Suffocated by smoke from a burning feather bed, Charles Fisher, aged ferty years, a German baker, met death last night in his room in the boarding house conducted by Mrs. Emma Davison in Hamomnd avenue, Bradley Beach. He was found at the door of the room evidently having made an effort to escape.

When Fred Yorke and Walter Lecturew the bigning bed from a window and called Fisher from the room they found he was dead. Though his clothing was burned in some places, evidences that he had been lying on the bed, there was no mark of fire on the bed and it is quite certain that he died of suffocation.

which have hitherto held somewhat aloof, have already decided not to do work for London houses, and are holding meetings to decide whether or no they will join their London comrades.

During the last week a modification in the men's demands has been made. The first demand was for a forty-eight hour week. An agreement has been concluded with 200 employers, conceding a fifty-hour week at once, conditionally upon the men returning to work in those shops. The agreement then provides that the terms made between the men still on strike and the masters' association will be accepted by the parties to the agreement on the conclusion of the main fight.

MAKE COMMON CAUSE AGAINST THE UNIONS

The decision just handed down by Judge Blackmar, of the New York Supreme Court, in the case of the Albro J. Newton company against the Carpenters' Union. condemns the practice of that union in attempting to prevent the use of open shop woodwork by calling strikes on buildings where it is installed. The plain-tiff in this suit is fighting no indi-vidual fight, but has the support of the American Anti-Boycott Association, which has been successful in conducting the leading lases of this country, such as the Danbury hatters' case, and the contempt proceedings against Messrs. Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison. It is further assisted by Louis Bossert & Son, Cross, Austin & Ireland Lumber Com-pany, John S. Loomis Company and Hardy, Voorhees & Company. and Hardy. Voorhees & Company, all competible concerns in the same line of business, who have recognized this attack against the Newton company as a general combination to compet them all to unionize by attacking them one at a time, as the union threatened. At the formation of the unions capitalists felt used all the power they could etument to crush them. Trade unionism has only succeeded thus far by blood and strice. ExGovernor Douglas, of Massachusetts, who owned shoe factories in Brockton, moved his fac-tories to remote parts of the state where unionism was foreign, in order to escape the demands made to him by the union workers employed in his Brockton shops. J He gathered about him in these new shops little country girls and boys and bade them to do the work of trained mechanics. "Socialism is a universal movement. It is a fight of the world."

No Invasion There.

Wentworth spoke of the Bucks Stove and Range Company case in which the American Federation of Labor was rebuked by Justice Wright because it had endangered the prop-erty rights of said company. But Paupers are divided into two classes—"indoor" (immates of workhouses) and "outdoor." Until recently a person who had ever had "indoor" relief was not entitled to the old-age pension. This law has been changed, with the result that several hundred infirmary inmates have left the institutions and are now drawing pensions.

The decrease in pauperism has been chiefly in the "outdoor" class. In 1908, 47.

DISPUTE IS SETTLED EXPOSES PLOT OF N. Y. SPECULATORS

Plan to Infect Cotton Fields With the Dreaded Boll Weevil.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 12 .- Governor-elect Hoke Smith has given out a statement exposing a plot of New York speculators to infect the cotton fields of Georgia and South Carolina. with the dreaded boll weevil in order to be able to bull the market next season, by reducing the crop and raising the price of Dixie's staple.

The first information came in a letter to Smith from a man, whose name he refuses to give, but in whom he places entire confidence, and on his request was followed by a personal visit to him by the writer. The letter came from New Orleans and the terest us." writer came all the way from New York to pay the visit,

Convinced by the evidence offered by this information Governor Smith has given prompt warning to the farmers and the planters of the South, that two plotters have in their possession, at least 1,000,000 live boll weevil, and are waiting their opportunity to scatter these disastrous insects over Georgia and South Carolina.

The exposure has created the liveliest interest throughout Georgia, es pecially in view of the fact that not more than two months ago the experts of the country gathered in At ianta to make plans for combatting Fever More Prevalent in this insect when it should reach Georgia, as it has been traveling toward this state with slarming rapid ity, and is now due to reach here in the natural course of events in less than two years time. Unless preparations are made to meet this plague with heroic measures, the loss Georgia and Carolina will run many millions a year. After receiv ing the first letter Governor once communicated with Commis-ner of Agriculture Hudson and State Entomologist Worshman.

Got Writer by "Personal" Ad.

Following the directions given the letter Governor Smith, as a re suit of the conference, published a personal in a New York paper, which resulted in a visit to him by the writer, who stated that he had absolute information that the plot he had exposed to the governor has already been made: that he had informed the plotters that he would do all in his ower to prevent them meeting with success. He authorized the publica-tion of his letter, but insisted that for the present at least that his name be withheld. The two men, he says, ap-proached him in New Orleans and solicited his help in carrying out their no by means of which they oped to reap a fortune. Their idea was to flood Georgia and Carolina with the boll weevil and buy at once great quantities of October cotton, selling when the crop shortage sent prices higher, at the expe devastating the cotton fields of these two states for years to come.

ADVISES HOW TO PREVENT TYPHOID

Rural Districts Than Cities, Says Expert.

Typhoid fever rates are usually greater in the country than in the cities, despite the prevailing belief that farms, isolated as they are from areas of congested population, are ideally situated for obtaining pure and partially wholesome water.

Failure to protect adequately the wells in farming districts is given in the Survey's report as the most common reason for their pollution, and ignorance of the manner in which ground water circulates is the cause of the faulty protection.

Chemical analysis is not rated high by Fuller as a means of detecting careful, common sense inspection of the districts are usually much more to the point.

Sources of pollution in the vicinity of a well or spring should be noted where-ever possible and drinking water should drawn except at a safe distance them. The distance required for absolute safety varies greatly with the character of the rock. For wells sunk in sandstone, slate and shale 100 feet may be sufficient; where the surface stratum is composed of fine sand 200 f et should be allowed; and where it is limestone or granite much greater distances Water may run nol in regions where limestone makes up the waged against those engaged in part greater part of the surface rock should be or entirely in the education of forcarefully examined, after rains for mud eigners. Massachusetts Commission Hears of Widespre. d Tuberculosis Lefatt Untended

BOSTON, Feb. 12 .- In a report covring 112 pages the special commission on the inspection of factories. workshops, mercantile establishments and other buildings, has submitted to the legislature what it finds as the resuit of the present divided authority and also makes recommendations for turning the whole matter over to state board. Following are significant excerpts from the report:

"The chief of the district police frankly admitted that his regular in-spectors could not, under normal con-ditions, complete the cycle of their districts once a year. A factory inspector in Essex county declared that he could not get around his district and cover it thoroughly in two years.

"We go into a factory where there are half a dozen heads. Then I have to do this; one of the heads goes with me through the factory, and he says: There is a fellow over there who has tuberculesis, and I am sure of it. He years old. I say? That inc him. I would have all the men working in rooms where they are necessarily coming in contact with matters injurious to their health, inspected, for the reason that at many of our autopsies we have found the lungs filled with metal dust, which goes along as the prime cause of tuperculosis.

"Another physician gave the sults of private inspection work which he had carried on in a factory:

"'I have now been engaged six nonths in this work in a factory hiring 800 or 900 people. I have fifty cases of incipient tuberculosis mong adults in that factory-case which we could cure and allow the patients to work. It seems to be that the time is not far distant when the state of Massachusetts must, if it wants to wipe out tuberculosis, insist on the inspection of adult workmen as well as children.

Evidently the departure made by Walter Damrosch and the Symphony Society of New York in bringing for-ward new symphonic works of the French school has met the approval of the metropolitan concert public, for the New Theater was crowded yester-day afternoon by an audience gath-ered to hear the performance of the B-flat symphony (opus 20) of Ernest Chausson, a French master but little known outside the Gallic nation. Th same composer's "Poeme pour violing et orchestre," in B-flat, also had lace on the program. It will suffice for identification to

The lat ter composition is sure to take a per-manent hold upon the fancy of audi-ences on this side of the water, for while dignified and scholarly in conception, its every theme is of a sort and is so treated, as to arrest and hold the attention of both professional and layman.

The orchestra presented the sym phony in convincing style under Mr. Damrosch's leadership, enhancing its artistic value by the giving forth of a warm and glowing ensemble tone. I have heard Mr. Saslavsky accom-plish much better results than he did yesterday in the handling of the "Poeme." His performance was most edifying in its purely technical side; in spirit it was wanting in distinction, in individualty. The symphony did not impress yesterday by largeness of thought, but rather by its dispiny of the composer's thorough comprehension of the possibilities of resource of a great orchestra, and by a cestain somberness of mood which, when it vented itself in repeated climaxes, verged on the despairingly gragic. There is contained in the three movements, however, little of pretension, but manifest true feeling and sincere expressivenes. ROOSEVELT DAM · HELPS IRRIGATION

Massive Structure Will Create Progress As by Magic Wand."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. - The last stone has been laid in the parapet wa of the Roosevelt dam and preparation are now under way for its formal ope on March 18. Ex-President Roo for whom the massive structure has b named, accompanied by Mrs. Roc Archie and Ethel, will participate in three-day celebration.

Located in an almost inaccessible can a railroad, the yon, sixty miles from a railroad, rapir and successful construction of dam has been watched with interest by engineers all over the world. The man walls rise 284 feet from foundation parapet. Its length, on top, is 1,080 fee and across it runs a roadway 20 feet in width.

Just below the point where the Tonto creek empties into it the Salt Lake river enters one of the most magnificent cenyons of the West, forming an ideal dam site. Behind the structure the waters of the turbulent stream will form a reservoir twenty-five miles long and more than two hundred feet deep. Its capacity is approximately 55,928,000,000 cuble feet, or of sufficient quantity to cover the en-tire state of Delaware with a sheet of or of sumcient quantity to cover the entire state of Delaware with a sheet of water one foot deep.

The waters held back by the dam will be used for the irrigation of more than two hundred thousand acres of land in the vicinity of Phoenix, Ariz., and the power created at the dam will be transmitted electrically for more than a hundred miles down the valley to operate pumps, These pumps will raise underground water to supplement the surface supply and increase the irrigable acreage. It is estimated by the reclamation service that about sixty thousand acres will be irrigated by subterranean waters, available for irrigation purposes only through the operation of such pumps.

Officials of the reclamation service are clated over the success of this engineering feat. The result, they say, will soon be apparent in a transformation of conditions unprecedented in the history of irri-

Workers Will Soon Control Town

This Welsh manufacturing town is close to the day when the whole pow er of the city government will be in the hands of the workers. Already things are happening.

A little while ago I was speaking in this agressive city, and I had care-fully argued that all the great mon-polized industries could be nurchased opolized industries could be purchased by the public, that the purchase would never cost society anything as compared with payments now made to private monopolies, but instead the public would be making meney all the while the purchase would be being made.

I had explained that the monopoly price now being paid is so much in excess of the cost of production that this excess could be cut in two, one half devoted to the purchase and the other half be saved at once to the purchasers. I had shown how Glassow had purchased her trams (affectars) by an issue of bonds and then gow had purchased her trams (street cars) by an issue of bonds and then paid off the bonds out of the carnings of the trams, while at the same time the system had been greatly extended, the service greatly improved, the workers given shorter hours and better pay, and the car fares greatly reduced while all this was being done. The people had not paid as much while buying the trams as they would have paid if they had not bought them and they had gotten a better service for a smaller fare into the bargain. When I had finished a gentleman in the long gallery at the side asked a question. He said: "Mr. Mills, you have argued that we could buy all the monopolies, that it would cost us nothing to do so, and that we would make wone."

City Owns Dwellings,

I had just learned that afternoon that the city had fifty-one dwelling houses which belonged to the city itself, so I asked my questioner if this asked. He gave me a long string of figures. I said, "Did you pay this sum?" "Ne," said he, "not I, but the city," "Did you pay any portion of this owned nouses renting at the same rate?"

"Privately owned houses are much inferior to the city owned ones, rent for 5 shillings a month more."
"Can the city rent all its houses?"
"There are seven applications on file for every house the city owns."
"Then there are plenty of people willing to save 5 shillings a month, and live in better houses while doing so?"

MAKING FORTY-THREE MILLIONAIRES.

"I," said Andrew Carnegie, with never a blush at his own excessive modesty, "have made forty-three millionaires."

He made 'em all himself, with his little steel plants. Of course he good and benign protective tariff helped a little, and there were ome thousands of dollars extra profit in furnishing rotten armor for the little steel plants. Of course sheet-sign of the little steel plants. Of course the good and benign protective tariff helped a little, and there were ome thousands of dollars extra profit in furnishing rotten armor for workers. the good and benign protective tariff helped a little, and there were Nocialist American warships, and a few thousand workingmen have been murdered in the steel plants, and many thousands have been injured or crippled, and a few hundred thousand have toiled and sweated in turning out the steel. But Andy made the millionaires.

Yet before he made millionaires he was himself a millionaire. He is not a practical steel man. He never worked at the business. On the contrary, he has always had skilled men working for him. In the past twenty-five years he has spent nearly half his time abroad, where he has no steel mills. A good portion of the rest of the time was spent in taking vacations, giving away libraries, and writing ks. He never made any money from his books, so, consequently, by were of no assistance to him in turning out millionaires.

In spite of his lack of practical knowledge, in spite of the fact that had spent comparatively little of his time in the steel district, Carnegic has been growing richer and richer, and as he climbed upward are timid little imitators of the petry he that gigantic pile of money he dragged forty-three other men up to the point where they could say they were millionaires.

But underneath that pile, raising it steadily higher and higher, was the working class of the mill district. Every dollar of it was soined from their toil. Without them not only would Carnegie never have become a millionaire, but none of the others would have become a millionaire. They could grow rich only at the expense of the working class. They could become richer only in proportion to the extent that the working class became poorer. When such an enormous amount of revenue is appropriated by the non-producer it can only mean that the producers have been robbed in just the same measure.

There is another fact. While Andrew Carnegie was making those forty-three millionaires, how many paupers was he making? How many cripples? How many men did he sap and throw aside? How many were murdered while he and the gallant forty-three were founding up all those millions?

That is something of which he does not boast. It is something concerning which he and the other upholders of the capitalist system of production and robbery are always silent. Yet that is the only question that is worth asking and it is a question that has to be answered.

The amazing effrontery, or ignorance, of the man is well shown by his making such a silly boast. If a highwayman distributed a few hundred dollars among some friends, or confederates, they would be looked upon as being as great thieves as he. Certainly he would not boast of what he had done. He would have the good sense to keep it a secret. But the means whereby Carnegie and the others became rich are not more honest than those whereby the highwayman gets his money. The only difference is that the new methods of robbery have the sanction of law. But, nevertheless, the boast that Carnegie so smilingly and triumphantly made was a confession of infamy.

STILL DEFENDING THE COURTS.

The action and the attitude of some members of the Women's Municipal League indicate that they believe courts should be held pleasing studies as contributions to sacred" and above criticism, even if they do make mistakes. On the hand, a woman who has been grossly and wrongfully accused must take the consequences. Her right to a good name and to decent standing in society are not sacred. On her submitting to a shameful accusation, on her being meek and passive in the face of a cruel wrong, depends some of the sanctity of the courts.

Allied with the women who took this stand were a few of the city officials. If Dora Miadowicz is not guilty, she must at all costs be amirched in order that the dignity of the magistrate's court inently in its pages, beginning with may not be jolted and brought into contempt. What does she amount to, what is her name, compared with the decision of a magistrate and compared with the lying statements of a policeman who is seeking to advance in his business and make a name for himself by "picking" to rise from its ashes and grow prosup" women on the streets?

There is not a more disgraceful condition of affairs than that which prevails in the matter of arresting street women. Plain clothes men are sent out deliberately to invite solicitation. In the good old lays this system was the main source of much income for the men, ligher up. It is not proven that this condition has ceased to exist. A woman is absolutely at the mercy of these men. They can either satort money from her, in case she is what they claim, or they can ruin her good name in case they have made a mistake. So for their mistakes she must suffer.

The whole practice should be swept aside. It never rescued a woman. It never lessened the traffic. All it has done is to open the way to the most profitable and depraved methods of extortion that exists anyway.

Still the women who are such stanch upholders of the courts flew to their rescue in this instance and defended the whole dirty system, and they did it because they instinctively felt that any questioning of and they did it because they instinctively felt that any questioning of courts, even in such a matter as this would open the way to other nestioning of the courts. They were not fighting on sex lines then, not by a good deal. They were up in arms and using all their might in de-tense of class privileges. Those same courts which may tear to shreds the character of an innocent woman, which may even send her to hame and death, are the bulwarks of class privilege. Therefore, these women were willing to abandon another woman who had been insulted and wronged. Any interest they might have in the case fled before the fear of what would come if there was an insistent questioning of the powers of the courts and of the Police Department.

Ordinarily speaking, the woman in the case would simply have seen crushed and cast aside. Fortunately, the Socialist party, through a means of publicity, The Call, has taken the matter up. As a vicino of social and judicial wrong the case assumes great importance. For the first time such a victim has a chance to fight, and the fight going to be made and prosecuted to the end.

Commenting upon this, the editor of an thought my hands were being-held up by this until another communication dropped them again. This time from an ex-worker on the editorial staff of a very large and powerful Boston weekly:

You know perfectly well that there's highbrow or lowbrow class. You're highbrow yourself. So am I. Inc dependent capitalism of clerks, edihool teachers, parsons and re-persons generally is a state of mind: folks are that way, just as they are Catholics or admirers of Marie Corelli. Why should you try to deny intelligence to a class—a fictitious class? There is no special intellectual virtue in working or in saints or dukes or vegetarians. Some minds are hard to get at, some ain't. Your exasperation in The Call is a good buman outburst, but it isn't just sensible they discovered its principles and banded their learning, their profound learning, on to the rest of us. It's our learning, on to the rest of us. It's our job to pass it on to others, and yet others, end of our lives. If editors, boot d Adventists, machinists and sors won't all listen to us, we blacks, Second Adventists.

The only thing that will rouse the desired interest in both is, after all, the increasing dif intelligent than the professional, but you are going to sustain your contention. This is a world in which generalizations have to be pretty carefully made, and 1 to Socialism more readily. It is, of am afraid some of yours will need some qualification. The profetarias looks pretty at a distance, but had you spent as many years as I have in trying to move that becausily important fact that there are important fact that there are more of him than the others. Also that is the reason why work among them is better expended. They offer a bigger and better expended.

Thus, like Mohammed's tomb, I am left winging beiwixt Heaven and carth, uncertain whether to kick myself or pat my self on the back. Meanwhile, no doubt rages merrily

And I rise most modestly to remark: That I seem to have cut in on a "line is busy" circuit, without intending to there's is busy" c'renit, without intending to. You're and that I hope the bees will soon stop buzzing. Let not my own little personal experience with a variety of locals and several years of propaganda have any real significance. In the Garden of the Dead WARREN ON BUNKER HILL By UNCLE SAMUELA

Those base, belated Tories. Those Bourbons of the past: That plot and scheme for plunder, Corruption, graft, and caste.

They once attacked our fathers, On grand, Old Bunker Hill: But-led by brave old Warren We gave them all their fill!

Today their spawn's reviving And crawling through our land Our coward judges bribing! Their tools on every hand!

Vile Wall Street schemes and truckle Our blood bought rights to sell! But led, again, by Warren-

Why Colleges Are Conservative

Wall Street computes the holdings of securities by Cornell University at about $8.817,000. This amount includes New York city bonds, foreign government bonds, railroad bonds. street car line bonds, electric lighting company obligations, industrial stocks, municipal bonds, practically embracing every city in the Union. and real estate mortages, loans on collateral, etc.

The bulk of the mortgages are on "Look to the South and to the North, farms in the West and quite a few are on tracts of land in the Kansas corn belt.

> .The writer has had the privilege of listening to Dr. Jacob Gould Schurmann, head of Cornell, at several dinners in this city, and so conservative is he that I was always reminded of 'Mickey Finn," who said that a conservative is a "man who refused to look at the new moon out of respect for that ancient institution, the old one.

Yale, Haryard, Princeton, and most of the colleges are in the same position as is Cornell, which explains their 1492 attitude on the trust question and the other live issues that confront the people today.
