

The Clearing of the Movement in Italy.

DR. NUPPA WRITES OF THE DIFFERENT GROUPS IN THE ITALIAN PARTY AND WHAT THEY STAND FOR. THE RECENT CONGRESS IN ROME.

(London Clarion) A few words on the attitude of the Socialist party in Italy may not be inopportune now on the eve of the opening of the Italian Parliament...

As has been already reported in the English Press, the Socialists met in Congress at Rome recently after two years of bickering and internal dissensions...

But it seemed at the Congress that the two rival sections that declared themselves at Bologna were not sufficient to create disorder in the camp...

A third leader was Arturo Labriola, a young Neapolitan lawyer of great eloquence, with convictions clearly and definitely anarchical; leader of the Revolutionists...

That of the Revolutionary party was, as its name implies, a policy of strengthening and preparing for a grand assault on the hated Bureaucracy...

Of French origin, Syndicalism may be likened to a combination of trades unionism and the Independent Labor party (English Socialist party)...

Syndicalism had found good ground for propaganda in the mass of the workers who were tired of the interminable and damaging disputes inside the Socialist party...

tion could not have been more explicit or more solemn. The policy of the Italian Bureaucracy would have to be very blind and imprudent indeed to awaken the violent feelings of discontent that form the basis of Revolution...

The Government will rather place more faith in a policy of temporizing like that inaugurated by the present prime minister, the Hon. Biondini, one of the ablest Parliamentarians in the Italian Chamber...

Italian Socialists let a splendid opportunity slip by, two or three years ago, when the people had confidence in their ability and faith in the movement...

Much time will pass before the lost ground can be regained, and the ever-menacing Clerical party must be counted with, for it also has been strengthening its position in the same proportion as the Socialists have been weakening theirs...

The doctrine of Evolution is beginning to be accepted more readily by the people; they commence to realize that revolution means war, with all the perils and privations for the soldier...

Has the Congress of Rome marked out finally the straight way for Italian Socialism? From one point of view undoubtedly yes. The negation of the doctrine of revolution could not have been more explicit or more solemn.

TENETS OF SOCIAL-DEMOCRACY

The Principles of International Collectivism as set forth in the National Platform, adopted at Chicago, May 8, 1904.

I. We the Socialist party, in convention assembled, make our appeal to the American people as the defender and preserver of the idea of liberty and self-government...

are alike false. They alike struggle for power to maintain and profit by an industrial system which can be preserved only by the complete overthrow of such liberties as we already have...

By controlling all the sources of social revenue, the possessing class is able to silence what might be the voice of protest against the passing of liberty and the coming of tyranny...

Our political institutions are also being used as the destroyers of that individual property upon which all liberty and opportunity depend. The promise of economic independence to each man was one of the faiths in which our institutions were founded...

Capitalism is the enemy and destroyer of essential private property. Its development is through the legalized confiscation of all that the labor of the working class produces above its subsistence wage.

Intellectual and political tyranny inevitable. Social-Democracy comes to so organize industry and society that every individual shall be secure in that private property in the means of life upon which his liberty of being, thought and action depend.

As an American Social-Democratic party, we pledge our fidelity to the principles of the International Social-Democracy as embodied in the united thought and action of the Social-Democrats of all nations...

The Social-Democratic movement owes its birth and growth to that economic development which is rapidly creating a working or producing class from a possessing or capitalist class...

The fact that these two classes have not yet become fully conscious of their distinction from each other, the fact that the lines of division and interest may not yet be clearly drawn, does not change the fact of the class conflict.

What Socialists Think The Social-Democratic Herald cannot take the space every week to explain the first principles of socialism. It is too busy applying them to the events of the week.

These principles are stated in simple language in five articles by Charles H. Kerr, over 300,000 copies of which have been circulated in the last four months. These articles are now printed in large type as an introduction to the 66 page book entitled "What to Read on Socialism"...

Jaures on Socialism!

The main idea of Socialism is simple and noble. Scientists believe that the present form of property holding divides society into two great classes. One of these classes, the wage-earning, the proletariat, is obliged to pay the other, the capitalist, a sort of tax, in order to be able to live at all, and exercise its faculties to any degree. Here is a multitude of human beings, citizens; they possess nothing, they can live only by their work. But in order to work they need an expensive equipment which they have not got, and raw material and capital which they have not got. Another class owns the means of production, the land, the factories, the machines, the raw materials, and accumulated capital in the form of money. The first class is, then, forced to put itself into the hands of the second, and naturally this capitalist and possessing class, taking advantage of its power, makes the working and non-working class pay large forfeit. It does not rest content after it has been reimbursed for the advances it has made and has repaired the wear and tear on the machinery. It levies in addition every year and indefinitely a considerable tax on the product of the workman and the farmer in the form of rent for farms, ground rent, rent of land in the cities, taxes for the payment of the public debt, industrial profit, commercial profit, and interest on stocks and bonds.

Just as the old feudal road was blocked and cut up at every step by toll-rights and dues, so, for the proletarian, the road of life is cut up by the feudal rights imposed upon him by capital. He can neither work nor eat, clothe nor shelter himself, without paying a sort of ransom to the owning and capitalist class.

long time to come the nation as such will furnish the historical setting of Socialism; it will be the mold in which the new justice will be cast.

Let no one be astonished that we bring forward the idea of a national community now, whereas at first we set ourselves to establish the liberty of the individual. The nation, and the nation alone, can enfranchise all citizens. Only the nation can furnish the means of free development to all. Private associations, temporary and limited in character, can protect limited groups of individuals only for a time. But there is only one universal association that can guarantee the rights of all individuals without exception, not only the rights of living, but of those who are yet unborn, and who will take their places in the generations to come.

If, then, we invoke the nation, we do so in order to insure the rights of the individual in the fullest and most universal sense. Not a single human being for a single moment of time should be excluded from the sphere of rights. Not one should be in danger of becoming the party or instrument of another individual. Not one should be deprived of the sure means of laboring freely without servile dependence on any other individual.

Social ownership of property is merely opportunity of action brought within the reach of all.

Socialism will exalt and ennoble humanity. It will level up all men and give new meaning and dignity to life.

got big advertising and disarmed much criticism by its wage advance; its work will be done by fewer men and the wage raise, instead of costing the corporation anything, will really mean more profit for the magnates; and, finally, the pensioners are being got rid of easily, with the result that still more money will be left for the plutocrats to divide among themselves.

Socialistic Miscellany.

The German Congress.

Robert Hunter, the author of "Poverty," who was in Germany recently, begins an account of the German Social-Democratic congress, in the International Socialist Review, as follows:

"It is rather startling to one, whose impressions of Socialist movements have been confined almost entirely to the United States, to enter into one of the largest and most beautiful halls in the world—a hall seating 10,000 persons—and find it packed to the point of suffocation with delegates, party members, and friends of the Social-Democratic party of Germany. I speak of entering; as a matter of fact it took me two hours to enter. Relying upon my experience at home for guidance I went a half hour late. When I came near the hall I saw an immense throng of people, surely not less than three or four thousand, standing before the doors. I congratulated myself on not being any later and hurriedly elbowed my way among the people in order to be as near the entrance as possible when the doors should be opened. But before I had gone far, I discovered that the hall was already overcrowded and that we were shut out! None of us was of a mind for that, and so we broke a few window panes; but it was of no avail—we were informed that the hall would support no more and that the authorities would permit no one else to enter. Fortunately, however, for me, most of those outside went away after a time, and somewhat later as a few of those inside began to come out, I slipped in.

mal-contents, they were in fear lest their liberties should be lost them, and they wanted a Moses to save them; this they thought was he. Here in Mannheim I see an old man talking to his sons. He has seen the movement grow up from childhood. For nearly half a century he has served it with faithfulness and with power. He has worked his entire life for this thing; yes, more, he has overworked and not seldom has he been vexed, wearied and out of heart. In this service he has grown gray, and furrowed, and great. Today he is the ablest man in the German Reichstag and one of the ablest and most powerful debaters in the world."

Those Wage Raises!

Cleveland Citizen: The loudly heralded advance of 10 per cent in wages for employes of the Standard Oil Co. appears to have had a string attached to it. When the announcement of the contemplated increase was first made only trade unionists were declared to be ineligible to share in the raise. Now reports from the Standard works in different parts of the country state that very few employes outside of the office forces receive higher wages. Nearly all mechanics and laborers are barred. And thus more hot air of the prosperity puffers is dissipated. When the Standard has any money to give out it goes to the Rockefellers, Rogers and company.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Co. is treating the American people to another one of its wonderful exhibitions of how a corporation can, to all outward appearances, give employes more money and clean up greater profits than ever. With a big flourish of trumpets the Pennsylvania magnate advertised the alleged fact several weeks ago that all employes receiving less than $22 a month would receive an increase of 10 per cent in wages. Columns of praises were sung by the capitalist dailies, and it wouldn't have taken much effort to get the people to agree to hand the Pennsylvania another row of political offices just to display their gratitude. But during the past couple of weeks persistent stories have been sent along the road, and which the prosperity puffing dailies have been forced to notice, to the effect that the Pennsylvania Co. was laying off indefinitely hundreds of employes and piling more work on those who were retained. As the corporation also has a so-called old-age pension system, it was noted particularly that those employes whose services were dispensed with were mostly men who would have been eligible to draw pension in a few years. Thus two or three birds are killed with one stone. The Pennsylvania

Old Age Pension Funds.

Clarion (London): The income tax committee's report must be made to pave the way to old age pensions. By taxing unearned income at a higher rate than income worked for, and by imposing a heavy super tax on huge superfluity, the government can manifestly raise a very substantial National Workers' Retiring Fund. Until that is secured there must be no reduction of the present rate for anybody. On that point Radicalism and Labourism must be resolute; provision for the aged work-people first; abatement for gentility after. This is where Radicalism and Labourism come in: the House of Lords has no finger in the pie.

The committee's recommendation of "compulsory personal declaration of total net income" must be enforced, but enforcement to be effective must be backed by heavy money penalties for misrepresentation. To be honest, under the present system, as it was in Hamlet's time, "to be one pick'd out of ten thousand." It is my belief that if the tax could be fairly collected it would yield half as much again. I have been told of an individual making an average of 600 pounds a year who has never been asked to pay income tax; and I know of another individual making 20,000 pounds a year who manages to evade payment.

The tax would yield still more if some system could be devised of applying it to income derived from interest collected abroad. Englishmen having an account in a foreign bank, or having friends abroad, can and do make foreign investments and draw their dividends abroad without paying a penny of income tax. The remedy probably lies in international co-operation to "collect at the source" in all cases and in all countries. At any rate, the point urgently demands attention.

Different Sort of Labor.

When Kier Hardy, one of the labor members of the British House of Commons, first made his appearance at Westminster he wore a small cloth cap common to the British workman, and altogether did not look like the usual M. P. A policeman at the entrance to the palace yard demanded of him: "Are you working here, mate?" "Yes," replied Hardy, with a twinkle in his eye. "On the roof?" The house was then undergoing repairs. "No," retorted Hardy, "on the floor."—World's Events.

A Notable Address!

MILWAUKEE CLERGYMAN TAKES ADVANCED GROUND IN ADDRESS ON SOCIAL PROBLEMS.

"In every historical epoch, the prevailing mode of economic production and exchange and the social organization necessarily following from it, form the basis upon which alone can be explained, the political and intellectual history of that epoch."—KARL MARX.

Milwaukee: It was for enunciating the above truth that Dr. Karl Marx has ever since been assailed by ministers and others as an apostle of gross materialism. One of the favorite charges against the Social-Democrats is that they are "materialists." Yet, possessed of a truth they know cannot be successfully gainsaid, they have bided their time. And will the church be among the first to vindicate their view? It is not improbable. At all events the Rev. Frederick Edwards, rector of one of the most fashionable Episcopal churches in the city, is not afraid to speak out. Before the Merchants & Manufacturers' Association, last week, he uttered words in which rang the spirit of Marx. His subject was "The Economic Basis of Morality, Law and Government." He said that the morals of any century or civilization were the result of its economic conditions, that laws come up under economic pressure and that ideals of government are the outgrowth of economic environment. Following are some of the striking portions of his address:

"Government in this country is fast passing into the hands of the people. We can't stop it. It is coming. The world is now in its fourth stage. Having passed through communism, slavery and feudalism, the fourth stage, the present stage, is that of capitalism or free labor. Is it not reasonable to suppose that it may be getting ready for a fifth stage?"

"It is not surprising that some of us do not recognize this when we stop to consider that through the thousands of years of history of the race it has been bred to the bone to believe that property is government, and when we stop to consider that morals are based on business, laws are based on business and rulership is based upon business. Even yet we hear it said that it will be necessary to shut out some of these fellows and allow only taxpayers the right to vote.

"But government in this country, nevertheless, is passing into the hands of the people. You can't control the voters the way you once could, you can't buy so many of them as you used to, you can't depend on the ministers the way you once did, though you can still depend upon the lawyers, except a few of them. I want to be careful in my talk tonight, I want to speak out plainly, but I don't want to be rash."

"Morals have their birth in the everyday life of the people, in the economic conditions, more than in the brain of the ethical geniuses," Mr. Edwards said in discussing the bread-and-butter side of morals. "The economic system under which men live and work produces its own standard of morality, its own emphasis, which are difficult for the men living and working under them to ignore. For instance, let us take the slave system. Slavery always produces about the same type of morality, no matter what the religion is, Christian or pagan. There is a light regard for the life of a slave, save as it has a market value. For a master to kill a slave is not the same in the eyes of the community as for a slave to kill his master. There will be two murder codes in all slave countries. There will be two standards regarding women. The chastity of slave girls will be governed by commercial and not by ethical reasons. On the other hand, the violation of the honor of the women of the superior class by members of the slave class in all slave countries has been punished by the most unheard of cruelties.

"In slave countries you will find a most profound contempt for the subservient class, and you find that undefinable something, an ethical attitude bred in the bone and coupled with a conscious superiority. Wherever there is slavery it produces a certain type of luxury and attitude to labor and life on the part of the masters, and another on the part of the slave which is inherent in the system, a different ethical code and habit for the family living in the mansion at the top of the hill which lives on the family in our weekly laugh over the Referendum and its comical sayings. Ford has cut out all "capitalist sheets" he says, from his exchange list, "and the HERALD goes with the bunch, along with the Appeal to Treason." Really now, Ford is sadly lacking in poise.

By taking the head of the tickets in the various elections to get its comparisons in the recent state elections the Rand school runs the risk of getting a figure in some instances that does not represent the normal party strength. But even if it takes the head of the ticket, that is, governor, this year, it should make its comparisons with the gubernatorial vote of two years ago.

Comrades at Woonsocket, R. I., have filed a protest of the election returns, accompanied by affidavits of more comrades who voted our ticket in the second ward than the count gave us votes. Comrade Franklin H. Wentworth will debate at Portland, Me., with Prof. John Graham Brooks and Edward J. Rice, a prominent New England attorney, the subject being the menace of organized wealth to Republican institutions.

HERE IS THE RUB!

It is necessary to have the cooperation of every workingman to make a success of the movement for a universal better life. Many workingmen are already putting their energy into this movement. Many want to, but are of the belief that their small mite does not amount to much. We want to correct this impression. This workingmen's movement of Social-Democracy is a campaign against the evils of wage-slavery and as such the funds for the campaign must, of necessity, come from the pockets of the wage-earners. This fact is conclusive proof that most contributions are small ones. Here is an opportunity to make a small amount to a great duty. Every little bit helps. Subscribe to one or more shares of stock in the Social-Democratic Pub. Co. This will help to publish the paper; that is weekly educating the people to aid you in fighting your cause. Teach them to understand what you are fighting for. Enlist them in your army of workers. Is it not for your benefit to do all in your power? We, with your aid, are going to keep this movement growing. But we want your aid. And we believe that by asking for it we will get it. Don't disappoint us. Send in your bit now. Fill out the blank below and help us help your cause.

ORGANIZED LABOR

Late Views of the Courts on Trades Unions.

Private unincorporated societies like trades unions are not recognized at common law as having any legal existence apart from the members. They are rated as partnerships, and to enforce a right either for or against them the name of every individual member must be set forth, hence in some states there is no power to sue or be sued in the name of the union, and without a special statute the common law rules as to unions prevail in full force. In such states it is not error to refuse an injunction against a union. In some jurisdictions they may now sue or be sued in the name of the unions, hence they as well as their members may be enjoined, they may be fined for violating the injunction, and may be guilty of a crime and fined for contempt of court.

Where there is a conflict in the obligations of a member of the union and the public, the latter is paramount. An employer has a perfect right to employ non-union men when union men are out on a strike, and agreements to employ none but union men have been declared invalid.

That labor has the right to organize as well as capital is well established. Labor unions may strike peaceably, and may persuade but not intimidate others to join them. Picketing is sometimes sustained, but under varying circumstances has been held illegal. In some jurisdictions a peaceable boycott will be enjoined on the principle that the acts though legal when committed by one, if, when committed by many in an agreement they injure another or destroy his business, they become an unlawful conspiracy which the courts will enjoin. When members of a union agreed to prevent the employment of other men in their place by calling a strike, and by force, threats, intimidation, and picketing, they were guilty of a conspiracy—Current Law.

Copyright: "Workmen demand their rights. Outrageous! I'll get an injunction!"

Let Us Be Joyful.

How happy the working people ought to be. They have made so many improved machines that 3,000,000 little children are now at work. Yes, conflicts and little children do so much work that a million men have nothing to do, and can spend their whole time begging and stealing and go to jail and get hardened in sin and crime! How lovely it is! Society will soon be entirely relieved from the merry frolics of innocent childhood, and the stern nobility of manhood and the calm repose of old age, unless laboring men do their duty to themselves and posterity by taking the whip-handle in governing the country, instead of being whipped into line by politicians and capitalists seeking their own personal aggrandizement and not the general welfare of the people.—Labor Standard.

Resolutions on Trade Unions

Passed by last National Socialist Convention. The trade and labor union movement is a natural result of the capitalist system of production and is necessary to resist the encroachments of capitalism. It is a weapon to protect the class interests of labor under the capitalistic system. However, this industrial struggle can only lessen the exploitation, but it cannot abolish it. The exploitation of labor will cease only when the working class shall own all the means of production and distribution. To achieve this end the working class must consciously become the dominant political power. The organization of the workers will not be complete until they unite on the political as well as the industrial field on the lines of the class struggle.

The trade union struggle cannot attain lasting success without the political activity of the Socialist party. The workers must fortify and permanently secure by their political power that they wring from their exploiters in the economic struggle. In accordance with the decisions of the International Socialist Congresses in Brussels, Zurich and London, this convention reaffirms the declaration that the trade and labor unions are a necessity in the struggle to aid in emancipating the working class, and we consider it the duty of all workers to join with this movement.

Neither political nor other differences of opinion justify the division of the forces of labor in the industrial movement. The interests of the working class make it imperative that the labor organizations equip their members for the great work of the abolition of wage slavery by educating them in Socialist principles.

How many of the comrades in Wisconsin have secured the signature of one person as an applicant for membership in the party? How many have NOT secured one signature?

There are some comrades who are always busy in this regard, and to give some recognition to them, as well as to stimulate others to activity in this line, Comrade W. R. Gaylord makes the following offer:

The Polish section is arranging for a grand entertainment and ball, to be held in the South Side Armory hall in the near future.

The Coming Nation club is doing some hustling these days for its second annual prize mask ball, arranged for at the South Side Armory hall, Saturday evening, Feb. 2, 1907.

HAPPY NEW YEAR, MILWAUKEE!
 A Happy New Year to you, Milwaukee! This seasonal greeting from the Social-Democrats is not lightly proffered. We are a party of action, of fulfillment, and so there is purpose in our greeting. We stand for a progressive force in society. We are proud of the progress already made. We mean to have more of it. We wish Milwaukee a Happier New Year!
 Milwaukee has been immeasurably the gainer by having a fraction of her citizens banded together into a Social-Democratic movement, and working for human betterment in her midst. It has already toned her up a bit! As in all modern industrial cities she has a vast victim class in her population, and the Socialists are coming to the rescue.

The problem of getting order and human justice out of a situation that oozes social and industrial injustice, and fraud, and inhumanity at every pore, is appalling. Yet we have the faith that moves mountains, the faith that will batter down all wrong and redeem the world for mankind, and make it a livable place for the humblest and most lowly. Socialism will lift up the lowly and transform a world straitened by injustice and successful fraud and selfishness, into a commonwealth, a true brotherhood of man.

And what has Social-Democracy accomplished in Milwaukee thus far?

Not much, and yet a great deal!
 It is no small thing that for the first time in the city's history the corporation lobbyist has been practically banished from the city hall. There was a time when this scaly breed so infested the committee rooms that the aldermen could hardly meet in peace. There are Social-Democrats in the city council now and the lobbyists have drawn off at a distance waiting in the hope that the wave of Social-Democracy will recede after a while and that they can then take up their old tricks again. The presence of Social-Democrats in the council has also aroused Milwaukee to a better sense of the value of franchises that used to be recklessly given away. It has been educating people on that line, and this is a social gain.

The entrance of the Social-Democrats into public life made possible the successful passage of the municipal electric lighting project, by which the people will escape from the fearful hold-up of the artful Mr. Beggs and his plunder crew. And this is a big gain. And we are going after the street cars next.

The work of the Social-Democrats has already borne fruit in another direction. It has actually forced the gas monopoly to reduce the price of gas. And again this year we will battle in Madison to get the word "exclusive" out of the gas company's franchise, which is the laying of the foundation for municipal gas, at cost, to the people.

And don't forget the fine work the Socialist aldermen did in saving the city from a terrible squeeze in that Sixth street viaduct affair. Not only were thousands saved, but notice was served on the railroads that the old days when they ran the city were past and that henceforth they were no greater than any individual.

And do not forget that papers like the Sentinel raised the dire cry, when the Social-Democrats were first elected, that the stability of the city was threatened, that the impracticable Socialists would wreck the city's credit, and bring disaster upon it by their "visionary" schemes. Has that come to pass? Do you know what happened! For the first time in the city's history this year the city has not had to borrow money of the banks to tide the city government over till after the new taxes are collected! Is there any calamity about that!

And have you noticed that there has been a lowering in taxes on the little fellows' homes? It is only an indication of something that is going to happen later on. In this city there has always been a dishonest collection of taxes. The big manufacturers have been outrageous tax dodgers, and so the Social-Democrats began to show up the fact. The result is what might be expected. The old party tax commissioners have had to get busy! What little improvement they have brought about is only a drop in the bucket. We will get better results than that before we are through.

By the way, speaking of Milwaukee's credit, did you notice the cartoon the Sentinel printed on its first page on December 21? It was headed "City's Credit the Best." And it showed Miss Milwaukee being complimented on the fact that her bonds "were the best in the West." What a confession for the Sentinel to make, when it had been saying that if the Socialists got a finger in the city government Milwaukee would go bankrupt!

Well, anyway, we wish Milwaukee a Happy New Year.

The Rev. Father Durnin of St. Rose's Catholic church, preached a Christmas Day sermon which was somewhat out of the ordinary. In it he faced the social problem manfully, referring to it as "the social unrest arising out of inequality." And then he said "To cry 'Down with the Socialist' is as revolutionary as to cry 'Down with the trust.'" I say to the man of capital, reckon with the Socialist, treat with the Socialist, reckon and treat with them in all charity. If you cannot see the why of this, turn back to the sermon on the mount." The spirit shown in these words comes as a refreshing relief from the anathemas that have been hurled at us from certain other Catholic pulpits in this city in the not very far past.

Some medical fakery are just now buying space in the newspapers to defraud the people with an alleged cure for consumption, which is given out as news, although it is a proprietary advertisement under false pretenses. To show the utter lack of conscience of these newspapers one has only to notice that the advertisements are printed as straight reading matter with the same headings as are used for news—which is a low fraud on their readers. A Milwaukee physician had his attention called to this "prescription" that is given as "news." It is given as a prescription that anyone can go and have filled at a drug store, whiskey, glycerine and a certain pine oil. The physician went to a drug store to investigate and found that the pine oil named in the advertisement, was to all inand autocratic rule. His latest clash was with Principal Ulrich of the Sixth District school. It was over the vaccination question. There are two views of vaccination held by reputable people. One view is that vaccination has stamped out small pox. The other is that it is a crime against nature to inoculate the human blood with the filth from cow sores and that small pox has not diminished because of vaccination but by reason of improved sanitary conditions of our cities and homes, for small pox is admittedly a "filth disease." Bading sought to vaccinate the school children and Ulrich refused to pass round the slips asking parents if they wanted their children inoculated. Now the superintendent of schools has made an investigation and says Ulrich acted within his rights, as the School Board had never authorized him to get the children ready for vaccination.

The Frost interurban car people sent every alderman and city official a box of non-union cigars for Christmas. The Social-Democratic aldermen had two good reasons for sending the gifts back. First, because they do not believe that representatives of the city should accept gifts from corporations, especially from those that the city must deal with from time to time. Such gifts pave the way to greater temptations later on. Second, because the cigars were non-union, and therefore the product of a labor-squeezing establishment.

Were the Social-Democrats the only ones to send the cigars back? It is funny sometimes to hear our friend; the enemy, talk. Thus the Sentinel of Wednesday morning said in its news columns that Conrad Berger was in consultation with National Secretary Barnes in Chicago, considering means by which the national body could aid "in the attempt being made to bolster up the party in Wisconsin." It is to laugh.

A little child died of lockjaw on the South Side the past week as a result of vaccination poisoning. The worst of it is that the vaccination was done by a reputable physician in the course of a wholesale inoculation of school children with the cow pus that is alleged to prevent small pox. If this was a solitary case, it wouldn't be so bad.

If that elevator man whose car killed a young woman in the Wells building had been worth millions of dollars, do you for a moment suppose he would have gone to jail?

There Was a Difference.

A rich man once visited his magnificent stables and watched an old groom currying a favorite horse.
 "You have worked for me a long time, haven't you, Sam?" queried the rich man.
 "Yes, sir," replied the groom. "Me an' this hoss have worked for you seventeen years."
 "Ah, and I hope you have been well treated, Sam," said the employer.
 "O, I ain't complainin' none," said Sam. "But me an' th' hoss was sick at th' same time, an' I noticed that while you hired a doctor for th' hoss you docked my pay for th' time I lost!"

A NEW CAMPAIGN!
 The management of the SOCIAL-DEMOCRATIC HERALD is going after twenty-five thousand new readers for the HERALD in the next twelve months. Are you with them. The remarkable progress of the Social-Democratic party in the state of Wisconsin and in Milwaukee especially has made this possible. But we cannot do this alone, and we want your help. This is one of the times when we are willing to carry the larger part of the burden. We have sent out blanks to all the readers of the papers with a request to fill it up with names of friends whom you think would be interested in the paper. We are going to send the HERALD to your friends three weeks free of charge and give them a chance to try the paper. Here is a good chance for you to put in a few good ticks for the cause of the workingman. You will be under no obligations by sending in the list and we do the rest. Push a good thing along and make the old parties sick at the next election. Remember, twenty-five thousand by 1908.

A MESSAGE FROM GIRARD
 To the Readers of the Herald:
 The Girard Cereal Co. manufactures the well-known cereal coffee, Nutreto. The stockholders of this corporation are every one your sort of people.
 In place of using the profits of the business to help destroy organizations of the working class, it is doing the reverse. It is doing more: it offers every union man and Socialist a product superior in every respect, and one that is made by your friends. Also the opportunity is yours to command respect from your dealer by convincing him it is to his interest to carry it for you.
 Thousands of your comrades throughout the land have long since quit the coffee habit for Nutreto, and every reader of the Herald is invited to send us his name and address for a sample. We usually get 10c for this 6-oz. package offered you, but if you are out to be "shown," and are in this struggle as we are, to stand or fall together, the sample is yours for the asking.
 Send us your name, also name of your grocer, assuring us by so doing you will give him no rest till you find Nutreto on his shelves, then watch our smoke. Every retailer in Milwaukee or suburbs who carries Nutreto will be given free mention in these columns at our expense by sending us his address. Can you do more for your press than you are doing in any other way? Get busy—DO IT NOW.
