U.S. heads for an explosion as 'allied' rebellion grows

STILL more spending for war: that was the theme of Armed Forces day in Washington, where observances coincided with Pentagon-Administration efforts to push the 8-billion-dollar Mutual Security program through a tax-conscious Congress. (The Senate Foreign Relations Comm. had cut it by one billion, the Armed Services Comm. defeated by one vote a further $400,000,000 slash.) The President said the one-billion cut risked U.S. defeat in the cold war; Eisenhower accepted this cut, warned that any more would force wholesale revision of U.S. plans in Western Europe; Taft wanted to cut another billion.

While the Wall St. Journal (5/13) chided the "war hawks" for trying "to threaten and . . . to scare Congress" into yielding its "power of the purse," the House showed its determination to hold on to this power in some matters anyway: it voted to reduce its own taxes—"offsetting" Congressmen's "need to pay taxes on their expense allowances and their $12,500 a year salaries" (N.Y. Times, 5/16).

DULLES "SYNTHESIZES": Speeches of "war hawk" leaders betrayed an un-easiness reflecting but mildly the crisis in strategy of the whole Atlanticin strategy of the whole Atlantic-colonial alliance, growing out of its clash with rising opposition and ecoclash with rising opposition and economic reality throughout the world. Eisenhower, on a farewell visit to London, conceded "force of arms" was not enough; Acheson talked of satisfying "the wants of people."

"the wants of people."

John Foster Dulles (Life, 5/19), in one of a series of pronouncements attempting a "synthesis of all the prevailing views on foreign policy" (N.Y. Times, 5/17), admitted the worldwide drain of U.S. friendships and prestige; called for an open U.S. declaration that its goal is "liberation" of the "nations of Europe and Asia now dominated by Moscow"; for an ultimatum backed by the threat of sea and air attack if Washington saw fit to call any revolution "Soviet aggression." Such moves tion "Soviet aggression." Such moves would not provoke an armed Soviet reply, he wrote, because:

The plainest of these facts [which we cannot ignore] is that the Kremlin has not used its Red Armies for open military conquest even in these past years when there were no military obstacles in their path.

Washington's policies were punctured throughout the globe:

On the eve of the scheduled signing of the "peace contract" by the Ade-nauer government, the powerful Social Democratic Party formally rejected it, criticizing the secrecy in which it had been negotiated, demanding new nego-tiations on "genuine equality" and de-bate on the drafts in parliament, insisting reunification must come first.

Although the contract will be initialed despite last-minute snags over West Germany's cash contribution to "West-ern defense," the U.S. which "bet its money" on Adenauer (WSJ, 5/15)
... is now in great danger of losing this foreign policy gamble. ... [In addition to] the scope of the opposition [which] indicates that both Chancellor Adenauer and the U.S. authorities may have misjudged the true post-war sentiments and self interests of the German people [there is] the fact that the Châncellor's own uneasy

The fight for peace goes on the offensive

The Progressive Party's national campaign for a ticket pledged to "free speech, free men living in a world of peace" was launched on May 13 by 16,000 cheering New Yorkers in Madison Square Garden. The rally marked the PP's opening gun in 1952 and the 16th birthday of the American Labor Party. There were echoes of Philadelphia, 1948 in the provider of the provider 1948, in the crowd's enthusiasm, but the speeches soned by four years' experience in fighting for peace during a cold war and a hot war. The audience heard Vice-Presi-dential candidate Charlotta Bass, Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, Vito Marcantonio, Vivian Hallinan, Corliss Lamont and others (see pp. 4-5), but saved its biggest hand for the man who wasn't there: Progressive Party Presidential candidate Vincent Hallinan, a political prisoner until August.

coalition government is coming apart at the seams over the same issues.

Adenauer was so uncertain of getting parliament to ratify that he asked U.S. High Commissioner McCloy to stay in Bonn until that was achieved.

FUMBLING DIPLOMACY: With elections due in 1953 in which Adenauer's defeat is predicted, U.S. strategy toward Soviet proposals for a prompt settlement is "to gain time" and "to put the Russians in the position of having to say 'No'" (New Statesman & Nation, 5/17). The West waited five weeks to answer the Soviet note of April 9; said negotiations on an all-German peace negotiations on an all-German peace treaty were impossible because there was no all-German government; pro-posed an "impartial commission" to study the possibility of "free all-German elections" and make recom-mendations which the four powers could then discuss, perhaps after discussion hold elections provided East Germany complied with certain con-ditions; gave the show away by declar-ing that four-power negotiations were impossible until

... it is clearly apparent that it is the intention of the Soviet Government to avoid the fruitiess negotiations of the past.

There was little evidence to justify the N.Y. Herald Tribune's (5/18) de-scription of the Western reply as "one of the most important diplomatic vic-tories of the cold war." The London Times (5/14) said the West must decide between German integration with the West—hence, continued German division with all its dangers—and modification of plans for European defense. It warned that any international agree-ment must be based on both parties' belief that they have something to gain from it; if agreement were not reached soon along some line of neutralizing Germany, "there should then be noth-ing to negotiate about."

REPORT TO READERS

How Montana does it

By John Hellman

NATIONAL GUARDIAN has more readers per capita of population in Montana than in any other state in the Union. Why this is so is explained below. We urge your close attention to these paragraphs in connecton with the coupon (left) and our sub-getting program outlined on page 5. Our office will supply you with sub scriber lists in your state, city or town.

N MONTANA THE NATIONAL GUARDIAN is one of our best organizers. Nine out of ten supporters of the fight for peace, freedom and security will subscribe to the GUARDIAN. An important part of Progressive Party work is to collect these "subs" and keep them renewed.

We see some of our supporters only once a year. The GUAR-DIAN is a most important connecting link. It is the best assurance that these people will know the facts behind the news and have the answers to the questions of the day. But many people subscribe only when someone takes their money and sends it in. The best-intentioned readers fail to renew on their own initiative because of oversight, or partial indifference.

We have found special "drives" inadequate. They always miss a number of subs that can be gained by a constant approach. Also we have many readers and potential subscribers who live from 20 to 500 miles from the PP office or any functioning PP group. We selden see these people So, we have to promote the We seldom see these people. So we have to promote the GUARDIAN every day.

AT MEETINGS we quickly check the GUARDIAN status of those present. When making individual contact with a member or supporter on any other matter we also check his or her GUAR-

If the sub expires within the next four months we push for a renewal. Most people will renew in advance (both to help the paper and save themselves the job of sending off the renewal later on.) By establishing advance renewal as a practice, unnecessary expirations are greatly reduced.

Every new contact reported to us is mailed 3 sample copies of the GUARDIAN along with a subscription envelope. The first time we meet this person we follow through,

PEOPLE drawn to us on a particular issue are given GUAR-DIANS containing articles on that question. GUARDIAN issues vary in their appeal to any one individual. In introducing the GUARDIAN we make a special effort to choose the issue or issues which we think will be of greatest interest.

To facilitate this daily approach, we arrange the Montana counties alphabetically; under each county we arrange alpha-betically the postoffices where the GUARDIAN is going; and under each postoffice we arrange the individuals alphabetically—with their GUARDIAN expiration date in front of their name. We type the lists in this form on sheets for our notebook. We can check anyone's GUARDIAN status in five seconds. Every new sub or renewal is entered on these lists when it is sent in. The list is our memory. Every four months we correct our list and retype it. A number of individuals take the lists for their counties and follow through in the above manner.

NO MATTER HOW BUSY WE ARE, there is always time for a minute for the GUARDIAN. That's all it takes. That minute does more to advance the Progressive Party than any other single minute we spend.

the thinking and activity of the people of our time: namely, communism and capitalism; or unselfish cooperation and selfish competition. The former is that of the

... Demands are multiplying in every NATO country—and in Germany too—that the U.S. abandon its opposition to the conference on German unification proposed by Stalin. Italy

Vie Nuove Bor "Let's stop this quibbling and unite Italy and Trieste under one flag."

With by-elections in Southern Italy scheduled for May 25, Washington and the de Gasperi government (once called by Communist leader Togliatti "the provisional government of Italy") worried over the prospect of left-wing mayors in Rome and in bitterly impover-ished southern communities. Prof. Luigh Gedda, said to represent an extreme right-wing sector of the Vatican and recently named to head Catholic Action, lay political arm of the Pope, warned of a Left victory "if the anti-communist forces do not unite." The forces to be united include the Monarchists, the outright fascist Italian Social Movement and Premier de Gasperi's Christian Democrats.

De Gasperi, who has said he will deal with the question of unity with fascists "each case on its merits," governs an uneasy Italy beset in boom years by unemployment, now facing what the Wall St. Journal (5/9) calls a "recession" One Roman economist said: "The Italian economy has entered a phase of Italian economy has entered a phase of depression." De Gasperi has failed to solve the unemployment problem, whittled down promises of land reform.

Politically he has held his own by a system for rigging elections so that a party, though it may have the most votes (as did the Communists in last year's northern municipal elections), may be denied proportional representation unless it commands an absolute majority. His party holds a majority of seats in Rome's council though in 1947 it polled thousands of votes less than the Communists. The candidate of the Left in Rome is ex-Premier Nitti, independent Senator described by Alex-ander Werth (New Statesman & Nation) as "a sort of 80-year-old Italian Bevanite."

N. Africa, Mediterranean

The much-denied Adm. Fechteler reort, calling war "inevitable," pictures Africa as a base for World War III and to re-enter the continent via Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia; requires elimitative of British and France from these nation of Britain and France from these key areas of their imperial strategy. U.S. insistence on, and British resistance to, a U.S. admiral in command of the Mediterranean is part of this struggle. British reaction was indicated the London Daily Mail which cried: was indicated by

We sometimes wonder what the U.S. thinks we are. After all, the British Empire is not some Central American Republic. The same struggle lies behind the maneuvers in Greece, where U.S. Ambassador Peurifoy is working for the downfall of the Plastiras government to bring strong-man Gen. Papagos to nower British-U.S. relations in Greece power. British-U.S. relations in Greece are so strained that not one U.S. official attended a ceremony unveiling a monument to Commonwealth war dead. Field Marshal Montgomery, who sug-gested in Athens that Greece, beset by economic difficulties, reduce its armed forces, was required to reverse himself completely after talks with U.S. dip-lomats (N.Y. Times, 5/14). The U.S.-backed Papagos camp stepped up its charges that the Plastiras government was not dealing strongly enough with "Communist activity." Following the execution of four Greek liberation fighters, including Communist leader Nicholas Beloyannis, the government last week began the trial of Tony Ambatielos and nine other Greek Maritime Union leaders. Ambatielos has been under death sentence since Nov., 1948, was elected to parliament but never allowed to take his seat.

VIOLENCE IN TUNISIA: The struggle between the U.S. and France, and between both and the Tunisian independence movement, bloodily continued the N. African "protectorate." The U.S. stand with France against the moderate home-rule demands of the independence movement has alienated Arab and Asian peoples, provoked widespread protest even in the U.S. Last week the French cracked down again, tightened an existing curfew, surrounded the Bey's palace with troops as newspapers continued to suppress reports of Korea-style terror against Tunisians in scores of towns and villages.

In New York the 13-nation Arab-Asian bloc accused France of holding the Bey prisoner (he broadcast to his people demanding they end violence against the French), forcing him to do its bidding; the bloc appealed to UN and world opinion to halt French use of force and was campaigning for a special Assembly session.

The U.S.-British struggle sharpened in Egypt, where Washington has been pressing Britain for concessions to King Farouk over sovereignty of the Sudan and where the people's resistance holds back the plans of both imperial powers. "The basic fact of the matter," reported the N. Y. Times (5/18),

... is that Egypt is so overwhelmingly neutralist in sentiment and so little inclined to enter any defense alliance with

Farouk sails the Nile

teeth in it, that the difference between getting out of the canal base with an Anglo-Egyptian agreement or without an Anglo-Egyptian agreement seems at the present moment to be a difference of no great consequence.

Far East

Nowhere were Washington's policies nearer to explosion than in the Far East, where Chinese and Korean POW's on Koje Island had gone far to expose the hoax perpetrated to prevent Korean armistice. An answering note of embarrassed fury was struck in Defense Secy. Lovett's threat: "They'll wish they'd never been born."

James Reston (NYT, 5/16) thought there would be no "fundamental decisions" by Washington in Asia or Europe for the next eight months. Most Washington comment agreed with U.S. News (5/16) that there would be no extension of the war should the truce talks break down. But there were signs that Washington might try, if not to extend it geographically, to step up the killing.

ATOMIC OMENS: Following Korean charges that the U.S. is using POW's for experiments "with poison gas, germ weapons and atomic bombs," a UP dispatch (5/14) and an AP dispatch (5/17) "somewhere in Korea" reported that 10,000 U.S. troops were engaged in ... front line tests to determine how efficiently combat troops can operate when faced with a threat of an atomic attack.

No atomic bombs are used in the test.
Since neither China nor Korea has the announcement of Operation Mushroom's purpose raised ques tions. Description of the operations, still mostly secret—"communications installations and the corps' vital facilities have gone deeply underground"—sug-gested the UN Command might be preparing for use or testing of atomic weapons. The possibility was strength-ened by Lovett's statement that Korean charges of germ warfare prove they themselves expect to wage such war-fare, and his threat of manyfold retaliation with even worse weapons.

THE ETERNAL QUESTION?

POW "POLL" AFTERMATH: Washington's dilemma was acute. Its own officials have said that POW repatriation is the only major issue holding up a truce. In violation of the Geneva Conventions of 1929 and 1949 the U.S. has insisted on voluntary repatriation, claiming that 100,000 POW's it held did not want to be repatriated. The Kore-ans and Chinese have insisted that the U. S. is using Rhee Koreans and Chiang Chinese (these are admittedly employed in the camps as "educators" and "in-telligence experts") to force POW's to say they won't go home. When the Koje Island prisoners dramatically captured Gen. Dodd, they secured an admission that just sucn practices had been going on in the writ-ten promise from Dodd's successor Gen. Colson: "There will be no more forcible screening or any rearming of prisoners in this camp, nor will any attempt be made at nominal screening." Colson's promises were repudiated by UN Supreme Commander Gen. Clark and the preme Commander Gen. Clark and the Pentagon, but the prisoners had got their story to the world. The New Statesman & Nation (5/17) wrote:

. . . Serious grounds exist for asking whether the scores of thousands of refusals to return are as genuine as Admirat Joy's stand for moral principle would suggest. Between April 4 and April 19, 200 UN soldiers conducted the "polt" of 170,000 prisoners in which only 70,000 declared for repatriation—a reduction of 46,000 from the total given by the American truce team on April I, when the Communists were willing to drop the principle of total exchange if 116,000 of the 170,000 were released.

Death threatens Huk ex-GI in Philippines

SINCE the arrest of William J. Pomeroy and his wife in the jungled Sierra Madre Mountains in nor hern Luzon, Philippine Islands, last April 11 (GUARDIAN, April 23), news of them has been sparse. Pomeroy, who first went to the Philippines as an Air Force sergeant in World War II, returned there after his discharge, studied at the Philippines University: seeing a great and good change being worked by the militant Huks, he went into the hills to join them in the conviction he must so or betray his own principles.

A week after the Pomeroys' capture

(Mrs. Celia Mariano Pomeroy is the daughter of a general socially prominent in Manila), Defense Secy. Ramor Magsaysay cabled an assurance to Pomeroy's mother, Mrs. Bercha P. meroy, 560 Seward St., Rochester, N.Y., that he would be treated "with all that he would be treated "with all justice," given "every opportunity to defend himself." But the Philippines death, Defense Secy. Ramon Magsaysay said last night. . . . All the resources at the command of the Philippine government will be harnessed to get a death sentence for Pomeroy, who will be tried under Philippine laws, Magsaysay said.

"TREASON" TO WHAT? A U.S. Embassy spokesman said a death sentence would "be O. K. with the United States." The N.Y. Times (4/13) denounced Pomeroy as "a double traitor—to his own country and to the country in which he served."

Others had different definitions of "traitor." Last week a small group of progressives undertook the job of creprogressives undertook the job of creating a defense; remembering the bitter exploitation of the Philippines by the U.S., Bill Pomeroy to them seemed the conscience of the American people. LABOR

4 conventions strike out at witch hunts

MERICAN labor, facing problems of war, unemployment and new legis-lative restrictions, met last week in four sectors: steel, packinghouse, clothing

ANGRY MOOD: In Philadelphia 3,000 delegates to the CIO United Steelworkers' convention warned they would not continue indefinitely to work without a contract or for 1950 wages. While they cheered the no contract-no work slogan the issue still seemed to hang on lawyers' briefs: Big Steel and the union argued before the Supreme Court the legality of the President's seizure and whether or not the President could authorize a wage rise compromise ordered by the Wage Stabiliza-

Act and the McCarrain fact and cluded that the danger ... from Communist activities has been dwarfed in recent months by the subversive activities of reactionary forces.

CLOTHING: PLAIN TALK: The same witch-hunt and anti-labor legislation worried the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers' convention in Atlantic City. But delegates heard Dr. Mordecai Johnson, president of Howard University, probe more deeply into the roots of U.S. policy. He denounced the imperial-ism of "our allies" which he said could not exist a day "without our support," called for a peaceful discussion of differences with the socialist nations, and urged a "left-of-center government" in

"THERE CAN BE NO DEMOCRACY WITHOUT A THIRD PARTY"

Dr. DuBois keynotes huge Madison Sq. Garden rally

In great and deep pride that such a fighter, such a scholar, such a poet and such a man should be the keynoter of the Progressive Party-ALP 1952 election campaign, the GUARDIAN here presents the full text of Dr. W. E. B. DuBois' speech at last week's Madison Sq. Garden rally. That all progressives are united in this pride, and strengthened by it, was manifest from the opations given Dr. DuBois by the great ground. the ovations given Dr. DuBois by the great crowd before, during and after his speech.

WHAT is wrong with the United States? We are an intelligent, rich and powerful nation. Yet today we are confused and frightened. We fear poverty, unemployment and jail. We are suspicious not only of enemies but especially of friends. We shrink before the world and are ready to make war on everybody. Gen. Eisenhower has assured us that "we can lick the world," and we are preparing to spend can new the world," and we are preparing to spend seventy billions of dollars to do it, even when we do not know whom to fight or why or how. Of the 35 civilized nations of the world, we and Japan are the only ones which have refused to sign the International Treaty promising not to resort to germ warfare; and it is widely charged that we are now using bacteria in China. bacteria in China.

We face today a national election, to exercise the greatest prerogative of citizenship, in order to decide our future policy as to peace and war; trade and commerce; taxation, wages and prices; unemployment; social progress in housing, flood control, education, sickness and old age; honesty in public service; labor union rights and civil rights.

These are the tremendous problems before us which we are supposed to settle in broad outline, and yet apparently we will not have real opportunity to pass judgment on any of these questions.

Deprived of the facts

We are deprived from day to day of knowledge of the real facts. Our sons fight and die and we can-not learn how or why. Deaths by bullets are reported, not learn how or why. Deaths by bullets are reported, but deaths by freezing and disease are concealed. We are allowed no free discussion on platform or over radio; in newspapers or periodicals. Nearly every independent thinker has been silenced, while stoolpigeons, traitors and professed liars, picked by wealth, industry and power, can talk to the nation unhampered and ungagged.

We know that the nation is spending for more we know that the nation is spending far more money than it is collecting or can collect, and that rising prices, pushed by huge private profits, are putting the cost of living ever beyond a decent standard of living for most of us. Our industry and continued employment depend largely on foreign trade, yet we are stopping foreign trade by cutting down imports and refusing to buy the goods we need from the nations who want to sell. Unless we continue to make and export weapons and war our economy may utterly collapse. Continually prices are outrunning wages, yet union labor, led too often by reactionary or stupid men, is under increasing and coordinated attack, and its energies dissipated by internal division. internal division.

We are spending millions on misleading advertiswe are spending millions on misleading advertising to increase private profit in patent medicines, toothpaste, and junk. We are faced by increasing graft and stealing and lying in high office, and the highest office is afraid to investigate lest we know the thickness by representations. the thieves by names.

We are no longer free to travel, to speak our minds. We are money-mad. Greed and wealth have chained the brute of power.

There are no two parties

What can we do about it? How can we face and heal our plight? Not by silence, not by fear; not by voting again for the same old parties and going continually over the same mumbo-jumbo of meaningless elections. We are boasting we are free when we are not free even to cast our ballots. We are peddling freedom to the world and daring them to oppose it and bribing them kindly to accept it, and dropping death on those who refuse it; while we, the real victims, whose taxes furnish the bribes and whose dead and crippled and insane children furnish whose dead and crippled and insane children furnish the soldiers, sit and ask with vacant faces: for whom shall we vote, which candidate shall we vote for, and if you please, dear candidate—will you kindly please tell us: what the hell do you stand for anyway? Is it too much for us to ask Your Majesty?

way? Is it too much for us to ask Your Majesty?

Yet we are fooling nobody, not even ourselves. We have now no choice. There are no two parties. There is no choice of candidates whether his name is Eisenhower or Taft, Kefauver or Stassen or Warren, Dulles or Dewey, Joe or Charlie McCarthy. All of them listen to their master's voice, the steel trust, the aluminum trust, the rubber combine, the automobile industry; oil, power, plastics, the railroads, tobacco, copper, chemicals and coca-cola, telegraph and telephone; liquor, radio and movie—all of the more than 200 giant corporations which wield the power that owns the press and the magazines, and determines what news the news agencies will distrib ute; what opinions the publishers will print, and what the movies will screen. They are united in that super-Congress of which the Natl. Assn. of Manufacturers is the upper house and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce is the lower, which are preparing world war to rule mankind and reduce again the worker

Dr. W. E. B. DuBois moved the crowd with his masterful keynote address (see text). ALP State Chairman Vito Marcantonio put fight into the meeting, declared: "The days of rear-guard actions are beginning to end for us. We now take the counter-offensive."

In that hierarchy you will not vote, you will only pay taxes. They will name the candidates of the Democratic and Republican parties, and call their platform a bi-partisan foreign policy, which means one party abroad and one dictatorship at home. And they will furnish the huge slush fund which regularly runs the campaigns and buys the elections not simply to slavery but to idiocy.

A Third Party or die!

What can you do about it? Vote for a Third Party. There is no other way. A Third Party or die!

There is no other way. A Third Party or die!

There can be no democracy without a third party. Two parties may for a time represent two policies, two aims, two kinds of administration. But sooner or later they will blend. The office-holders and administrators whose aim is spoils, will crowd to the wall the workers and thinkers, and both parties will blend into one combine, with one aim and one policy, one kettle of graft and one pool of grafters; one set of lies and one bunch of liars. Only a Third Party, or real knowledge that one can arise, will make a genuine political campaign, decent, straightforward candidates who dare say what they stand for and tell us who is paying their bills, and bring honest elections where the votes are counted and the voters elections where the votes are counted and the voters count, where no 50,000 votes for a McCarran in a gambler's paradise like Nevada can outweigh two million votes in Illinois or New York; or a lynching grafter of Georgia head an un-American farce in Congress.

You say a Third Party is impossible? It will be if the old parties can make it; can keep Third Party candidates off the ballot; can deny them publicity; can call them Presbyterians, Catholics or Communists. A Third Party becomes impossible so long as the voters think so. You say such a party campaign is hard? It is hard and it will be harder, as long as one organized group of grafters bribed by big business, and a body of voters deprived of the truth and scared to death by gangsters and fools, can run our elections. Their policy is clear; keep the Third Party off the ballot; keep publicity on the real issues out of the press and off the radio; smear everybody who denot think; well Russia and China; throw fits when of the press and off the radio; smear everybody who dares think; yell Russia and China; throw fits when anybody dares talk sense; cheat and lie; count the Republocrats into office and then tax, kill and cripple until the whole rotten private profit edifice crashes about our ears as it did 20 years ago, and the big banks and corporations again come crawling to you for alms, gifts and handouts, and for socialist legis-

Peace — if we dare vote for it

If we are going to have democracy in America, we must organize the Third Party by homes and blocks; we must jam meetings and halls. We must contribute our little dollars, remembering that the dollars of the masses can outweigh the huge endowments of the business foundations, and that full employment and high wages which now depend on murder and destruction can have a more civilized foundation in housing, hospitals and schools. We must listen to facts and read reason instead of being entertained by stupid radio and television advertisements and tawdry, vulgar pictures. We must know the issues and talk about them and tell others. We must unite our wards willages and either into a notion, and in New Yorks. wards, villages and cities into a nation, and in No-vember, rain or shine, cast our votes for Hallinan and Bass, not for generals or college presidents or rich men's babies.

Mrs. Bass, for 40 years a fighting Negro editor and p men bent on raiding her office, said: "These men who r rorize the world, but they are the frightened ones, th

Vote! That is what democracy is for. There is no question: We can have peace if we want peace, we can have war if we want war, and if we don't know what we want or don't dare tell, we will get whatever makes the most money for those who own Congress We can get low taxes, social security, housing and slum clearance; social medicine; cheap light, heat and telephone service; decent schools taught by teachers with guts; streetoar fares spent on passengers and not on subway bonds born in dishonesty; all this any people can have if they dear water for it. all this any people can have, if they dare vote for it.

America will stand and march

I am not one who despairs even when brasshats and thieves seem triumphant and it costs a man life, liberty and happiness to dare express his opinions, when this nation is about to be black-jacked into electing as President a war-maker who cannot reveal a policy because he has none to reveal; when we have crime because there is no essential ethical difference between private theft, big business methods and public graft.

Beneath this stampede and filth; this deception and fear, there is a real America like that of which and fear, there is a real America like that of which our fathers dreamed, and dreamed almost in vain from 1776 to 1864. Dreamed and persisted in dreaming and in striving and pushing Third Party movements despite the Supreme Court and mobs; while in the face of the Declaration of Independence my fathers were being bought and sold as real estate. Nobody was more arrogant than the slave barons of the cotton kingdom. They strutted along Broadway with airs and impudence that scarced most Americans then as their successors are scared today, when any then as their successors are scared today, when any-body who speaks of peace with the Soviet Union can be showered with tomato juice, while policemen grin between their trials for graft.

Yet America crawled out of the darkness and and dungeon to decency and will crawl again today— crawl to stand and march. Out of caves of fear they will creep as once men crept in the dawn of civilization when beasts had driven them to caverns down beneath the sun, where they cowered and whined: with hope and heaven lost and lost so long, men said there is no honesty, no truth. There can be no freedom, no democracy, no peace. Crouch lower, yield, conform give up! conform, give up!

But some never lost faith, never ceased to struggle toward the stars. They let men jeer, until at last down there at the edge of hope somebody pointed, another groaned, and a third screamed. They all stood, staggered and walked out into the night, looked up and saw the light; and a chorus swelled:

It is the stars, it is the ancient stars, It is the old and everlasting stars.

Hear Joe,

J'd like your ox to send you a

Mational quardian sub. It's just about the only way people like we can keep in touch with progressive labor and peace activities, and it costs only 44 a week.

You're probably been recaining to do this but never got around to it. It's really important to do it now, so news of k neemb. Halliman and has Base, the progressive candidates, can reach more people every week.

If you can't enclose the 2 for a year's sub now, I'll be glad to put it up, and called later.

Braf me a line or call me with your or.

FOLLOW UP, FOLLOW UP, FOLLOW UP!

Keep after your list until you've accounted for everyone on it, just as if you were going after union memberships. You know as well as we do that people who pride themselves as progressives, in these times, will welcome the GUARDIAN and thank you for the weekly information it brings that they can't get elsewhere.

'Free speech, free men, living in a world of peace'

CHARLOTTA BASS: "Why have both of these parties [Rep. and Dem.] betrayed the promises made to the people? It is because their policies are geared to war. When they spend our country's wealth on making war and preparing for war, they cannot spend for our people's security. They deny money for flood control in Missouri and Nebraska—to place tanks and planes in Germany and Indo-China. They cut housing and let Negroes live 4,000 to the square block in Harlem—but raise arms for the French and British to repress the colonial peoples of Asia. They cannot permit freedom at home or equality."

VIVIAN HALLINAN: "I want to know what cause my children are asked to die for. And I am not accepting the statements of a lot of corporation lawyers whose interests have elected them senators; or professional murderers who operate under the title of generals. I know how long and painful it is to bring forth life. They only know how short and easy it is to destroy it."

vito marcantonio: "Til make some predictions: The Chase National Bank and the National City Bank never lost a Republican convention. That's the gang behind Eisenhower. Taft would like to have them and that's why he's sucking around. . . . 1952 will mark the disintegration of the Democratic Party as we know it because it has failed to be a party of the opposition. . . We, the lineal political descendants of the Free Soilers, must inscribe on our banners: 'Free speech, free men, living in a world of peace. . .' We now take the counter-offensive into the streets, up the stairways, to the mines and mills, to retrieve the hopes of the American people and save the peace of the world."

DR. CORLISS LAMONT: "The danger to freedom of opinion is far greater than after the First World War because violations of the Bill of Rights are more widespread, because silence through self-censorship has become the prevailing pattern and because the enemies of free speech, instead of resorting to crude violence, are suppressing dissenters through unconstitutional legislation, government decrees and the weak-kneed acquiescence of the courts of justice in these procedures."

C. B. BALDWIN: "The Progressive Party was organized nationally in 1948 because so many people had lost faith in both the Democratic and Republican parties. It is the party visualized by Franklin D. Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie in 1944, when they saw the hopelessness of the two old parties controlled by machines and dominated by big business. . . . Our party fights for the freedom of the colonial peoples and for the landless, the oppressed and the disinherited. We fight for the rights of labor in their constant struggle for adequate wages and better working conditions. We know that our political liberty is not safe as long as any individual or any group is denied their democratic right to organize, to speak and to travel anywhere at any time. Denial of these rights to Communists yesterday is merely the pretext for denying the same rights to everyone tomorrow—labor, a scientist, a Negro leader, a churchman."

DR. EDWARD K. BARSKY, surgeon in the Int'l. Brigade in the Spanish Civil War: "There can be no peace as long as fascism exists in Spain or anywhere else. . . An alliance with fascism is an alliance for war."

meeting in Denver denounced both Republicans and Democrats for failure to enact civil rights and FEFC legisla-tion, sent wires to Pres. Truman and Florida's Gov. Fuller Warren expressing "horror and indignation" at the assassination of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Moore and of Samuel Shepherd, one of the Groveland Four.

FUR: 30-HOUR WEEK: The Intl. Fur and Leather Workers Union (independent) in Chicago mapped a campa gn for a 30-hour week in the industry and a southern organizing drive. The called for labor unity behind "Roose-velt's progressive program of democracy, security, trade and peace." It reported 10,000 new members and wage increases averaging 17c an hour since its expulsion from C:O in 1950.

CONGRESS: BUST LABOR: Congress, taking its cue from Big Steel, was con-sidering various legislation to curb, break or outlaw strikes. The House Armed Services Comm. (conferring with CIO and AFL leaders) was working out a measure to rule out strikes in basic industries during "emergencies." Other proposed legislation would use laws against business monopoly to hog-tie unions, throw both company and union into receivership if a strike threatened (the new Smith labor bill); ban indus-try-wide bargaining outright (thus destroying most unions); compel arbitration in "labor courts."

With labor largely tied to the Administration, Big Business slated 1953 for its final assault. U.S. News and World Report summed up:

Exactly what type of limitation will be applied to labor-leader power depends upon the individual and the party taking office in 1953. Some form of limit on the use of strike power is in the cards.

Christiani was a Negro, militant in defense of his people and—as a leading member of a Fair Employment Practices Committee in his neighborhood—in fighting for jobs for them. In a school board election in Long Island's Levittown housing project, the American Labor Party proposed a set of principles including peace, full equality and employment of Negro teachers, elimination of religious ceremonies in public schools, repeal of the Feinberg thought-control law for teachers, honest textbooks, higher salaries, more federal and state aid. ALP offered to support any one of five candidates who would campaign for one or more of these points. Getting no takers, ALP entered its own candidate, Mrs. Dulcie Johnson, and tripled its vote in the vote in the project from 3 to nearly 10 per cent.

As the party was break-ing up after midnight, Christiani was shot and killed by NYU special guard James Giordano.

Giordano's excuse: that Christiani had gone "berserk," fought him and a porter when they sought to restrain him from overturning tables and booths. Student leaders and others denied the charge; Christiani's widow Matalia told reporters:

AMERICAN IMPERIALISM

By VICTOR PERLO

An analysis of the economic & political patterns of imperialism "Perio translates the lazy generalizations about imperialism into a concrete, down-to-earth system whose operations can be looked at, measured and judged."

-NATIONAL GUARDIAN, Aug. 29, 1951

Robert S. Byfield, Stock Exchange representative at the UN session in Paris said: "In order to understand what is going on here, it is a prerequisite to have a thorough knowledge of this work ('Imperialism,' by V. I. Lenin), 'Monopoly,' by the Labor Research Assn. and 'American Imperialism,' by Victor Perlo."

Behind the attack on the Rosenberg defense

By William A. Reuben

ABOUT two months ago five women in Los Angeles, representing no one and nothing but their own and America's conscience, decided to do something to bring the facts of the Rosenberg Case to their com-munity. By last week their first meeting had snowballed into more than 40, created a stir in a dozen West Coast and Midwest cities that brought the case to the attention of hundreds of thousands.

I left New York in mid-April to speak at one large meeting and some small gatherings in Los Angeles. When I returned last week there had been public meetings on the Rosenberg Case in L. A., Hollywood, Bev-erly Hills, Santa Monica, Long Beach, La Crescenta, San Fer-nando Valley, Burbank, San Francisco, Oakland, Redwood City, Marin County, Portland, Milwaukee and Detroit—and house gatherings in all these places, with turn-outs range places, with turn-outs rang-ings from 40 to 200 persons.

THEY ARE AMERICA: The diversity of backgrounds, be-liefs and economic status of those who sparked the meet-ings was as varied as their energy, selflessness, resource-fulness and hard work were unending. They add up to "America" as in Earl Robin-son's Ballad for Americans: trade unionists, businessmen, housewives, fruit growers, col-lege professors, ministers, social workers, printers, sales-men, students, lawyers, doctors, actors, writers and many more. These are the people who through leaflet distribution, newspaper ads and releases. press conferences, posters, handbills, mailings and plain phone- and doorbell-ringing have brought the facts out into the open. These too, of course, are the people who in response to the GUARDIAN series last fall made possible the Committee to Secure Justice in the Rosenberg Case, by their money contributions which most of them could not "afford."

The best barometer of how effective they have been is the kind of attack leveled against them (after nearly two years of silence) by "respectable" ewish organizations of the nabusy appeasing on tion now every level.

IT'S A PLOT: "The Communists," warns the Bulletin of the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League, "hope to bludgeon the Jewish community to its support." In an article with the byline of Oliver Pilat, a reporter on the N. Y. Post who seems to be a spokes-man for organized Jewry on the Rosenberg Case, the ad-vice is given: "It is important that the guilt 'heyond ressonvice is given: "It is important that the guilt 'beyond reason-able doubt' of the Rosenbergs be stressed."

While the American Jewish Committee's Reporter newslet-ter (May 3) exhorts readers to "be on guard against the vicious Communist campaign to save the Rosenbergs," a twosave the Rosenbergs," a two-page letter from Pilat to the being circulated throughout the country by AJC and the Jewish Defense Appeal. In a covering note Irving M. Engel, JDA chairman, calls the formation of Rosenberg committees

. . . a Communist Party maneuver . . . divisive CP action. . . Both the ADL and the JDC have alert-ed the various appropriate Jewish organizations in localities from coast to coast,

Referring to the widespread distribution of Pilat's letter, Engel's note ends:

mittee is but one example of how your JDA funds are being used in behalf of the Community.

FACTS ARE SUBVERSIVE: In the ADL Bulletin Pilat denies any "intent to either condemn or condone the death sentence. and proceeds to ignore almost totally the facts of the case. In similar fashion a 13-page memorandum without a byline, being girayllated noticeally use being circulated nationally under the imprint of Jewish Information of the American Jewish Committee, denies in advance any possible charge that it is interested in facts: it . . . does not deal with the facts of the case itself or the merits or demerits of the death sentence.

Both organizations are solely concerned with "proving" a Comunist plot to inject the "Jewish issue" into the case. That the GUARDIAN's taking up of the case was all part of this plot is thus proven in the AJC memorandum:

Reuben used the same arguments that had appeared in May, 1951, in Jewish Life: that Russia was an ally during the last war, that no traitor for the enemy had received the death sentence, and that experts have said there are no atomic secrets.

REPEAT PERFORMANCE: Insignificant in himself, Pilat is a cog in the appeasement ma-chine known as the New York Post, an afternoon paper working closely with the wealthy, frightened clique controlling the big Jewish organizations Jewish Americans with slightly longer memories see a chapter of history in Europe, which ended just seven years ago, re-ended just seven years ago, repeating itself. As the GUAR-DIAN noted on March 26:

Ethel Rosenberg has herself introduced the term which most grimly fits the whole situation, including the role of the N.Y. Post: "This is the way the Judenrat performed for the Nazis in the Warsaw Ghetto." The Judenrat was a Jewish authority set up by the Nazis to collect taxes and penalties from Jews, to quell resistance and to expedit; their departure for concentration camps and gas chambers. The furnaces eventually claimed Judenrat collaborators with their victims....
