PURITY WAVE" HAS DESCENDED AGAIN UPON THIS CITY

Girls of Streets Must "Pay Up" Their Back "Dues."

COPS FULL OF JOY

Spasmodic Hysteria Is No Reform, but a Time-Worn Trick.

The wave is here again Not meaning the heat wave, the "purity wave"

Such waves are bound to com whenever the police are idle for lack of the burglar crop. It is understood that Folice Commissioner Waldo has ordered the police to "clean up" the tenderioin districts, despite the fact that only a few nights ago Waldo and Mayor Gaynor toured the city in an automobile, and at the conclusion of the tour, Gaynor stated to a few eages reporters 'hat "The town is all right." Peporters 'hat 'The town is all right.'
But the numerous arrests and arraignments of girls of the street durling the past few weeks indicates that the police are ordered to 'clean things

The especial effort is directed to the lower tenderloin. The lower tenderloin is that section of the city running between 4th and 14th streets on Second and Third avenues.

Lately two scores of policemen have been stationed on these streets to raid disorderly houses and lock up the inmates. Just the inmates. Not the patrons. It can well be reasoned that this fresh hysteria of purity was provoked by the recent charge made against a city detective that he was accepting hush money from a prospector of one of these houses on Third avenue.

Paying Up "Dues."

The numerous hotels' along Sec-nd and Third avenues, as well as nose on the numbered streets, would those on the numbered streets, would keep the police busy if they were a lack of moisture, but the scattering mind to raid them. But that is not the game. The game is to station a group of police on each corner to frighten the girls into paying up "back dues" coming to the policemen on the Even Silkstocking Waldo will not deny that the "paying up" system from these girls is essential to the well being of the parolmen on the leat. It is also noticeable that this method of browbeating the girls of the street is not practiced to such a large extent in the Upper Tenderloin as it is below Fourteenth street, Tammany Hall district.

Western Texas is radiant under the being influence of good rains. Aside from the drought, that was becoming serious in some parts of the State, cotton has suffered but little from deteriorating influences. The bollowevil, which in former, years caused annual losses to the crop, aggregating many millions of dollars, is committing rayages in only a few

The women of plants in South Texas, where the rein-"aristocratic zone." The women of this section are those who can demand high prices. They wear better clothes than those below Tammany Hell, and they are in a better position financially to "pay up" for protection. Hence, they are not molested quite as much.

In many cities of the country the street cars are equipped with sliding doors and folding steps centrolled by the motorman, who, be-fore he starts his car, sets in motion a mechanism which closes the doors and folds up the steps. It is thought by the commission that if the cars of this cky were similarly equipped many accidents would be avoided. The folding step device, of course, would not be available for the open cars with the running board. The hearing which the commission will begin on July 20 on these two subjects will, however, be devoted mainly to the question of brakes. Surface Car Smashes Wagon, Killing Horses-Driver and Conductor

PATERSON, N. J., July 9.—John Larson, 30 years old, of 98 Frent street, this city, died this morning at St. Joseph's Hospital, and William Price, 32 years old, of 430 Totowa avenue, died at the General Hospital, from injuries received late last night when a trolley car and a wagon, in which they were riding, collided headon at Ashley Heights, a suburb of Paterson

Two horses, drawing the wagon, were killed instantly, the front part of passengers were hurled from their seats. The car was going from Hawthorne toward Paterson at high speed. John Gersee, the motorman, declared there were no lights of any kind on the wagon. The road is lined with electric lights, and Gersee says he had just passed under the glare of one of the lights when the crash

The Doctors Object.

LONDON, July 9.—The medical fraternity in Great Britain is much concerned over the new Lloyd George insurance bill. They have vigorously protested against the provisions which affect their profession. It has been suggested that the approved societies should engage a medical officer, whose duty it would be to give certificates of sickness to members, which would entitle them to sick pay provided under the bill; sick pay having been obtained, the member to have the choice of a doctor and pay the fee himself. Heretofore, it has been quite generally the practice for these so-cieties to employ what is termed a "club" doctor, the society footing the

PROVE INDICTMENT WILL INCREASE PAY OF BURNS RIGHT

INDIANAPOLIS, July 9. - It devel INDIANAPOLIS, July 9.—It developed today that Prosecutor Baker, in attempting to defeat the extradition of the two alleged confidence men to Ohio yesterday afternoon, was trying to justify the indictment of Detective Burns for the kidnapping of McNamara, and that the attempt was not made till the very last moment, or when the two prisoners were in a successful and ready to start vere in an automobile and ready to start the railway station.

Governor Marshall had acted upon the requisition just as in the McNamara case, and precisely the same action had been taken by Judge Collins of the police sourt, yet the attorney of the two alleged confidence men had been notified more than a week before that the requisitions were on the way and would be presented to the Governor

It is said that Prosecutor Baker, in ordering that the turning over of the prisoners to the Ohio detectives be disregarded, wished to bring the question of arrest and identification before the Cir-cuit Court, have the proceedings set aside, and retain the men here under workouse sentences.

This result, he believed, would go to sustain the indictment of Detective Burns, but the two men were spirited away and the local detectives disclaim any respon sibility in connection with the case

DECLARES DETECTIVES TOOK STOKES' LETTERS

John Bloom, superintendent of the Varuna Apartments, at Broadway and the last 80th street, where W. E. D. Stokes was shot by Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad, on the night of June 7, told When Fourth Deputy Police Commissioner Dillon yesterday that he saw five de-tectives open Miss Graham's trunk an hour after the shooting, and examine a bundle of letters that were tied up with a pink baby ribbon. Bloom says this packet was thrown in a pasteboard box, together with an assortment of loose letters, telegrams pictures and memorandum books, and carried out of the house.

All the letters that Miss Graham had received from Stokes were tied together. She says there were eighteen of them, and Stokes testified in court the other day that there were at least the other day that there were at least eighteen, as far as he could remember. But only nine have come to light, and these were produced by the Assistant District Attorney, who got them from Terence J. McManus, who had them from A. H. Gleason, Stokes' personal counsel, and James Cummings, the house detective of the Hotel Ansonia.

Cummings swore on the stand that he found them behind Miss Graham's trunk two days after the shooting.

MAKE EFFORT TO SAVE MURDERER

MIDDLETOWN. N. Y., July 9.—A strong effort is being made by the attorneys of Michael Cosmo, who was recently convicted of murdering Dominick Marose, of this city, to set aside the conviction of Cosmo on the ground that Charles W. Barnes, of Goshen, a member of the jury which convicted Cosmo, did not possess the proper qualifications to serve on the jury.

It is claimed that the error, if any, was made by the assessors of the town of Goshen in kreeping the name of Barnes upon the list of available jurors when he was not qualified to serve. District Aitorney Rogers, who secured the conjuction of Cosmo, has been served with not the that Cosmo's lawyers will make a motion to set aside the verdice at a term of the Supreme Court on July 15. MOVING PICTURES ATTACK UNIONISM

Action of Father York Calls Attention to a More Important Phase.

Father John C. York, rector of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church Huntington, L. I., in standing up in a moving picture house and denouncing one of the films shown, has probably put an end to pictures which are objectionable to religious people.

"The Story of the Nun" was the subject of the film to which Father York took exception. It showed a young girl forced against her will to take the veil. Later, garbed as u nun, she was shown in a room with an elderly priest, whose attentions threw her into such a frenzy that she cast the crucifix to the floor, smash-ing it. The priest called the mother superior and the young girl nun was sentenced to be entombed alive. The walls were being cemented about her when the rescuers rushed in and effected her escape.

Ingredients in Pure Soda Water.

"To be pure and healthy, soda water "To be pure and healthy, soda water should contain three ingredients—pure fruit flavors, pure carbonated water and sugar, not saccharin or some other injurious sweetening. To sell flavors that are made of chemicals instead of fruits is criminal. To begin with, what is soda water? That is one question I would like to have Congress and the various State Legislatures define positively. Until there is some authoritative action taken or is some authoritative action taken on the question there is little reason to believe that we will ever get pure, clean soda water in the ordinary drus store.

"There is no law which compels the druggist to put specified ingredients into his concoction. He may put virtually anything under the sun except

ADVENT OF THE "CREWLESS" DREADNOUGHT

Fashions in Dreadnoughts, according to a dispatch from Eng land, are about to change once more, a new type having been developed which, while no larger than the original Dreadnoughts, will ing off by the "alcoholic" possess far more power than any of the "super" Dreadnoughts that They do it with an air of bravado, have been evolved since that epoch making vessel first appeared. Starting for it bravely because it makes them "a dead game sport," success that thirty-five knots, and it is high speed which is making a wry face at it when speed of no less than thirty-five knots, and it is high speed which is they touch the fiery beverage to their the main item of cost. Which means that a thousand million dollars' worth of obsolete twenty-one knot Dreadnoughts will be relegated to the "second line of defense" and thence to the junk pile, while the capitalist classes of the world will have to devote perhaps two a little more quickly than seems neces thousand million dollars from their loot of the working class to replace sary to show gameness—so as to get them with the more expensive and faster type.

All of which would seem to indicate that the "bankruptcy possible. But for all this, women are through excessive armaments," so much dreaded by capitalistic still feminine. They still love the statesmen, is proceeding at a most satisfactory pace. But, strange to say, there is still some hope that this disastrous result may yet be Still later than the British development of the machinery of naval warfare comes another from Germany, England's greatest naval competitor. An ingenious schoolmaster in Berlin, it is said, has developed a "crewless" warship, which is controlled from the shore by electrical devices and can be maneuvered and fought with the greatest possible precision by such means. A test on a lake near the city, it is said, has proved the possibility of this beyond doubt, the inventor using a motor boat over a mile from shore and driving her in any direction required with absolute accuracy, the vessel promptly obeying every impulse received from the electrical apparatus ashore.

Here is the chance to avoid the "horrible and devastating expenditure" which England's First Lord of the Admiralty recently deprecated but supported as a necessity. In future, naval wars on both sides can be fought with crewless warships. British and German squadrons can meet in the middle of the North Sea, for instance, and pound each other into scrap iron, while the manipulators of the fleets are safe ashore in their respective countries.

And as the vessels would be only constructed for the purpose of sinking each other, without human life being endangered, the cheapest and most inexpensive materials could be used in their con- as a fuel to convey heat-lubricating struction, and the impending bankruptcy averted. There would be roundity and muscular power to our no need for "staggering" any longer under the weight of excessive

As a matter of fact, the idea is capable of greater and greater development in the way of cheapness, and might indeed be made a source of national amusement. For instance, Kaiser Wilhelm and George V might each be supplied with a fleet of model toy boats and an electrical apparatus and the "war" might be fought out on some of the ornamental pieces of water in the various royal parks, each of the monarchs directing the movements of his fleet from opposite sides of the pond, the most expert naval electrician, of course, winning the victory. Thus war, instead of being hell, would become sport.

There is really a great deal in the Berlin schoolmaster's idea, and no doubt it will "revolutionize naval warfare" when the working people object so strongly to being killed as an adjunct to it, that they will decline to offer their carcasses for that purpose. Possibly we may see many of such naval encounters in the future of that sort, when both Kings and Kaisers and Dreadnoughts of the present type become obsolete. Much worse use indeed might be made of Kings and Kaisers than employing them in this manner to make sport for the people in the future. Their Highnesses would be at full liberty, of course, to imagine that they were settling the destinies of the world, while the people could enjoy the fun.

THE CAP AND BELLS IN CONGRESS

Possibly there is no more pitiable spectacle than to see and hear some official ignoramus pouring what he considers biting sarcasm upon people whose conduct he objects to but does not in the least understand. One of our Congressional numskulls, Congressman Henry of Texas, recently gave an exhibition of this sort in the House, his silly shafts being ostensibly aimed at those Americans who went

By the "humiliating spectacle" he didn't mean his own exhibition, but that of the rich Americans whose conduct he objected to. Now, possibly, the display was vulgar, but if Henry thinks that the Americans who took part in it were either fools or crawlers, he is

The real American fools were the ones who stayed at home and furnished the wherewithal, so that the others could go to the coronation and "riot in the extravagant display of wealth," as Henry puts it. The millions of laborers, rural and urban, who toiled and sweated to produce that wealth for the others to squander at the coronation were the real fools. Nor are these Americans inherently slavish despite their prostrations at the foot of the throne. On the contrary, they are despots and tyrants in whom the characteristic of mastership is abnormally developed. Morgan, for instance, is neither a fool nor a sycophant

He is a shrewd man and an autocrat. And these very people whom Henry imagines he is ridiculing are the sort of people who buy his sort of people at 10 cents a bunch and use them in State and National legislative bodies. The Senator from his own State-Bailey-is a notorious example of this. He was a Standard Oil purchase. Henry, most likely, would loudly affirm that Standard Oil couldn't buy him, and we think he is right, but doesn't know the reason why. They couldn't buy him because they wouldn't consider him a profitable investment. And after making that address he would become less available for purchase than ever before. Bailey had some Kingship is by no means played out. It is but an older form of mastership, and there is a natural affinity between it and the modern masters—the capitalists.

The Southern slaveholder and the Northern capitalists were kings in this sense, and felt exactly toward their dependents as the ancient kings did to their subjects. It was the feeling of mastership in both cases. And it never left them, no matter how many State ceremonies they went through or how often they had to conform to convention in bowing and saluting and making obeisance.

Henry possibly imagines that Morgan, in his velvet suit, sword and knee breeches, was transformed instantly from a domineering autocrat into a humble, bootlicking creature eager to display to the world his abasement before royalty. That the clothes changed the man. But Morgan knew otherwise. Whatever genufications he furnished them. The king of olden time never punished his jester—made, he knew he was the biggest thing on parade. And it was no different with the other wealthy Americans. They never forgot their mastership, and that they had left their faithful subjects at home.

And Henry isn't in the least conscious of the fact that he is one The jester of old was often a really witty individual.

And such men were not certainly

The Declaration of Independence may represent the aspirations of a people, but not existing facts. To use it in the latter sense makes it a contradiction in itself, and therefore the argument deduced from it falls to

When the American colonies revolted against the rule of England, it was necessary, if the revolt was to be successful, to produce the impression

The farmers and workingmen of the American colonies at that time had tion had succeeded. But the mer after all, for anything that tends to chants and manufacturers and cap-break down our vital forces of re-italists certainly had grievances.

The latter were then the most influential class in American society, but as they were too weak to over-throw British rule themselves, they were forced to call upon the masse to do the bulk of the necessary fightwith some pretext, some incentive for

This they effected with the Declara. tion of Independence and its tions of freedom and equality. farmers and workingmen were not, as was well known, particularly crit-ical, and these abstract propositions were readily taken by them for re So they fought, under the impression that they were fighting for their liberties, and finally triumphed But they were no more free and equal then than they had been before.
