist Party.

Now the Socialists come out with THEIR list. They had, alas and alack, a hard time digging out anything from among the left-overs; but let us be fair; they have done as well as could be expected under the circumstances; the circum stances being, quite simply that the front ranks of American literature stand steadfastly for Foster and Ford.

THE first name on the socialist list, Henry Hazlitt, is appropriate enough and sets the tone the rest, since Mr. Hazlitt is the author of a series of pep books for businessmen. When recently asked in a questionaire whether he thought capitalism was moving to ward collapse, Mr. Hazlitt uttered a resounding "NO!" To the question, why not? Mr. Hazlitt anwered capitalism's "inherent strength in our traditions." !!! Beside being literary editor of the Nation, Mr. Hazlitt is one of its economists. It was none other than Mr. Hazlitt who wrote in "The Nation" perhaps the most infam-ous editorial that has this year appeared in the liberal press: when the unholy combine of railroad bosses and labor fakers put over the 10 per cent cut on the railroad workers. Mr. Hazlitt hailed it as "the most hopeful event since the beginning of the depression." Yes, Mr. Hazlitt certainly is the right man to head the list of intellectuals supporting the Socialist Party!

THE other twenty names the so-I cialists scraped together are rather a mixed crew. There is Stuart Chase, the unofficial advisor to the capitalist class on how to "plan" the planless profit system. There are the regular Socialist Party hacks like Heywood Broun; there are the Broadway playboys, like Gilbert Gabriel, George Kaufman, Morrie Ryskind, whom Broun corralled, no doubt, one night at the Thanatopsis Poker Club, whose activities Broun describes regularly "World-Telegram." there are the literary men, literary in the old romantic sense of the word, which is to say they live in another world or one long ago stowed away in lavender.

Consider, for instance, Van Wyck Brooks. He has lived the past twenty years in the circle of Emmerson and Thoreau—generations ago. The word "socialist" could only have evoked in him pleasant memories of the amusing and earnest group who made the Brooks Farm experiment back in the eighteen fifties. Or—to do him justice—the word "socialist "must have reminded him of tall, lean Eugene Debs, the Debs of the pre-war years, before they broke his body behind the bars. Someone should intrude on Mr. Brook's retired study and tell him that Eugene Debs, who warned his followers that when he received praise from capitalists it would be because he was a traitor to the work--has nothing in common with that darling of the kept press Norman Thomas.

opinion that they can violate these laws and abuse the designation of "Own Correspondent in Moscow" in order to carry on a lying provo-cative, they will be bitterly disap-pointed. One thing is certain: There is no place either in Moscow or anywhere else in the Soviet Union for Lord Beaverbrook's "Own Moscow correspondent" Miss Cly-man, who wishes to introduce "Riga" customs in Moscow. Miss Clyman's chief must think out a new trick. The manouevere with "Riga" information, from Moscow, is exposed and frustrated.
