Whole Number,

AS TO ROOSEVELT AND THE SENATE

Victor L. Berger writes of the Nip and Tuck Contest

YEN the most devout Christian becomes incensed if some one happens to step on his corns, and, according to the assurances of Editor Watterson of the "Courier Journal" of St. Louis, the senators of the United States are not devout Christians, but "gray wolves." A rough rider has stepped upon the corus of these "gray wolves" (if, indeed, wolves have corns) and they howl in chorus. But they do not only howl, they also bite; they have shamefully driven the Rough Rider to flight. Fifty to nine-in the history of man, no president hase ever been defeated in like manner.

The "Acultration Treatises" which have been formed with half a dozen of the European states are the matter in question. These treaties are the sheerest nonsense. They have absolutely no significance. In all these treaties, it is provided that on questions touching the vital inter-ests, the domain, and even the "honor" of the nation, courts of arbitration are not to convene. According to these treaties, only such disputes are to be arbitrated as would never lead to war, whether such treaties existed or not, because the cause is too insignificant to occasion a modern war, which would terminate in the partial or entire destruction of an opponent. They are simply paltry morsels, thrown out by the "politicians" to the disciples of peace, who in turn fancy that they have gained something of vast importance and revel in this thought.

The United States are the "champion" of arbitration. Just as Mr. Alfred Love, the Quaker from Philadelphia, comes forward with a proposal of arbitration, every time a quarrel occurs, so do the United States in international affairs which are none of their business. But, of course, in their own affairs, it is something entirely different. When Spain offered to have a court of arbitration, the intelligence was kept secret in Washington until all preparations for war were made. When Aguinaldo demanded a decision by arbitration to ascertain who attacked Manila, it was said: "No negotiations with rebels."

But courts of arbitration seem to be the fad. Treaties have been formed by the dozen between European powers, and the United States could not remain in the rear. Roosevelt is a man of action, and he had six or seven of them ready in short order, and submitted them to the Senate. But here the trouble began. The president and the Senate constitute the treaty-making power of the United States. But the president paid no attention to the Senate in concluding these treaties. It would have been wise, indeed, had he asked that body through its Committee on Foreign Affairs whether such treaties were agreeable and in what form. But he failed to do this. And his agreements made it possible that the debts of the South consisting in several millions could be dragged before such a court of arbitration, which would have to acknowledge the obligation. The South flew into a rage. But that was not quite sufficient to break the backbone of these treaties: manner in which the president concluded them, ignoring the Senate, did the business. Although the Senate did not condemn these agreements, it so changed them that in every single case which had to be decided by a court of arbitration, a treaty, submitted to and ratified by the Senate, became compulsory, and this made all such agreements worthless. The president, on the other hand, decided not to submit them in the revised form to any powers concerned. They are dead.

The prerogatives of the Senat: have been rudely handled by the president. He has stepped on their corns without merey. That was fatal to him. Even the majority of Republicane sotel against him, among them men like Lodge, who for years had been his personal friend. But this was only the culminating point of the hatred cherished by the "gray wolves" against Roosevelt. He has emphasized the presidency at the expense of Congress. He has contrived the Panama and San Domingo affairs. He has stolen the thunder from the Bryanites and wants to compel the representatives of railroad trusts and other monopolies to accept anti-trust laws. They hate him in their inmost souls.

And row? Thus far, in condicts between the president and the Senate, the president has had to yield. Remember, for instance, Garfield. But meanwhile, times have changed. As the bulwark of the money power, the Senate is scorned and despised, while the president money power, the Senate is scorned and despised, while the president is popular. It makes little difference whether he deserves this popularity or not, he possesses it. Although the Senate is legally right, popular opinion will be with the usurping president. Will this spur him on to action? Have things gone so far that this Caosar of the populae can subject the aristocracy? Will the Senate go the Roman way, or will it reestablish itself with the prople by deciding upon the popular election? That might be the final card which it could deal against the president. But, perhaps, the Sanate will finally prefer its own gradual downfall—for what would become of most of the senators if they were placed before the direct popular vote? It is self-evident they were placed before the direct popular vote? It is self-evident that their creators, the capitalists, would a thousand times rather subject themselves to the will of the president than to submit to the president than the propular vote."

Caesar will be the victor in the end.

Says a Washington despatch: Frank Sargent, Rossevelt's "repre-"The anti-injunction and eight-hour bills are dead. After working Rossevelt was a brother member of hour bills are dead. After working hard for them during every session and the brotherhood men have a right to feel disgusted, especially as Fuller the legislative representative. later on.

A prominent Eastern prelate of the Catholic church a week ago preached a sermon, which widely reported in the newspapers of the country, in which he made the assertion that his church had always befriended and protected womankind and had brought her to her present day advancement. Now this is not true. We might pass the matter by as having no direct bearing on Socialism, were it not for the fact that Socialism has been attacked by the very church of which the prelate in question is a representative and charged with trying to undo the good which has been done. Well, since the question is raised, let us meet it. The prelate says the Catholic church has always befriended woman. History even history written by Catholic writers-shows just the contrary.

In the early days of the church women had to submit to the indignity of being baptized naked by male-priests, and it was a long strug e, during which many women sought security from the outrage in suicide, before it was abandoned as a policy of the church.

Women were also the victims of that almost unmentionable practice known as Marquette, jus primae noctis, or 'right of the first night," by which the bride of a serf must surrender her person to the feudal lord for from one to several nights after marriage. History shows that the clergy also made use of this right. "The bishop of Amiens possessed this right against the women of his vassals and the peasants of his fief, but was dispossessed at the commencement of the Fifteenth century." "The lord spiritual had this right no less than the lord temporal. The parson being a lord, expressly claimed the first fruits of the bride, but was willing to sell his rights to the husband."—Michelet, "La Sorciere."

St. Jerome taught that marriage was evil. At the council of Macon in the Sixth century fifty-nine bishops of the church deliberated on this momentous question: "Has woman a soul?"

During the Dark Ages—a period of over a thousand years—when the church was in control of the lives of the people of Europe, the morals of the people were at the lowest ebb, and the worst of examples were set by the priests and monks of the church.

The early church made a distinction between man and woman, traces of which still remain. Woman was created merely to serve the pleasure of man. She was regarded as essentially unclean. The Catholic church put the most discreditable restrictions upon her. She was not allowed to sing in church, and history tells us that at one time the church made it a practice to provide eunuchs, that is, e.e. who had been by a surgical operation deprived of their organs of procreation, to supply the soprano described in the choirs, in the place of using female voices.

One of the main charges brought against the Huguenots at the time of the fric and Massacre of St. Bartholomew's Day was that they impiously permitted women to sing in their charges. Thirty thousand men, women and children were killed in that carnival of blood, not to mention the thousands of other Huguenots who were banished.

For centuries woman was looked upon as haif an animal and when this view finally faded partly away there came the discovery of America and the church then maintained that the females of the new continent belonged to the brute creation and possessed neither souls nor reason. For centuries theologians had disputed over woman's place in nature and many of them classified woman as belonging to the brutes. As late as the end of the Sixteenth century a theological book was circulated that placed woman midway between the human and the brute creation. way between the human and the brute creation.

By a decree of the Council of Auxerre (in the Year of Our Lord 5781) women were forbidden to receive the sacrament into their naked hands, they being held to be unclean. The festival of the Purification of the Virgin Mary testifies to the old church belief in the uncleanliness of motherhood!

In Dr. Pastor's History of the Popes, an authorized Catholic history, drawn up from the records in the Vatican, it is shown that the early popes were licentious, beastly, avaricious, and criminal. Popes John XII, Benedict IX, Urban V, Pius II, Innocent VIII, Alexander VI, Junius II, Leo X, and Paul III, were all grossly immoral, some of them indescribably so. They did not feel any respect for women, if Dr. Pastor's history is to be believed.

Whatever the confessional may be today under more modern influences, the fact remains that history shows that it was a source of a good deal of scandal in the earlier centuries. The confessional was established in the year 1225. "Through its means," we are told, "the priesthood gained possession of all family, social and political secrets, thus acquiring information whose power for evil was unlimited."

"The long continued and powerfully repressing influence of church teaching in regard to the created inferiority of women, imposed upon millions of men and women a bondage of thought and action which even the growing civilization of the Nineteenth century has not yet been able to cast off. To this doctrine we can trace all the arregularities which for many centuries filled the church with shame; practices more obscene than those of Babylon or Corinth dragged Christendom down to a darkness blacker than the night of heathendom in the most pagan countries."

Says Lange: "The disappearance of ancient civilization in the early centuries of the Christian era is an event the scrious problems of which are still unexplained." But Lange had not far to look. The church's contempt for woman would explain a good deal of the morel degeneracy of the Dark Ages. Anchurch's contempt for woman would explain a good deal of the moral degeneracy of the Dark ages. Another reason is not hard to find. In the times of Constantine and thereafter Draper tells us, in his "Conflict of Science and Religion," page 51, 52, "The dominant religious party never for a moment hesitated to enforce its decisions by the aid of the civil power—an aid which was freely given... The Christian party asserted that all knowledge is to be found in the Scriptures and in the traditions of the Church; that, in the written revelation, God had not only given a criterion of truth, but had furnished us all that he intended us to know. The Church thus set herself forth as the depository and arbiter of She knowledge; she was ever ready to resort to the civil power to compel obedience to her decisions. She thus took a course which determined her whole future career; she became a stumbling block in the intellectual advancement of Europe for more than a thousend years.

So that our readers will appreciate our right to dispute the claim of the Eastern prelate that his church had uplifted woman. We have stood with great patience the hypocritical attacks of certain Catholic clergy on the morality of Socialism and the morals of Socialists. But our patience was set down to cowardice by these men. When we insisted that they did not come to the discussion of the subject with clean hands, we had some of the above facts from history in mind. They are facts they would prefer to keep in the background.

LABOR AND THE CLASS STRUGGLE

Eugene V. Debs writes of it in Unionism and Socialism

THE labor question, as it is called, has come to be recognized as the foremost of our time. In some for as the foremost of our time. In some form it thrusts itself into every human relation, and directly or indirectly has a part in every controversy.

A thousand "solutions" of the labor question find their way into print, but the question not only remains unsolved, but steadily assumes greater and graver proportions. The nostrums have no effect other than to prove their own inefficiency.

There has always been a labor question since man first exploited man in the struggle for existence, but not until its true meaning was revealed in the development of modern industry did it command serious thought or intelligent consideration, and only then came any adequate conception of its importance to the race.

Man has always sought the mastery of his fellow-man. To enslave his fellow in some form d to live out of his labor has been the mainspring of human action. To escape submission, not in freedom, but in mastery over others has been the controlling desire, and this has filled the world with slavery and crime. In all the ages of the past, human society has been organized and maintained upon the basis of the exploitation and degradation of those who toil. And so it is today. The chief end of government has been and is to keep the victims of oppression and injustice in subjection. The men and women who toil and produce have been and are at the mercy of those who wax fat and scornful upon the fruit of their

The labor question was born of the first pang of protest that died unvoiced in the breast of unrequited toil.

The trades union expresses the economic power and the Socialist party expresses the political power of the Labor movement.

The fully developed labor unionist uses both his economic and political power in the interest of his class. He understands that the struggle between labor and capital is a class struggle; that the working class are in a great majority, but divided, some in trades unions and some out of them, some in one political party and some in another; that because they are divided they are helpless and must submit to being robbed of what their labor produces, and treated with con-tempt; that they must unite their class in the trades union on the one hand and in the Socialist party on the other hand; that industrially and politically they must act together as a class against the capitalist class and that this struggle is a class struggle, and that any workingman who deserts his union in a strike and goes to the other side is a seab, and any workingman who deserts his party on election day and goes over to the enemy is a betrayer of his class and an enemy of his fellowman.

Both sides are organized in this class struggle, the capitalists, however, far more thoroughly than the workers. In the first place the however, far more thoroughly than the workers. In the first place the capitalists are, comparatively, few in number, while the workers number many millions. Next, the capitalists are men of financial means and resources, and can buy the best brains and command the highest order of ability the market affords. Then again, they own the earth and the mills and mines and locomotives and ships and stores and the jobs that are attached to them, and this not only gives them tremendous advantage in the struggle, but makes them for the time the absolute masters of the attraction. lute masters of the situation.

The workers, on the other hand, are poor as a rule, and ignorant as a class, but they are in an overwhelming majority. In a word, they have the power, but are not conscious of it. This then is the supreme demand: to make them conscious of the power of their class, or classconscious workingmen.

The working class alone does the world's work, has created its capital, produced its wealth, constructed its mills and factories, dug it-canals, made its roadbeds, laid its rails and operates its trains, span-ned the rivers with bridges and tunnelled the mountains, delved for the previous stones that glitter upon the bosom of vulgar idleness and reared the majestic palaces that shelter insolent parasites.

The working class alone—and by the working class I mean all useful workers, all who by the labor of their hands or the effort of their brains, or both in alliance, as they ought universally to be, increase the knowledge and add to the wealth of society—the working class alone is essential to society and therefore the only class that can survive in the world-wide struggle for freedom.

Space forbids a full explanation of the evils of all this commercial machinery, the reader must out for himself. This much must be clear, that the idea of profit by unnecessary handlers will have to be banished, so that the growers will be encouraged to produce all the cotton that is necessary to comfortably supply all. Then let a sufficient quantity of cotton goods be made to sup-ply the needs of all. Let a simple method of exchange be arranged so that the cotton growers and the cloth makers can supply themselves with the things they have not produced, as they have supplied others with cotton and cloth. AT LAST WE HAVE THE YANKEE "MERRIE ENGLAND." IT'S TITLE IS

"Socialism Made Plain." By ALLAN L. BENSON,

Author of "CONFESSIONS OF CAPITALISM."

Mr. Benson was formerly editorial writer on the New York Journal, being a master of plain, direct and thought-compelling English. "Socialism Made Plain" fairly sparkles with these qualities, and is of all books, the one to put in the hands of the man you are trying to convert. After leaving Hearst's Journal, Courade Benson determined to become a master of the Socialist philosophy and the present book is the result of a wast amount of study rendered into every day English for the every day man to read and understand. It is as graceful in diction as it is clear and direct. The book has a great mission before it.

Things are not always what they seem. The government has had to take some apparent "trust curbing" action by the unprecedented high finance exposures of the past year, but it is a sort of smoke that hides the fact that the recent overwhelming Republican sweep of the country has simply given congress to the corporations completely and un-Already the Washington correspondents are telling us that the present session of congress has been a miserable failure from the standpoint of a people's government, but that it has been a glittering and an unanimous success "from the standopint of the wealth interests,

"It is doubtful," says a Washington correspondent, "if there has been a congress in a good many years when the lobby so completely had the whip hand. The lobby, as everybody understands, is composed of the beneficiaries of special privileges. of special privileges. "What is everybody's business is nobody's business," and the people do not have a lobby here to work for them.

"The settlement of every important question with which congress has had to deal has been addered to the people's interests. The trusts have reason to chuckle over their_success in staving off the popular demand for tariff revision, which enables them to increase their already prodigious gains while the consumer "pays the freight." Although there is a good deal of big talk about haling the railroad companies to the bar of judgment for discrimination in freight rates the railroad presidents will be able to join with the trust presidents on the 4th of March, as the gavel falls for the last time, in singing: They never touched us.' Everybody here understands that there is not going to be any legislation at this session to correct abuses in interstate commerce.

"All winter Washington hotel lobbles have swamred with railroad presidents and high railway officials and attorneys for special interests. They have kept in close touch with congress. No one charges that members have been bought, but the lobby, nevertheless, has made a deep impression. The railroad's press bureau has worked overtime and the mails have been freighted with literature telling why rate legislation should not be enacted..... "The popular arm was not strong enough to reach the subsidy of $45,000 a year cont. ined in the postoffice appropriation bill for carrying the mails to Tahiti—a service that cost $400 in the palmy days before the subsidy was created. And yet it is known that the total appropriations of the Fifty-eighth congress will be the largest in the country's history—at least $1,375,000,000 with more in sight."

HALF HOURS IN THE HERALD SANCTUM.

PA. Social Democratic Herald: Usually I have little time or inclination to reply to criticisms or denunciations of my individual jets that come from Socialist or trade urion comrades, as it is low's labor lost. I prefer to keep everlasting ly banging away at the common enemy rather than splitting hairs over trivial matters. But I have received a number of letters during the past few weeks making inquiries regarding a charge made by Victor Berger, in the Herald of Dec. 31, and to save time I desire to make reply to all collectively if you will grant me a little space.

Berger's principal charge is that I "swapped" votes at New Orleans to be elected friternal delegate to the British Trade Union Congress, which may be interpreted by thoughtless readers that I "sold out" somebody. Here are the facts: For averall weeks before the convention legan I received a number of requests to allow my name to be used in connection with the fraternal delegate in connection with the fraternal delegate, but as one large delegation after another announced their intention of supporting me all withdrew except Mr. Lawlor, with whom I was unacquainted and who was elected as my colleague. The starving poor are feasted—yes, they're feasted that the fat man in Thy holy name gives niggard charity.

Rut Boodle reigns supreme today upon this weary earth; Abov the shouts of laughter, hove the music and the mirth, We hear the soulds of wailing and we hear the sobs of pain. We see the lust for plunder and the mad, wild rush for gain.

We see the children sweated by grim flends who breathe
We see the starving women sunk in poverty and shame;
We see the harlot stalking in the shadow of the wall,
Beneath whose craven arches Your priests hold their festival.
Your servants, Lord, are fine and fat-right royal are

Your children, Lord, are homeless—yes, Your children cry

And Far gives niggard charity in memory of Your bitth.

Your servants, Lord, are prim and fat, and robed in lines they are not like the fisher folk You chose in Patestine; They preach another gospel—He humble, bow your head, and worship Fat and Boodle, who give you daily bread, They stiffe discontent and frown upon the starving clod. Who dares to ask why Boodle's voice should be the voice of God;

Why sweaters and Thy servants, Lord, walk daily hand in hand.
Why children starve and women weep throughout the plundered land.

Your servant's eyes are closed. O Lord, to sin and poverty. They follow not the lowly path mapped out for these. They hobnob aow at boodle's board—they sound his praises high—

The beggar flees the road when their gay carriages roll by: The back slums do not know them, they are strangers to the toor. They're leagued with Fat, they're Boodle's slaves, their livings are secure:
They preach doll resignation o'er all this weary earth, And Fat gives niggard charity in memory of Your birth.

My refusal to speak upon Berger's eleven other resolutions, with one exception, was deliberately premeditated; as well as was my indifference to "caucusing," refusal to run for president, or take part in a few other plans that did not square with my judgment. I did intend to debate the old age pension resolution, but was shut off by the previous question being ordered. This is the eleventh yearly issue of this valuable hand book and it covers a broader field each year. While it gives data for Great Britain more especially,
there are chapters on the movement in the United States, one written by William Mailly, while the Socialist periodicals etc. are given. The book gives a very comprehensive idea of the many forward activities that are making the present age restless for further progress.

A first page story in the Free Press of last Wednesday and copied in other papers, put one of our comrades, Emil Fischer, in a false light of having tried to create dissention in the party and of having carried party matters into the public press. The story was cooked-up from reportorial imagination and the press the next day printed a detailed denial of it by Comrade Carl Dietz, secretary of the Central Committee, but unfortunately it was not given as much prominence as the original article.

Mabel Hite in "The Girl and the Bandit"

actress and a singer, has the leading rades of Wisconsin. Evidently they so of Massanth the state of Wisconsin organized, want the state of Wisconsin organized. The fact that we needed funds for this purpose leaked out and as by magic the names of those who wanted to be enrolled as helpers in raising the funds came in. Already without any solicita came in. Already without any solicita too and almost without explanation the following comrades have asked to be entered in the army and have sent in the amount: Mrs. F. W. FOND DU LAC.—Comrade E. C. Dambay says the new local held its first meeting Feb. 18th with encouraging results. The next meeting will be held Saturday night, Feb. 26th. Several new members will be received. More applications sent. KIEL.—Two of the comrades from Kiel called at headquarters and report the movement there in the usual good condition. Attention was called to the fact that for some reason mention was not made in the columns of the Herald of 88.00 sent to headquarters about Dec. 7th, by Comrades M. J. Wirth and H. J. Ammann. The above amount was duty received and a receipt seat to Comrade Wirth who sent the check in. And we have not got started to tune up yet. Just wait until the whole or-chestra gets started. There will be music in the sir.

Mr. Frederic Heath.

Dear Sir:—Please at apt apology for delayed reply to your letter of Jan. 11. The statement which you say has been made by the Heidelberg Belt Ca. of St. Paul is very amusing. We do not intend to stop exposing fake doctors, and no amount of advertiging, no matter to what extent, would influence us in the least degree. If you can furnish us with any additional matter to that which we have already used about Heidelberg or any other medical fake, we will be pleased to use it.
