Two Million Will Be Taken Off Relief Speedily; Says Recognition Will Unemployed Councils Call for Fight

NEW YORK .- Ten thousand workers were removed from the relief list of New Jersey state yesterday and are on forced labor as a part of President Roosevelt's plan to place two million unemployed workers on forced labor, removing them from relief lists. This follows the removal of many thousands of unempoyed workers from relief lists in several states.

Unemployed Councils have issued a @ call to all workers to resist being taken off relief lists.

Eighty thousand more workers in the state of New Jersey will be taken off relief in a short time, it was an-nounced by John Colt, state emergency relief administrator. In Illinois 187,500, within a short period, will be off the relief lists.

Mayor-elect LaGuardia, of New York City, is en route to Washington, via Jamaion and Hava ask for federal funds. The and Havana, to are not to be used for the unem-ployed workers, but for building Guardia let it be known that a request for funds for housing p "is most tentative, and is a difficult problem." In other words, LaGuarda will not insist on funds that might benefit the workers. The Roosevelt plan calls for removal of several hundred thousand from the relief rolls of New York State in the immediate future. There are a million and a quarter unemployed in New York City alone, and no provision is proposed by LaGuardia for relief. On the contrary, he has agreed to Roosevelt's plan to remove those al-ready on relief from the relief rolls.

The National Committee of the Unemployed Councils declared that the preparations for the national unemployed convention, to be held Jan. 13 in Washington, should center around the fight against Roosevelt's forced labor scheme and removal of workers from relief. The Unemployed Councils outlined the following steps for organizing the fight against forced labor: "1—Form an organiz-ing group on each job and through it draw all workers on the job into organization to fight for union wages and against all grievances; 2—At a meeting of all the workers on the together, elect a grievance commit-tee; 3—Link up the organization on the different jobs through delegates: 4-Build up a Relief Workers Union or association, representing all the men on the job; 5—The Relief Workers Union should be tied up with the Unemployed Council of the neighborhood or city through dele-

Hails Program of L. S. N. R. BALTIMORE, Nov. 20.—Seven hundred and seventy-three Negro and white delegates from 355 trade mions, clubs, churches, lodges and mass organizations, representing 194,-000 members, attended the Anti-Lynching Conference held here on sunday and united in a mighty protert against the raging lynch terror and the hideous plans of Alabama fficials to hand over the Scottsboro boys and the International Labor Defense to a lynch mob.

Richard B. Moore, General Secretary of the League or Struggle for Negro Rights presented the program of that organization, advocating right of Negroes and their white allies to arm themselves in seif-de-fense against the lynchers, particu-larly in communities where there is an organized lynch incitement campaign, as today in Decatur, Ala., and on the Eastern Shore of Maryland on the day of the flendish lynching of George Armwood, Negro worker, taken out of jail and murdered on October 18.

yesterday afternoon in protest against the Nazi plans to murder the four Communists on trial in Germany for the burning of the Reichstag. Many more thousands lined the sidewalks some cheering and marching along with the parade.

Fight the Lynch Menace!

Man With Loaded Revolver Is Seized in

THE Scottsboro boys are now in the very center of the Decatur lynch atmosphere. There is not the slightest doubt that lynch torture and death menace them from every side.

The very method with which Judge Callahan is speeding the trial, ill-concealed anger at any attempt to give the trial world publicity, are ominous indications of the reactionary lynch hate which is concealed within the cloak of judicial "impartiality."

Now, more than ever, the only true defense of the Scotts is the aroused anger and protest of the world.

In every locality, meetings, protest demonstratons must be held! Flood the Judge, the Governor, of Alabama, and President Roosevelt with telegrams demanding the full protection and immediate release of the nine innocent Scottsboro boys! Save the Scottsboro boys!

Ruby Bates Appeals for Quick Action to Save Boys

NEW YORK.-Ruby Bates, Scottsboro defense witness whose life is threatened by the Alabama lynch lords preparing a blood bath for the Scottsboro boys and their defenders, yesterday made an appeal for quick and vigorous action to defeat the plans of Alabama officials to turn the boys and the International Labor Defense attorneys over to a lynch mob.

Ruby Bates is naturally not anxious to return to Decatur, but bravely declares her readiness to do so, if absolutely necessary.

Her appeal follows:

The Scottsboro boys, the defense attorneys, are also in great danger. Therefore I am afraid to go back down there to the trial. I will testify before any other court and tell the same thing I told in April, or to anyone, whether it be minister, lawyer, judge or sheriff, But if I am forced to go back down there to Decatur, I will do so. I want to call on all workers, both Negro and white, to get be-hind this struggle stronger than ever before. Protest telegrams and resolutions have to be sent to Dethe boys and safe return of the atmyself if we are forced to go back.

Soviet Recognition and the Capitalist Press

IT HAS been exceedingly instructive to watch the capitalist press of this country desperately trying to explain away the unwilling tribute to the triumphs of the Soviet Union, which is implicit in the Roosevelt recognition of the world's first Soviet State.

One central purpose has been only too clear in the reaction of the capitalist press to this mome

This is to hide the fact that the Roosevelt recognition is basically determined by the victories of Socialist construction, on the one hand, and the advance of the capitalist crisis in the United States, on And the major method which the capitalist press uses to conceal the fact that it is the growing crisis in America that finally forced the American Government to recognize the Soviet Union, is to make it seem as if the Soviet Government has at last agreed to make certain fundamental changes in its international relation's policies.

A quick glance over the headlines of capitalist papers all over the United States indicates the way in which this is being done. We see such typical headlines as this: "Russia Pledges Religious Liberty," or "Soviet Government Gives Sweeping Pledges," etc.

There is hardly a class conscious worker in America, or anywhere else, who will be taken in by this cold self-consolation and deception. In a few words the "Pravda," central organ of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, states the heart of the matter "What seemed 'impossible' for sixteen years was carried out in a few days. This is explained by the fact that the causes determining a change in American foreign policy toward the Soviet Union made

"The United States could no longer continue its old position. In establishing normal diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union, leading circles in the U.S.A. were, above all, guided by the real interests of American capitalism."

N EXAMINATION of the official documents that passed between Litvinoff and Roosevelt makes it as clear as day that the principles of the recognition pact have been part and parcel of the foreign relation policies of the Soviet Government ever since 1918, fifteen years ago. On the question of religion, for example, Litvinoff piled up numerous examples from the Soviet law indicating the policy of the Soviet Government toward religion and religious practices. Replying to Roosevelt's for the "right to free exercise of liberty of conscience," Litvinoff quoted from the Soviet law as fol-

"In the Soviet Union every person may profess any religion or none. All restrictions of rights connected with the profession of any belief whatsoever, or with the non-profession of any belief, are an-

And this was already part of the basic law of the Soviet Government in January 23, 1918! When Roosevelt demanded religious liberty, he was asking for what the Soviet Government made part of its fundamental law many years ago.

The Soviet Government has destroyed all connection between religion and the State. In doing this it has destroyed forever the State-supported organized religion, which has always been one of the weapons

25 Tons of Food for Cotton Strike Collected by W.I.R.

NEW YORK.—Twenty-five tons of food for the strike of the South-ern California cotton pickers, and $218.89 for truckage and expenses, was collected by the Workers In-ternational Relief of Northern California recently, from among workers and sympathizers in San Francisco, Oakland, and other California cities.

Raising the slogan that the cot-ton pickers' picket line will be as strong as the relief that backs it up, the W. I. R. aroused the cooperation not only of many workers' organizations, but of large sections of the population who sympathized with the strikers.

Dr. Leon Klein, W. I. R. organizer, reports that his organization is rapidly organizing stronger forces in California. Branches are being set up and a medical ald unit is being organized.

The seven immediate demands, unanimously adopted by more than 700 farmer delegates in 39 states representing more than 100,000 members in 58 different farm organizations, include:

1. Immediate cash relief; 2. Cancellation of secured debts gages, back rents, delinquent taxes, ed and feed loans of the impoverished farmers; 3. No fore-closures and evictions; 4. Higher purchasing power for the farmers; 5. Tax relief; 6. Reduction in rents; 7. The complete cancellation of all debts of the sharecroppers, both Negro and white, and the abolition of the system of vicious oppression of the Negro people.

Besides passing resolutions on the necessity for unity with the city workers, the Conference delegates revealed, in speeches from the floor their concrete experiences on how they are achieving unity with the working class.

Printed Call to Lynch Boys, Attorneys Circulated in Ala.

DECATUR, Ala., Nov. 20 .-- A brazen call to lynch the International Labor Defense attorneys in the Scottsboro case, Samuel Leibowitz and Joseph Brodsky, is being circulated here in a 54-page pamphlet written and published by one Woodford Mabry, a lawyer of Grove Hill, Ala. Neither the legal nor police authorities of Morgan County are doing anything to stop it.

Misleaders' Instructions To Vote for Hindenburg One of Many Treacheries to Workers

By O. PIATNITSKY.

Comrade Piatnitsky in yesterday's Daily Worker began his answer the following set of questions: "How did the Communist Party Germany estimate the role of German social democracy and of the trade unions in the period of Germany's Fascization? Didn't the Com munist Party of Germany wait too long before it made the United Front offer to social democracy?"

Comrade Piatnitsky showed how the long pre-war influence of the Social Democratic Party on the broad masses of the workers-NOT the vanguard of the working class-brought about by its continued use of radical phrases to cover up its real treachery to the masses, made it ssible for the Social Democracy to lead the German workers directly into the clutches of Fascism. In the second part of this article, which follows, Comrade Piatnitsky shows how, for example, the S. D. P. slogan of "Whoever elects Thaelmann, elects Hitler," as opposed to the Communist slogan, "Whoever elects Hindenburg, elects Hitler," led the German working class straight into the terror of Fascism. Now read on:

Helping the Daily Worker

ot's have action, now, today!

THE essence of the proletarian revolution lies in its international character. The great historic cry of Marx and Engels known to us in English as "workers of the world unite!" is more accurately translated in other languages. The phrase is: "Proletarians of all lands unite!" The workers' struggles in one country are inseparable from the workers' struggles in other countries.

A platitude, of course. But to say that an idea is a platitude is to say it is so true that people take it for granted.

Right there is the rub. Nothing must be taken for granted. We must keep our eyes constantly fixed on the tremendous class battles not only in this country, but in Europe, Asia, Africa, Latin America. We must participate in them. In every possible way we must aid our comrades n other lands.

HAVE just finished reading one of the most terrific pamphlets of our violent era. Unfortunately, it has not yet appeared in English, but I understand that a translation is being prepared.

The pamphlet, entitled "Poland-Slaughterhouse of Men," describes one of the cruelest and most sadistic regimes in the world, the bloodsoaked fascist regime of Marshal Pilsudski.

Poland lies in the heart of Europe, surrounded by nations proud of their lofty culture. In the midst of this lofty culture, Polish workers are wracked and destroyed in an indescribably bestial manner. idealistic and heroic men and women of the country, most of them in the bloom of youth, are butchered daily. Those who are not murdered are thrown into rivers, infected with syphilis, or tortured until they remain physical and mental wrecks for life.

And this orgy of political sadism is carried on not merely by professional thugs, but by government officials, cabinet ministers, judges, red cross agents. The director of this bloody pogrom is that half-insane monster Marshal Pilsudski. This is no secret. The whole of Poland

I cannot think of any words adequate to describe the barbarities of Polich Fascism. To call it cruel, brutal, cannibalistic, savage, mad, is to understate the case. These adjectives may describe the tortures of the mediaeval inquisition; they cannot possibly describe the raving deeds of Pilsudski's slaughterhouse. Polish Fascism has brought the art of torture to a level undreamed of by Torquemada.

POLAND's kept press conceals Pilsudski's blood orgies. But there are times when they cannot be entirely concealed. The cries of the workers imprisoned in Lutsk for demonstrating against oppressive taxes at last reached other European countries. It became known that their jailers raped the women prisoners, pumped urine into their lungs, deliberately infected both men and women with the bacteria of the deadliest diseases

A group of European intellectuals, headed by Henri Barbusse, protested, agitated for the liberation of the Lutsk prisoners. The Polish Seim was compelled to "investigate." The Polish Cabinet was interpolated, very, very politely. And the matter ended right there.

No help could be expected from a Seim completely under Pilsudski's neel, a parliament of thick-skulled fascist henchmen. No help could be spected from the fascist press, kept, cynical, corrupt, itself an instruent of the black terror.

The Polish workers themselves speak to the world in the pamphlet on Filsudski's slaughterhouse. The author, Siskind Liev, lifts the curtain on the pogroms in the Ukrainian villages under Polish rule, on the gruesome "pacification" of Galicia, on the insane tortures of Rosa Zimmerman and Itke Shtifter and other young workers,

BUT higher and mightier than the sadism of the fascists rises the heroism of their victims. Beautiful against the background of barbarity and blood rises the courage of Poland's militant workers, undaunted by the savagery of their oppressors, inspired by a faith in the proletarian revolution that enables them to carry on, in the face of the capitalist desperadoes, an unremitting struggle for a Socialist world. Poland, too.

What gives these working-class heroes their unbounded moral strength and endurance is their consciousness of contemporary social forces, their faith in the proletarian revolution. They know that the violence of fascism is a symptom of the rot which is correding the whole body politic of capitalism. They know that Pilsudksi is not an isolated beast, but one of a eack. They are well aware that his foul regime is supported by the impe-alists of France, England and America. They know, too, that they are not alone in this world. Workers and Atellectuals in other countries will aid them in their struggle against the rascist terror In New York there are already three committees raising funds for political prisoners in Poland. They are the Bialostok, Novidvor and Tschenstoknov Relief Committees to Aid Polish Political Prisoners. It is these committees which have issued Siskind Liev's powerful story of Poland's fascist terror, and these are the committees which are having the pamphlet translated into English

When this is done, let the American workers and intellectuals read the horror described in the Liev's documents. There is no doubt that the indignation and fury which these documents will arouse will result in effective action to aid the Polish proletariat in its heroic struggle to destrov Pilsudski's slaughterhouse.

THE ANVIL, No. 3, November-De cember, 1933.

By GRANVILLE HICKS With this issue "The Anvil" shows is potentialities as a magazine of proletarian literature. Erskine Cald-well's "Daughter" is the best story "The Anvil" has thus far published.
It is also a story that promises well for the author's future. What strikes one as the distinguishing virtue in all Erskine Caldwell's work is his respect, rather surprising but unmistakable and genuine, for the people he writes about. Though his characters are often almost fantastic in their lust, their passivity, or their ignorance, he never shows either the scorn of the average bourgeois writer or the fear and hatred of a William Faulkner. This respect, which rests both on insight into the people them-selves and knowledge of the forces that have made them what they are. is something a young author can build on. And now, if one can judge from "Daughter," Caldwell's atten-tion is turning away from the bizzarre and the pathetic in the actions of these people, and he is finding evidences of new aims and new attitudes. This is hopeful, for few of our young writers are as well equipped as he to depict the awakening of the common people. We have, for example, had many stories of men who killed starving members of their families, but I have read none "Daughter" does. The simple repiti-tion of the refrain about daughter's waking up and saying she is hungry, irresistibly drums into the reader's aind. 'Daughter" is not, of course, a story of the class-conscious pro-etariat, but in depicting the jail delivery of Jim it does portray the tind of militancy in which, once planted, the seeds of class conscious-ess will grow. Joseph Kaler's "Funeral" also deals with what might be called pre-class-conscious militancy. Though he cannot secure his effects with Caldwell's simple strikes, Kalar does create the atmosphere of the coal fields and does suggest the terrible bitterness of the miners. Louis Mamet, too, in "The Pension," which rounds out in "The Pension," which rounds out his story in the preceding issue, evokes credible workers. He is not expension dialogue. quite sure enough in writing dialogue to rely on it so heavily, but his characters do take on definite shape. It is interesting to compare any one of these three stories with Helen Kop-pell's "Out of the Holes," the one story in this issue that deals with the story in this issue that deals with the revolutionary movement as such. Here we have an account of a worker who, after a long and fruitless search for a job, finally discovers the Unemployed Councils with their slogan. "Don't Starve! Fight." The trouble seems to be that the author, in order to set forth Steve's awakening, has to condense the various stages of his development so much that nothing really sticks in the consciousness. ing really sticks in the consciousness of the reader. Obviously the success of Caldwell and Kalar or even the relative success of Mamet is better than this kind of failure. John C. ## An Odyssey of Midwestern Labor in the Past 20 Years

Jack Conroy's First Novel, 'The Disinherited,' Tells Story of a Midwest Coal Camp

By WALTER SNOW

Here is a novel that towers like gaunt, unforgettable coal tipple above all other recent American proletarian fiction.

During the past few years, members of the Communist literary move-ment have been so anxious to foster working class literature that many books, about which we had secret reservations, won our acclaim publicly. If an author could etch a few realistic factory or strike scenes, if he had an ear for native dialect flavored with tobacco cud, if he attempted to be vigorously honest, we felt that he was one of ours.

Knowing that these writers faced argely hostile receptions from bourgeois critics, who are principally ocupied in log-rolling for their friends and leading advertisers, we assumed membership in a radical mutual admiration society. After all, such tactics might boom sales figures enough to make publishers willing to gamble on more proletarian literature.
But "The Disinherited," like the class it portrays, can stand on its own calloused feet. Even those who have followed all the work of Jack Conroy in magazines like "New Masses," "The Left," "Pagany," "The American Mercury," and "International Literature," where parts of this novel first appeared, will be amazed to learn how forcibly this Missouri migratory worker has woven his autobiographical experiences into a compact, dynamic whole that has the surge of power of a well-disciplined

In this odyssey of mid-Western labor during the past twenty-odd years Conroy not only fulfills a defi-nite theme (What faces the children of the Monkey Nest coal camp?) but also achieves the highest goal of any novelist, the creation of liveable human beings. No American labor novel since "The Jungle" has presented such a gallery of figures as the elder Donovan, ex-priest and miners' leader; young Larry Don-ovan's mother, who desired that at least one of her sons would get schooling and escape from Monkey Nest; Peg-leg Mike Riordan, the shotner husband, Rollie Weems, who would never admit as long as he lived that the railroad strike was crushed; Bun Grady, industry's aged cast-off who placed his faith in Rescue Mis-two sickly wives, Lena and Emma; Helen Baker, who becomes a prosti-tute; Paul Stafford and his half-wit brother whose father was determined that they would never be entombed in mines; and Hans, the one-time follower of Karl Liebknecht, who eventually arouses the farmers in penny foreclosure sales. These characters are endowed with the breath of life. They linger in one's mind face is now speckled with blue lumps of coal under the skin, whose shoulders are stooped, breathing tortured by miner's asthma and ears growing deaf so that he can't hear rocks that were about to slip down.

The stamp of inevitability is on every page of this grim pageant of the working class under capitalism. Entirely logical and unexaggerated seem the sudden deaths, the dragging strikes, the abject poverty, the children reared to hate scabs and im-bued with the hope that schooling will enable them to rise to a mistily conceived security, the people seek ing escape through marriage, sordid affairs, new jobs. chronicle of repeated defeats but, as Conroy says, "Somehow the miners seemed to lose the individual strike, but steadily to progress along the far-flung battle lne of their goal."

Author Understands Workers Even after the coal camp tragedies and after he was blacklisted for the railroad shopmen's strike, that faith remained doggedly with Larry Donovan. He became a migratory worker toiling in a steel mill, a rubber plant, automobile factories, pipe lines and paving gangs. It should be especially stressed that Conroy's novel is no monotonous litany of woe. Numerous quieter interludes, fragrant with the breath of green fields, spiced with Rabelaisian lunch hour jokes and impregnated with systematic understanding of workers' pastimes and aspirations, relieve the main theme and intensify subsequent tragedies.

At first Larry hoped that he could rise from the uncertain future of individual members of his class by mastering correspondence school But the economic crisis of 1929 made him one of America's disinherited, a Hoover City denizen. It eventually sent him back to Monkey Nest, where he again met Karl Liebwith his entire class.

A Minor Weakness

One minor weakness of the novel that Larry's constant companion, Ed Warden, supposedly a worker seep-tical of all attempts at bettering laboring conditions, is very sketchily portrayed. Only in two Good Sa-maritan incidents does he come alive. But all the other characters, and they are many in number, are well-rounded persons. Occasionally a description of the workings of new ma-chinery becomes overly technical; this known to the instrument—orchestral criticism, however, applies to only a few isolated paragraphs.

The careful craftsmanship of the book, as a whole, is a source of perpetual delight. Everywhere one encounters pithy phrases, similes that gleam like miners' land-oil lamps in there are unquestionable signs of his there are unquestionable signs of his there are unquestionable signs of his the care unquestionable signs of his the careful craftsmanship of the book, as a whole, is a source of perpetual delight. ## Robinson Jeffers, Poet of Individual Decay and Death

"His Visions Are the Nightmares of a Sick Soul in a Sick and Dying Society"

By S. FUNAROFF GIVE YOUR HEART TO THE HAWKS, and other poems, by Robinson Jeffers. Random House.

Robinson Jeffers is significant as a clear and intense expression of individual and social desolation He is a poet who is spiritually ill. poetry deals with death, fratricide, suicide, sadism, murder and incest, and is tuned to a religious moral note. His characters are psychological portraits of christ complexes or they embody an individualist phil-Often, these two traits play a dual and conflicting role in the poetic life of a character. The poet's isions are the nightmares of a sick soul in a sick and dying society. They are the visions of a man who is sick of life, who finds "humanity is needless" and longs for death as a final and beautiful peace. Here is a poem I fashioned with lines selected from a few poems in the latter part NEW YORK.—Henry Cowell, pian-st, composer and lecturer, gave a up what Jeffers says in the group of poems called "Descent to the Dead." It is an obituary for all humanity.

> "Splendid was life. . Now all is decayed, all corrupted, all gone down. . . The heroes are gone."

"Enough of humanity has been. . . But I in a peasant's hut Eat bread bitter with the dust of dead men the symbolism of the title poem, "Give Your Heart to the Hawks." In an earlier poem, "The Coast-Range Christ," Robinson Jeffers wrote "God was a hawk in the glow of the morning . . . . " The hawk is also a symbol of the individualist who is not a sparrow, not a "flock-bird." but is "separate as a gray hawk." poet cries: Give your heart to the hawks instead of humanity, which is corrupt and cowardly. Jeffers loves this Nature God who is ruthless and cruel as a hawk towards its victims, the flock-birds. In the revivified images of the New Testament, he declares that civilization has once again trapped and crucified its Christ. This Christ is the poetic projection of Jeffers, the individualist. contradiction appears ironical, par-ticularly when one realizes that Jeffers' work is an expression of a class which glorifies its cut-throat, com-

For Jeffers, it is the poet's affair to "call the hawks . . serve God, who is very beautiful, but hardly a friend of humanity." The poet listens to the "splendor of God, the exact poet, the sonorous anti-strophe of desolation to the strophe multitude." In the poem "Intellectuals," Jeffers takes his stand as an individualist and questions those intellectuals who have become socialminded and have allied themselves of ruling class all over the world in their efforts to humb the resistance of the oppressed masses to their

"It is so hard for men to stand by They must hang on Marx or Christ, or Progress?'

In destroying all State support of religion, the Soviet Government has done, in actuality, what many of the capitalist countries where so-called religious liberty exists, will not do. Even in those capitalist "democracies" where the government is supposed to be free from religious bias, the State power has myriads of invisible connections with the organizations of the church, and the government fosters religion as a weapon for the preservation of capitalist exploitation. The only "persecution" against religion that took place was against those priests who under the cloak of religion organized and plotted counter-revolutionary actions against the Soviet Union.

THE SOVIET UNION guarantees religious liberty to all individuals. But it makes not the slightest pretense that it encourages organized religion. It makes not the slightest pretense of concealing that it has, and will continue to, vigorously combat religion, not through that forceful suppression and cruelty that has so characterized the history of organized religions in the history of the western world, but through the irresistable weapons of education, scientific enlightenment, and through the abolition of those social roots of hunger, misery, suffering and insecurity in which

There is more than historic irony in the fact that the President of the United States should show such concern over religious liberty in the Soviet Union, while this country is so remarkable for the bigotry and intolerance of its religious groups. The fundamentalism of the Tennessee legislature, which prohibits teaching of evolution in the schools, the anti-catholic hatred and fanaticism of the Ku Klux Klan, the century-old religious intolerance of the catholic church, the wilknown and wide-spread anti-semitism throughout the country, the abhorrence in which avowed atheists are held, even in the highest seats of learning, all make Roosevelt's worry about religious liberty exceedingly

The editorial in all the Scripps-Howard papers cannot help but admit:

"The guarantees given by Russia for religious freedom and legal justice to Americans in Russia are not new. Such rights of aliens have long been protocted by Russian laws or treaties."

ON THE QUESTION of "propaganda," the capitalist press has tried to look particularly triumphant in its jubilation, pretending that here the Soviet Government has finally surrendered on one of its most vital points. They point with pride to the "victory" of getting Litvinoff to agree to the four articles on "prop-

Unfortunately for the deception with which the capitalist press is trying to blind the American masses to the crisis which forced the government to recognition, every single one of these articles, in some form or other, has been part of the numerous recognition pacts that the Soviet Government has signed during the last ten years with the leading powers of Europe.

Far from being the "concessions" forced from a reluctant Soviet Government, the Soviet Government was willing and offered to sign such articles with all

The editorial in the World-Telegram on the pact states this obvious fact:

"The pledge which Russia now gives to refrain from propaganda is the same pledge she has been willing to give for several years... Those Americans who have been under the misapprehension that Russia has been subsidizing subversive propaganda in this country will doubtless think that is an important victory for us. But the fact seems to be that there are more Americans trying to overthrow the Soviet Government than there are Russians who are attempting to destroy the United States Govern-

Socialist officials tried to intimate that the recognition of the Soviet Union means the breakdown of the Communist International as a revolutionary organization. He tried to intimate that the Soviet Government and the International are one and the same.

The capitalist Times tries to deceive the masses by intimating that the recognition means the breakdown of the revolutionary internationalism of the various Communist Parties of the world. It tries to break down the solidarity of the workers of the world.

Both of these "triumphs"-the "Socialist" and the capitalist-will be of small comfort to them.

IN REPLY to the Forward representative, Litvinof

The Communist International, the vanguard of the revolutionary proletariat of all countries, has behind it the growing support of millions of oppressed masses in all capitalist and colonial countries, and will grow

The Communist Party in every capitalist country is native to its soil, growing out of the class struggle in its own country, representing the conscious organization of the vanguard in that country in the struggle for the overthrow of its own capitalism. These Parties, under the slogan of "Workers of the World Unite," adhere unyieldingly to the Communist International, leader in the revolutionary struggles against world capitalism.

It is only necessary to quote from the yesterday's issue of the London Times to see that the most reactionary of capitalist papers are fully aware of the difference between the Communist International and

"Roosevelt probably attaches importance to it (i.e. article 4.-Ed.) only as helping to make his recognition of the Soviet government more palatable . . ."

It is because the wonderful victories of the Soviet Union are showing the working class of the world that the Socialist system of economy, built up and advancing under the leadership of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, is building a richer, better life for the toiling masses, it is because the example of the revolutionary overthrow of capitalism, that the capitalist press and the Socialist leaders strive so desperately to foment hatred against the Communist Parties.

But the working class of the world is thrilled and inspired by the victories of the U.S.S.R. under the leadership of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and this brings them closer and closer to the leadership of the Communist Parties in their own coun-

The venom and slander of the Socialist leaders and capitalist press cannot stem this. The working class of the world, under the leadership of the Communist Party, shows the toiling masses that the way to end the oppression and exploitation of wage slavery, the way to abolish unemployment and hunger, is the way of the establishment of the Proletarian Dictatorship.

$50,000,000 "For Repairs"

ON the day Roosevelt announced he would return Wall Street's Ambassador Welles to Cuba, Secretary of the Navy Swanson put in a request for more sailors, marines and money for the navy. The more the Roosevelt regime talks about peace, the faster it builds its armed forces for war. Secretary of the Navy Swanson, with the blue prints and schedules of huge naval arms building safely in his desk, follows a shrewd policy in obtaining funds for this purpose. The object is not to expose too definitely the purposes of the M.R.A. public works' fund of $3,300,-

He waits for the news of his $300,000,000 contribution for war purposes to quiet down. Then he springs a new one. Now he asks for an additional $50,000,000

With the rapid building of new war vessels, the Secretary of the Navy argues, there must be an increase in sailors and marines. He does not, of course. mention the plans of Roosevelt and Welles for armed intervention in Cuba, if the counter-revolutionary plots fail to achieve their aim.

The preparations for imperialist war is the touchstone of the real aims of the Roosevelt regime.

Around this point all of the bankers to coupon-clippers, have no difference. On this central issue, Roosevelt's protection of colonial plunder and preparations for the seizure of new markets and new colonies, there is unanimity in the ranks of the American exploiters.

Increase in armaments is intimately connected with every one of Roosevelt's moves. Roosevelt's financial policy has sharpened bitterly the conflict between the United States and Great Britain, as well as with France. In Latin America there is the sharpest antagonism over control of markets, and spheres of investment. Secretary of State Hull is on his way to Montevideo to talk trade and markets, but Secretary of the Navy Swanson remains at home to build the navy for war to win these markets.

ROOSEVELT can shout his head off about jobs on public works' projects, but the funds flow steadily for

From the very start of the N.R.A., the Roosevelt regime has been consciously and consistently preparing for war. Now with the N.R.A. deepening the crisis of American capitalism the war danger becomes more

The greatest task of the class-conscious workers in fighting against war preparations is to point out and fight against the war policy of Roosevelt, garnished with peace phrases.

At the expense of starving millions of workers, the Roosevelt regime readily finds inexhaustible funds for

We must demand these funds for unemployment

Daily and incessantly we must expose to the widest section of the workers how the Roosevelt regime prepares for war and why it does so. We must build the anti-war front of all workers through their daily struggles-for higher wages, for right of union organization, for unemployment insurance, and against all the war and Fascist measures of the Roosevelt regime.

J. Louis Engdahl

NOVEMBER 22 is the first anniversary of the death of J. Louis Engdahl, National Secretary of the I.L.D. Comrade Engdahl gave his life in the world-wide fight for the Scottsboro boys and the national liberation of the oppressed Negro People.

Today, the lynch lords of Alabama are threatening a bloody massacre of the Scottsboro boys, the International Labor Defense attorneys, and of the toiling Negro masses of Alabama moving forward in struggle against their oppressors.

The best tribute—the only fitting tribute—to the memory of this self-sacrificing revolutionary leader, is vigorous whole-hearted support for the cause in which he died, the fight to save the Scottsboro boys and unshackle the chains of the Negro masses and the entire working class.

This must be the spirit of the Engdahl Memorial meeting in New Irving Plaza Hall this Wednesday night, and of other meetings throughout the country. Forward in the struggle in which Engdahl gave his life! Build the International Labor Defense as an answer to the increasingly brutal attacks on the toiling masses, black

Italy Threatens to Quit League; French Cabinet Faces Crisis

Mass Resentment High At Soaring Costs of Foodstuffs

PARIS, Nov. 20.—The rift between France and her allies in the last World War developed further today with a threat by Italy to quit the League of Nations unless France consents to a four-power conference in Rome at which Germany would be represented. This development signalizes Italian support for the British proposal, rejected by France, for a greater re-arming of the German Nazis, primarily directed against the Soviet Union, but opposed by the French imperialists as a potential threat against them.

The international difficulties of French imperialism are further augmented by a new Cabinet crisis, which threatens the early overthrow of the new ministry headed by Premier Sarraut. The Sarraut Cabinet is expected to fall this week as a esult of its failure to balance the budget or to solve any of the burnng problems of the deepening crisis. The resentment of the workers and petty-bourgeois masses is mounting as the price of foodstuffs continue to soar as a result of the protective policy of the government on meats, cheese, fruits, vegetables, etc. Eggs are now selling at 78 cents a dozen retail, while butter averages 78 cents a pound. The internal situation is made graver by the pressure of British imperialism for preferential duties and the battle between the dollar and the franc.

3,000 Nazi Pastors in Revolt on Dogma Bullitt, New Envoy to Moscow, Has Wide Split in Nazi Long Record of Friendship for USSR "Church Front"

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—Revolt flared up Sunday within the united front of organized religion with the Nazi but-chers, with over 3,000 Protestant pastors denouncing from their pulpits the Nazi program for the elimination of the Old Testament (history of the Jews) from the bible, to be replaced with "Germanic traditions." The insurgent pastors demanded the re-moval of all those clergymen who have applauded the Nazi "German Church" program.

In a sensational statement express-ing solidarity with the Protestant in-surgents, the Roman Catholic leaders attacked the Nazi church program, despite the recent Nazi concordat with the Pope. The rift between the Nazi government and the Catholics was sharpened recently by a reference to the Catholics as "black moles" by

Gen. Goering, Prussian premier.

While embattled in defense of dogma, the leaders of the insurgent dogma, the leaders of the insurgent church movement made it quite clear that they would still support the bloody excesses of the Nazi dictatorship against the revolutionary German workers. WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 20.— Against the demands of the Cuban people that U. S. Ambassador Welles be withdrawn, President Roosevelt de-clared that he would retain his post-Welles has been implied. Welles has been implicated in plot-ting the return of Machado forces to control the Cuban government. He backed the armed uprising recently against the Grau San Martin regin resulting in the death of 150 peol and wounding over 200. Welles su ported the abortive uprising of tax Machado army officers at the National Hotel in Havana.

From the very day he left New York for Havana, when he stopped at the Chase National Bank offices in the Wall Street district, until he flew here to confer with Roosevit, he has been plotting either an armed up rising by the capitalist - landlor groups formerly backing Machado, or armed intervention by American battleships and marines.

As a matter of fact, the cry for the ousting of Weller from Cuba as a tool of Yankee imperialism has not only been univer-sally heard among the masses but found its way into the leading newspapers supporting the Grau regime
On the day Roosevelt denied receiving such a letter, Tom Pettey

Comrade J. Louis Engdahl Died Fighting Scottsboro Battle

Death Caused by Overwork on Tour, a Year Ago Tomorrow

> By ROSE DE SANTES. The coming battle for the Scotts-

This recalls the vast importance of the Engdahl-Wright European tour, for it was precisely this tour, which Comrade Engdahl organized and di-rected, bringing the message of Scottsboro to workers throughout the world, which forced the granting of a new trial by the U.S. Supreme Court.

When Comrade Ada Wright re-curned to the United States las December, we obtained first-hand information on just how Comrade Engdahl sacrificed his life in the campaign to save the Scottsboro boys. She reported that during the seven months tour into 18 countries, J. Louis Engdahl never averaged more than three or four

It is now a matter of record how he and Ada Wright had been hounded and persecuted, jailed and deported, during their European tour. Nevertheless, he ploughed right into an over-abundance of work again in the Soviet Union, helping in the prepara-tions for the November 7th celebration and, immediately after, preparing for the World Congress of the International Red Aid, which started Thursday, November 10th. In addition to the activity of the Congress—only now what a strain this trip writing articles, manifestos, resolu-tions—he worked each night after Congress had adjourned, and again ting deported, then one or the other congress had adjourned, and again early in the morning, on a Scottsboro pamphlet and a biography of Ada Wright.
