A series of articles by Milton Howard, beginning next Tuesday, will examine the platform of Coughlin, his radio speeches and articles.

In fighting Coughlin these articles will be of great value. Readers are urged to order their copies now.

Industry Congress Ends with Pledge of Aid From New Deal

By Milton Howard

NEW YORK .- A program of six oints for the "second phase of recovery" which in substance grants Wall Street industrial monopoly every single demand which it has made to Roosevelt in the recent period, was presented yesterday by Secretary of Commerce Roper to the Congress of Industry at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. which has brought together more than 1,200 of the country's most powerful industrialists to plan the greatest anti-labor drive since the war.

The convention thus closed after four days of deliberation and plancomplete between the Roosevelt government and industrial monopoly on a program of action for the coming

Boasting that the "first phase of recovery" had brought a 200 per cent increase in profit for five hundred leading Wall Street corporations, Roper declared that Roosevelt is now entering on the "second phase of recovery" with a greater insistence on closer "co-operation between government and business

Roper's six points which he presented as the immediate, major ob jectives of the Roosevelt New Deal in its "second phase" of closer "cotmosphere hangs over Hungary and operation between government and business," are as follows:

> "1. Restore as rapidly as possible the return of relief responsibilities and administration to States and localities in order to relieve the federal government of its large relief expenditures. "2. Planning of a sound public works program that will provide worth-while projects of general utility, where such aid is most needed, without conflicting with private investment and private industry. "3. Devising of a practical plan suggestions and recommendations looking to the preservation of those features in the National Recovery Administration which have proved workable and successful and the elimination of those which have not. This must include the readjustment of code operations in the light of experience and administration so as to safeguard equitable treatment for all business and industry, large and small. Re-employment of capital is just as significant as a vital recovery asset as the re-employment of labor, and business must seek every means possible to release and re-employ capital."

Aside from minor differences this program of Roper is the same as the Program for Recovery proposals which the convention will have adopted by this morning. Royalist Press Reveals Alarm On Situation

Communist Mayor and Socialist Councilman Are Arrested

MADRID, Dec. 6 .- Although the government in Asturias is exercising the cruelest terrorism, it finds itself unable to gain the upper hand.

The government has now been obliged to admit that in the mining district of Mieres, the most important coal center of Spain, only 500 weapons—useless rifles and pistols have been collected.

Government representatives re-turning from Asturias report that the feeling among the workers there is increasingly rebellious every day, and that the workers do not conceal their hopes of a future victory. The monarchist-fascist press, frightfully alarmed, demands that the mines should not be set in operation again, and that the workers of Asturias, whose revolutionary viewpoint is incorrigible, should be deported and exterminated, whilst other workers with "proper anti-Marxist training" should replace them. It would be better to import iron and coal from abroad than to employ insurgent workers "with no love for their fatherland," the fascist papers say.

Round-House Boss Intimidates Men

By a R.R. Worker Correspondent MORRIS PARK. L. I .- I have been reading all your literature and I am a steady reader of the Daily Worker.

The company union rats are still at their old doings. One rat you have never mentioned is J. Crowley, round-house boss. He told some of the boys that if they wanted their jobs they had better join the Brotherhood of Railroad Shop Craftsmen of America. He said it would become one of the standard organizations.

This rat should be chased the hell out of here. We should vote for the A. F. of L. in the coming

But we five furloughed porters, after much discussion of the problem that we are confronted with, are of the opinion that the most logical way to go about the affair is to call a conference with form a united front and work for the interest of all. Experience has taught us all that to struggle together is more effective than being divided. We are proposing what we consider the necessary steps to establish unification of our efforts in more effective actions against our employers. That is, we must have a powerful apparatus organized of conductors, porters and maids to fight against low wages and long nours, and to struggle together for better working conditions in general.

This being so, ideally speaking, probably all such cows should be eliminated. On the other hand, you are quite motive behind this sudden, drastic regulation. BEHIND the barred and towering windows of the House of Detention, next to the Jefferson Market Court, lie thousands of women who have been arrested as prostitutes or on other "morals" charges awaiting trial.

The building is a high, gloomy modern structure of steel and glass. It was built as a "reform" prison. A "reform" prison is one where you have electric light while you pace up and down the narrow cage of your cell. If one looks closely, one will see, carved into the cement of the cornerstone, the name of the one-time Mayor of the city of New York, James J. Walker.

Today, Walker is conducting a "wit column" in a London paper. He is well known on the Riviera, in the gambling dens, and on the beaches. During his term of office, the city of New York was robbed of millions of dollars by a ring of organized graft headed by Tammany Hall, with Walker as its "front man." For this "grand larceny" Walker was never hauled into court. For many years, it was well known that he was living in what the bourgeois courts call "illicit relations" with a well-known actress. Yet nobody ever dragged him into a "morals court." The "morality" of the Mayor was different from the "morality" of the girls who lie in the House of Detention. A criminal Mayor is addressed as "His Honor" and is privileged to erect a House of Detention, a prison ward, for women whose crime was, in the majority of cases, the crime of being hungry.

The Victims of Society

THERE are no glamorous kept mistresses of stockbrokers here. No courtesans of utility magnates or bankers. In this dungeon with its high towering windows, its bars, its guards and matrons, its medical examinations, lie the daughters of the poor. Some are young, kids yet, eighteen, nineteen. Some are new at the grisly profession. Others are drunkards, old timers, hardened and calloused performers. They're not a pretty sight, the old, drunken, broken-down, professionals who have grown old in the game and forgotten a long time ago the way they started. But old and young, hardened and still tender, those who swear like troopers, get soused with bad whiskey, or those who hang their head in shame before the bar, all of them are victims, not criminals, of society.

Their crime is a heinous one in the eyes of the good people of the city. They are hounded and pursued by the social, blue-nose welfare boards; tricked and exploited by the vice squads; humiliated and brutalized by the doctors and jails; driven into strange sexual perversities and abnormalities by their way of life.

Disease begins to eat them. The prisons destroy them. Their ends are identical. A horrible and brutal death.

The Women's Day Court

THE Women's Day Court was established to judge the morals of these women. To protect society, to shield the innocent, to stamp out this "curse," the fathers of the city established the court.

A court is supposed to administer justice. "Justice" is a slippery The Women's Day Court reversed the ordinary procedure of the ordinary capitalist court. In the ordinary court, a man is supposed to be "innocent" until he is proved guilty. This is just a disguise of capitalist democracy, which the absurdity of panelling a jury exposes. But in the Women's Day Court the girl arrested or brought in by a dick of the Vice Squad is assumed to be guilty until she is proved innocent.

In bourgeois society, one can start from the premise that in the courts of justice and law of the capitalist class, the guilty person usually wears the black robes, is solemnly greeted as "the Honorable Judge" and conducts the case. The innocent person, nine times out of ten, is the one who has been arrested and charged with the crime.

During the Seabury exposure of the Vice Squads, a few years ago, for example, the whole administration was found shot through with the most brutal and amazing methods of graft and the framing of women. Yet, only one out of a hundred cases was convicted and the greatest malefactors were let go.

In the Women's Day Court, a new reform is supposed to have taken place, the old practices of the Vice Squad are supposed to have been eliminated, and a new liberal scientific treatment of the question of maintaining the city's morality been instituted.

Magistrate Kross

eliminated.

MONG the Judges who have been receiving the attention of human A societies and reform city editors is Magistrate Anna Moskowitz Kross, a woman Judge who presides in the Women's Court and has been openly critical in many instances of the practices of social justice in this court.

According to Magistrate Kross, the Women's Day Court ought to be abolished altogether and in its place substituted an informal medical-sociological commission concerned chiefly with the health aspects of commercialized vice."

Vice, the Magistrate contends, will exist as long "as there is a demand for it."

In other words, what causes prostitution is man's evil nature. If men weren't animals, women wouldn't be able to practice the trade.

Therefore all one can do, says the Magistrate, is try to control the spread of venereal disease among the population.

This is what is known as the liberal "reform" in the Women's Court. If one were to reason like Magistrate Kross does, about James J. Walker, society would be afflicted to the end of time with grafters and crooks of Walker's type. The Magistrate, in true liberal style, dodges the basic point: that if capitalism was wiped out, it would be impossible to have grafters like Walker and Tammany Hall; and If poverty were wiped out, the social cause of prostitution would be

And so the House of Detention will continue to exist, with its grey towering barred windows, its miseries, its horrors in a "modern" setting. Liberals will put clean bars on prison cells, but they will not destroy the prisons. They will worry about the spread of social disease but they wil not destroy the origin of the vice.

And meanwhile, in the upper tiers of our society, the "honorable" type of prostitution will continue without investigations from the poiice. The women of the upper class will continue to sell themselves for industrial empires, military alliances and pedigrees. This constitutes not prostitution but an "honorable marriage."

"LITLER recently had burned all the books of Jewish, non-Aryan and proleterian writers. He has also banned production of our radioplays and films, thus violating the Berne agreement. All German publishers and theatrical producers have been forbidden to pay any royalties to us Jewish and proletarian writers. We are consequently utterly helpless today: it is not our fault! I myself am being persecuted -my wife was refused a visa to see me and my Postal Savings account where I had a little savings was seized and confiscated, so that my wife and children are destitute."

of the united front? How can we connect our daily work with the idea of the struggle for Soviet Power in the ranks of the working class?

Answers to these questions are found in the editorial, "For Soviet TIONAL, Vol. XI, No. 22; Nov. Clarity on these questions is a 20, 1934; 52 pages; organ of the condition for the involving of greater masses into a united strugmunist International; 10 cents gle to beat back the attacks of the bourgeoisie upon the living standards of all who toil, for the successful carrying through of the united front in the sense of arousing greater numbers to the understanding that permanent happiness and peace can be realized only under Soviet rule.

Lessons of October Rich in quotations from Lenin and Stalin about the valuable experiences of the Bolshevik Party in the preparations for the victorious October Revolution, the editorial points out how the develop-ing Communist Parties in other countries took their strength from the victories and achievements of the Soviet Union.

The toiling population in capitalist countries, stooping under the weight of the capitalist crisis, begin to see clearly what Socialism, blossoming forth in the Soviet Union, means to those who work. "The masses of the people have not yet reached the stage when they are ready to storm the citadel of capitalism, but the idea of storming it is maturing in the minds of the masses—there can hardly be any doubt about that." (Stalin at the Seventeenth Congress of the C. P. S. U.). This statement is as true for the U.S.A. as it is for every capitalist country.

International Slogan

Read the editorial in "The C. I." No. 22 and you will understand why the Communist International raises the slogan of Soviet Power as the central slogan today for all capitalist countries. However, says the editorial, we must adopt suitable methods and approaches for popularizing this slogan to the broad masses. The editorial contrasts the application of the slogan of Soviet Power in England, which is economically developed but backward in a revolutionary sense, and in Spain, which, comparatively speaking, is economically backward but developed in a revolutionary sense.

Read the editorial to learn what are the prerequisites for the realization of the slogan, Soviet Power -the independent leadership of the Communist Party; the struggle against all compromise with the bourgeoisie, against Right opportunism, social-democracy and counter-revolutionary Trotskyism; what forms and slogans were used in the seizure of power in Russia, how these forms were changed under altered conditions, etc.

Other Articles

Unfortunately, the limitations of space do not permit us to describe adequately the other excellent articles in "The C. I." No. 22. Under the discussion section, there is an article by K. Roncoli entitled, "Basic Lessons of the Struggle of the Communist Party of Italy Against Fascism Under the Conditions of the "Totalized' Regime." This article gives us information on something answer and apply the problems of which most of us have known very little-the situation and conquestions. Comrade Piatnitsky an- ditions under which our Italian brother Party has been working.

There are also articles by two well-known international leaders of the revolutionary movement: L. Madvar writes a satiric article. "A Speech That Hitler Failed to Deliver." and G. Safarov analyzes "The Congress Socialist Party and the New Maneuvers of the National Congress of India.'

F. D. R. Pledges New Anti-Labor Offensive

IT IS no ordinary gathering of capitalists I that we are witnessing now at the Congress of American Industry now meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria to present a series of proposals to Congress in January.

What we see there now is the most formidable mobilization of American industrial capital for the greatest anti-labor offensive since the days following the war.

What we see there is the grim preparations for the smashing of trade unions, the crippling of strikes through anti-strike laws, the cutting of all relief appropriations, and the girding of Wall Street monopoly capital for the execution of a policy of increasing political reaction.

And the patron saint of all this Wall Street mobilization is Roosevelt.

It is Roosevelt who invited the Wall Street monopolists to outline the program which they wished the administration to put into effect in the coming

It is Roosevelt who has sent his spokesmen to the Congress for American Industry to pledge the "co-operation" of the government in the new antilabor offensive of the industrialists.

It is Moley, Roosevelt's spokesman, who proclaimed as the slogan of the Congress the drive for profits and the preservation of capitalism, who bluntly defined the New Deal as the bulwark of capitalist exploitation.

It was Roosevelt's right hand man, Richberg, who yesterday told the Wall Street exploiters that they have nothing to fear in their new offensive as far as any hindrance from Roosevelt is concerned. On the contrary, he made it very plain to them that Roosevelt is bursting with eagerness to fall in with any plans that the Congress of American Industry

THE plans for the new drive are now complete. First the Bankers' Convention in Washington. Now the industrialists meeting in New York. And hovering above it all the Roosevelt government pledging aid and co-operation.

The Congress of industrialists has laid its plans It knows that the New Deal has given them fat profits, that it has accomplished this at the expense of the masses. It also knows that the New Deal policies, at the same time and by this very token, has intensified the crisis, that the crisis is heading for new plunges downward.

Above all, the assembled industrialists are aware of the steady march of the spirit of proletarian class struggle which every day carries the radicalization of the American working class to new levels. It is this rising proletarian menace to their whole system, as the New Deal promises are revealed in their ruling class rottenness, that the Wall Street industrialists are mobilizing to meet with fascist re-

The monopolies are girding to smash the living standards of the masses to new depths of misery and starvation. And Roosevelt is pledged to assist them and carry through their policies. That is the brief, harsh meaning of Moley's and Richberg's speeches.

THESE developments mean that the American labor movement, that the American working class, and especially its revolutionary vanguard, the Communist Party, are confronted with the life and death job of mobilizing the great united front of the working class for defense of daily standards and for a counter-offensive against political reaction.

It is every trade unionist every militant worker. every Socialist Party worker, every jobless worker,

They unite against us. We can only answer by

It is revealed, for example, that Herbert Hoover, when in office, always consulted the arms manufacturers when the question of "disarmament" conferences arose. Yet the war construction program under Hoover was only half the size of that under the New Deal. A Few Points from Recent Work CERTAIN lessons and experiences from working with the new longshore Comrades and Nuclei can already be cited, as follows:

1) Because of the constant shifting of the working time of the longshoremen, the question of holding regular nucleus meetings, of getting full attendance at these meetings is an exceptionally difficult one, and requires for its solution, the highest degree of organizational leadership and attention from the leading Section comrades. Also this makes it extraordinarily important that the nucleus meetings are most thoroughly prepared, that they are edconstructive, down to earth-and short. Special efforts have to be made to impress on the new comrades the absolute importance of attending unit meetings.

2) Dock conditions and issues should be briefly discussed at each meeting, with constant stress being laid on the fact that solid personal contact on the job coupled with agitation and action around small grievances is the basic approach to winning the masses of longshoremen. The leading comrades must give the utmost possible help in working out the detailed steps and special forms for carrying through these small actions

3) Special stress must be placed n carrying through systematic political training of the new comrades through nuclei discussions, through special study groups, through the Daily Worker and assigned pam-phlets for reading and through personal attention. Failure to politically develop the new comrades Czar, in a final dying effort, like the flicker of a means that we will eventually lose candle as it sputters to its end, tried to vent their most of them!

Here are the main provisions for future British rule in India: All of the armed forces are placed unreservedly in the hands of the British governor-general. Relations of India with all other powers are controlled by the British overlords. The British imperialists retain complete control of British Baluchistan, one of the gateways for attack on the Soviet Union

Under the pretext of "safeguarding of financial stability and credit," the entire economic life of the country is under the domination of the British slaveholders.

Recognizing that this document. which is intended to shackle India more firmly to the British imperialist chariot, the report provides for the most drastic attack on all revolutionary forces. The British rulers are given absolute fascist rights, the right to use any branch of the government against all those who resist British rule. This proposal runs: "For the purpose of combating terrorism the governor should have power to take under his own control any branch of government which it is necessary to use for that purpose."

EVERYTHING is done to perpetu-L ate conditions of the Indian workers, described as follows by the report of the Indian League Delegation when they visited Poona:

"On less than one acre of ground at least 500 humans and a number of cows, calves, goats, etc., were accommodated. The mud huts were material, and the walls were about four feet high. There were no windows and no sanitary arrangements. . . . practically every infant under three years was drugged with

"Delhi, the imperial capital, beat every record. We passed through alleys where we could not breathe on account of the stench; we called on a few railway workers who lived in what were literally boxes without windows or any other opening whatever for ventilation, the 'front door' being rows of planks.

"The man inside sits up all night as there is |no .room for him to stretch himself out. We did not measure these places, but we would udge them to be about three fee by four or 41/2 feet each. Imperial

"The people are in the constant grip of moneylenders and landlords. "In the agricultural areas the huts are built chiefly of a mixture of mud and cow dung, are small and This is what the British overlords want to keep in India "forever." But neither their new chains nor their fascist terror will keep the Indian masses enslaved.

THE Japanese imperialists are very much worried by Chiang Kai-Shek's reported "victories" over the Chinese Soviets in Kiangsi. After the Kuomintang's reported capture of Juichin, capital of the Central Soviet Government in Kiangsi, the Osaka Mainichi, commented gloomily: "The Red troops have never been crushed. . . . the communist troops have escaped without suffering any serious losses.'

that Chiang Kai-Shek's reported 'victory" does not in the least save the Nanking regime from the rapidly worsening crisis which threatens to overwhelm it.

"The economic structure under lotments will be cut still more dras- by the world-wide economic desponmunism."

They go on further to point out the capitalist powers, particularly the Roosevelt regime. "Two inter-esting features are observed. One is the establishment of the fact that the communist armies in China will be always combatted by the international capitalistic organization. Behind Chiang Kai Shek may be noted the assistance rendered by American arms manufacturers or merchants on condition of China's purchasing arms."
