aid the jobless next winter. And adds that unless the states and local governments will supply additional funds, "the unemployed are going to take an awful beating this winter."

Hopkins urges the appropriation of a billion dollars to supply the needs during the winter months—this to be matched by the pittance which will be added by the state and local governments. The meaning of this is made clear by the situation in New York City, where no appropriations were yet made for August, though Hopkins estimates that the city needs from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 a month to care for the unem-

ROOSEVELT'S relief administrator has the whole problem solved. If insufficient funds are appropriated then let the jobless "take an awful beating this winter."

But a decision on this question will not be reached around the conference tables in Washington, the unemployed and employed workers in every city and town will determine whether they will "take a beating" this winter. They will develop a broad movement whereby the government will not be able to callously decide to starve the unemployed, but will be forced to grant unemployment insurance.

This movement must be developed around the demand for the adoption of the Workers' Unemployment Insurance Bill. A bill which proposes to provide "unemployment insurance equal to average wages prevailing in the respective industries and territories of the nation and state, but in no case less than $10 per week for every adult, plus $3 for each dependent."

The Unemployed Councils of the U.S. initiated this campaign. It must now be carried into every city and town. It should be taken up by every trade union, unemployed organization, fraternal body, veterans' post, etc. In all demonstrations and hunger marches before the city, county or state governments, the officials must be made to endorse and call upon congress to adopt the Workers' Unemployment Insurance Bill.

"We're Walloped Together"

NEW YORK milk farmer standing on one of the picket lines that are A daily dumping scab milk trucks into the roads, spoke as follows:

"The big dairy companies get the profits. The consumer takes a vallop. And we take a wallop. If we get together, nothing will stop us from squeezing those who squeeze both of us—the big dealers."

That tells the story of the milk strike in a nutshell. It is no wonder that the fast-spreading milk strike, which none of the brutal terrorism of the so-called New York "liberal" Governor Lehman and his state police has been able to stop, is beginning to frighten the big companies and their legislative servants at Albany.

For the courageous strike of the milk farmers strikes right at the heart of the fat profits of the milk monopolies who bleed the farmers, and rob the workers in the cities.

The big dairy companies, controlled directly by the banks in Wall Street, give the farmer 21/2 cents or less for his milk. In New York City they chisel from 12 to 15 cents per quart from the working class mothers who try to get milk for their children.

Workers against their common enemy-the giant dairy companies, Borden and Sheffield, controlled by Wall Street monopoly capital.

It is in the interest of the workers in the cities to support the farmers in their fight to get more for their milk. At the same time they must demand that the retail price for milk in the cities be reduced. The striking farmers themselves are fighting for lower retail prices for the

THIS solidarity between the workers and the farmers has already begun. Today's "Daily" prints the letter from a worker which tells of striking farmers pledging free milk to striking fur workers, and of workers joining the fight of the farmers.

This movement of solidarity must be immediately fanned into an enormous united front of the farmers and the city workers against the

We have been too slow in arousing the working class in the cities to active co-operation with the New York milk strikers. The Lade unions, the Unemployed Councils, the groups in the factories, should immediately send messages of solidarity to the farmers.

Demonstrations should be immediately organized in front of the plants of the big milk companies in the city.

The mothers of the working class Women's Councils should organize demonstrations in front of the Board of Health, which hypocritically is trying to break the strike by talk about the "health of the babies."

AT the Lewin Metal Co. strike of 300 Negro workers in St. Louis, the A Communist Party members set an example in strike leadership and building the Communist Party.

In leading the strike by correctly formulating the deman of the workers and organizing their forces for struggle to win these ormands, the Communist Party entrenched itself among the Negro world s.

Working with A. F. of L. officials the bosses raised the "Red" scare trying to drive the workers away from Communist leadership in the strike. The Communist Party members met the issue, and explained the reason for the "Red" cry. Instead of the "Red" cry having the effect of breaking the ranks of the strikers, the Party recruited ten new Party members from among the strikers, and formed a shop nucleus.

The lessons of this strike point out two facts: a) When party members correctly formulate the workers' demands and the strike tactics, taking the lead in carrying on the struggle, they win the leadership of the workers; and b) When they meet the "Red" scare issue boldly, explaining the bosses' tactics, the role of the Communist Party, and make conscious efforts to recruit members for the Party, new members are won for the Party, a nucleus is established and the strike is strengthened.

THROUGHOUT the country, in the wave of strikes, whenever the Party and the red trade unions win leadership of the strike, correctly formulate strike strategy, the bosses rush in with the cry of "Reds," in an effort to smash the strike. This was done in Lawrence, Mass., it is being done in the coal strike.

Our task is to increase our strike activities, explaining why the bosses bring in the "Red" scare to terrify the workers and make them overlook the issues of the strike.

We should not evade the read issue but clearly explain the role of the Communist Party in relation to strikes. On this basis we should recruit among the strikers for membership in the Communist Party. They will strengthen the backbone of the strike leadership and root the Party among the masses actively engaged in struggle in important in-

We must boldly recruit members for the Communist Party in every mass struggle, especially in strike struggles. We must answer the "Red" scare by intensified recruiting, by winning wider masses into the ranks of the revolutionary party as a guarantee of broadening and strengthening and winning the strike struggles.

(Special to the Daily Worker)

HAVANA, Cuba, August 7 (Delayed).—The general strike continues, intensifying each hour. Since our last despatches a number of new factories have stopped work. The most important events, however, are these connected with transport. The railroad workers struck Saturday at midnight. All stations were occupied by military forces. Railroad telegraphers and after them all telegraphers struck. Railroad post offices struck. Messengers and newsboys are on strike. Sunday at 12 noon, the Government silenced all radio stations and prohibited the announcements of news. The papers are not appearing with the exception of the Communist Press and the organ of the strike committee.

All night Saturday and all day Sunday strikers commissions visited the small establishments asking them to join in the strike. All commerce has stopped as a result of that. Police cars rushed thru the city shooting up the strike relief committees. In these battles a number of servicemen, saw the Governor in a people are reported to have been killed. Many were wounded. This is a change of front and it is evident that thousands of ABC supporters have turned to the Communist Party as the only leader of mass struggle of the whole toiling population. In order not to loose their influence the ABC leaders had to make this manoeuver. Sunday night, at 7 p.m. the Government declared a state of emergency. Lehman Denounces Strike

Governor Lehman has made an atempt to wreck the strike by decoying the farmers into accepting an arbitration board. His plan was defeated by the Republican majority in the House because they want to hamper Lehman's chances of re-election by forcing him to call out the National Guard against the strikers. Lehman, who has personal connections with the big dairy com-panies through the Wall Street partner, is making every attempt to marit I nevertheless would not break the strike. He has just signed a bill giving the county Sheriffs authority to increase the number of their deputies to any amount. The number had been limited up to new. In his statement to the legislature, he denounced the strike as "shortsighted and unwise."

Inability to agree on best way to tax the workers made him quit in the midst of one of the city's most severe financial crisis. He had only recently returned from jaunt through Europe with J. P Morgan, studying taxation methods applied in Europe on impoverished workers and how to get banker's loans on the basis of this accomplishment Vouchers for $2,500 and $600 were drawn by Berry to finance this trip, and when it was pointed out the public is interested in knowing how he spent the money, he answered: 'It's none of their damn business."

He has been one of the outstandng opponents to corporation taxes of any kind and came out recently for a 10-cent fare. Bankers short term notes fall due on December 11, but rather than place a tax on high incomes, Berry with the consent of Tammany Hall preferred to draw $3,100 of city money for a European pleasure jaunt.

Lewis, Green Hide Role of Capitalist State Power in Miners' Strike

Pennsylvania Coal Strike Shows How Central Capitalist State Is Used to Smash the Struggles of Workers to Aid Bosses

By HARRY GANNES

HOW the government acts to preserve the interests of the bosses, in this case the coal barons, when sharp class battles break out, was glaringly exposed in the Pennsylvania coal strike.

drawn in to break the strike. The miners from the very beginning of the strike felt the hand of the capitalist state power. They were first confronted with the company gunmen, a private army, armed to the teeth, permitted and guaranteed to the bosses by the capitalist state. Next came the National Moroccan Battle Guard, the armed force of the state of Pennsylvania. In each instance, everything is done to shield the political force, the capitalist state, behind there groups of armed hooligans. He said a new era was open in capital and labor masked the powerful arm of the ruling class, with all sorts of slimy maneuvres in which the A. They told the workers, the government is your friend. Unite with the bosses and the government in a common effort for peace. Don't up-Roosevelt's program. It will benefit you.

When the miners went out on strike against the coal operators, they could clearly see their enemies powerful steel and iron trusts and their gunmen. But the real force to lower the miners living standard is the capitalist state power the Roosevelt government.

IN the 1922 strike Lewis sent the I miners back to work when the government intervened saying: "We cannot fight the government." What did he mean by that? OWING to the changes in the administration, the American bourgeofsie was in a position to spread among broad masses of workers temporary illusions of an approaching improvement in their situation. But the depth and tempo of the economic crisis have established favorable conditions for a speedy unmasking of the policy of the parties of the bourgeoisie. Roosevelt is continuing Hoover's policy against the working class and other laboring masses in an intensified form, ushering in his term with bitter attacks (inflation, reduction of salaries of government employees, reduction in veterans' allowances, the Allotment Plan, forced labor and militarization of unemployed workers, the sales tax, etc.). The radicalized workers who had their bitter experience with the

August issue, says: "Labor, capital and the government must maintain the spirit of cooperation, if we work together for mutual benefit, lifting our relations from a savage contest for advantage to an effort to make and share progress."

It is with such ideas that Roosevelt, and all the exploiters try to get the workers from continuing their struggles when the capitalist state steps in. They try to get the workers to think that they are not fightforce. In reality, the state is the most powerful weapon of these very Many years ago, in 1848, Karl exploiters

"The state," he wrote, "is a particular form of organization of force; it is the organization of violence for the purpose of hold-ing down some class . . . The ex-ploiting classes need political sup-remacy in order to maintain exploitation, that is, in the self interests of a tiny minority (the Mellons, Fords, Rockefellers, Morgans) and against the vast majority of the community." In the Pennsylvania coal strike, the miners had a good example of this capitalist force and violence for the purpose of holding down the miners. When the efforts of Lewis and Feeney failed, when the local violence failed, the federal governviolence failed, the federal government stepped in with threats of force. After the strike was stabbed in the back, when the miners returned to one of the H. C.
