Mayor Gaynor yesterday accepted the resignation of City Chamberlain Charles H. Hyde, under indictment charging him with bribery. Hyde will continue to be Chamberlain until the Mayor appoints his successor, although Deputy Chamberlain Henry T. Walsh will be in charge.

It was reported yesterday that Gayfor will appoint Robert R. Moore president of the Commercial Trust company of New York, to succeed Hyde. Moore was a Tammany candidate for Comptroller on the Gaynor ticket in 1909.

Tuesday, the day upon which Hyde, who is Gaynor's nephew and protege, was arraigned. Hyde sent a letter of

The latest scheme of the East Si oss bakers, who have united the present strike, was shown yester-day, when a bang of thuge broke into Freulich's bakery, 28 Avenue C, and smashed the oven. Freulich recently broke away from the houses' organ-smanned the oven. Fruilien recently broke away from the hosses' organization.

The thugs, it was said, were led by Stampler's son, who is running a bakery at 16 Monroe street.

Freulich was not only beaten by the thugs, but he was told that if he continued to run the bakery under union conditions they would put him out of business.

It was stated that the flour merchants have united with the bosses organization to break the strike of the bakers by making a compact with the bosses not to serve flour to these who sign agreements with the union. Soveral bosses called at the union headquarters and told of this move. The Executive Board at a meeting yesterday instructed its attorney to take up the case and inform the District Attorney concerning this conspiracy of the bosses and the flour merchants.

The more desperate the bosses grow in their fight against the union, the stronger the public sympathy in their fight against the bosses.

Since it became public that the flour merchantis have conspired to help financially and in other ways in their fight against the bosses.

Since it became public that the flour merchantis have conspired to help the boss bakers, the upion has received promises from several that they would get legal assistance free of charge.

Any possible objection to this proposed amendment of the State Constitution, found even in the minds of those who are disposed to favor it; is that it would leave unaffected the 'due process' clause in the Federal Constitution. This is, of course, true, but in our judgment, based on a careful study of recent decisions of the United States Supreme Court, there is good ground for expecting that in interpreting the "due process" clause the court will hold that reasonable legisla-tion for the establishment of a compulsory compensation or in-surance plan may be sustained as a legitimate exercise of the police power, particularly where there is a provision in the Constitution of the State enacting such legislation, which expressly authorizes, this method of dealing with in-dustrial accidents. HEARS LABOR BILL

Unions Told by Morrison.

WASHINGTON, May 3. - Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, and Second Assistant Postmaster General Stewart appeared today before the House Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, now holding hearings on the bill introduced by Representative Lloyd, of Missouri, which, if effected, would give employes of the government the right to organize labor unions and affiliate with the federa tion of Labor.

He spoke of Carl C. Van Dyke and Clyde L. Duff, clerks on the Minneapolis division, who, he said, had their salaries reduced because they wanted to form a labor union and affiliate with the federation. He said that the demotions had been ordered on the ground that the clerks in question were "disturbers."

Six clerks in Cleveland, Ohio, had esigned from the Railway Mail Clerks' Protective Association on account of the department's opposition, Morrison declared.

The resignation of each man se forth that as he could not do without his job he would have to quit the as sociation. Morrison also made the allegation that the postmasters of Chicago and Minneapolis had failed to deliver circular letters sent out by the federation.

Not to Use "Confession."

Fredericks today asserted that no immunity had been promised McManigal and none would be offered. He will be prosecuted, because the State does not need his "confession," Fredericks declared.

The attorners for the defense will bring pressure to bear to obtain from the prosecution a copy of the testinony taken before the local Grand Jury immediately following the blowing up of the Los Angeles Times.

Under the law, the defense is not entitled to this until the defendants have been arraigned on the indictments. The probability is that the McNamaras will be sent before a magistrate, with the prosecution making just enough of a case to insure holding the men for the Superior Court, without "tipping the State's hand." The State thus hopes to avoid immediate arraignment of the prisoners.

Among the signers of the appea shot the officer and then shot him self.

The Russian government seems worried, not so much over the conditions of brutality that prevail in the navy, but over the fact that the sailers took their complaint to the Socialists in the Duma.

This indicates that they look to the Socialists as their representatives, and the government fears that should it need their services to suppress the "inner" enemy, the working class, it might find the seamen too enlightened and revolutionary to kill their own brothers.

The Russian government seems is given to committee on Charter Revision; J. Aspinwall Horge, chairman of the Province George W. Brush, president of the Brooklyn League, and Charles the Howland, president of the Public Education Association.

The charter if passed, the circular states, will bring about political corruption in New York's educational system by reason of its plunging the schools into politics.

It also provides that the Board of Among the signers of the appear are Russel Benedict, chairman of the Joint Committee on Charter Revision; J. Aspinwall Hocge, chairman of the Forum Committee of the People's In-stitute; George W. Brush, president states, will bring about political corruption in New York's educational system by reason of its plunging the schools into politics.

It also provides that the Board of Education, which at present is giving its services without charge, should be a paid body, receiving high salaries. This, it is pointed out, would make positions on the Board of Education objects of patronage and would be demoralizing.

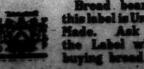

Another feature objected to is that the charter would place the selection, appointment and promotion of the teaching staff under the general civil service ruling of this city after the municipal civil service law has been reduced to a transparent mask for patronage and spoils.

It is believed that the action of Mayor Guerin, of the city, who prohibited the carrying of red flags and instructed the police to seize them, added to the strength of the turnout. The hit of the day, however, was made by Socialist girls who went up to popple on the streets and pinned red tags on their breasts, then held out a red box for a contribution. The scheme, worked fine and about $70 was cleared in this way. It is further charged that it would throw the educational system open to waste and mismanagement. In his four-year term the Mayor of the city could easily bring the educational system under his control;

Barnes Says Party Will Insist on a Single Chamber Measure.

LONDON, May 3 .- The preamble t the veto bill designed to restrict the legislative powers of the House Lords was reached in the House of Commons today, and with it the most stitical stage of the discussion from the Government viewpoint because of the diversity of opinion between the factions making up the coalition

George [Nicoll Barnes, the labor eader, immediately showed fight. The abor party is composed of single chamber men, who have repeatedly declared their intention of opposing any plan to reform the House of

He said that he would rather have voted with the Government to further progress of the measure as whole, but the laborites had to parcompany with the Government at this point. He described the preamble as inconsistent with all the pledges and the tenets of the labor party.

The paragraphs of the preamble to the veto bill objectionable to the sinchamber labor members follow: Whereas it is expedient that pro-

the relations between the two Houses

Whereas it is intended to substitute for the House of Lords, as it at present exists, a second chamber, conuttated on a popular, instead of hereditary, basis, but such substitution operation; and

Whereas provision will require hereafter to be made by Parliament in a measure affecting such substitution for limiting and defending the powers of the new second chamber, but it is expedient to make such provision as in this act appears for re stricting the existing powers of the

Foresters' 'Hall, last Sunday night, speaking under the auspices of the Socialist Local, George Allan Eng-land addressed a representative audince on the relation between modern industry and war, and on the essen industry and war, and on the essentials of scientific Socialism.

He began by describing conditions in Mexico, and by explaining the reasons why President Taft, contrary to the Constitution, sent 20,000 troops to the border. These reasons, said he, lie in the moneys invested by capsitalists in Mexican securities. In order to expressions of the lie in the contract of the contract der to secure profits and dividender this country's Government is not willing to crush the aspirations to ward liberty on the part of the down-trodden millions in Mexico. Taking this action as a text, he passed to a general discussion of the law, under which every citizen from 18 to 45 may at any time be enlisted in the army, and, in case of refusing to serve, may be shot. He dissected the Boy Scout movement, showing its He gave a picture of the vania State constabulary, at the sam time pointing out the movement now under foot to prevent any resistance, on the part of the public, against these measures of oppression.

From this he passed on to Social-ism, showing how this world move-ment always and everywhere opposes war and bloodshed, and how in many cases, war has been prevented by action on the part of the Socialists is the countries involved. "We believ in war," said he, "but only in a war against ignorance, oppression and capitalism. Our bullets are of paper, and the only lead we use is type metal. These are our weapons, and with these we shall some day con-quer the earth."

Mr. England explained the class struggle, the theory of surplus values and the various Socialist demands o shorter working day, increased wage safeguarding of machinery, abolitio of the Senate, popular election of judges, free administration of justice suppression of child labor, initiative referendum and recall, old age pen sions, etc. He then passed to a con sideration of collective ownership that is, the ownership by all of the means of production and distribution

Having made this clear, he de scribed the recent enormous growts, of Socialism in this country, relating how over twenty towns and cities now are under Socialist control and now are under Socialist control and how as many more have Socialist Al-dermen, etc. He Jescribed the ways In which Socialists are now "making good," and showed how aircady Con-gressman Berger, at Washington, had done more for the interests of the people than all the other legislators

Charles H. Crone and George W. Dornbach spoke on Socialism to a big crowd of working men, women and children, many of them being striking silk workers, at the corner of 2d, with Peace and plenty for all can be supported by the control of the class struggle. Never, until capitalism and the profit system-are done away with, will war, industrial and military, be, done away silk workers, at the corner of 2d, with Peace and plenty for all can be silk workers, at the corner of 2d, with. VOL. 4. THURSDAY, MAY 1.

A TEST FOR "EQUALITY BEFORE THE LAW"

We suggest that the brothers McNamara, of the Structural Iron Workers' Union, should demand trial in another jurisdiction than Los Angeles, on account of the prejudice that undoubtedly exists against them there on the part of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of that city, and which makes a fair trial difficult or perhaps impossible.

This suggestion is put forward for the reason that a similar demand has just been granted and a precedent established which should hold in law, which, as every one knows, applies equally to all.

One Frank N. Hoffstott, millionaire, union smasher and president of the Pressed Steel Car Company, of Schoenville, Pa., has just succeeded, after a heroic fight of more than a year, in securing a change of venue from the jurisdiction of Pittsburg, where he has been indicted for bribery and graft in connection with the City Council. Just previous to this Mr. Hoffstott had been the central figure in a bitterly contested strike of the underpaid and overworked slaves in his establishment, and after a fierce struggle finally forced them to succumb through starvation. He pleaded, or, rather, his attorneys pleaded for him, that so great was the prejudice raised against him in Pittsburg, by Debs and other labor agitators, that it was impossible for him to secure a fair trial in that city. The Court of Quarter Sessions of Pittsburg has just decided in favor of his

Of course, if Mr. Hoffstott had been kidnapped by private detectives and rushed to Pittsburg, as the McNamaras were rushed into Los Angeles, it might have vitiated his claim to some extent, as we notice that the opposition attorney declared that Mr. Hoffstott was "no different from any other man" and that "the public demanded" his appearance in the Pittsburg jurisdiction.

However, no one seemingly even thought of kidnapping Mr. Hoffstott in accordance with the "public demand," or the assurance that he was "no different from any other man"-from men, for instance, like Moyer, Haywood, Pettibone and the McNamara brothers. For some mysterious reason there appears to be considerable skepticism existing in regard to the alleged equality before the law of all men-capitalist millionaires and trade union members -labor smashers and labor leaders.

This, however, should not deter the legal defenders of the Mc-Namaras from making a similar claim for a change of jurisdiction from Los Angeles, urging as an additional reason that they, like Mr. Hoffstott, are "no different from any other men" and therefore entitled to the same consideration as that gentleman. Such an opportunity to demonstrate the "equality of all men before the law" should on no account be neglected.

"THE MORGANIZATION OF ART"

While it is true that the "art treasures" of the world, the antique books, rare manuscripts and famous paintings, do not come strictly within the category of commodities, they none the less are subject to the general laws of private property, and necessarily tend to describe the hands of the more modern and powerful evaluation. It was bad enough, or good enough, for the ask also of the Mine Owners' to the gravitate into the hands of the more modern and powerful evaluation. gravitate into the hands of the more modern and powerful exploiters —railroad magnates, trust promoters, eminent manufacturers and financiers, etc., whose control of the labor product of the present with the idea of distribution to the gallows, with the idea of distribution to the gallows. generation enables them to also control the product of the past.

Bibles, illuminated missals and manuscripts that are now passing into the hands of the Morgans and Huntingtons and their ilk, were a generation or so ago, without exception the property of the landed aristocracy of Great Reitain and the sound in the so a generation or so ago, without exception the property of the landed aristocracy of Great Britain and the European continent, as may be easily seen by consulting the catalogue which gives the history of easily seen by consulting the catalogue which gives the history of each famous copy.

The process is in its own peculiar way an example of the transformation of feudal property into capitalistic property, the need of the former owners being the opportunity of their wealthier successors.

A few days ago occurred the passing of the ownership of a few days ago occurred the passing of the ownership of the o

A few days ago occurred the passing of the ownership of a famous painting from a British landed proprietor to a Philadelphia And today the ties that bind the two traction magnate. The land-poor aristocrat needed $500,000, the land-poor traction magnate. Philadelphia man had the cash and a taste for "art," and so "America" in the person of Mr. P. B. Widener becomes the possessor—by proxy- of the most valuable Rembrandt in the art galleries of the

In connection with this transaction, it is worth remarking also that the British owner, with some faint sense of the social and public character of his property, offered it first to the British nation at the same figure, but public apathy permitted it to drift into the possession of the American multimillionaire. Government ownership of pictures is of course "socialistic" in its essence, and probably the particular British "public" to whom the offer was made did not feel inclined to encourage "socialistic" experiments further.

But the feeling that these art treasures are rightly public rather than individual property, is growing, and undoubtedly their final destination will be the public institutions of the various countries as the collective property of the people. Just as surely as they passed from the possession of the feudal ruling classes into that of the dominant capitalistic class of the present, so surely will they in turn become the common property of the collectivity. Even now the only known method of securing them from the grasp of the individual plutocrat is through national ownership.

We need hardly expect this, however, before the control of industry is wrested from its present possessors, but assuredly these objects which are so often described as the "common heritage" of the peoples among whom they were produced, will be made so in reality after the more immediately essential means of life have taken the

One thing laymen have been taught to believe is that a judge approached all cases with an unbiased mind. But that is merely a fool lay theory. Mayor Gaynor has been confronted with the Hyde case, and he disposes of it as he would of a case if he was still sitting on the bench. Hyde has resigned and the Mayor writes among other things: "I feel entirely certain you are guilty of no offense. I have always found you honest and correct to a dot, and it grieves me to see any such man sacrificed even for the time being."

There is a large and gorgeous lesson in this on the judicial

But a few months ago, with the same lack of hesitation, without hearing any more of the case, Mayor Gaynor promothe express strikers guilty. In both cases he did not bother sevidence. His infallible mind was made up.

If Mayor Gaynor, great in reputation as a judge, acts as acted in the Hyde case, acts as he did in the express drivers does it not form a perfect commentary on this so-called abs bias among judges?

There is no such thing. There can be no such thing, goes with his friends, and his friends belong to his class.

Judge Wood, without hesitation, announced his belief to officials of the Western Federation of Miners were guilty, they had been pronounced innocent. Gaynor, another type of but still of the same stamp, pronounces a man innocent before
