Will Place Jobless in New York City on Basket Rations

'Such Diet Will Cause Scurvy," Packinghouse Worker Writes

NEW YORK.—Food basket rations as relief to the unemployed, which is proposed in the Roosevelt program will be carried into effect here this winter, according to the announce-ment of Mayor O'Brien. Families who had to get along on the miser-able Home Relief Bureau "grocery order" will now have to forego even the right of selecting their food, and on regimented rations decided on by welfare officials.

This plan has been used for a considerable time in Pennsylvania. Tremendous opposition was developed against it by the unemployed. Families of various nationalities who are used to certain foods were compelled to A.F.L. Convention in Miners' Strike to live on dates which are totally unpalatable to them. Besides, the food is usually of the lowest quality and totally inadequate to satisfy the needs

The quality of the food which will be distributed by the federal government for use here is described by a packing-house worker in a letter to the Daily Worker. ## Barbusse, Tom Mann, Hathaway, Speak at Tom Mann Is Not A "Tired Radical"

TOM MANN is nearing his 80th year. At the age of 9, he went to work in the English coal pits. Practically all his life he has been active in the class struggle.

As far back of 1889, he led the English dock workers on strike that tied up ports all over the world. Twenty years ago he toured the United States to rouse the American workers against their oppressors. Only recently at 77 years of age, he led a hunger march in London and was jailed by the British imperialists.

WHO could blame Tom Mann if he were to say, "Comrades, I am old, I am tired, let me rest!"

Many who have done much less than he have said this. Many have said and have written, "I am a tired radical," as an excuse for inactivity in the class struggle.

WHEN Tom Mann was told about the Red Press Bazaar opening this Friday in Madison Square Garden; when he was told how badly money was needed for the DAILY WORKER: when he was told that the Bazaar will raise funds for the revolutionary press, what did Mann say? That he had to rest before rushing to Washington to speak there on the same

Tom Mann immediately offered to come to the Bazaar, to speak in the Garden at 8 p. m. Immediately after his speech he will have to hasten to the station to catch the train for Washington.

TOM MANN has joined with another veteran revolutionary, Henri Barbusse, to help keep the "Daily" on its feet, so that it can continue mobilizing, organizing the American workers against their oppressors. Both of these aged veterans have become shock brigadiers in the $40,000 drive to keep the DAILY WORKER ALIVE.

Both of them are fighters. THEY ARE NOT "TIRED RADICALS." We ask you to support the efforts of these valiant champions of the working class. HAVE YOU DONATED? HAS YOUR ORGANIZATION DONATED? HAVE YOU ASKED YOUR FRIENDS, YOUR FELLOW WORKERS IN THE SHOP TO DONATE?

Now they work 40 hours and get $10 and are speeded up so that if they do not get out as much work in 40 hours as they did in 48, they are sacked.

HAVE printed a few letters from readers who said they liked this column, Here is one typical of the readers who not only do not like the column, but also seem to hate its author's intestines.

The letter is from a young organizer of the steel workers' union in Pittsburgh. He is very impatient and positive, and he brings up questions that have been debated for years and years:

Your lament over the lost proletarian poets, notably Russak, really galls me," he writes. "To think of us here, with strikes and struggles going on, with so much upheaval among the workers, and you worry because a guy who could have been a writer went and became an organizer. And we want organizers here more than we want bread! Have you no sense of proportion?

"The revolutionary movement is a virile one. And only when the writers and artists will come out of the ranks of militant workers will we have a proletarian literature. Not from the ranks of the weak-sister, polite gin-drinking Mexican art-stuff hot air throwers who don't even know what a miner's payday in a cathouse looks like and who write about the misery of workers they never even saw.

"In line with which let me tell you that while "The Road" by Marlen stinks, this "S. S. Utah" is not so bad. I've been on boats and let me tell you again that the experiences the men go through in the U.S.S.R. are identical with the experiences I went through in Novorussisk when my boat decked there. It is more realistic than anything so far. True, there is little form to it, no gripping beauty, but when you can't have fish, you take herring, and it's a good herring.

"Otherwise, Comrade Mike, you're entertaining. I bet the 14th Street cafeterias go for you in a big way."

The letter-is signed with a fine old fighting name, Patrick W. McGinty.

It Takes Some Guts!

COMRADE PAT, to answer first your personal crack, and thus free the discussion for more essential matters, I would like to tell you I don't hang around the cafeterias. I live out of the city, and come in about once a week. I write about eight hours a day, and that's hard work. Have you ever spent six months working at something, then tear it up and start all over again? Writing is work-hard work.

I met the proletarian writer Hans Marchwitza at the Kharkov congress of writers. He is a Ruhr miner, a man of about forty, who fought all through the war, was a leader in the barricade fighting in the Ruhr, and an active Communist functionary. Marchwitza wrote a novel about the Ruhr fighting, and was working at another when I met him.

His entrance into literature was an interesting story. He had written his first novel after the long day underground in the mines, in a dark miner's hut, by candlelight, surrounded by his family of five children. He slept only three or four hours a night. He wrote and rewrote the book at least thirty times. He had to learn his technique, step by painful step. His health broke down but he persisted. It took him over three years to write that first novel, which became famous at once in the German

Well, at the congress, Marchwitza, the veteran of wars and revolutions, had this to say: "Comrades, it takes a lot of guts, too, to be a

Yes, it takes a form of guts to be a proletarian writer. Some of ushave gone beyond the point where we feel it necessary to prove to everybody that we have guts or that we have a right to do literary work. As to cafeterias, you have just told us where miners spend their paydays, and I can only answer, Pat, if this is true, somebody ought to teach them to go to cafeterias instead.

As a matter of fact, there is a kind of cafeteria parasite who spoils the scene in New York. A great deal of foolish talk does go on in those places. But every large city has these social gathering places. I saw Communist eafeterias in Berlin, Paris, London and Moscow. The Soviet workers even play chess and checkers, and they certainly love to sit around and talk. Talk, comrade, whether you know it or not, is a kind of relaxed education. But it should never be a substitute for action, of

No Apologies Needed

OW as to poets and organizers. As I have said, some writers and artists have made an adjustment to the revolutionary movement. Artists like Gropper or Jake Burck have long gotten over apologizing for the fact that they are artists. Their work is recognized by themselves and others as another weapon in the struggle. A few writers have also leved this self-understanding. In the main, however, the youngsters who have cultural leanings and are revolutionists suffer from a conscious ness of guilt.

It is quite, in the American tradition. The Babbitts have always despised culture, and some of our proletarians take over this worst of commercial vices. They think it is somehow manly to look down on an artist or writer. I can still remember the time when I was a boy and worked for the old Adams Express. All the drivers looked down on anybody who read books. You were a sissy if you read a book.

For a revolutionary to feel that way about any of the arts or sciences means that he is not a leader of the masses, but is sunk in their most backward prejudices. It is not only a question of studying economics, Marx and Lenin, and forgetting the rest. If you study Marx and Lenin thoroughly you are sure to be led on and on into at least an understanding of the revolutionary importance of the cultural problems.

Your feeling that organizers are more necessary than poets is quite natural. We are engaged in a great battle, and culture is generally one of the casualties of war. Yet even in wartime there is a psychological factor which every general must reckon with. It is called Morale: and it is as necessary as food to any army.

Proletarian art is a means of lifting the morale of the working class. It is also a form of mass-education. The workers get tired of speeches after a while, as any organizer will testify. It is then that the proletarian artist steps in with his agit-prop troupe of players. It is then the proletarian poet chants or sings his songs; it is then the artist makes ENIN, I think, said that the poems of Demian Bydeny were worth at least a machine-gun regiment to the Soviets.

Our whole conception of revolutionary tactics has broadened out since the Russian Revolution. We are beginning to understand what mass work is. It must reach the men, the women, the children. It must touch every side of the emotional and mental life of the worker—his hobbies, his health, his sport and esthetic desires.

Comrade Pat, we have had many, many strikes led by Communists in this country, They have been won, and they have been lost, but only a small number of new Communists were made in all this gigantic activity of millions of workers. Why? The question has been asked again and again, and many answers made. My own amateur guess is that nobody stopped long enough to teach the striking workers something about Com-munists—not only through speeches, but through the calling -not only through speeches, but through the cultural work.

The Red Army of Soviet China, when in the field, always has a corps of poets and actors attached to each regiment. When a city is taken, these cultural workers occupy the theatres the very first night, and in poem and sketch teach new masses the great objects of the Revolution. It sounds foolish to you, Pat, but it works.

Ben Gold Describes Struggles of Left Wing Workers Against S. P. Leaders, Racketeers, From Close of the World War to the Present

Communist Candidate and the others were Reds. The meeta Leading Part

This is the second and concluding installment of the story of Ben Gold, General Secretary of the Needle Trades Workers Industrial Union and Communist candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen in New York City.

By PHILIP STERLING

BEN GOLD sat over his ever-present D cup of coffee in a downtown rest-aurant. He was there by appointment, to tell the story of his life, by request. But an inexperienced listener, who was not familiar with the labor ement since the end of the war, would have been unable to tell where the story of Gold's life left off and where the history of the New York post-war labor movement began. With politely suppressed impatience he brushed aside questions about his peral life to pursue his recollections of the fight for a real furrier's union.

When the World War ended, the orkers who were compelled to fight it eturned to their homes on this side the ocean to find that they had another war on their hands—a war for jobs and for decent wages.

The S. P. and Racketeers The political policies which permitted the Socialist Party to urge workers to kill each other in the trenches also permitted it to share control of the furrier's union with a que of racketeering officials and outright gangsters.

Because the union was run as private business concerning which the rank and file of the membership could be taken into confidence, union leaders found it necessary to support a large corps of gangsters to enforce their edicts inside of the organization and out of it. After "Izzy Cohen, one of the Socialist founders of the union, was reproached for permitting such tactics, he declared at a public mass meeting, "You can't run union without gangsters." . Elected to Joint Board

Ben Gold, on the other hand, believed that not only was it possible run a union without gangsters, but it was possible and necessary to run the furriers union without crooked officials as well. There were hundreds expressed this belief in 1919 by electin n Gold to the Joint Board of the International Fur Workers Union. The workers didn't like it and they Almost to a man, the furriers decided that there was only one way to save the organization, give the leadership to the left wing.

Frightened by the rising tide of left wing sentiment, Kaufman de-nounced Gold to the Department of Justice as a "Red." That was in 1920 when the reign of post-war terror, the Palmer and the Burleson raids, were filling the jails with working class leaders. Gold had to skip town for a time to avoid arrest at a time when his imprisonment would have been disastrous to the left wing, but he continued to play a leading part by

Not all of the old-time Socialist members of the Joint Board were dishonest or irrevocably committed to incorrect policies. Following the election of Gold and Gross to the Joint Board, the left wing won an ally in Jack Algus, president of the Joint Board. Algus needed merely to see the logic and the justice of the left wing position to become a devout supporter of it. Gold's success in win-ning Algus incidentally resulted in his winning a wife for himself, Jack According to Gold and other left

Expelled From Union In 1923, the left wing furriers gained new strength from the organization of the Trade Union Educa-tional League. The league was soon branded as a Communist organization by the furrier officials. They used Gold's affiliation with the league as an excuse, long sought, for expelling him from the union. That, of course,

Two years later, the determined efforts of the left wing, backed by growing numbers of furriers, resulted in the election of Gold as manager of the Joint Board.

New Victories Gold's eyes sparkle with unsophis-ticated enthusiasm when he talks of this period. "Our victory in the Joint Board was followed in 1925 by a wave of strikes—successful strikes. But the furriers had the successors of Kaufman in the International to deal with. These were as anxious as Kaufman to keep rank and file hands off the union controls. The New York Joint Board, however, went ahead with the historic strike of 12,000 furriers, which established the left wing not only in the furriers' union but in the American trade union movement.
The strike resulted, however, in the expulsion of the entire Joint Board and the left wing locals from the International. The treachery of the Socialist leadership and their anxi-

Considering the abbreviation necessary in the transcription of a novel to the screen, "Ann Vickers," the movie, is a fair representation of Lewis's novel. The book wasn't what you would call "pregnant with great ideas," although it was pretentious enough. All it amounted to was a snappily written serialized "Cosmo politan" (or was it the "Ladies Home Journal"?) yarn. The movie, too, is

So forget about the ballyhoo advertising that Radio Pictures is giving "Ann Vickers": "Sinclair Lewis hinted . . . And the sereen dares to produce what Lewis has written!" Just what did Lewis DARE to write? He was so courageous that he wrote a story about Ann, the "independent woman," who had one abortion, one child out of wedlock and four lovers; has some horrible experiences observing the cruelties of a typical American prison and who later becomes superintendent of an ideal woman's prison in Greenwich Village, about the same woman who has courage to forgive, and to wait until offense was taking stock market tips from litigants in his court, returns from three years of jail.

The October "Steel and Metal Worker" continues to be crammed with news of the big steel struggles. and metal center, and especially of strike victories won by the Steel and Metal Workers' Union. Rounding out the picture of the steel workers in motion, perhaps the most significant development in the present strike movement, there is an excellent batch the live interest taken by the steel workers in their union paper.

Every steel and metal worker will want to give his shopmate a copy of this issue, if only to read the short article by James M. Egan on now the "Jezebel," which Guthrie McClintic Steel and Metal Workers' Union is planning to open at the Martin functions and how it differs from the and Metal Workers' American Federation of Labor. The article tells about these differences in the paper, and will enhance its interest and its purpose as a weapon for organizing the workers. Especially important would be the publication of short articles by those who have been in the leadership of recent strikes, drawing the lessons of these struggles An interesting section of the "Steel and Metal Worker," entitled "Our Union at Work," is devoted to dis-cussion of the life of the local unions. The "Steel and Metal Worker" lacking in political material for the education of a new membership. The issue of the red scare discussed in the editorial does not come to grips with the question, nor does it explain with sufficient clarity the role of the Com-munists in the union. More political discussion to clarify this issue is necessary.

His Speech to the Legion

ROOSEVELT took an aeroplane to the Chicago Convention of the American Legion to grind his heel once more into the faces of the thousands of war veterans who are fighting for the cash payment of the bonus, and against the deep slashes in their compen-

Dropping, somewhat, the liberal mask that he has been wearing, Roosevelt, in a speech that had the unmistakable beat of war-time jingoism in it, declared to the veterans of the country that it is in the name of "national unity" that they must give up all hopes of the bonus, that they must endure the tremendous cuts in their compensation benefits.

Hitler is very fond of the same "national unity" phrase. Only the other day, he told his Fascist Storm Troopers that their "duty was to destroy all those who would break our national unity."

What is this "national unity" of which both Rooseveit and Hitler are so fond?

The phrase about "national unity" is nothing but a cloak to conceal the fact that every capitalist ruler, be it Hitler or Roosevelt, is the agent and instrument the capitalist class, in this instance, of the Morgan-Rockefeller clique of finance capitalists at Wall Street.

The Roosevelt Government is not a government of "national unity." It is the government of the ruling capitalist class, of the Wall Street plunderers and exploiters, against the vast toiling propertyless population. It is to hide this fact that Roosevelt prates about "national unity."

BEHIND the phrase of "national unity," the Rooseveit Government has gone ahead with a brutal program of driving down the veterans with the sole purpose of paying off the Wall Street banks and giant multi-millionaire capitalist investors! Behind the phrase of "national unity," Roosevelt clashed $400,000,000 from the veterans' compensation. But he did not say that to "balance the budget" meant taking the $400,000,000 from the veterans in order to pay off part of the $750,000,000 government bond investments of the Wall Street banks.

Roosevelt trampled on the bonus claims of the veterans in the name of "national unity."

But he did not tell the veterans that he appropriated within the last six months $600,000,000 for the regular Army and Navy budget, and an additional $325,000,000 from the so-called vast military pork barrel, ironically named the "public works fund," making a total of close to one billion dollars in a half year for the greatest war preparations program in history.

The funds, that should go for the bonus and veterans compensation, are going to build battleships and bombing planes! Roosevelt did not tell the veterans

Roosevelt had the gall to tell the veterans that his government "is less and less willing to tolerate benefits for one group of citizens which must be paid for by

He had the gall to say this after his agent in the R.F.C., Jesse Jones, has already handed out millions of the government funds to the rich railroads and banks, and has just promised big industry another billion in fat subsidies.

He had the gall to say that, after his administration has handed out millions upon millions to rich Southern plantation landlords, in generous bounties, for destroying cotton!

IN a spirit of jingoism that can not be distinguished from the speeches of Hitler, Roosevelt declared:

"There are two enemies of national unity, seconalism and class. If the spirit of class is allowed to grow strong or to prevail, it means the end of national unity and patriotism ... If our social order means anything to us, it is worth defending every day of our life ... I have called you to the colors again. As your commander-in-chief, I am confident you will respond."

In these words of Roosevelt, unmistakable, harsh, and brutal, is the spirit of capitalist-reactionary Fas-

In these words, Roosevelt, in precisely the same way as the Fascist ruler Hitler, calls upon the military upper crust of the Legion to consider itself as the organized bulwark against the efforts, not only of the veterans, but of the whole toiling population to fight against the Wall Street starvation program of the Roosevelt Government.

And it is a call that has been answered. The hureaucracy of the American Legion, the rich business men, the Army officers, the capitalist politicians, have already joined with Roosevelt in the fight against the rank and file Legionnaires who want the bonus and adequate compensation benefits. This upper crust has already betrayed the decision of the last Legion Convention in favor of the bonus

When Roosevelt sounds the war cry against the "spirit of class" he is summoning up every force of reaction and militarism to prepare to defend the interests of Wall Street against the rising anger of the world war veterans and the hungry masses everywhere. Such a call is a call to the rank and file veterans to stand idly by while the Roosevelt Government plunders the people to fatten the bankers and the war

Roosevelt's American Legion speech is a challenge to the rank and file veterans, as well as it is a challenge to the entire working class.

It is a challenge that can be fittingly answered by unremitting organization and struggle in every Post of the Legion, and by the growing fight of the Workers ervicemen's League.

A united front of all rank and file veterans can force Roosevelt, the Wall Street agent and war-maker, to deliver to the veterans what is due them - their bonus and their compensation payments.

A Masked Fight

THE lady, Miss Perkins, whom the wily Roosevelt chose as the liberal window-dressing for his reactionary-militarist cabinet, spoke the other day before an assemblage of Catholic charity workers.

She proposed a high sounding, elaborate program seemingly for the welfare of the working class. But upon examination her program turns out to be exactly the same as the Roosevelt program of honey words and reactionary deeds. Miss Perkins' speech was widely publicized as a

"call for jobless insurance." But is it? Far from it. It is actually a maskedfight against the major demand of the American working class: Unemployment Insurance at the expense of the government and the employers. Miss Perkins talks about "jobless insurance." But in the very same breath she denounces the "dole." Typical Rooseveltian trickery! What does she mean by that "dole" which she finds so distasteful? She means Unemployment Insurance paid for by the government and bosses. What does she mean by "jobless insurance." She means the taking of funds from workers who now have jobs, to set up a reserve fund for them, to be paid out in the future! She means that the workers shall pay for their own loss of jobs! About the 17,000,000 workers now starving, Miss Perkins has nothing to say! She proposes a public works program to take up alack in employment!

But what have you to say about the present Roose velt public works program which is turning out to be the greatest war building program in the country's history, Miss Perkins? Is it not remarkably convenient for the Naval clique, which is now plundering the Public Works Fund, to have you set the workers' eves on some distant program?

You talk proudly about the fact the "workers are benefitting under the codes." You quote statistics about higher wages.

But why are you so silent on the fact the cost of food has risen 18 per cent since your admired Roo-sevelt came into office? Why are you so silent on the fact that the codes legalize starvation wages? How does it come about that the 100,000 coal miners, the steel and auto workers find your codes so harsh and bitter, Miss Perkins? They find your codes to be slavery, Miss Perkins.

Your insistence that American workers be kept from the dangers of the "dole," coupled with your enthusiastic lying about the blessings of the codes, means, Miss Perkins, that you, together with the most reactionary exploiters and war-makers, are part of the capitalist fight against Unemployment Insurance for the jobless workers.

Your fine phrases cannot hide that,

Liberal Trickery

THE liberal pretensions of the Roosevelt Administra-Secretary Perkins' Department of Labor in the matter of admitting Tom Mann, British Communist and veteran of nearly fifty years of fighting in the class Secretary Perkins claims to have "liberalized" the immigration regulations regarding the admittance of foreign visitors to the United States. The hypocrisy of her claims can find no better proof than the delay in granting Tom Mann a visa.

As the "New York American" exultingly points out, 'Mann's visa was not granted by the American Consul in London until too late for him to attend the United States Congress Against War." This bit of sly trickery is one side of the medal, with the threatened brutal deportation to Bulgaria of Antonoff as the other.

A Job for Honest Socialists

MEMBERS of the Socialist Party who served as delegates to the United States Congress Against War, if their radical speeches are to be accepted at their face value, cannot avoid a clear-cut stand on the arrest and pending trial of the twenty-three anti-fascist workers in the "Socialist City," Milwaukee.

We particularly single out those leading socialists like J. B. Mathews, Mary Fox, David Lesser and Paul Porter, who actively participated both in the preparatory work for the Congress and in the Congress itself. On these leading people, particularly, the responsibility falls for a clear cut and decisive stand against the social-fascist policies and acts of the Socialist Party leadership.

The decisions of the Anti-War Congress were unanimously made. The Socialist delegates in the congress, including those named, joined with the representatives of the hundreds of other workers' organizations in declaring their determination to resist imperialist war and fascism, and "all developments leading to fascism in this country and abroad." The Congress decided "to form committees of action against war and fascism in every important center and industry," and declared that, "only the rousing and organizing of the masses...can effectively combat war." In the closing session of the United States Congress Against War, the leading socialist, J. B. Mathews,

"This Congress is living proof of the possibility of united action between Communists and Socialists."

VET, while these socialists in the Congress were making such declarations and subscribing apparently whole-heartedly to the militant program against war and fascism, the Socialist Party-their partywas actively sabotaging both the Congress and the anti-war, anti-fascist struggle.

Milwaukee affords the clearest example. Hans Luther, the ambassador of the murderous

Hitler regime, was invited by the city's bankers to visit. Milwaukee

The Milwaukee workers were aroused as the Anti-War Congress decided the workers should be aroused against fascism. They decided to demonstrate against this fascist representative; they decided to make this an occasion on which to categorically demand the release of Thaelmann, Torgler, Dimitroff, Popoff, Taney and all other anti-fascist fighters in Germany.

These workers, led by the Communist Party went to the Socialist Mayor, Daniel W. Hoan, a member of the National Executive Committee of the Socialist Party, and requested a permit for a demonstration before the Milwaukee Club, where ambassador Luther was scheduled to speak. Mayor Hoan refused these workers a permit for the demonstration.

More than that, Mayor Hoan ordered out his "socialist" police to break up the demonstration, to club the workers. Men, women and children were severely beaten. Twenty-three workers are now awaiting trial charged with "rioting," "unlawful assembly," "inciting to riot," and "resisting police." They now face jail sentences ranging up to three years.

The warrants for the arrest of these workers were made out by the socialist city attorney. All this was done in defense of fascism, to prevent a workers' demonstration against fascist terror, by a socialist administration, in fact by Mayor-Hoan, who has been made national chairman of the anti-fascist committee set up by the Socialist Party. This shows that their sabotage of the Anti-War Congress, their refusal to join a united front against fascism, the setting up of their own so-called antifascist body, their support for the N.R.A., etc. was all done to prevent a real struggle against fascism, in fact to pave the way for fascism as did the German Social-Democrats.

SOCIALIST workers, honestly against war and against fascism, cannot go along with such leaders or with such a party. The socialist workers who have pledged themselves to the program adopted at the Anti-War Congress cannot remain quiet while workers demon strating against fascist terror are clubbed and jailed at the order of the socialist city officials of Milwaukee.

Every branch of the Socialist Party, every workers' organization should immediately register their emphatic protest. Resolutions should be adopted; wires should be sent to Mayor Hoan expressing the indignation of the workers and demanding the immediate release of the twenty-three imprisoned workers.

Socialist supporters of the Anti-War Congress can best prove the sincerity of their militant speeches by taking the lead in this fight to force the release of the Milwaukee workers, whose only "crime" is their fight against fascism, including the social-fascism of Hoan. Hillauit. Thomas and company.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—The waterworks and sewage disposal plant of Moscow is in many cases far ahead of American practice, according to Isaac S.
