ANSWER BOSS MADRID GENERAL STRIKE OCT. 5 PROVED EFFECTIVE

City Fighting Was Restricted to Picked Shoek Bands Whereas in Asturias Workers Took Offensive in Mass Armed Struggles

By Harry Gannes

(This is the Second of a Series of Six Articles on the Situation in Spain.)

In Madrid the general strike of October 5 was completely effective. While the Asturias workers went over into the offensive through mass armed struggles, seizing power and setting up a workers' and peasants' republic, arousing the greatest initiative of the masses, inspiring them to the Twenty-five thousand dye strikers most self-sacrificing and heroic deeds, the Madrid fighting and sympathetic workers paraded was largely sporadic. It was restricted mainly to picked shock bands. They struck with extreme rapidity and surthreat of the manufacturers to open prise, and retreated almost as quickly. But the great mass reserves of the proletariat were not led to storm the heavens

The fighting in Madrid far surpassed the strategy in Vienna, as the picked bands carried the attack into the strategic centres of the enemy. The workers were on strike, prepared to fight. But the assault of the great mass of workers was directed mainly against strikebreakers his stand on the report in terms of withering sarcasm:

"I wish to give credit to the moderateness and carefulness with which the committee prepared the document presented to us now. The recommendations which this report contains bear, in my opinion, a mild, even too mild, a character. However, despite this, the Soviet delegation would be ready to accept the report in its present form if it were accepted by the Assembly unanimously, and without much discussion. But in view of there being a proposal to charge the committee with further discussion the report of the Soviet delegation proposes:

For Fixed Term "First, an established fixed term for acceptance of the recommendations by the parties concerned. This term must be as brief as possible by giving their governments sufficient time for making decisions and for consultation, if necessary, with legislative institutions. Simultaneously, it must be so brief as to prevent armies from utilizing this period for unrolling advancing visor a swarm of police reserves movements and making further arrived on the scene, attempted to

Embargo Must Be Strict

"Second, the Soviet delegation proposes that the embargo be of a stricter character and should prevent not only the supply and sale of arms but also their transit. Ex- er, mounted a chair to address the perience has proved that in those cases the facts that there was a supply of arms were established, it was not always easy to expose the speaking, twice pulling him off his origin of these arms and find the party guilty of their manufacture and sale. It is, however, much easier to determine which countries allowed the transportation of arms through their territory.

"I suppose that a similar prohibition on arms transit might prove more effective than prohibitions on the sale of arms. I agree with the the office and present the resoludelegate concerning the introduction of an embargo even before the aggressive side is established. However, this is not important if we consider the brevity of the term from three to four weeks. which will be fixed for acceptance by the parties concerned in the present recommendations.

"It is important that the embargo be applied with all strictness and energy after one or both sides refuse to accept these recommendations. The long distance which divides us from the theatre of military actions and the comparatively insignificant number of armed forces participating there should not lower the importance of the problem in our eyes. The decisions which we shall make here might have very important consequences in the examination of more serious conflicts and we must all remember this. For its part the Soviet delegation insists that the decisions of the Assembly concerning this question bear a decisive and firm character and that the Assembly manifests firmness in this realization."

Workers Write Names Of Communist Slate In Illinois Town Vote

ALPHA, Ill., Nov. 23 .- In this village of 200 population, eight workers went to the polls and wrote in the name of the Communist Party and the names of the Communist Party candidates on the ballot.

This created such a furor among the local politicians, it was reported, that the city officials are examining for the Communist ticket.

This once more exposes the nature of the so-called freedom in

Representation at the National Convention

National Convention Will Follow . Congress on Unemployment Insurance in Washington

The fourth national convention of the National Unemployment Councils will be held immediately following the National Congress for Unemployment Insurance. Thus, the National Congress for Unemployment Insurance will be held in Washington on January 5, 6 and 7, and the convention of the National Unemployment Councils will be held on January 8 and 9.

While representation to the National Congress for Unemployment Insurance is based upon the general united front call to which any organization which endorses the call can send delegates, representation to the convention of the Unemployment Councils can only be from chartered Council locals, neighborhood groups and State Council or-

DETROIT DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 22,-The relief lists reached an all-time peak of 52,172 families on Nov. 15, showing an increase of 1,562 families since Nov. 8. At the same time, the employment index of the Chamber of Commerce was 51.9 on Nov. 15, file. compared with 50.2 on Oct. 30, due largely to seasonal activity in autoproduction. This would indicate rising destitution among new sections of the population than

Wind From the Bag General Butler is in the news again. This time he is telling the "truth" about war and fascism. But generals are sly foxes; calling on the population to refuse to go to war and rattling the sabre in China are part of a demagogue's stock in trade. Had the general really seen general economic problems of the the light he would have been a delegate to the nti-War Congress. The loophole in the general's attack on war is his eagerness to be prepared against an outside enemy. With this the munitions manufacturers can have no argument. Business can go on during pacifist alterations. This gives them a breathing spell in which to look for a convenient "outside enemy." It also gives ample time to prepare the public mind for a whooping good propaganda campaign. The general is also for an amendment to the constitution, in this he is one with the A.V.A. He says, "Take the Power away from Congress." And give it to whom? The President has enough already, Huey Long, his demagoguic rival in Louisiana has the State in his pocket, Douglas MacArthur has a steady job as chief of staff, Art Smith is in jail, Morgan has Wall

some dark horse the only candidates for the role of the "man on the white horse." After this, his recent "expose" of the Wall Street plot to set up a Fascist regime rings false. Perhaps the stakes weren't large enough or maybe he is not quite sure of the rank and file of the American Legion and V. F. W. since their participation in the textile strike in Rhode Island, the American Legion's refusal to take police jobs at $5 a day in Minneapolis, the militancy of the workers and veterans in the Frisco strike, etc. And Washington a joke. Through all this, Butler weeps that being an enemy of the big shots and a "friend" of the rank and file puts him in a class where "nobody speaks Come, come, general, F. W. and ex-Commander Hayes of

We had a little talk and when we came to speak about marriage, the doctor advised me not to get married, claiming that marriage affords an easy opportunity for sexual intercourse, and intercourse, he claimed, was a terrific strain on the heart, which for normal individuals was of no effect; but in my case it was different. He also advised me not to carry heavy packages, not to participate in competitive sports, etcetera. In one word, not to do anything which requires great efforts. Do you think the doctor's advice about not marrying and the other things was sound, or should I disregard it-B. R., Bronx."

Answer

VOU state that you have an "en-I larged heart" or "murmur." The two are not the same. Murmur may be present without heart disease; but assuming the more serious of the two, i.e., enlarged heart our advice is the following:

Your doctor advised you to avoid competitive games or strenuous sports, like rowing, running, mountain climbing, and any activities requiring great effort. This is sound advice for anyone, even if the heart defect is very mild. There is no objection to the less strenuous activities. Regular sexual intercourse is not too much of a strain, unless the individual is severely ill with heart disease. The question whether a man having a heart defect should or should not marry has to be considered from other angles besides the sexual. Definite advice should be given only after careful examan 'enlarged heart' or 'murmur', but ination by a physician experienced in these questions.

AXIM GORKY recently described the visit to his home of a little ten-year old Pioneer who was the author of hundreds of verses. The little Soviet citizen stood up proudly before the great author, answering Gorky's questions with a patient serious concern. He was neither modest nor conceited. He said the deepest influence on his literary creation came from Mayakovsky, the great revolutionary poet.

Then Gorky, startled and delighted by this Pioneer and flourishing poet, asked the boy what books he had read. Had he read Turgeniev?

Oh yes, the poet answered, a long time ago. How long? asked Gorky.

About a month, said the Pioneer.

The Children of Socialism

TIME moves quickly in the Soviet Union, hundreds of years of human I effort are compressed and overtaken in tens of years, and with the tempo and rapidity that a new world has grown up in the former empire of the Czars, a new generation unlike any other in the history of man has also sprung into existence.

This ten-year Pioneer who wrote, according to Gorky, really talented poems that showed a correct and deep understanding of the social forces at work in the world today, was no startling and exceptional prodigy among the children of the Soviet. He was but typical of the new children the October Revolution has given birth to. They grow up in a world as remote from the life their parents led as the first cultivation of the soil was from the primitive animal exstence men followed in the dawn of the earth. They are socialist children; they are the generation brought up and schooled in teachings of Leninism; Socialism is their great mother.

A Generation Without Memories

OVER them there hangs no dark cloud of terror and falsehood, of poverty and brutality, of the children of the capitalist world.

They do not know the lives led by the generation passing its adolescence now in the nightmare of the capitalist crisis. Sometimes they listen in hurt bewilderment to the tortures and the horrors of child-labor, of the lives of children who spend their puberty crouched over a packing table in a great cannery, or buried in the sheds of cotton mills.

Not long ago I saw a letter the Komsomolskaya Pravda, the official newspaper of the Russian Young Communist League, sent to the young comrades here in America. The editors of the Komsomalskaya Prayda asked the young workers of America to contribute articles and stories to the pages of their paper in order to vivify for the youth of the Soviet Union the conditions of the youth in the capitalist countries. "Our comrades," said the letter, "have never seen how capitalist society works. They have no memories of Old Russia."

This is the new generation which is carrying onward the banner of Socialism, fighters for the classless world who have no old memories to haunt them like nightmares.

Kolya and His Mother

THESE young Pioneers are developing new standards of human dignity and new mores of conduct. Reading the Moscow News, a typical instance of the struggle between two worlds, two ways of life, is summarized in the little story of the struggle between 11-year old Kolya and his mother, Anna Egorovna Shibaev, wife of a collective farmer in the Moscow region.

Kolya caused his mother great pain. He wrote a letter to the newspaper of the Machine-Tractor Station in the Moscow Province complaining that his mother yelled at him and sometimes even beat him. And Kolya contended that beatings were only done in the Czar's time and not under Socialism.

Anna Egorovna was angered and enraged by the behavior of her "There's a child for you," she exclaimed, "Eleven years old and he is looking for new laws already! Four of them I've brought up, and suddenly I can't beat the last one when I want to! I ought to know by now how to bring up children!"

discussion about Anna Egorovna's right to beat her son, Kolya. They wrote to the paper. "Anna Egorovna, you must not beat children: . . ." "I never yell at my grand-daughter. She will grow up and never say an unkind word to me. . . ."

The New and the Old

AN OPEN meeting was called to discuss the question. One hundred and thirty collective farmers showed up! They came from everywhere, the question agitated all. Anna Egorovna was also there. But she did not speak.

The peasants spoke. This one grew up fatherless, to this day he curses his uncle for the beatings he gave him. That one beat his children from "want and misery," from "ignorance and darkness." But Anna Egorovna listened to all the discussion and said nothing at all. Two months went by. Then one day the newspaper received a letter from her. It bore the following heading, "Let Any One Say That I Beat Kolva.'

. Kolya has become better. Well, of course, I've stopped beating and yelling at him. After supper he sits at the table and recites his lessons to me. I go to my son, and he begins to tell me: 'Mamma, they didn't teach you like this before. They teach us better now." 'Yes,' I think, 'I agree with you, my son . . . '

And so the children give birth to different mothers; the new remakes the old.

They Shall Not Die . . . By Michael Quin

(To Clarence Norris and Haywood Patterson, two of the innocent Scottsboro boys who are condemned by brutal boss "justice" to die in the electric chair on December 7, and whom only mass protest can save.) (Reprinted from Western Worker)

> If the untold martyred Negroes rose From long forgotten graves; If the dark soil burst and issued forth Its hoard of murdered slaves:

> > If they marched their broken bodies past In ghastly black parade Before the men who struck them down

The sea of lash-torn human flesh Rope-strangled throats, gouged eyes. Charred bodies, bullet-riddled forms Would shock the very skies.

That fortunes might be made;

But still the lords of greed and gain Would view it all with pride, Would count each corpse like misers' gold And not be satisfied.

Too long the trees of Southern hate Such bloody fruit have borne As Negroes strangled on boss ropes, For parasites to scorn.

> Too oft through balmy Southern air The awful, sickening smell, Of burning human Negro flesh Floats like the breath of Hell.

And now the brutal master class, Puts by its rope and fire, And turns upon the working class With copper chairs and wire.

Little Lefty

The power plant is humming death While two boys wait in cells, To take the volts into their bones, Unless mass protest tells.

What for? Who reaps the gain of this? Whose pockets bulge? Whose hand Sets fire to men, pulls lynching ropes And rule this wretched land?

> Who profits by the death of men? By keeping men in chains? Whose hand is sowing human skulls Upon the earth like grains?

White workers will not kill Their fellow workers, black or brown, To do a master's will.

> Our martyrs lie with your brave dead In deep graves side by side While workers, black and white, above Are joining hands with pride.

Here is the challenge bosses fling, At black and white alike: "December Seventh is the day, The hand of death shall strike."

> This was our battle cry: We swore before our martyred dead.

Let every voice, let every fist, Rise up, for we have willed To stay the murdering hand of greed:

That Settles It!

That hand is white but not our hand

We joined our hands. We made a pledge.

Greetings to the Silk Workers' Convention!

THE DAILY WORKER greets the delegates to the Second Annual Convention of the American Federation of Silk Workers, which opens today at Woodstock Hotel, New York City. Tens of thousands of silk workers are watching anxiously the proceedings, and expect that out of the convention will emerge a fighting program to meet the deplorable situation which exists for the workers in the in-

The termination of the General Textile Strike by Gorman and his strike committee was a complete surrender and left the silk workers in an even worse position than before the strike. In Paterson the employers scrapped the contract and wages are slashed in most shops. There is no uniform wage scale and the employers hold the threat of moving to districts with lower wage rates as a club over the organized workers. Contracts of different regions expire at different times. Many centers remain unorganized and undermine the conditions of those

In face of this general attack against the workers, the union leadership has confined its resistance to individual shop strikes, and depended upon the N.R.A. textile relation board.

Every workers in the union now realizes that only a general silk strike can answer this attack.

Recent experience has shown that the leadership of the Federation must not again be left in the hands of such as Frank Schweitzer. It is Schweitzer who co-operated with Gorman and the United Textile Workers leaders in the shameful betrayal of the recent General Strike. The will of the rank and file was shown in the elections for delegates to the convention, held in Paterson, where the reactionaries representing the Schweitzer-Keller machine in the union were overwhelmingly defeated. The members are through with Keller's clique control.

The only solution for the union is a new leadership, elected out of the ranks of the best rank and file fighters in the union. Only such a rank and file leadership and control can carry into life a program for the establishment of decent living standards in the industry.

The following are some of the essential problems which will receive primary attention at the

(1) A general silk strike to smash the wage cutting and the increase in loomage.

(2) A uniform wage scale in all silk centers. (3) Discuss possibility of merging with the Fed eration of Silk and Rayon Dyers. (1) That all contracts of silk centers expire at the same time.

(3) Organizing the unorganized regions.

(3) Democracy in the union and repudiation of the policy of expelling militants.

(7) For passage of the Workers Unemployment Insurance Bill (H. R. 7598)

This is the program of the Rank and File elements in the union. There should be a strong possibility of carrying it into life. In addition to Paterson many other locals have elected militant delegates. These will speak for the tens of thousands in the industry. All delegates who want to build a powerful fighting American Federation of Silk Workers, should give them full support.

Unite Against Roosevelt's New Hunger Drive

THE concerted drive of the Roosevelt regime on the workers' living standards, already openly launched in conformity with the demands of the recent conferences of bankers and manufacturers, confronts every worker and workers' organization with the questions: what steps can and must be taken to defeat these new attacks? What steps can and must be taken to unite the workers' ranks for the struggle? On Thursday Federal Relief Director Hopkins ordered the thirty cents an hour minimum wage on work relief abolished. He announced that "unemployables" will be cut off federal relief altogether. This order sets a precedent for reduction of wages of those still employed.

Secretary of Interior, Ickes, simultaneously issued a statement that in new building construction "conceivably we can make an agreement with labor so that we can pay lower rates and offer year-round work." This out-and-out wage cut proposal of Ickes declared that the building workers have a "high hourly rate."

These proposals of the Roosevelt government to cut wages and pare down relief came on the heels of Donald Richberg's speech in which the right hand man of Roosevelt assured the employers of "self government" and "flexible codes" and promised that the "reorganized" N.R.A. would give the employers a free hand in dealing with labor. Richberg further promised the employers that the new "permanent" N.R.A. will preserve the freedom of the company union and the "open shop" by granting "minority" and "individual" rights in collec-

The national officials of the American Federation of Labor have cooperated with the employers and the Roosevelt government in putting over every phase of the campaign to drive down the workers' living standards. William Green, president of the A. F. of L., answers Ickes' wage cut proposals by declaring that the lowering of building workers' wages will be given "fair consideration." Green declares himself "pleased" with the recent N.R.A. Labor Board's ruling upholding the company union in the rubber company elections, and rejecting the Rubber Workers' Union petition. Green follows out the relief slashing program of Roosevelt, and, like Roosevelt, opposes any Federal unemployment in-

THE workers can answer and defeat the attempts of the employers to cut wages, reduce unemployment relief and smash the unions.

The united front of the employers, the Roosevelt government and the A. F. of L. leadership in the attacks on the workers can be defeated only by the broad united front of the working class to defend their conditions and their rights.

The working class demands can defeat the antilabor drive by uniting to secure the following minimum demands: no more wage cuts; increased wages to keep pace with higher living costs; adequate unemployment relief, and passage by Congress of the Workers' Unemployment and Social Insurance Bill (H. R. 7598); abolition of the company unions; full recognition of the real trades unions; the full right of the workers to organize, to strike and to picket; the 30-hour week without any reduction in pay.

These are the minimum demands of the working class in the fight to defeat the anti-labor drive of the Roosevelt government and the employers. On the basis of the fight for these demands, every honest worker can unite.

In every locality, the Socialist and Communist workers, and all members of the A. F. of L. unions, the unorganized workers - every member of the working class, should unite to fight for this minimum

In every locality, united front conferences and committees of action should be organized to prepare the fight for these minimum demands and other agreed upon local demands.

The Communist Party has repeatedly called on the leading committees of the Socialist Party for such a united front against the attacks of the Roosevelt government. We repeat our proposals for such united action. So far the Socialist Party leaders have blocked the consummation of the united front of the Socialist and Communist workers to defend their elementary interests and needs. Now, however, without a moment's delay, new efforts should be made to achieve united action in every

More Efficiency Urged in Handling The Daily Worker

> The Daily Worker Must Reach the Masses

WHEN I joined the Communist Party, it was with the hope of bringing forward a "Soviet America" and I am certain that you in the units feel the same way too. Yet! how is this to be done, com rades, if the most important organ of the Communist Party which is the Daily Worker, is not being pushed forward?

As the Daily Worker agent in my unit, I have asked for volunteers to accept assignments for the different evenings during the week Wholeheartedly our comrades pledge themselves to be at the appointed place on the specific hour.

What happens-Two or three of the comrades show up, and the others stay away as though there is a germ in the air.

The result of this is, the money for the papers has been invested, the masses who anxiously look forward to the purchasing of the paper never receive it, and the profits for the reinvestment of the Daily Worker is lost.

Comrades, if we are to stave off fascism in this country, we in the units must pucker up more spirit, see to it that the Daily Worker along with other literature reaches the masses without fail and that we take big strides forward, leaving fascism lagging be hind us like a spanked puppy. Only can this be done by the cooperation of the comrades in the units. Comradely,

New Deal War Pace Followed in Japan What Is "Imro"

TAKING their cue from President Roosevelt's riotous war expenditures, the Japanese cabinet voted to pass the largest war budget in the history of Japan. The total budget, demanded on the threat of resignation of the war ministry, stupendous for Japan, is only one quarer the total New Deal expenditures for war. With the peasants starving by the thousands, the Japanese Cabinet voted 1,020, 000,000 yen ($297,000,000) for arm

The burden on the masses will be so crushing, the financial re-sults so drastic, the sharpening of the class struggle so severe, that the very passage of the budget will force the speeding of actual warfare. The arguments on the bud-get were not made public. They were extremely bitter. We may be sure that War Minister General Hayashi, threatened imminent fasforced the budget through, despite whatever opposition there was from those who feared financial catas-

The day before the budget was passed, we received two important pieces of information from Japan, One was from a Japanese comrade who tells me that never before in the history of Japan were so many peasants starving. I am getting translations now from the Japanese press telling of wholesale deaths from hunger in Japan.

The other comes from the Baltimore Evening Sun of Nov. 21st, which reprints the following, written by K. Hoshino, in the Neue Weltbuehne (Prague): "In our village the peasants work in the fields from sunrise, not returning until the evening stars appear in the sky. They spend the whole day bent over their labor. Being undernourished, even the strongest of them soon weaken, and most of them die in their forties. They have a sunscorched, dry, dirt-colored skin, deep lines in their faces, thin stomachs, with sharply protruding ribs, and blue splotches under their eyes. Their clothes look like sacks. They walk barefoot, as do their wives and children. They are chary of words and mistrust outsiders. . . . They earn so little, that they can hardly pay the interest on their debts and prepare for the next harvest. They have stopped eating meat and fish and cannot even afford rice. They live on the roots of plants, a little cooked wheat mash and turnips boiled in salt water."
