A Factory Worker Writes on the "Open Letter"

AST Thursday the Daily Worker published an Open Letter from the extra-ordinary national conference of the Communist Party to the membership of the Party. This letter pointed out the serious shortcomings in the Party's work, and particularly the failure to concentrate our major efforts on work in the big factories. Today we print as our editorial a letter from a South Bend factory worker:

DEAR COMRADE EDITOR:

"I have just finished reading the Open Letter in the Daily Worker, and I agree with you in your statement that the masses are beginning to become openly revolutionary.

"Any doubt that was in my mind was taken away last night at the A. F. of L. meeting to start a Studebaker Auto Union. The audience of 250 was composed of mainly native Americans, with a few Negroes and foreign-born workers thrown in. Also many foremen and other high officials were there.

"When a comrade made a remark attacking the speaker for defaming the Soviet Union, and then praised the workers there for kicking out the capitalists, he was not booed and jeered as he would have been-and was-a year ago; there was not even stony silence; there was tremendous applause from half of the workers there.

"Several factory workers came up and asked to get in touch with us to help them in the work. Eight Party and League (Y.C.L.) members were present, and between them they almost monopolized the discussion and questioning.

"We are now going to try to organize the huge Studebaker and Bendix plants here.

"We have seen from what happened last night that the workers are becoming revolutionary, and are not reactionary; on the contrary, it is we, the Party members, who are reactionary by our pessimistic and defeatist policy that "the workers are too dumb", 'let them starve some more", etc.

"We now promise to get down to active work in organizing the workers in the strongholds of capitalism—the factories."

PHIS, comrades, is the spirit. It was because the Party conference wanted to arouse such a spirit that the Open Letter was written. We hope every unit of the Party, every Party Committee, as well as every individual comrade, will thoroughly examine our work, with the viewpoint of decisively improving our approach to the workers, and, in the first place to those in the big factories.

The Daily Worker invites comrades and units to write to us on the tasks which you have set yourselves in the light of the Open Letter, and particularly on your actual accomplishments in carrying out these

Carry On Against Fascism

ONE YEAR AGO, two German workers of Chemnitz paid with their lives for taking part in the protests of thousands of German workers against the lynch sentence imposed on the Scottsboro boys.

Today the whole German working class, which so magnificently semonstrated its solidarity with the American victims of class justice, is under the iron heel of an unparalleled campaign of oppression.

of other workers; the victims of German fascism run into the hundreds But to date the total sent overseas by American workers for the relief of Hitler's victims is only $500. This is in sharpest contrast to the $1,400 raised at a single protest meeting in London a few days ago.

THE many meetings of protest, and the resolutions of American workers against German fascism still do not involve the broad masses. In many centers no meetings even have been held.

But the workers must realize that protests and resolutions, even multiplied many times above the present record, are not enough.

The immediate need is for the most concrete action as well. Every workers' organization, in every city, large and small, must mobilize the workers, intellectuals, and liberals for the relief and defense of our German brothers, in an intensified drive leading up to the National Week of Protest, Defense and Relief, August 7 to 14 Every unit of the Communist Party must throw its forces energetically into this campaign.

"His (Johnson's) repeated declaration that organized labor would not be permitted to use the labor provisions to unionize industry was a source of assurance to the industry. "Everything to Aid You"

General Johnson assured the coal operators they have nothing to fear from Lewis's so-called organizational drive in the coal fields as the administration (with whom Lewis is acting) will do everything it can for the coal operators.
"General Johnson said he was of the opinion 'that we are in one of the most critical periods of the depression and you must go along with us,' stated 'Black Diamond.' 'I will do everything I can to aid you."

The "aid" came soon after in the secret conference at the Fifth Ave mansion of Bernard Baruch, the real power behind General Johnson. Gen Johnson was appointed to his post as administrator of the industrial "recovery" act on the suggestion of Bernard Baruch. Johnson had worked as confidential research man for the financier, Baruch.

Further pointing out that Lewis's activities in the coal fields should not be construed as organizing the workers is seen in the following quotation from the same magazine, "Black Diamond:"

Experiences of Ohio People's Relief March

Carried Out Objective of Presenting Demands; Broke Through Obstacles Set Up by State

By FRANK ROGERS

The Ohio People's Relief March for adequate relief and unemployment insurance is an outstanding achievement of the unemployed movement. This action was carried to a successful conclusion despite all obstacles put in the way by the authorities under the military leadership of the Adjutant General's of-fice in Columbus. In splendid discipline the marchers smashed thru organized provocation and police all of Roosevelt's demagogic promises terror on the highways and in the towns to reach the capitol on scheduled time to place the demands of Ohio's million and a half jobless before the Legislature.

To really appreciate the difficulties of the marchers and the successful carrying thru of this statewide action one must understand the strategy employed by the State to discourage, disorganize, and de-moralize the ranks of the marchers.

Governor's Letters

The Governor sent out a circular letter of policy to all authorities on how to deal with the relief march-Altho the letter promised the marchers "the right to use the highways" yet an attack was ordered on the peaceful marchers on the state highway when the authorities saw the support the marchers were winning from the workers in all towns along the route of march.

The second letter sent out by the Governor was to the Chamber of Commerce. It called for the starving of the marchers to discourage them from coming to Columbus. Despite this, small store keepers, contributed food and other supplies. Gas station owners contributed gas Many farmers, altho terrorized by the authorities not to give water, food, or resting places, came to the aid of the marchers "Put in a good word for the starving farmers" was the general comment of the impoverished farmers to the marchers.

When the authorities saw the support the marchers were winning along the route of march they decided to rush them through to Columbus with all possible speed. This dramatized the whole event and placed the responsibility of housing and feeding the marchers on the State in Columbus. Thus during the entire stay in the Capitol the 1 000 marchers were housed, fed, and received medical attention at the State's expense. However, this was so meager that it was necessary for the Workers International Relief to supply about half of the food to keep the marchers healthy and from suffering hunger and want.

Censor March Another letter was sent by the Governor to the editors of all Ohio's newspapers. It ordered censorship on all news of the march and the demands of the marchers. caused the marchers to be more determined to bring the message of the relief march to the workers and farmers of Ohio. A systematic leaflet distribution was carried through. Literature was sold. Mass meetings Question: In what way does the Recovery act counteract the extraoverproduction due to inflation (overstocking for a future price rise)?

Answer: The act provides for the creation of trade associations, or monopolies in the form of cartels. A cartel is the grouping of various factories in one industry for the purpose of agreeing to higher prices, rules of competition, distribution of markets.
