New Haven F.E.R.A. Men Unite Against Spying Slavedriver

By a Worker Correspondent NEW HAVEN, Conn .- "Boys inless you produce more, some of you will be walking the streets." Such was the ultimatum issued by Mr. Moore, the new boss on the F. E. R. A., Mosguito Control job in Movis Cone, New Haven

This ultimatum was a climax to many weeks of spying by Mr. Burke, State Commission Chief Engineer, who would sneak up on the men to find out if they were talking, eating a sandwich or smoking a pipe. He was even caught standing on a hill with spy glasses

The workers met the same day and decided to set the amount of work to be produced at a rate lower than the former average, not to allow anyone to be laid off, everybody to drop their tools if anyone is fired. A committee of five was elected to see that these decisions are carried out.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

The Meaning of "Soviet Power"

ASTORIA, L. I.

Dear Comrade Editor: The cartoon, "The Chinese Wall," by Comrade R. W., of Oakland, California is a valuable contribution towards the subject in question.

The cartoon itself should be distributed widely, and especially in speakers' schools. The two other contributing comrades advise not to use "Soviet power," "Soviet America." In your note you defend this term. Now, whether this term is "un-American," or from your point of view, correct, is in my opinion unimportant. Important in that the American population has a ten-dency to look at these terms as 'Russian" and it should be seriously considered to use the native word, "council," instead.

Our aim is to bring the truth about Workers' and Farmers' Councils to the masses. The best way should be chosen

W. M. NOTE: It is true, as numerous correspondents has suggested, that the English word "council" is a literal translation of the Rus sian word "Soviet." The question is then raised; why not discontinue the use of the "Russian" word "soviet" and use only the English word "council"? But such an apparently simple substitution would not make for additional simplicity or clarity. It would merely increase the con-

The term "council" in present English usage has the most varied application and meaning. The LEADERSHIP OF THE WORK-used is to yield to all the impeterm "soviet," on the contrary, has come to have a most exact meaning.

We have in the United States councils of all kinds: Women's Councils, Trades and Labor Councils, City Councils, Church Councils, etc. To begin to speak now "Council Power," of a "Council Government," as a substitute for Soviet power, for Soviet Gov-ernment, would be meaningless. worker would understand what the Communists wanted.

The term "soviet," while literally meaning "council," has been endowed by history, by the revo-lutionary victory of the workers and peasants in Russia, with a very precise meaning when applied to government. It means not merely "council" in lose English usage, but a council of ONE CLASS, the working class, created for a definite purpose, THE DESTRUC-TION OF CAPITALISM AND THE BUILDING OF SOCIAL-

Soviets were born out of the Russian revolution as Councils of Workers', Peasants' and Soldiers' Deputies. They were made up of representatives democratically elected by workers in their factories, mines and offices, by rank and file soldiers in their military units, by peasants in their villages. At one and the same time they represented THE REVOLU-TONARY ALLIANCE OF THE WORKERS, the driving force of the revolution, with the peasants and the nation's poor, and the ING CLASS in the revolution and in the building of socialism. They provided for the mass of the people, long oppressed by capitalists and landlords, the greatest democracy, while at the same time providing the workers with a concentrated State power capable of destroying capitalist rule, uprooting capitalism completely, and building a new Socialist society. In short, history has given to the term "soviet" the meaning: DICTATORSHIP

OF THE PROLETARIAT. The reason that this "Russian" word "soviet" has come to have this meaning and not the English word "council" is easily understood: the Russian working class first completed the job of overthrowing capitalist rule and establishing the rule of the working class. They led the way. They mapped out the road over which the working class in all countries must eventually travel. They gave to the working class a new form of State power, SOVIETS, providing the greatest democracy for the masses of the people and the greatest striking power against the capitalist exploiters.

The term "Soviet," therefore became AN INTERNATIONAL WORD, meaning the rule of the working class exercised through the medium of councils of workers' and peasants' deputies. has been universally adopted not only in working class literature but in bourgeois literature as well. It spread throughout the world just as American technical terms and names of machines were incorporated in European and other languages. To argue that Soviet rialist, anti-Soviet propaganda. Every worker can well afford not only to defend every legacy of the Russian workers' experience, but to advocate boldly the need of following the path of the Russian working class. Our difficulty arises not from the use of the TERM "Soviet" in-stead of "Council," but rather from the need for greater clarity and more convincing propaganda in explaining the revolutionary solution for the crisis, the dictatorial capitalist character American democracy and the need for the dictatorship of the proletariat, for Soviet power, as the road to Socialism. In short, our job is to convince the workers, on the basis of their mental conceptions, and not of a word—the substitution of "Council" for "Soviet." Our readers are correct when they demand greater simplicity, more convincing arguments, in putting forward our revolutionary experiences in struggle, that a

is a problem of ideas, of funda-

Soviet government is needed.

But comrades are wrong when they assume that the American population has a tendency to look at these terms as "Russian." and that therefore they will not be won for Soviet power. As the contrast between capitalist and socialist society becomes more and more marked, with rapid progress in the Soviet Union, and misery hunger and decay in the capitalist world, the masses will make their choice in favor of Soviet power. They will not worry as to the source of the word.

CHANGE

CORLISS LAMONT made an interesting talk at a banquet of the Friends of the Soviet Union the other night. He is a real friend of the Soviet Union, as has been proved now for some years.

This particular Lamont is the son of Wall Street and J. P. Morgan's Thomas Lamont, which may seem strange to some, but isn't strange to those who have studied history.

More than sixty years ago the great Russian novelist Turgenev wrote a novel titled, "Fathers and Sons," in which he showed how the two worlds, capitalist and communist, fought their battle everywhere, even in the minds and hearts of families who loved each other per-

The father was fated to play a certain role, but history had laid another task on the son, from which he could not honorably escape. And thus the two, despite the strong natural tie of blood, were in opposite camps.

In Both Camps

THERE are workers, degraded by capitalism, slum-proletariat, we call them, who betray their brothers and join the vigilante and Nazi groups that destroy workers. There are also a group among the capitalists who desert their class, because they see clearly that it can no longer administer the world, but has been forced to cruelty and chicanery as a substitute for superior brains and usefulness.

Corliss Lamont has been forced into revolutionary sympathies by an iron logic. At one time an instructor in philosophy at Columbia, Marxism has been for him a series of slow and painfully-hammered out advances in thinking. It has not been a piece of irresponsible emotionalism with him or the romantic rebellion of one generation against its elders. Corliss Lamont, though a rich man's son, happens to have a cool and first-rate mind, as one can see by examining his books and other writings.

And, let me repeat, there are innumerable such examples in world history. The chief financial contributor to the work of Lenin and the Bolshevik Party was a Russian millionaire named Morozov. In the Soviet Union today there are hundreds of descendants of the old nobility who occupy high positions in the Communist movement.

I can remember meeting the poet Lugovskoi in Moscow. He is a powerful, handsome young giant who fought in the Red Army through the Civil War, and now is one of the best known of the Soviet poets, a member of the party. This Lugovskoi is the last heir of the Ruriks, who were the Czars of Russia before the Romanov dynasty muscled in. And nobody in Moscow finds it strange, or even gives it a second

Another "Deserter"

AT the banquet the other night there spoke, also, a former Czarist General, Victor A. Yakhontoff. This ex-general has gone through a long and sincere development, too. Formerly attached to the Czarist Embassy in Japan, he has written two authoritative and scholarly works on the war schemes of the Japanese imperialists in the far east. He exposes the steps they are taking in their monstrous strategy to conquer the whole of Asia for their empire. They are leading up to a war against the Soviet Union, and in that war, if and when it comes, General Yakhontoff will be a valiant and loyal fighter on the side of the Soviets.

This cannot be doubted. The general spoke at the recent congress against war and fascism in Chicago. In all his writings and lectures he is tireless in defence of his new world philosophy. Yes, this general has deserted his own class forever and come over to the working-class.

Cannot Share the Guilt of Capitalism

T is happening, I repeat, in every land under the sun of our day. About a year ago in Japan there was a general police round-up of Communists, of the brutal variety we have seen recently in California. The Japanese newspapers were surprised to find that among those caught in the dragnet were members of some of the oldest aristocratic families of Japan, including the grandson of a former Premier.

There are quite a few aristocrats in the Communist Party of Germany, too. Ludwig Renn, the famous Communist author now serving three years in one of Hitler's death-camps, comes of an ancient Teutonic stock, and is loved by every German worker.

In France, recently, we have seen the recent conversion to Communism of a large group of aristocratic intellectuals, including such famous names as those of Andre Gide and Ramon Fernandez.

In every land the best of what is left in the old bourgeois world reaches this point where it can no longer share the guilt of capitalism. Not one first-class mind in Germany has remained with Hitler. Art and science flourish in the Soviet Union; in the fascist lands they have withered like a tree struck by lightning.

In America we are seeing the same process. Never was there a time when so many writers and professional people are beginning to understand that fascism means more than the destruction of the working class; it is also the end of western civilization, whereas Communism is the only force that can and will carry on the great

Communist Movement Needs Such Allies

IN the old Socialist movement before the war it is true that one found many such recruits, too. They were a dangerous source of confusion, however, in a working class movement,

The old Socialism had more than a strong taint of flunkevism. Led by men who were mostly personal careerists, and wanted nothing better than a cabinet office in a capitalist government, the pre-war Socialist movement had no real guidance to offer its new allies from the bourgeoisie.

In fact, it surrendered its Marxist line gladly to every newcomer Men like Dudley Field Malone and Mayor LaGuardia, for example, were at one time in the American Socialist Party. They were taught nothing, nothing new was expected of them. Instead, they were immediately offered posts of leadership. It was these confused liberals, many of them nothing but political adventurers, who took the spotlight at once and spoke for "Socialsm."

Today, the Communist movement has a firm Marxist base in the working-class. This it never surrenders. Because it has this foundation, it can absorb these new and splendid allies from the bourgeoisie. It can even teach them a great deal.

A man like Corliss Lamont, because the lines of Communism are so clear and firm, understands better his own relation to the movement. He is content to be a loyal ally of the only force in the world that can eventually wipe out war, fascism, and the rule of the profiteer. We shall see more and more of such allies in America.

DAVID PLATT

EVERY Soviet film is a breath of life to most of us, but a Soviet film as rare as V. I. Pudovkin's "Deserter," now playing at the Cameo Theatre, is something to talk heatedly about. Let me begin saying that I consider "Deserter to be the best Russian film since the early days of Eisenstein. Pudovkin and Dovjenko, the great triumverate of the screen. It is far stronger than Pudovkin's own "End of St. Petersburg" and "Mother," being less epic in scope, and more human and down to earth, and comes close to being one of the and definitely establishes the Soviet's right to leadership over all bourgeois studios in the use of

We see the difficult struggle between the Communist leadership in the strike and the old Social-Democrats who can see only starvation and death at the end, and their ultimate desertion to the side of the bosses. We see the murderous brutality of the Hamburg police assassins whose machine against Communists and Socialists alike, convince the workers, although late, that they must stand together in the strike or perish

We see the familiar day to day activity of the strikers-on the picket line, on the streets with workers' papers telling the truth about the strike, at home with their wives and children whose sympathetic understanding keeps their spirit ever from failing, on parade, One word about the actors of "Deserter." In Hollywood films, once star always a star, until the heavens crash. But in Soviet films new faces are continually in the forefront. In "Deserter" nearly all the former leading players of Mejrabnomfilm are cast in minor roles. Baraskanaja, the heroic mother in "Mother" appears in a small part for one or two moments only: the giant peasant of "End of St. Petersappears once only in the of a scab and then disappears from the screen. Most of the leading roles in Pudovkin's last film are taken by unknown actors.

'HE weaknesses of "Descrier" are many, but they are insignificant ompared to the virtues. The continuity is occasionally interrupted by an irrelevant incident, but that is typical of Pudovkin's work; and the section of the film dealing with the Hamburg-Soviet Union delegation, although admirable in itself, is not sufficiently knit together with the preceding strike scenes. There are also too many bad blank spaces where the film appears to have been inexpertly edited.

But don't let any of these criticisms keep you away from "Deserter"—the best film you have seen

NEW YORK .- General Victor A. Yakhontoff, Maxim Gorki, Karl Radek, Robert Morse Lovett, A. A. Heller, Myra Page, Grace Hutchins and Dr. John A. Kingsbury are among the contributors to the October issue of Soviet Russia Today, which has recently come off the press, with a striking new cover depicting socialist construction and a display of the latest Soviet

Writing under the title, "U.S.S.R. and Peace," Lovett, Heller and Yakhontoff discuss the significance of the Soviet Union's unceasing struggle for world peace, Japanese provocations and the C. E. R., the Soviet Union's entry into the League of Nations, and the part played by the American League Against War and Fascism in support of the Soviet peace policy. General Yakhontoff ridicules the claims of the Japanese that they have secured "confessions" from employes of the Chinese Eastern Railway pointing to Soviet plots to wreck the road. "Please note the logic of the seller wrecking what he is trying to sell," he writes, giving a vivid example of the third degree methods used by the Japanese police in securing_faked confession from their prisoners

No More Delay!

THOUGH the Lerroux-Robles fascist regime of Spain has clamped down an absolute censorship on news of the workers' armed struggles, the Spanish workers are continuing the united front struggle against

Whatever the outcome of the present battles, we here in this country must make every effort to establish a united front for the defense of the Spanish workers, Socialists, Communists and Syndicalists, without the slightest delay.

Every day events shout the necessity of this united front of Socialists and Communists against

The capitalist press has announced the forthcoming "trial" of Ernst Thaelmann, leader of the Communist Party of Germany. In every country where the united front of Socialists and Communists has been realized, the fight for the freedom of Ernst Thaelmann and all other anti-fascist prisoners is one of the major objectives.

A new drive has been undertaken in the United States to speed the execution of the Scottsboro boys. Their execution has already been set for

In Europe, a new Sarajevo hangs over humanity. War is a matter of today, as Mussolini, who is preparing for it and should know, declares.

The Communist International and the Young Communist International have picked outstanding Communist leaders to negotiate with the respective Socialist Internationals. They have appealed to all workers, to all Socialists to act now for the united front in defense of the fighting Spanish proletariat.

In the United States, the Communist Party has addressed a fervent appeal to the Socialist Party executive for a united front on this specific question-for joint mass meetings, demonstrations and other actions in support of the heroic, fighting Spanish workers.

WHY has there been no answer while every day Socialists and Communists, in a united front, fall before fascist gunfire?

The mad fascist dogs everywhere are rushing forward to new slaughters, new tortures, to war. In the United States, the Roosevelt regime is increasing its attacks on the workers, proposing a "truce" in the class struggle, which even the liberal "Nation," in its last issue, recognizes as a sevenleague stride toward fascism.

Thaelmann's life is in danger. Death for Thaelmann will be the beginning of a most ferocious murder campaign on Socialists and Communists in

The Scottsboro boys face the electric chair. There is not the slightest excuse for any further delay. We appeal to every Socialist to bring up in his local, to the attention of his leaders the question of, at least, immediate establishment of united defense of the Spanish With Socialists and Communists fighting shoulder to shoulder to the death in Spain, is there any reason why Socialists and Communists here should not hold joint meetings in their defense?

The Communist Party in every district is appealing to the Socialist Party to go ahead immediately with the holding of joint, united front meetings. The delay of the Socialist leaders should not prevent immediate action wherever possible. Events of onrushing war, of fascist depredations, are making every delay in united front actions dangerous if not criminal. The united front must be established against fascism, against war, against hunger. Let us act now

An Organized Retreat

THE Atlantic Seamen's United Front Strike Committee proposed yesterday that, on account of the treacherous strikebreaking activities of the leaders of the International Seamen's Union and the I.L.A., who have brought about considerable defections and recessions in the Atlantic seamen's strike, it is necessary to follow the tactic of organized retreat in the struggle which began a week ago.

The committee proposed that the strikes on seven coal boats, which are still solid, be continued.

The retreat was proposed in order that the men on the ships can maintain their organized ranks in face of unexemplified scabbery on the part of leaders of the I.S.U., and prepare for future and greater struggles.

The situation was briefly as follows: Mass pressure of the men on the ships forced leaders of the I.S.U. to go on record for a strike to take place on Oct. 8. But when these leaders saw that the men were ready to carry on a militant united strike they soon reneed with the N.R.A. officials and the shipowners to call it off and throw the demands of the seamen into the laps of arbitrators to be defeated or thrown into the waste basket.

But the seamen on 28 ships, realizing that the only way to win their demands, was a strike, walked out under the leadership of the Atlantic Seamen's United Front Strike Committee. All efforts to spread the strike were sabotaged by the I.S.U. officials, who, working with the shipowners, boarded the ships and sowed confusion among the men as they arrived in the ports. They told them that there was no strike; they shipped scabs to take the place of the strikers, they disorganized and disrupted the strike in every port.

It is necessary, in view of these events, for the seamen to adopt the tactic of organized retreat, to ship the militant forces aboard the ships where the I.S.U. officials have demoralized the crews, to contimue the strike on the seven coal boats in Boston, Norfolk and Newport News and to lay a base for a further organized united struggle for better conditions on the vessels. The seamen have learned great lessons in this strike lessons that will be of enormous value in future struggles. They have learned that the I.S.U. leaders are the leading strike-breaking agents of the shipowners. They have learned that they must take over the reigns of the IS.U. themselves, that they must drive from the waterfront and from their union these misleaders of labor. They have been able to see more clearly the N.R. as a strikebreaking apparatus.

The task of the seamen now is to strengthen their ranks, to build strong ship committees on all ships, to recruit new members into the Marine Workers Industrial Union and to build a powerful rank and file opposition in the I.S.U. to carry on the struggle for the demands of the men over the heads of the leaders.

Bankers and Roosevelt

MIALL STREET bankers and the Chamber of Commerce, after recent conferences with Roosevelt, pronounce him a very good President for their purposes. Roosevelt's candidates throughout the country, of course, are not telling the prospective voters about these facts. They are still using the old line of Roosevelt's promises, at the very moment Roosevelt is consulting bankers and Chamber of Commerce representatives on how best to defeat these promises.

We want to refer to only a few of the reasons why the bankers and big industrialists have declared their new love for Roosevelt. The Chamber of Commerce, in its latest statement, says it believes Roosevelt is the best bulwark against the 30-hour week agitation. They reveal-and this is a secret they have not told the workers before-that Roosevelt passed the N.R.A. to stop the movement for lower hours and increased wages. They count on Roosevelt to stop any such further agitation

The Heraid Tribune, for example, reveals the fact that bankers, who support Democratic and Republican candidates alike, have come out for Roosevelt as their best bet.

Roosevelt has had long conferences recently with such men as Russell C. Leffingwell, member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co.; William C. Potter, president of the Guaranty Trust Co.; W. W. Williams, president of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America; Francis M. Law, president of the American Bankers Association; W. R. Grace, president of the Grace Lines, and Walter C. Chrysler. automobile magnate. Besides, George Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, and a Morgan man, was a guest of Roosevelt on a week-end cruise.

LL of the bankers come out of their conferences A satisfied that Roosevelt is carrying out their policy, and that his demagogy is meant only for mass consumption.

These are not the only reasons given by the Herald Tribune to show that the bankers and big trusts see in Roosevelt their best instrument for carrying out the drive against labor.

These are the facts that all workers should keep in mind when going to the polls. No matter what promises the various candidates on the capitalist tickets supporting or attacking the New Deal may present, the actual political alignments are being made directly between Roosevelt and the big bankers

Only the Communist Party, from the very beginning of the Roosevelt regime showed and proved that his program was the program of finance capital, of the most corrupt trusts and scab-corporations. Only the Communist Party from day-to-day fought against every new slave-driving measure of the New Deal, and warned of its later anti-labor Recosevelt's many conferences with the bankers are reminiscent of Hitler's constant meetings with the German bankers. The results of Roosevelt's conversations will be greater efforts to save capitalism at the expense of the workers, resorting to more and more fascist measures against the workers.

To mobilize the fight against this set-up, to rally the workers to the new dangers confronting them, a huge Communist vote can now become one of the most powerful weapons.

A vote for the Communist Party is a vote for the ainst the bankers' New Deai; a vote against all the lying demagogy of Roosevelt; a vote for workers' rights, for powerful trade union organization, for struggle for increased wages, and for development of these struggles for the overthrew of the whole rotten structure of capitalism. Vote Communist!

Beware of Roosevelt's 'Gift'

THE decision of President Roosevelt regarding hours in the cotton garment industry repeats the history of the handling of the cotton textile workers under the N.R.A. codes. Roosevelt, and the employers, in the formulation of the cotton textile code-the first N.R.A. code-made similar "concessions" to the cotton textile workers. They reduced hours "without reduction in pay." But the cotton textile workers soon found that they had been handed a gold brick.

They discovered that the shortening of hours was accompanied by speed-up, instead of decrease in unemployment. They found that there was an actual reduction in real wages because, while wages remained the same, living costs soared under the N.R.A. The N.R.A. cotton textile code, hailed as a benevolent gift of Roosevelt to the cotton textile workers, in reality was an instrument for building company unions and discriminating against union members. The cotton textile workers found that the minimum wage became the maximum wage. The actual wage of masses of workers was reduced below the minimum by drastic "curtailments," reduction in hours by special "permission" of Roosevelt, without increase in pay.

History now repeats itself in the cotton garment industry. To head off a strike demanded by the cotton garment workers on Oct. 15, Roosevelt grants the concession of the 36-hour week instead of the 40-hour week, with a corresponding per cent increase in hourly and piece work rates.

But the decision in the cotton garment industry takes no account of the real reduction in wages which has occurred because of mounting cost of necessities of life. The hourly reduction given the cotton garment workers does not answer the main grievances of the cotton garment workers—the intense speed-up and sweat shop conditions, the crying need for increased wages due to higher living costs; the demand for recognition of the unions. These demands could have been won by carrying through the strike on schedule. But the leaders of the A. F. of L. garment unions called off the proposed strike and accepted the concession on hours under which the most burning grievances of the cotton garment workers remain. These A. F. of L. garment union leaders, such as Sidney Hillman, of the Amalgamated, are part of the N.R.A. boards which rendered the decision. On them as well as on Roosevelt must be placed the responsibility for surrendering the chief demands of the cotton garment workers, by killing the strike and accepting a concession which will quickly be taken from them. The rank and file members of the garment unions should strengthen their rank and file opposition groups, and demand that the burning grievances of the garment workers be formulated and that strike for these demands be prepared. The garment workers can win higher wages, elimination of the speed-up and recognition only through preparing and carrying through strike actions.

Struggle in Chicago Against Company Unions Set Up After N.R.A.

By B. B.

WE have in Chicago the type of company unions that were setup after the introduction of the N. R. A. That is, no dues payments nor regular membership meetings It was set up under the provision of "Employes Representation Plan." Even in International Harvester where there has been a company union for 15 years, it functions in the same manner as those organized last year. Only that it's more rooted and has a more elaborate field of "activity." This type of the company union is the predominant

With the setting up of the company union in ---, a union member was elected from one of the depart-ments. This comrade immediately began to raise demands, introduced a motion to post the minutes of the "Council" meeting on the bul-letin board so that the workers would know what's taken up at the meetings.

Through the work in the company union, our comrade gained prestige among the workers. So the company decided to get rid of him. He was "laid-off until further notice," and here he utilized his privileges, as representative by calling a council meeting and demanding his reinstatement. The majority of the council supported him on this and he was put back on the

WHILE being on the company union our comrade was able to meetings of his department and bring the problems of the shop up to them. During the discussion they were able to pick out the best workers. Those were later approached for the S. M. W. I. U. Even from the Council, a representative from the tool room was recruited. The S.M.W.IU. began to grow to over 100 members, with the most work done by the company union representatives who made it their business to visit different departments to sign the workers into

We began to issue the leaflets: exposing the company union and why it was organized, at the same time carrying on agitation against the company union meetings; especially the Secretary and the Chairman, who were exposed as "suckof the company. During the period it was also possible to develop struggles. Our union using the company union representatives won a six-cent an . hour increase for the tool room workers by sending a committee to the company union where a fight around this issue was developed, and later the committee went to the management, supported by the majority

Mass Suicide

1,000 Hungarian Miners Storm Signals in Germany

UUNGARIAN miners, re-I duced to the level of coolies, have resorted to a desperate move to force a wage increase. More than 1,000 coal diggers at Pecs, Hungary, receiving $2 a week, have barricaded themselves in the mine pits threatening to commit suicide en masse if their wages are not raised to $3.50 a week. They have been underground more than 48 hours at the time of writing. A group stands at the entrance to the tunnel of the self-entombed miners with axes to stop any efforts at "rescue."

"Rather than suffer the slow pangs of death by starvation," they say, "we will commit suicide by smothering ourselves unless you grant our demands within twelve hours."

With their wives and children above ground facing starvation, a man's situation must indeed be desperate when 1,000 prefer to kill themselves rather than to continue to live under the miserable conditions of Hungarian fascism.

REDUCED to the level of the lowest A paid coolies of the Far East, the Hungarian miners have adopted some of their methods of struggle. For example, at the San Yue Towel Co. in Shanghai, several years ago, hundreds of textile workers barricaded themselves in the plant and declared a hunger strike. They were demanding relief and back pay. Japanese workers very often climb factory smoke stacks, threatening to jump off if they are molested and vowing to starve to death if their fellow workers' wages are not raised. Chinese, Indian, Indo-Chinese and Japanese workers sometimes commit suicide on their employers' doorstep as a sign of protest against starvation pay, inhuman treatment.

EVERY worker will be aroused to which drive workers to prefer to make a slaughter house of a mine, to shed all of their blood at one stroke rather than ooze it out over a long period of starvation in digging coal.
