OSWEGO, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The State Federation of Lator in convention here today sent letters to the Democratic Governor and Legislative leaders expressing chagrin and disappointment at the failure of the present Legislature to enact the 54-hour labor bill and the resolution to provide for a workingmen's compensation law.

These bills, it is declared, are slum-pering in the Senate committees. The resolution concludes: "We are determined to hold responsible dominant influence in the Legislature. If you ignore our requests our constitare your constituents; members are voters. Feeling our re-sponsibility to the millions of work-ingmen we represent, we shall be compelled to extort radical and farreaching measures if necessary to as-sure this beneficial legislation." The story of the four months investigation, involving the detective work of men who tolled as laborers for 50 cents a day and lived in expensive New York hotels, rivals the wildest chapters of "The Jungle."

The specific charges against the company, as made in a letter sent by Acting Chief Dunlap, of the Bureau of Chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture, to the head of New Jersey's Pure Food Department, were that thirty-one vats, more or less, now stored in their pickling room, contain meat that in part is from animals "that have died otherwise than by shughter."

Because an interstate and international shipment, which would have brought the matter directly within the jurisdiction of Dr. Wiley's men, was held up so that it seemed improbable that it would be made, the Federii inspectors turned the case over to the New Jersey State Board of Health at the last minute.

In a statement issued today Schwarz Bros. Company said:

"The horse meat traffic was carried on with the full knowledge of the authorities, and the plant was open to inspection all the time and that the inspectors visited the place daily."

According to the Schwarz brothers, when the first shipment of horse meat was made to Holland on the Holland-American Line in February, the shipment was held up on the other side because it did not near the seal of the United States Government inspector. When the authorities in Washington were appealed to by Mr. Record and Mr. Schwarz they were told that there was no law covering the unspection of horse ment for human consumption in this country. There were severe casualties on both sides.

There were severe casualties on both sides.

Troops now hold the approaches to the Alameda and the botanical gardens, as the rebels had threatened to destroy both. Guards are also posted about the University of Valencia, many of whose atudents are known to hold revolutionary beliefs.

Two torpedo boats have been sent to Villaneuva del Grao, the seaport of Valencia, and they will-prevent revolutionists doing damage to the harbor there.

The latest reports received from Saragrossa state that the situation there continues grave. There was much street fighting during the night, and the cavairy charged repeatedly to clear the main streets.

The narrow thoroughfares on the outskirts of the city are still held by strikers and their symmethiases, and the guards about the municipal buildings have been greatly intreased.

"Of course it will not be necessary for us to have that much money on hand to begin with." Secretary Fischer said. "The profits of the bakeries will all revert to the anti-trust fund and thus the plants will be self-sustaining."

Furthermore the bakers decided to spread the gospel of the anti-trust fight into the ranks of every organized labor body in America.

The bakers will send delegates to each convention of national scope to outlind the campaign to gain support for the movement. The convention went into executive session at 3 o'clock.

C. O. PRATT OUSTED BY AMAL, CAR MEN

Former Strike Idol Loses Place as Chairman of Executive Board.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20 .- Word was received here today that Clarence O. Pratt, organizer of the local street car men's union, was ousted yesterday as chairman of the Executive Board of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America, which is in convention at St. Joseph, Mo.

Pratt was also defeated for membership on the board.

The rank and file of the local union men hold the opinion that Pratt is now reduced to the ranks and no longer holds other in the order. The amalgamated men here think that Pratt's activity in politics resulted in his downfall in the West.

No word has been received as to who will take his place as leader of the carmen in Philadelphia.

Pratt's defeat came as the climax of a bitter attack on him by a number of delegates who made their principal weapon references to what they charged was the unsuccessful manner in which Pratt had handled the carmen's strikes in Philadelphia and

The fight over Pratt's seat in the board was hotly contested and the discussion over the election was bit-Pratt himself led the delegates supporting him.

Pratt was at one time the idol of the local carmen, but they began to lose confidence in him when he dropped union agitation for "reform" politics. He was active on the stump here last year for the "Keystone party, which sought to gain the votes of workingmen by vague promises.

During the great local car strike of 1909 and the year preceding Pratt was most industrious, but since that time he has seemed to care more for increasing his personal power than anything else. He has been severely criticized for his recent inactivity while the men were ready for anything cliented to the plant of the men for better conditions or a strike. A bomb was exploded early yesterday in the front yard of Public School 169, at 214 East 160th street. A pane of glass in the front door and two windows were smashed. The neighborhood, which has been startled by many bomb explosions of late, was thrown into terror.

The police cannot imagine who would want to blow up a public school unless it was some juvenile imilator of the Blacx Hand who hoped to gain a long vacation by wiping the school off the face of the earth. Another guess was that the bomb might have been placed in the school yard by a father who was anyered because his child had been placed on half time

WINNING "FAME" AS STRIKEBREAKER

'Reddy," of Brooklyn, and His Exploits-Honest Work His Bane, Strikers Say.

"Reddy" Lichtenstein is a prominent figure these days along the Smith street line in Brooklyn. The Smith street line, it will be remembered, is the chief bone of contention in the strike of the Coney Island and Brooklyn Railway employee who have been out for several weeks now to enforce an increase of 2 cents an bour men. It was stated that he has lost his front teeth in the recent strike. A brick did effective work apparently, it was said. But "Reddy's" courage is undaunted, and strikebreaker he remains.

It was learned that "Reddy" lives in Brooklyn at 448 Seventh avenue. Strikebreaking, the strikers said, is a majoin with him. He would not do a decent day's work for any money. But when it comes to scabbing he would do it no matter if he had to pay for the privilege.

If you think verhaps that "Reddy" is a man of giant constitution then you are mistaken. He is small and slight. He weighs about 130 pounds, is 28 years old, and has little bits of eyes. With these little eyes, however, he is constantly studying the advertising pages for a call for strikebreakers and as shoon as he hears of a labor dispute Reddy Lichtenstein packs his duda and leaves his Brooklyn home in search of "excitement."

The striking carmen in uscussing Reddy and his exploits yesterday said that a great future is in store for him. He might become a second Farley provided his few remaining teeth are not knocked out the next time be goes at the head of a scab gang.

Churchill Issues Order for Formation of Special Police Reserves.

LONDON, Sept. 20 .- That trouble is brewing fast for the British governing classes is evident from every item that comes to hand from all parts of the country. CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. '20. Brooklyn lost both games of today's double header to Cincinnati. Sohardt in the first game was touched up rather hard, but peor fielding in the sixth inning brought him into deep trouble from which he could not recover. In the second game Manager Dahlen sent Miller to the mound but Dahlen sent Miller to the mound, but he lasted only four innings, in which time the Reds amassed no less than eleven runs. Miller was wild and after the first inning the Reds slammed the bail all over the grounds. Steele, who relieved him, did much better work, but of course it came too late. Costly errors in the second game also contributed to the big score piled up by the home team. Bush, an umpire from the Texas League made his debut as a National League arbiter in the first game with Emsile as his partner.

The second game was a walkover for Cincinnati. Miller was wild, had poor support, and the Reds found him for many hits. Humphyles was but the Giants' net, but the second had its periods of distress for the New Yorkers before it also was entered on the winning side. With Marquard pitching and having a good day, the Cardinals were shut out in the first scrap, which went along smoothly. The second engagement was different. It was a funny affair and with a deal of loose pitching. Crandall was for constant the control of the box in the sixth mining: a three bagger was made off Dahlen sent Miller to the mound, but to Make Permanent Rosenwasser I junction.

A great victory was scored yesterday by organized labor in general, and by the Ladies' Waist and Dress Makers' Union No. 25, in particular, when Justice Bijur vacated the temporary injunction of Phillip Rosenwasser, 826 Broadway, issued by Justice Goff against the Ladies' Waist and Dress Makers' Union No. 25.

The temporary injunction was so sweeping that had it been made permanent it would have greatly restricted the personal liberty of the caralloyes.

maient it would have greatly restricted the personal liberty of the enaployes.

Justice Bijur followed the decision of Justice Goff in the case of the Lesser-Kalb Manufacturing Company against the Waist Makers Union, and held that the employers would have to show violence on the part of the officers of the union, ro some active participation in the strike, or the acts of individual members of the union when the strike was shown not to have been declared or maintained by the union.

Attorney Morris Rothenberg, who appeared for the union, admitted that the union was giving the strikers benefits, and that its attorneys was appearing for the strikers, and said that it was as lawful as if an outsider were to contribute money for their support. On going through the papers submitted by both employers and the union, Justice Bijur denied the motion of Rosenwasser to make the injunction permanent, and ordered the temporary, writ to be vacated.

The strike against Rosenwasser is now in its sixth week, and all the strikers are standing firm and contident of victory.

Matt Wells, England's lightweight champion, outpointed Abe Attell, the American featherweight champion, in a scientific ten round bout in Madison Square Garden last night. Wells was the stronger and faster from start to finish. He forced the issue incessantly and gave a superb exhibition of ring skill.

Always cool and collected, the Englishman showed the better generalship. He outguessed and outboxed Attell, landing the greater number of clean blows, and also putting much more power into them than Attell could muster. But at that there was little slugging. Cleah, quick, snappy blows were delivered by both men, who blocked or sidestepped with splendid judgment. Because of the absence of blood and knockdowns some persons were inclined to believe that the men were not trying their level best, but that was unfair, as there wasn't ground to doubt the honesty of the battle. Attell was beaten probably because he was outweighed.

An even break was the outcome of the double header between the Clevelands and the New York Americans on the hilltop yesterday. The visitors won the first game by prounding Warhop and Vaughn heavily. Warhop was allowed to remain in the box long after it was clear that he had lost his cunning, while Vaughn, who took up the task in the ninth, was unable to finish the inning. The Hillmen hit Blanding hard enough to win but the handicap on the mound was too much for them.

The Cleveland presented their new olt battery, Reisigle and O'Neill, in the second game, which was won when Chase knocked out a home run in the sixth inning with two men on bases.

With the exception of that period. Reisigle pitched finely. Caldwell worked with much energy and managed to keep the visitors pretty well in hand. COAL ORIVERS OUT

IN JERSEY CITY

One hundred and ten drivers and helpers employed by Burns Brothers at its Jersey City stables went on strike yesterday because the firm refused to reinstate a driver who had been discharged for leaving the truck for about 20 minutes. Later in the day it was reported that seventy-five mep employed by the Werthelm Coal and Coke Company in Pacific avenue, Jersey City, had struck in sympathy with the Burns men.

It was declared that the drivers are members of Local 641 of the International Marquette, Marquette, Marquette, Marquette, Mich., Sept. 20.

DIX REMEDIES LEVY

ALBANY, Sept. 20.—Governor Dix and the Democratic legislative leaders have agreed upon amendments to the Levy election law which they are sure will stand the test of the courts and will provide personal registration in the rural districts for every voter.

The State constitution provides for personal registration throughout the State except in places of 5.000 inhabitant or under, and the Democratic legislative leaders say this section of the constitution does not prevent legislation providing for the personal registration of those voting at town elections. Accordingly, they have framed amendments to the Levy law which provide that town election shall be held at the same time as general elections. This, it is argued, would have the same effect as providing personal registration for general elections which the constitution apparently prohibiting in cities and villages having less than 5,000 population.

DEALERS FINED FOR CRUELTY TO CHICKS

Special Agent James D. Misick of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals took a morning off yesterday and arrested four produce dealers in Gansevoort Market for keeping too many chickens packed in small crates.

He charged these dealers with "torturing certain living animals by confining them in a coop and causing them to crowd and stamp upon each other." The dealers said the State or the society should get after the farmers who packed the chickens, or better yet the express companies that received the crated chickens and permitted them to remain crated while on their long journey.

The four dealers were fined $3 each in Jefferson Market Court. They were John Franklin Menke, of 50 Hamilton terrace, Jersey City; William G. Mohr, of $87 Montgomery street, Jersey City; ticorge H. Lewis, of 248 Suydam street, Jersey City, and Thomas Bingham of 1683 89th street, Brooklyn.

GROSSCUP SAYS HE WAS "SHADOWED"

Federal Judge Tells of Magazine Writer Who Trailed Him to Europe and Back.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20 .- After the for announcement yesterday

Judge Peter S. Grosscup of the United States Circuit Court that he would resign from the Federal bench, he confirmed last night a report that he had been under surveillance for two years by some unfriendly agency, whose motive he could not give.

It developed that the man who has directed this inquiry is Laurence Richie, a former operator in the government Secret Service. He or his agents, during the last two years, are asserted to have followed Judge Grosscup closely. So persistent was the pursuit that, when the judge went abroad a year ago last spring, a "shadow" is said to have followed him to Egypt and back.

"I heard at one time he was working for the government," replied the jurist. "That, I believe, is untrue. I ing for the government," replied the jurist. "That, I believe, is untrue. I am afraid of having investigated. I have nothing to conceal." It developed during the day that Lawrence Richie was employed by a magazine published in New York. It is said that Grosscup may be a candidate for the Senate to fill Shelby M. Cullom's place.

SKAKER HELD FOR WILFUL MURDER

KISSIMMEE. Fla.. Sept. 20.—
"Willful murder" was the finding of the Coroner's Jury in the case of Elder Egbert B. Gillette. of the Shaker colony. He is charged with the murder of Sister Sadie Marchant of the colony, to whom, with the aid of Sister Elizabeth Sears, on August 22. Gillette administered chloroform following the giving of opiates.
"This was to allay her pain and assist her out of life that was peinful." was the explanation given by the aged Shakers when arraigned for preliminary hearing before Judge Parker, at Kissimmee. "She asked us to do it," they added. Sadie Marchant was 35 years old. The Shakers say she was in the last stages of consumption when she was given the two inhalations of chloroform.

The doctors who examined the vital parts of the woman when the corpse was exhumed on September 9 say that aside from tuberculosis in a got far advanced stage the organs of the woman were in normal condition when she died. Gillette was re-arrested today and placed in jail, where he will stay until the Grand Jury decides the degree of murder and he has his trial.

"We are bombarding the capitalist camp with loaves of bread." So said Eduarde Anseele, Sozialist leader and director of the great Co-operative Bakery in Ghent. Belgium.

We are doing the same thing with hats. If every workingman would buy his hat from the Co-operative League Hat Store, the League would be able to establish a hat store in every section of the city and put the hat business on a co-operative basis. Then we could take up a meeting in the Italian district, and, s usual, with-such meetings had enraged a band, and all the free beer the audience could consume. As may be imagined, under those conditions, a large crowd was in attendance. Before the spellbinders were to do their stunt the band rendered several in-spiring selections. While the band vas playing, as well as during the ing intermissions, the speakers, as well s the audience, hovered closely about the flowing beer kegs, and by the time the speakers were ready to get into action on the platform, the band. speakers and a considerable portion of the audience were well under the nfluence of the intoxicating beverage o freely dispensed.

all the speakers had partaken so freely that none could speak clearly enough to be understood. Some of members of Buffalo's local Italian Branch hustled away, and prestoni, the editor of the Italian Sodalist paper, La Fiaccola, nounted the stand and, in a well diected speech, lambasted the Repubican and Democratic politicians who vere present. The audience, which by this time had grown to large pro-ortions, cheered him to the echo. The Italian speakers, who were too drunk to understand, joined in the from meetings on Friday evenings to Sunday afternoons. Come on Sunday of the band, which had been engaged for the occasion, were Socialists, and they, catching the drift of the meeting, the band struck up "The Mar-scillaise" and other revolutionary songs. The result of the entire afair was a capture of the meeting by the Socialists.

The beer kegs were held by the enemy until emptied. Today the politicians who participated in the meeting are the laughing stock of the ple in that fortion of the city.

But hardly had the body of Francisco Ferrer been interred in time were the abolitionists more than the glacis of Montjuich fortress when the blood of him welled up a little handful of men and women from the ground and Spain was hurled headlong into the terrors of a general revolutionary outbreak. they were asking for strange, un-natural and impossible things. How is it now? Why, in many countries of Europe and in several of our own States women are actually voting and holding office, and everywhere the indications are that the practice will seen be the general rule. The reason is that institutions have their origin in altered social and industrial condi tions, and votes for women has be come a needful means for safeguard sires and epinions always go tofledged citizens. Opposition to movement is a spent force, and the cital energy of the situation is em-dedied in the thought and will of its of has become our solid beaten track.

It is not different with that much greater matter, the trusts. These, too, They have outlived the opposition of all their many enemies. Grangers, Populists, Bryanites, big stick reformers, proscriptive legislation, unfavorble court decisions have done their mightiest against the trusts, but their position is stronger than ever, and the end of their sway is not yet in sight.

The med to cure them." As for need to cure them." As for the great body of the people? The unknown and feared has become the known, nothing good and sacred has been swept away, but a new and perfectly natural situation has emerged which, step by step, is organizing colution which one day will make the "New Nationalism" or "Collectivism" a glorious reality.

So the militant phase of the trust development is now far behind. Th trusts have come to stay, are still growing in scope and power, the public has got used to them and finds italways the case, it knows come when the trusts must be rightly According to these reckoned with. people the trusts are serving a good and necessary purpose. Two things the trusts are bringing about-first the perfect organization of production and distribution by means of capital-ism, and next an industrial and political Socialism among the workers. The two at last will become one.

people must own the trusts, or he trusts must own the people. Rather it takes refuge in a mythical middle sround which all history proves is ever pure illusion. The logic of facts has nothing to do with makeshifts and marking time. Every social system has its birth, growth and decline, but new things and old things are of one piece, and what we call a change is simply a part of the eternal coat shedding process of uni-versal nature. Just as capitalism has ripened into the trusts, so the trusts by the very law of their being, must bring the Co-operative Commonwealth. And for saying this life is made a follow the trusts, as to them we had to, and did become accustomed, and warring for mastery, but rather two parts of the same reality ever grow-ing in closer accord, and making for struggling humanity a final natural order of justice, well being and beauty.

But that does not mean that every-thing is fair and smooth and happy. Though we are headed for "easy street" mankind is far enough yet from its golden destiny. For all our system made up of a few "lor changes things are not yet right in of bread" and a vast multitude of "of bread" be utterly and forever the world. "WHAT'S THE MATTER?"

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21.

"Securities have fallen, capital is apprehensive, trade is slack the financial district," says the New York Journal of Commerce, in an editorial statement for the purpose of discovering "What's the matter?" that such conditions should prevail. It seems according to the J. of C. that in the higher circles of finance, there is no particular alarm about falling trade, rising wages, and the high cost of living, but rather that these higher circles are becoming conscious of a deep and growing distrust on the part of the masses toward "capital" in general. It proceeds: "The words Socialism and anarchism have become unpleasantly familiar, and there is a vague wonder as to what will be the final outcome of public distemper."

Then after much searching and retrospection the J. of C. suggests a partial cause. It scouts the idea that the ignorant and unscrupulous hostility of politicians is responsible and regards them as an effect rather than a cause. Nor is it the tendency of evolution toward great social and economic changes, for these things do not explain the intense hatred and malice displayed toward "capital."

It finds the cause in the effect on the public mind of long years of "corporate misdeeds which have disgraced American finance," and consoles itself with the statement that the corporations aforesaid are showing tendencies to reform, that "capital is now really on its good behavior," and concludes by hoping that the repentance does

And that's "what's the matter," according to the Journal of Commerce. Capital has done those things which it should not have done, and has left undone those things it should have done, but is the love of the public, which it has rightly forfeited for its previous scientific fact in the modern world—the social revolution.

And to uplift itself once more in public estimation, "capital" is now discharging men by thousands from its railroads and fac- from the earth. But until then the blood of the dead will cease not tories, and insisting continuously in its financial organs that those to cry out against them, nor will its cry go unheeded. remaining in employment must "liquidate," a euphemism for having their wages reduced, and in this insistence the Journal of Commerce itself has played and is playing a conspicuous part. The cost of living goes steadily upwards. The filthy Chicago packers have raised the being able to cheat the revenue longer, is displaying its repentance by jumping the price of sugar from less than 5 to more than 7 cents that the blood should promptly liquefy, and behold it a pound, a proceeding which is certain to regain the lost love of the trouble was averted. The Oil and Tobacco trusts are reforming by re-forming in-California is showing its good will to men by entering into a conspiracy to hang labor leaders for the beneficent purposes of "liquidatthe wages of the members of the Structural Iron Workers' Union. And all the other trusts are turning over a new leaf by benevolently assimilating the property of their competitors, while ever new mergers and combines rise up out of the ruins of competition, and the "upper circles" of finance resolve themselves into one all-embracing circle with J. Pierpont Morgan as the center.

If this does not mollify and placate the public and disarm their suspicion, the Journal of Commerce has surely another guess coming. or its promised good Neither the admitted "sins of capital" deeds have any bearing whatever upon "What's the matter?" They are indistinguishable from each other anyhow. Capital is neither saint nor sinner-it is just capital, and what it has done in the past it must do and is doing now and must in the future also. There is o repentance needed, for there is nothing to repent of. The capitalist system is not an individual, but a social force. In the bright lexicon of its evolution there is no such word as repentance, though capitalist journals may use it to deceive themselves and those whom the system exploits. But there is none the less good reason for that "real but much suppressed fear of deep seated political unrest," which the Journal of Commerce declares to be troubling the upper circles of finance. It is the growing and ever clearing recognition in millions of minds that the old capitalist system in its every phase is played out as a policy by which society can live and progress, that its so called misdeeds are not really such, but inevitable results inherent in the system itself, and that what is required is not its repentance but its abolition. And it is this growing perception that makes Socialism an "unpleasantly" familiar word to the beneficiaries of the robber system. But they will not only have to get used to the word, but will soon have to get used to the thing itself.

The old capitalistic ship is sinking, and the rats that have so long disported themselves among the cargo are taking the alarm. But the public are not interested so much in the rats as in the some-what bigger fact that the ship is sinking. The wickedness or virtue of the rats under such circumstances is not a matter of particular importance. The public has had experience with all sorts of capitalists.

Christians and non-Christians, misers and spendthrifts, philan-thropists and gamblers, profit-sharers and dividend-clamorers, libertines and ascetics, men of evil life and men of godly life, but it has never been greatly impressed by these personal differences, or based its like or dislike of capitalism upon them. Its objection now, more than ever before, is not against the capitalist individually or collectively, but against the system under which he operates.

And it is these objections, growing ever wider, louder and clearer, that alarm the upper circles of finance. If they were directed against individual capitalists they could be safely ignored. But the public are getting over that folly, and are in no wise interested in the repentance of the exploiters or their promises of future good behavior.

Well may the latter ask:

"What is this, the sound and rumor, what is this that all men hear: Like the wind in hollow valleys when the storm is drawing near; Like the rolling-on of ocean in the eventide of fear?"

And receive the portentous and indisputable answer:

"'Tis the People marching on."

That is "What's the matter."

A MODERN VERSUS AN ANCIENT MIRACLE

In a well known Italian city once every year a miracle takes place according to schedule. A portion of the blood of a certain or perhaps an uncertain saint, supposed to have been martyred many hundred years ago, is preserved in a bottle in one of the city churches, and at the appointed time, under the manipulations of a priest, the blood liquefies in full sight of the congregation.

Many years ago we beheld this spectacle, but being naturally skeptical, were not highly impressed. However, as everything went off satisfactorily, the populace expressed their joy by a general celebration of the day. For the miracle is expected, and if liquefaction is not promptly attained the popular belief is that some great trouble is impending.

We now see no great difficulty in accepting this miracle, as it be maintained on his bloodstained throne, and for several weeks held them, and would neither listen nor was finally restored by martial law, military execution and the shootthe revolutionary elements in multitudes. When the next anniversary of the martyrdom came around a similar outbreak occurred, though on a much smaller scale, as the powers that be in Spain expected the miracle and prepared before-
