The Great White Plague.

CAPITALISM RESPONSIBLE FOR IT.

NATURE is neither merciful nor malevolent. It merely operates from cause to effect. If we transgress its laws we cannot escape its penalties. In no case has this fact so strongly been brought out as in the matter of health.

This brings us to the question of Consumption—the so-called White Plague.

Consumption is principally a working class disease. It is so because under the capitalist system the workers are FORCED TO BREAK NATURE'S LAWS.

The worst ravages of Consumption in the trades is among the printers and the textile workers. Not because nature has a grudge against either, but because in the first instance the printers constantly breathe in leaden dust, the poisonous fumes of the type-setting machine, and so on.

Go into a printing office, if you will, and observe the dirty windows—even in some of the leading establishments. The windows are stained by the same dirty air that the workmen must breathe if they want to stay at their jobs.

Consumption is an economic problem. It is fostered by modern wage-labor conditions and by the living in ill ventilated homes, especially in winter, when the working class cannot afford to air their rooms for fear of increasing the wood and coal bill.

So there is little question but that any sufferer from Consumption, provided his lungs are not already badly wasted away, can recover from the malady. But the thing that really stands in his way is the capitalist system!

Let us work all the harder, therefore, to break down the capitalist system.

A word of cheer, in conclusion, to the workman or woman who is beginning to experience the symptoms of this terrible scourge. You must live indoors during the day, make it a point to sleep at night either out of doors or in such a way that you breathe the undiluted out of door air.

In the June issue of Everybody's Magazine Thomas W. Lawson tells the last story of the great, annihilated copper bunco game by which thirty-six millions of dollars were filched out of the pockets of the guileless public which had been caught in the fever of speculation worked up by the cunning manipulators.

We want the earth to be a paradise and not a prison. We want the workers among men to be the enjoyers. We want the rewards to go to the deserving instead of to the idle fleecing class.

We want the earth to be a paradise and not a prison. We want the workers among men to be the enjoyers. We want the rewards to go to the deserving instead of to the idle fleecing class.

Don't be selfish. Let your neighbor share in your pleasure in working for Socialism.

"Environment is the greatest of all schools," says Prof. Stanley Hall of Clark University. That is correct. But there are good and bad environments, how about that?

It is significant that in connection with the Chicago strike the Chicago Tribune (plute) prints editorial bouquets for Gompers, who tries to dissuade the workers from using the ballot as a weapon, and editorial brickbats for Debs, who urges them to take possession of the powers of government.

Munsey's Magazine for June contains an article on "Socialism, Its Growth and Its Leaders," written by Herbert Casson. It is embellished by a full page portrait of Comrade Victor L. Berger and pays particular attention to the Milwaukee movement and its influence in the country at large.

The Milwaukee Sentinel (corporation Republican) refused to print some resolutions against the abortive A. L. U. move, passed by the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, because the same contained the phrase: "Parry and the other parasites."

Have you stopped to figure out how it is possible in a nation full of prosperous working men, where "there are two jobs for every man," have you stopped to figure out how it has been possible to ship into Chicago carload after carload of workless men, pushed by the necessity of living to seek the jobs made vacant by the striking teamsters?

The situation in the Philadelphia gas steal now trembles in the balance. The hue and cry of the outraged citizens has been so insistent that the mayor has apparently deserted the political gangsters and claims that he will veto the steal.

In Plainfield, N. J., the Salvation Army bought a lot on which a small shack in which an aged man, broken in health and without work, lived, and then had the man evicted. The man had some local fame because of the fact that during a small pox epidemic thirty years ago he had risked his life where others would not and had handled the victims and waited on them like the hero that he was.

Don't repine because fate has been so cruel as to have put you into the world too late to take part in the work of putting down chattel slavery in this country. There is another slavery and a more widespread one to be put down—wage slavery.

The New York assembly judiciary committee has felt called on to recommend the removal of a Judge Hooker of the supreme court on the ground that he is morally unfit to hold the office, besides being crooked.

Great labor disputes like the Chicago strike tend to start people talking, and incidentally some of them begin to think. The stock-yards strike gave rise to considerable talking, and some of those who began thinking then are still doing so.

Some weeks ago we began an agitation for the purpose of raising funds for the establishment of a printing plant of our own. This agitation has resulted in considerable talk, and many of our readers were surprised to learn that we do not own a plant of our own.

While we have made a substantial beginning, however, this should not lead us to relax our efforts, but should be an incentive for those who have contributed to the fund to use every endeavor to induce others to do likewise.

A glance at the list of subscribers will show that we have wiped out the $300 of the $2,300 necessary as a first investment—making the amount still necessary to be raised look something like this: $2,000. Now, comrades and friends, let's redouble our efforts, and we'll soon make the necessary amount to be raised look like this: 30c.

A plant of our own will be a step toward capturing the public press. When we have succeeded in capturing the public press, we will be a long way on the road toward the cooperative commonwealth.

That Philadelphia Steal!!

Philadelphia, Pa., May 19.—With ropes dangling before their faces and threats ringing in their ears, the city council last night jammed through the gas "steal" that gives to the United Gas Improvement company for $25,000,000 for seventy-five years the Philadelphia gas works.

Only the strongest kind of police protection kept the mob from breaking at the councilmen. In the galleries of the council 500 men defied the police and guards, would not allow a councilman to talk, and succeeded in preventing even the necessary routine on the measure being taken until 8 o'clock at night.

Nothing can awaken enthusiasm in the human breast as can the study of Socialism. It awakens a new love of citizenship, a new patriotism of international brotherly love to take the place of the unworthy patriotism of national selfishness.

The situation in the Philadelphia gas steal now trembles in the balance. The hue and cry of the outraged citizens has been so insistent that the mayor has apparently deserted the political gangsters and claims that he will veto the steal.

Some idea of the dog eat dog, wolfish struggle that goes on in the upper circles of "finance" may be had from the following selection from Lawson's "Frenzied Finance" in the June Everybody's. It represents a play of wits between Lawson and Harry H. Rogers, the master rogue of the Standard Oil system.

So far in our argument we were even. We eyed each other as fighters do in a ring—looking for an opening. "Stand-stand" for an idea. Mr. Rogers' reluctance to shoulder any legal responsibility deepened my suspicions, and inwardly I sweated blood at the thought of the devilry that might be piled up around the affair.

Lawson, it appears, when he discovered the full meaning of Rogers' intentions to make Amalgamated Copper a gigantic swindle on the public, after he, Lawson, had been assuring the people that they had his word for its genuineness, was moved to thoughts of murder.

This is our boasted America, of course, but some things that are happening are giving the patriotic feelings of the masses some pretty good jolts. The working class of the entire country groans under a most awful bondage, and it suffers all kinds of injuries at the hands of an insatiate profit-squeezing capitalist mastership.

It is awful here—a veritable little Colorado. The strike is on here—forced by the operators to break up the union. All the horrors of Colorado have been enacted here this winter and are being enacted today.

The following from one of our readers, Comrade Searing of New York, bears out our comment of two weeks ago on the supreme court 10-hour law decision:

"That no one may think that the comments of the Herald, of May 18, were unjustified concerning the Ten-Hour New York Bake-Shop Case, I send you a short extract, taken from the law as laid down in our highest court before reversed by the U. S. Supreme Court.

"In Vol. 177, New York Court of Appeals, Reports p. 145, etc., Judge Gray, one of the judges, in giving the opinion of the Court of Appeals says:

"We perceive that the Legislature is dealing with the workings of a business conducted upon a scale, calling for the employment of more or less laborers, and which is effected by a public interest, in the sense that the food product may sensibly depend upon its healthfulness, upon the observance of sanitary rules and precautions.

"Judge Vann, in his opinion, quotes at length official tables, encyclopedias and statistics, showing that bakeries with other shops are 'nurseries of disease,' and says (174 N. Y. Rep. p. 174):

"The evidence xxx leads to the conclusion that the occupation of a baker xxx is unhealthy, and tends to result in diseases. xxx As statutes are valid which provide that women and children shall not be employed in any manufacturing establishments more than a certain number of hours in a single day, so I think an act valid which provides that an employment which the legislature defines, and which is in fact detrimental to health, no person, regardless of age or sex shall be permitted to labor more than a certain number of hours per day or week.

"By reference to the law reports only, can we fully realize the literal truth of the paragraph in the Herald, THAT IT (The U. S. Supreme Court) SAYS THE RIGHT OF A MASTER TO EXPLOIT HIS WORKMAN xxx IS HIGHER THAN ALL CONSIDERATIONS OF HUMANITY AND PUBLIC POLICY. This causes me to send you the quotation."

The following account of how Belmont (President of the Civic Federation) planned to break the Subway strike is given in an article of exultation, which appears in the official journal of Parry's organization of manufacturers:

The public has been amazed at the prompt and effective way the Interborough company met the recent strike which apparently only a few hours in which to prepare for it. As a matter of fact, it has been making preparations for more than a year, and its success in defeating the unions is very largely due to the clever work of a secret agent, a very unassuming man, who was a detective in the employ of James Farley a few years ago.

Of course, the moment he became an employe his comrades compelled him to join the union, and thereafter all was plain sailing. Twice he was reported by an inspector for trifling infraction of the company's rules and was once fined. None of the officials who passed upon his case, except one, dreamed that he was their secret agent.

The Doom of the Workers

By EUGENE V. DEBS.

Reproduced in Social-Democratic Herald by Request.

THE average young man enters the field of unskilled labor from necessity; he has little or no choice and must take what he can get without regard to his taste, tendency or aptitude. The majority of young men, that is to say, the sons of workingmen, have no chance to secure a technical education; nor have they the time and opportunity required to learn a trade; nor would there be room for them in the skilled trades in the present industrial system, even if they could serve the long, trying and unremunerative apprenticeship which must necessarily precede the trade.

In the conquest of inventive genius and mechanical appliances the domain of unskilled labor is constantly widening; that of skilled labor as steadily narrowing.

The advantages to the young men becoming unskilled workers are that from the start they draw nearly, if not quite, the full limit of the unskilled wage scale and can readily change from one occupation to another, whereas apprentices receive barely sufficient to support themselves and are subjected to a course of more or less drastic treatment extending through a period of several years, only to find, in many cases, that the skill of the trade has been wholly or in part absorbed by improved machinery and that the skill so painfully and perseveringly acquired is therefore either totally useless or else the limited field in which it can now be employed is already over crowded.

The disadvantages are that unskilled workers are subjected to unrestricted competition in the labor market with its resultant low standard or wages which barely provide food, fuel, raiment and shelter, leaving little for sickness or old age and nothing for the higher needs of the intellectual and spiritual man.

The great mass of unskilled workers are doomed to such an existence and few of them escape it or ever will as long as the tools made and used by workmen are the private property of capitalists.

Rabbi Hirsch says that it is graft that is the trouble with Russia. But we cannot shame Russia on that score very hard. Where is there a nation that cannot show up its good, big share of graft!

The editor of the Boston Advertiser says that it may be true that the wage system is a form of slavery, but says that it is a necessary slavery because the working class is lazy. Funny, isn't it that the representatives of the indolent rich class always insists that the industrious class is lazy? Ever figure out the motive back of that claim!

The fellow who charges the Socialists with pessimism doesn't know what he is talking of. It is the most beautiful hope that spurs the Socialists on to more determined effort. We can see the world moving to better things. People are getting more intelligent, and are demanding better lives. A splendid discontent—a discontent with wretched living—is developing. Nothing can withstand the onward sweep of this discontent. The people mean to take possession, drive out those who are preying on the producing class, and to abolish the thing that is the cause of all our economic misery: private ownership of the means of production.

Why should we be pessimists when this grand drama is being enacted before our very eyes?

Prof. Ferri's "Socialism and Modern Science."

AS "BRIEFED" BY IDA CROUCH-HAZLETT FOR READERS TOO BUSY TO READ THE BOOK ITSELF.

The social revolution cannot achieve its object unless it first becomes a vivid fact in the minds of the workers themselves...

To say to the laborers that without having made ready the requisite material means, but especially without solidarity and without an intelligent conception of the goal and without a high moral purpose, they ought to rise against the classes in power, is really to play into the hands of those very classes...

Whether this complete transformation can be accomplished without violence is a question no one can answer in advance.

However it has been demonstrated that Marxian Socialism is in harmony with modern science and is its logical continuation.

The third part of the book deals with sociology and Socialism, and the thirteenth chapter deals with the sterility of sociology.

One of the strangest facts in the history of the scientific thought of the nineteenth century is that, though the profound scientific revolution caused by Darwinism and Spencerian evolution has reinvigorated all the physical, biological and even psychological sciences...

In the anatomy of the social organism sociology has made fruitful contributions to contemporary science. But when the political social question is entered upon the sociologists remain conservatives or radicals in accordance with their respective whims.

To Karl Marx is due the honor of having formulated these logical applications of experimental science to the domain of political economy.

first gives us a scientific explanation of the accumulation of private property. The second corresponds to the biological law which makes each individual the result of the innate and acquired conditions of his physiological organism living in a given environment.

The law of economic determinism is the most scientific and the most prolific sociological theory that has ever been discovered by the genius of man, unfolding before our eyes the majestic drama of history no longer as the arbitrary acts of great men, but as the resultant of the economic conditions of each people.

The Socialist theory of Marx leads us to this conclusion: Since political parties are merely the mouth-pieces of class interests there can be substantially only two political parties, the Socialist party of the workers and the individualist party of the possessing class.

These ideas of political Socialism, because they are scientific, dispose their partisans both to personal tolerance and to theoretical inflexibility. It is necessary to be on the one side or the other.

It is the truth in Socialism that explains to us that unity of intelligent, disciplined, class-conscious solidarity which presents in the world-wide celebration of the first of May, a moral phenomenon of such grandeur that human history possesses no parallel example with the exception of the movement of primitive Christianity, which had, however, a much more restricted field of action than contemporary Socialism.

Henceforth Socialism constitutes the only force which restores the hope for a better future to the old and disintegrating human society, a hope born of rational confidence in the inductions of modern experimental science.

Herbert Spencer wrote a letter after the publication of Ferri's book, expressing his astonishment at the audacity of him who would make use of Spencer's name to defend Socialism.

Ferri replied saying no Socialist ever dreamed of making Mr. Spencer a partisan of Socialism, whose extreme individualism was known to all the world. But he said the personal opinion of Herbert Spencer was a very different thing from the logical consequence of the scientific theories of universal evolution which he had developed, but of which he had no official monopoly.

II. "Profit" According to Ashplant, vs. "Profit" According to Marx.

Let us recapitulate before proceeding further.

According to Comrade Ashplant, the exchange value of a commodity is its reproduction cost; that is, its cost in money or in kind paid out by the capitalist to the worker as purchase price of the labor power through which that commodity is reproduced.

According to Marx, the exchange value of a commodity is its reproduction cost in social labor time; that is, inhuman exertion, in human life, which the worker must spend in reproducing it, regardless of the price at which he must sell his labor power, his life, to the capitalist.

Between these two definitions there is an abyss!

The first may be termed the "Jasperian" mercantile conception of exchange value. It is in apparent accordance with the daily practice of every small merchant or peddler who seeks to eke out for his own petty self as large a profit as he can get by "buying cheap and selling dear."

The second may be termed—in opposition of the first—the "Coppernican" conception of value. It is reached through a long and difficult process of scientific investigation, resulting in the discovery of the true nature of economic phenomena and the consequent exposure of erroneous notions induced by false appearances.

If it be accepted as scientifically demonstrated truth, the conclusion necessarily follows that the sum of all profits—regardless of the proportions in which it is divided among employers of labor, merchants, speculators, gamblers, etc.—is neither more nor less than the total amount of robbery to which the productive working class is subjected by the non-productive capitalist class.

We have seen the absurd result of Ashplant's definition, arithmetically worked out. If it costs the capitalist group engaged in agriculture one barrel of potatoes to produce two barrels of that popular vegetable, the exchange value of two barrels is one barrel. If it costs the tailoring capitalist group one pair of pants of a certain quality to produce two pairs of the same quality, the exchange value of two pairs is one pair. If it costs the gold-mining capitalist group one dollar to produce two dollars, the exchange value of two dollars is one dollar. And so on throughout the list of useful things produced by human labor.

How it happens that one barrel of potatoes exchanges on an average for one pair of pants or two dollars in gold, he does not pretend to say, and in fact cannot say, for he has no standard of value and with his conception of value can have none.

True, he does not deny—he even admits—that labor, and only labor, produces potatoes and pants and gold and all other commodities; but that is, he says, "another question."

Again, he goes so far as to suggest that potatoes might as well as gold (not merely for the sake of reasoning but very actually were it not for the variable effects of meteorological conditions upon their production and other comparative disadvantages) be used as "money," that is, as measure of value and "circulating" medium.

Had he gone one step farther he might indeed have rediscovered Marx's law of exchange value. Or—what is infinitely more probable—he would have suddenly remembered that once upon a time he had read in the opening chapters of "Capital" a number of economic propositions which evidently he had not understood, but which he was now in a fair way of understanding and would at any rate try to understand by reading them again with required thoughtfulness.

With the suggestion that it might anyhow do him no harm and possibly some good to actually study all that part of "Capital" that precedes the chapter on the "Labor Process" (in which appears the cotton yarn illustration that has given rise to this discussion), I shall stop "abusing" our good-tempered, well-intentioned, but mistaken comrade, and promise to never again commit the same offense unless he should again fire potatoes at me and miss his mark. In my next I shall illustrate the source of profit from the flux of the annual production of the United States.

WISCONSIN.

State Organizer's Letter. To the Herald: This past week my work has been chiefly in Minnesota, so I cannot write much news from the Wisconsin field.

SUPERIOR, WIS.—Here I gave two lectures for our comrades, Monday and Tuesday evenings. It rained both nights, but we had fairly good audiences and many of the delinquent comrades paid up their dues and the local seems to be in good condition.

TWO HARBORS, MINN.—Wednesday I began a twelve days tour of northeastern Minnesota at Two Harbors. On account of rain we were unable to hold a street meeting and the only hall in town had been engaged so we had to give up the meeting.

BIWABIK, MINN.—Here I succeeded in organizing a small local of seven members. The field seems particularly promising, however, as there are scores of Socialists among the railroad men, and scores more among the miners.

BURL.—A good meeting was held here attended chiefly by the miners and their wives. There is a good local here.

CRISHOLM.—Another mining town. A small meeting here, but there is a good local and many Finnish Socialists. They sent in $11.00 dues for the last month.

HIBBING.—Two meetings held here on Sunday and on Monday. There are 150 Socialists here, members of a Finnish Socialist club, that will this week turn their entire membership into the party. They own their own hall. Another Finnish club here of 200 members are nearly all Socialists and negotiations are under way for this club to join the party too.

I am to spend about a week more in Minnesota, viz. until May 29th, and then re-enter Wisconsin for about two weeks.

IN YANKEE LAND. The Chicago Socialist, since its recent engagement, is one of the best and most attractive papers in the movement.

The comrades of Hennessy, Oklahoma, gave the old party cohorts a scare last week by rolling up a vote that lacked but nineteen of carrying the town.

The impossibilists are now camping on the trail of Comrade Simons of Chicago, because in an unguarded moment he dared to write a letter to a non-Socialist paper.

In a letter sent us by Comrade John Hagel of Oklahoma City it is reported that Comrade Debs' lecture there needed the party $60, with the tickets selling at 10 and 25 cents.

Socialist Officials Under Capitalism.

By A. G. SANFTLEBEN, California.

"We are in for nothing short of the Co-operative Commonwealth!" "We want the whole cheese or nothing at all!"

These and other less courteous remarks you have to listen to so often when you dare to mention the dreaded "immediate demands" to a good many of our modern American non-compromising, radical Socialists.

"Little drops of water, Little grains of sand, Make a mighty ocean, Build a mighty land."

As learned from the lips of mother dear in by-gone days? Are they not just like those people who like a book because its cover is so nice.

"They used their majority well. The city of Offenbach grew up splendidly under the Social-Democratic regime.

ACROSS THE POND. The agricultural laborers of Hungary held a conference at Buda Pesth in connection with the convention of the Socialist party of Hungary.

The "Trades Hall Council" of Melbourne, Australia, passed a resolution of sympathy with the laborers of Russia.

The "Rusekija Wjedomosti" reports from Kursk, Russian Poland, on the horrible atrocities perpetrated by the police and paid rabble against demonstrating 10, 11 and 12-year-old school children.

lory of mankind from the standpoint of society as a unit with obligations of proper care for ALL of its parties and not—as has been done up to this time—from the standpoint of more or less "racially or generously individuals, or more or less exploiting or philanthropic individualistic groups, class segregating as "better of superior material" from the rest of society.

It is the intention of the writer of these remarks to add, so to say, a few chapters of recent facts to the little pamphlet of Simons, "Socialism in French Communities."

From the Leipziger Volkszeitung of Nov. 12th, 1904, I quote the following article on the community of Offenbach, Germany:

"Just nine years ago Comrade Ulrich was elected as the first Social-Democrat into the municipal parliament of Offenbach. Up to that time the "citizens" have been "working" in the city hall unchallenged and in no way afflicted with any ideas even slightly connected with modern social policy.

"They used their majority well. The city of Offenbach grew up splendidly under the Social-Democratic regime. What, under the conditions, could have been done for the welfare of the city has been done. Our comrades were "uprooting and destroying Christian civilization" by cooperating in the erection of a port supplied with all modern appliances.

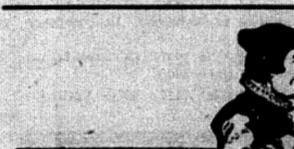

"The Rusekija Wjedomosti" reports from Kursk, Russian Poland, on the horrible atrocities perpetrated by the police and paid rabble against demonstrating 10, 11 and 12-year-old school children.

pliances; they helped toward the construction of a city slaughterhouse furnished with all the refinements of modern technique; they helped towards building communal gas and electric plants; they proved their "enmity for education and hatred for knowledge" by improving the school system and building new schoolhouses.

"Of course the bourgeois raged. Conflicts between our comrades in council and the mayor were exaggerated incredibly. The sums paid out to unemployed for midwives etc. were brought day for day before the eyes of the good, respectable citizens. It is to be remarked here that the financial activity of the municipal administration was done upon a sound basis; all other statements are intentional lies invented to discredit the party."

What is Social-Democracy?

"Whereas industry is at present carried on by private capitalists served by wage labor, it must be in the future conducted by associated or cooperative workmen jointly owning the means of production." - Prof. Kropotkin. "Our aim... is to obtain for the whole community complete ownership and control of the means of production and distribution and transportation. We seek to put an end to the wage system, to sweep away all distinctions of class and to inaugurate the cooperative commonwealth." "Socialism is that contemplated system of industrial society which proposes the abolition of private property in the great material instruments of production, and the substitution thereof of collective property; and advocates the collective management of production, together with the distribution of society's income by society and private property to the larger proportion of this social income." - Prof. Ely.

obligations, conceded jurisdiction, trade agreements, and union labels and shop cards, render it imperative that we remain loyal to the American Federation of Labor and carry on our agitation for necessary reforms among the membership of the organizations affiliated with that body. While the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor is not in sympathy with many of the policies of the American Federation of Labor, and while we stand committed in favor of industrial unionism, yet we realize that progress along the lines of industrial organization cannot be furthered by ill-advised and spasmodic efforts at reorganization, which are sure to result in division and disruption. The necessary change and progress will come as a natural result of industrial evolution, intelligently aided by continued agitation, education and organization among the rank and file of the organizations at present affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The Wisconsin State Federation of Labor is aware of the fact that the advocates and agents of this new attempt to promote and encourage competition among the workers (though claiming to be opposed to such competition), by organizing a dual body to the American Federation of Labor, are at work in Wisconsin. In view of the foregoing, it is Resolved, That all affiliated organizations and all organized labor of the state directly and indirectly affiliated with the American Federation of Labor are hereby urged to remain loyal to their respective national and international unions, and thereby discourage this new attempt to divide, disrupt and discredit the existing substantial organizations of labor.

Town Topics by the Town Crier.

The United Charities of the city, composed of various charitable activities (even including the malodorous Humane society) have arranged with Wonderland for a generous proportion of the receipts of Saturday, June 10. This will net the worthy charities in the list a goodly amount with which to carry on their work. The Wonderland exhibition is replete with novelties, most of them harmless, but some, such as the scenic railway, a positive danger to human life. The parting of a single bolt, the breaking of a rod would send carloads of people to sure death. Such things should be suppressed. But there are other things worth seeing, and we advise all who can go, and thus help the charities.

The Milwaukee Sentinel the past week unblushingly printed a two-column story of a trip through the gambling houses and houses of prostitution by some emotional preachers who want to reform the social evil by dealing with results instead of causes. The article was written with offensive detail, even to making it appear that the forlorn and wretched victims in the red light district lived lives of luxury, etc. It was an affront to decent readers and a contribution to the elements that work for social impurity. But the surprising part of it was that the Sentinel, the personal organ of Mayor Rose and the Pfister corruption back of him, coolly told how these preachers were piloted through gambling houses, alleged to have been closed, by one of Chief Janssen's detectives! Verily we are a wide open town.

Milwaukee is a beautiful city of homes, mind you! We are awfully proud of it! And yet who will deny that it is a whited sepulchre when on one day a hard working woman is picked up in a starving condition on the street while seeking work, another woman, also hard working, is found destitute and without care, with the usual daily crop of eviction cases in the justice courts, and the poorhouse crowded full. And on top of this is the fact shown by official government statistics that 84 per cent of our people live in rented houses. A city of homes, indeed!

The story of how John I. Beggs cut down expenses at the plant of the National Electric company is interesting. He went through the plant with his snickersnee and gave some of the big salaried fellows a chance to go on a vacation and study the leveling tendency of capitalism where fancy salaries are concerned. First he got after Gen. Manager Becker. Becker got a salary of $12,000 besides other perquisites. John I. told him he could remain at $3,000, but that capitalism is now able to buy brains cheap. Becker decided to leave. Then the "experimental room" that costs $800 a month was cut out—let the poor inventors do the experimenting on their own hook. Their results can be "acquired" cheaper that way! Then the snickersnee cut off the Lunch Room. This was a soft snap for the officers of the concern, who dined at the company's expense, smoked free 10-cent perfects, etc., and the lunch girls (five in number) and the chef are now looking for other people's jobs! A general cut of 25 per cent amongst the office help was another trick of Beggs—and it is claimed the plant can now be run for $100,000 a year less than formerly.

THE THEATER.

ALHAMBRA THEATER.

"Sapho" is to be presented at the Alhambra all next week, beginning with the matinee Sunday. Edith Evelyn is to appear in the title role and Albert Brown is cast for the part of the lover, Jean Gausain. A cast of nearly twenty players, including Lee Baker, Grace May Lawkin, Patty Allison, Rodney Rapous and other stock players well known in Milwaukee has been secured and has been frequently rehearsed during the past week under the stage direction of Mr. Brown. The scenic artists of the Alhambra have been working night and day on the scenic investiture of the play. The version of the story to be presented at the Alhambra is practically the same as that in which Miss Nethersole achieved her triumph several seasons ago, and pains have been taken to excel, especially in the masque ball scene of the first act, any former stock production of the play.

BIJOU THEATER.

"The Moonshiner's Daughter" which comes to the Bijou tomorrow afternoon for a week's engagement is described as a play of domestic interest. It is entirely a new play and depicts in a masterly style the loves and hates of the Moonshiner surrounded by a danger and excitement of eluding capture by the Revenue Men. The celebrated Moonshiner's Quartette will sing all the latest and most popular songs of the day. A play called "The James Boys in Missouri" comes to the Bijou June 4th for a week. This will close the season of the Bijou.

STAR THEATER.

The Star will follow up its season's successes with the Boston Ideals, one of the cleverest road vaudeville companies to be had. The company will open Sunday matinee and will present a host of fun makers, pretty and shapely girls, topical soloists, and the like.

GRAND THEATER.

At the Grand (Third street near the Avenue) next week will present a big show headed by Lillian Leighton and Company, with five other up-to-date acts. The Grand is getting increasing crowds daily and on Sundays gives two matinees instead of one, at 2 and at 3:30. The admission remains at 10 cents.

Waukesha Beach is Now Open.

Pewaukee Lake abounds with fish of many varieties. Here may be caught the funny pickerel weighing from 10 to 15 pounds, while wall-eyed pike, black bass, rock bass, roach and perch afford the fishermen all the sport he can ask for. Fishing is a sport that can be better enjoyed here than many other places in Wisconsin. Bait of all kinds always on hand.

Table with 2 columns: Name and Amount. Lists contributions for State Organization and Campaign Fund.

SUNDAY, JULY 16.

If you are planning to take a vacation this summer, make sure to leave the above date open. See that you're not sojourning in Europe, Saratoga, Long Beach, Florida, California, Waukesha Beach, the poorhouse or in jail on that date, if you can help it. If you happen to be in any place not too far away from Milwaukee, break away long enough to attend the Fourth Annual Picnic of the Social-Democratic party, to be held on that date. If you are in Milwaukee on that date, and want to do as the Milwaukeeans do, just follow the crowd and you will have a bigger time than Tom Jones had when his mother-in-law's spirit was waffled to "that bourne from which no mortal ever returns."

DON'T MISS THIS!

One of our principal aims is to increase our circle of readers. There are many reasons for this, chief among which is our desire to secure converts to the cause of Socialism. Every new reader we secure soon becomes an ardent worker in the struggle for the emancipation of the working class from the slavery of wage labor.

We are going to make you an offer that you can't afford to neglect. We have on hand a limited number of cloth-bound volumes of "Socialism Made Plain" by Allan L. Benson. So long as they last we are going to give them away to each cash purchaser of five subscription cards at $2.00.

But this is not all. We are going to give you a real surprise party. Read this offer and then act quickly, if you want to be in on the ground floor.

One copy of "Socialism Made Plain," handsomely bound in cloth, gilt-lettered... $0.50

Grand Total... $3.40

Send us $2.00 cash and we will send you all the above. Sell the cards at 50c each and you get the books absolutely free and a profit of 50 cents besides. Don't forget that the number of cloth-bound copies of "Socialism Made Plain" is limited. Act at once.

Our offer of five cards for $2.00 on credit, still holds good, if you cannot afford to take advantage of the above offer.

IT'S ANNOYING.

It's very annoying to have to look about for CLOTHES. It isn't strange, however, that "particular" people who have looked at CLOTHING in the other stores cease to look further, once they have seen OURS!

"I've been buying CLOTHES at So-and-So's, but I like your CLOTHES so much better" is an expression frequently heard. If every man in search of CLOTHES would make it a point to see ours, we imagine there would be little business for other stores.
