THE DAY WE CELEBRATE.

CLASS CONSCIOUS WORKINGMEN FILL COOPER UNION.

The Speeches and Resolutions Sound the Clear Note of Uncompromising Adherence to the Class Struggle and Down With the Labor Fakir-The Old Hall Rings With Thunderous Applause.

It was shortly after 8 o'clock when Lucien Sanial opened the May Day seeting at Cooper Union. Such an auace has not before assembled in that great hall for some time. Every seat was taken, the platform was crowded, and at the entrances there were many as standing.

It was a brilliant audience, such as would raise the fire of any speaker. The day also was an inspiration, and Sanial, in telling words, called attention to the object of the meeting.

It was, he said a gathering that had assembled to celebrate the day of the working class, the great international Labor Day. Eleven years are modern Day. Eleven years ago, modern Labor Day. Eleven years ago, modern Socialism, excepting in Germany, was in its infancy. After the fall of the Commune it was impossible to whisper even the name in France. In France, which had been the torchbearer, and the centre of revolution, middle class ideas permeated the working class. But there was still a party which dared stand by the working class and that was the

was still a party which dared stand by the working class, and that was the great French Labor Party.

In 1896 Germany itself was still under the exception laws of Bismarck, but in 1890 he was ousted. From about that period commenced the real observance of the Labor Day of the working class. These can be no fakir, none of those who for years have been howling for a reduction of the hours of labor dare attend a meeting like this. This is the day of the working class. Our day, the day of the Socialist Labor Party.

The Socialist Labor Party says the time has passed when the many shall dies on the field of battle for the advancement of the few. To-night we dies on the field of battle for the advancement of the few. To-night we protest against that. We raise our voices in protest against it, and that protest not only is heard here, but to-night it is ringing throughout the whole civilized world. We have conquered nature, and we must now conquer freedom.

But I must not forget, friends, that it is not a chairman's place to mak, a proced, much as on this occasion he might wish to, so it is with great pleasure that I now introduce to you a comrade from a little State, from a State that would not surprise me if it was the first carried for Socialism, the State of Rhode Island, from which comes: de Island, from which comes:

CHARLES KROLL. Mr. Kroll spoke substantially

Fellow Workers: A meeting of this kind, I must confess, is entirely new to one from Rhode Island. When I see enthusiasm you display, when I see sentiments you applaud, it seems to me that a speech is almost unnecessary.
On looking at this audience one cannot but understand how it was that Section New York has withstood the forces against it. It will be a cheering message talk of the past. Our field lies before us, and it is to gather enthusiasm to reach the goal that we have determined to attain.

The Socialist Labor Party calls upon the working class to sum up the situa-tion before they move further. The average working man imagines that he is still livnig in a free land. Our hardest task has been to convince the workers that they were spending their life-blood for the sake of others. They had still the notes of Yankee Doodle ringing in e notes of Yankee Doodle ringing in eir ears and they could not believe that their ears and they could not believe that there was anything wrong while that tune existed.

But the fakir and the freak reformer, nnable to understand himself, cannot lead the workers to any good.

These are not the men, and they must be resolutely swent anide. The henchman, the paid hireling, are not the ones to lead. One, and only one, the working class, the world-wide working class alone, is capable of achieving its own salvation.

The Socialist Labor Party has the only platform on which an intelligent man may stand. The other parties have had power. They have made promises. But when their reign was over, the working class was found to be in a condition that was worse than the pre-

The cry of the Republicans in the last campaign, THAT INSULT WE HAVE NOT YET WIPED OUT, that is more empty than ever. In Rhode Island, the American Woolen Company that before election paraded its men to show the beauties of the full dinner pail, one week after election closed its mills. That is the finale of the cry. Now must come another one.

They wish some excuse to throw their men out on strike. There are in Fall Riyer 15,000 men who have been out of work for weeks. There is an equal number in New Bedford, and so throughout the whole State of Massachusetts a the whole State of Massachusetts a similar condition of affairs exists.

Yet there are working men, and labor leaders who work with might and main to keep the workers in line. They go through the land preaching the rights of the capitalist class. These men, these misleaders, are the traitors to the working class, and we here denounce them for what they are, the bellwethers for

The Democratic party, which professed to be the friend of the working class, stands ready to do the will of the Republican party, ready to unite with it against the working class. There are its leaders who openly say that they did not believe in the platform on which they stood. Since election things have changed, and Democratic octopus-slayers have had an opportunity to get in on the ground floor of trusts, and we hear no more of them.

In the light of these facts, there remains but one thing for the working class to do. There is a struggle between the working class and the capitalist class. It lies with us to end that struggle. On this, the first May Day of the new century, we, the Socialists of America, should resolve to carry on the fight for Socialism, to extend it to every village in the land, to instill the knowledge of Socialism into every workingman, and through that knowledge we shall gain our mission: the overthrow of the cap-italist system. The working class must use its own power for its own sake, and for the sake of no other class.

In conclusion, he touched upon the rade union side of the question, and his vivid arraignment of the labor fakir his vivid arraignment of the information brought forth thunders of applicates. [The applicates scarcely stooped for a moment during this part of the speech, and was significant of the feeling of the

The following resolution was then in troduced, and adopted with a shout that fairly shook the building. Two persons voted against. That was their strength: RESOLUTION.

"On the first May Day of the Twentieth Century, we the Socialists of Greater New York, in mass meeting assembled under the banner of t____. hting S.L.P., send greeting to our class-conscious proletarian brothers throughout the world. We stand united with them in the great we stand united with them in the gleat-international army of liberation, whose mission is to bring peace and happiness to mankind by abolishing capitalism, regardless of its political forms, and es-tablishing the Universal Socialist Re-public. As the American advance guard of that militant body, facing the strong-

of that militaut body, facing the strong-est, boldest and most unscrupulous capest, boldest and most unscriptions cap-italism as yet evolved in any country from the modern system of industry, we realize the world-wide importance of every step we take, and pledge ourselves to do our full duty. We, therefore, re-pudiate every form of hogus socialism, be it impotent office-seeking Debsism of the United States or the powerful office-holding Millerandism of France; and, ncing as an act of cowardice the Kautsky resolution adopted by the last International Congress, we congratulate the great French Labor Party (PARTI OUVRIER FRANCAIS) for its uncompromising attitude and unconquerable

In commenting on the resolution, San-ial brought the audience to its feet, as he riddled the action of Millerand, and the Kautsky resolution. One or two Kang-aroos lifted up their voices in protest, but the chairman turned to them, and in a moment they were writhing on the keen blade of his satire. Then they

is not just as good. While he admits that it is not a real half-dollar, it is yet coming the way of the real article.

How does it happen that the counter feits have become more common of late? Fifteen years ago there was no danger in the Arm and Hammer, but to-day the danger is recognized, and counterfeits are numerous.

There is the Debs party. It was in stituted for the purpose of misleading the working class, but it must end where all other parties of a similiar nature have ended. That party is as false as the lead half-dollar, but worth not nearly as much.

They say that there are honest men the Social Democracy. It may be in the so, but if it is, they already are looking looking for a chance to be swept into for a way out. The most of them are political power, but the fates have de creed otherwise, and they will only be swept into oblivion.

DANIEL DE LEON.

Daniel De Leon was then introduas the next speaker. As he stepped to the front of the platform he was greeted with tumultous applause. It was some minutes before he could proceed. He said in substance:

"Working men of New York:-On May Day, Labor, class-conscious Labor, takes on for a moment an appearance different from that which it assumes on every cher day of the year. On every other day, it has its aspect of struggle and strife; struggle in the shop for economic advantage and strife in the legal and po-litical field. On May Day, this aspect of laid aside and one of rejoicing, contem-plation and deliberation takes its place. On May Day, the laboring class utters one grand song, the song of its aspira-tions. On May Day Labor looks for-

HAT AND CAP WORKERS

EMPLOYES OF LAMCHICK BROS. AND JACOBS OUT ON STRIKE.

Degrading Conditions That Prevail in the Trade-Exactions Made From Starvation Wages - A Class Conscious Trade Union Needed.

During 1895 there occurred here in New York a strike among the hat and cap makers. The men and women stood out nobly for eighteen weeks, but in the end they were literally starved into submission. Since then wages have continued to decline, work has been harder to get, conditions in the snop are more exacting, and a general demoralization of the trade has set in.

While there is so much talk of the fabulous wealth that is being made on the Stock Exchange, while the papers juggle figures that represent billions of dollors, it is hard to realize that in the hat and cap making industry there are men, heads of families, who make only five and six dollars a week. Out of this they must feed their children, they must clothe them, they must find medicine for them when they are sick, and they must also find medicine for themselves when sick. Even the five and six dollars do not come every week, and during the periods of idleness, which are becoming more frequent, it often happens that the men are reduced to a condition not far removed from starvation.

Such a state of things cannot but be disastrous. It is enough to make the neekest turn. But on top of little work small pay, and bad conditions, there are exactions that are equally criminal. For example, a man must buy his own thread; he must furnish his own machine; and he must purchase the other articles which he eeds in his trade.

It is for all these reasons that the hat and cap makers found it necessary to come together and form a union. They have already succeeded in wring ing some concessions from the bosses, but these have been but few. Trifling advances from 10 to 15 per cent have been won in some cases, but 10 or 15 per cent advances on $5 or $6 a week is very little. It unfortunately happens that the scale of wages here in New York forms the basis of the scale throughout the country. For this reason, in order to assist the workers everywhere, it is necessary to have a solid union here, one that is capable of forcing up wages, and one that can obtain better conditions for those employed at the trade.

The tenement work and the sweating system has lately been introduced. De-spite the laws on the statute books nothing has been done against this, and in order to put a stop to it the union must be so organized that it will be able to break down the power that supports the sweating system.

Those persons employed by Lamchick Brothers and Jacobs have been out on strike for some time. This firm, bent on squeezing more profits out of their help, have been unmerciful in their treatment and conscienceless in their methods. Their help are the worst paid dition of the workers. It needs but a little courage on the part of the strikers worst of the hat and cap making firms in New York, will be defeated in its de-sire to degrade the workers.

HAT AND CAP MAKERS WIN.

Lamchick Bros. & Jacobs Come To Terms.

The hat and cap makers who were on strike at the shops of Lamchick Bros. & Jacobs have won their fight. The firm came to an agreement with the men last night.

The increase demanded by the men, which was all the way from ten to forty per cent on piece work and averages twenty-seven per cent was granted. This is the sixth strike won in the past two weeks by hie Hat and Cap Makers' Union. The victory won last night is considered the greatest, for the reason that this firm paid the lowest wages, and was considered as the back-bone of the opposition to the workers in are directly affected.

The firm attended the shop meeting of the strikers last night, and signed the contract putting the new rate into effect. Needless to say the strikers are jubilant but they are determined not to let the victories blind them to the necessity of keeping their union in good shape and extending into every shop.

The men have also expressed their determination to carry the class fight to the ballot box, as the only way to finally overthrow the economic conditions, rec ognizing that strikes can only afford temporary and uncertain relief.

JUDGE PARKER GRAND MARSHAL

Of the Bogus May Day Parade, Through His Lieutenant Robt. M. Campbell,

After THE thing came the caricature. After the magnificent May Day demon-stration of the Socialist Labor Party of stration of the Socialist Labor Party of this city on May Day, the caricature fol-lowed on May 4. Under the aegis of the Central Fakirated Union, a measly par-ade was held yesterday from Fourth street to Madison avenue, where speeches were made to a rapidly melting away

The parade consisted of barely 3,500 people, the largest partion of which was contributed by some of the Jewish trades; the next largest contingent was from the engineers and firemen; about 300 men were furnished by the brewers; and about as many by the combined tpyo-graphical Unions. No one, standing on the sidewalk, and who had not been told by the capitalist press that their were to parade that night and that it was a "trade Union Labor demonstration." than Brands of cigars, brewers firms bakeries, etc., including the "Sun' were advertised, and, on a wagon, as rickety as itself, the "Volkszeitung" ad-vertisement trundled along. Not a trans-parency hove in sight indicative of the Labor Question, or the significance of the day, that the parade pretended to celebrate, suggestively enough, four celebrate, sug days too late.

But the appearance of the body of the parade was summarized in its head. Its Grand Marshal, white-sashed astride of a nag, was Mr. Robert M. Campbell, of Typographical Union No. 6. Mr. Campbell was the "Workingman's Political League," a Democratic party po-litical fakir affair in 1808. That, year he published a flamboyant handbill in favor of the election of the Democratic Judge Parker, one of the Judges who unanimously refused to reverse the sentence against Sherlock, whom the "Sun" had hounded into prison. Thus, the Lahor (?) advocate of the capitalist Judge Parker, who wrongfully helped keep Sherlock in jail headed a par-ade in which transparencies were conspicuous denouncing the "Sun" for its conduct towards Sherlock. The presence of the Armory Building So-cial Democratic banners was superfluous. Without them even, the Marshal of the parade summarized the performance:—a genuine insult to the Working Class, an attempt to render it ridiculous its aspirations silly and its conduct in Local Union No. 1 of the I. B. of Book binders held last Friday an opening meeting at which Daniel De Leon of the Socialist Inbor Party was invited to address on the effect of improved machinery The hall was full, and not a few visitors were admitted. Aided by a black-board on which the speaker illustrated his points from point to point with figures and diagram explained the law of exchange values as his central point. "From this simple and innocent-looking proposition," said the speaker, "flow thrilling results: slaugh ters in the Philippines, clubbings of workingmen on strike in the streets of New York." This climax was reached by the that I shall return with to my comrades.

CHARLES VANDERPORTEN.

Many men come to us and say: "Are you any better than other Socialists?"

They are like the man who tries to have for sale. The Socialist Labor Day has a different purpose. It is to discuss those questions which confront society, and to settle them. We are not here to the genuine, he sees no reason why it the genuine, he sees no reason why it the set of the se shops telling them that it is up to them; instructing them that they will be de graded to the level of cooliedom unless they take possession of it, overthrow the capitalist system and establish the Social Enthusiastic applause greeted the Enthusiastic appliause greeted the speaker as he closed. Several questions were asked. One was as to the 8-hour movement. On this the speaker ex-plained how the 8-hour movement, the anti-child labor and all such reforms ludes to the full revolutionary program; contrawise, all such movements had only evil results. Another question was how to accomplish the desired result. The speaker explained that the Labor Question was essentially a political question. The workingman had to join a party of their class, not one that preached the class struggle and practised Armory-building but the Socialist Labor Party, whose banner symbolized both the preaching and the practise of the policy that Labor should pursue. Considerable S. L. P. and S. T. & L. A literature was sold at the meeting.

Georgia Mill Men to Meet.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 6 .- A meeting of the textile manufacturers of the State of Georgia has ben called to assemble at Warm Springs on June 5 and 6. The meeting is to be held under the auspices of the Georgia Industrial Association, a separate organization. Prominent cotton-mill owners from other States will deliver addresses. It is exby which mills in certain sections of the State will make an exclusive class of goods. The idea seems to be that diversification is needed, and that business will be hurt if the mills all manufacture one grade of goods. Another question which will be considered will be the edu-cation of the children of the mill.

ARMY TRANSPORT SERVICE.

THE CORRUPTION AND INCOMPETENCY THAT PREVAILS IN IT.

A Navigator Who Could'nt Navigate-Starvation and Neglect of Beturning Soldiers-Prostitute "Nurses" and Their Duties-Treatment of Insane.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 30 .-The corruption attendant on the army transport service, despite the efforts to keep it quiet, persists in leaking out. The papers here give an occasional "write up" to the abuses but not until they have become public property.

A story is told here to the effect that when the Sheridan arrived, a man purporting to be an "Examiner" reporter interviewed one of the quartermasters and obtained from him a written statement of some of the most flagrant abuses on that vessel, nothing whatever of which appeared in the "Examiner," but the document was handed over to Captain Barneson, Superintendent of the transport service, who called the quar-termaster into his private office and said to him: "I will write to every steamship company in this place to work against you and refuse to employ you for writ-ing that article."

From this it will be seen that it is difficult to get any information from employes in the transport service, and the returning soldiers are too closely guarded to allow of their being interviewed unless for "patriotic" slush.

It is stated that the officers of these ships are incompetent. The following statement by one of the crew of the Sheridan, shows that it is only by sheer good fortune that great loss of life has not occurred on one of these ships. "Captain Pierce of the Sheridan, for instance, (known to coast seamen as 'Scantling Bill'), was in command of the steamship Corona when it was wrecked on a voyage to or from Alaska. He was in the habit of maltreating his subordinates in order to cloak his own ignorance.

"The fourth mate was known to the crew as the "Ornament," because of his utter ignorance of his duties. Going into Honolulu the captain "ran excitedly from one side of the bridge to the other, frequently giving contradictory orders, which the "Ornament" re-echoed without knowing what he was talking about." "On arriving in Honolulu the 'Ornament got drunk in a Japanese den and then couldn't pay, whereupon the Japs soundly thrashed him until he ran off.

"When about two thousand miles west of Honolulu the captain ordered a lookout t obe kept all day on the port bow for Weeks or Marcus Island, which is in about 154 degrees east longitude and 24 north latitude. Several cabin passengers were seated on the port ee it, the captain saying we would pass about four or five miles to the north of it. On December 7th the day was fine and good observations were obtained; 'but about 3 p. m. the look-out suddenly reported the island broad off the star board bow, and we passed about seven or eight miles to the south of it.' As the island itself is about fifteen or twenty "On arriving off Luzon, the captain mistook Subig Bay for Manila and ran almost into it before discovering his mistake. Subig Bayis some sixty miles to the northwest of Manila.

"After getting clear of Nagasaki on the return trip, the captain called out east, at the same time turning around to east,' at the same time urning around to go to his room; that course would have taken the vessel right back to Nagasaki. Petersen, seeing the error, asked, 'North ten east, sir?' 'North, ten east,' shouted back the angry captain, feeling highly insulted; but then he looked at the compass once more, having no confidence in himself, discovered his mistake, and called out hurriedly, 'No, no! south, ten The second mate was frequently beastly drunk, in one instance being so far gone that he had to be carried to his room and undressed, leaving his messes to be cleaned up by the deck hands. But at last they got so sick of the dis-gusting job that they threw a bucket of dirty water over him. At times when at sea he would leave the bridge for twenty or twenty-five minutes at a time to get drinks, the safety of 1,500 to 2,000 persons depending upon his vigilance. He would also sleep on his

"The third mate's only function seemed to be to see that the brass-work on the bridge was cleaned; he knew nothing whatever of navigation.

"The Manila Times said that some seven to eight hundred prostitutes are in Manila under the disguise of "con-tract nurses," and more of them coming on every U. S. transport. These "lie around in couples all over the ship, even on the bridge deck, where a gentleman of the medical staff was routed out one night in company with a 'contract advances in prices are probal the factories are ready to produce one of the deck hands played a stream after the summer shut down.

out of a three-inch hose on them, after which they passed in silence down the bridge deck." Such are the people "sent as promoters of civilization and to care for the sick and wounded." "There were a number of female nurses sent home to care for about three hundred sick, and never did they put a foot into the hospital! They have no time, and have too many other things to attend to, seeming not to care how people see them nor what is thought of them."
These returning sick and wounded starved and worn out with dysentery when they come on board are given for not fit for a dog, and only enough of that to keep them from starvation, and when they complain they are told to eat that or do without. They stand in front of the mess-rooms of the crew, count every bit the crew eat and really beg for something. I have seen them make a rush for a lot of catables, left over out of the officers' mess to be thrown overboard, and almost fight over it. If any of the crew was caught giving a soldier any-thing he was punished, but the sailors

Erie County Anthorities to Try Pig Iron Cure.

ERIE, Pa., May 2.-Labor is a drug in the market here. So many men are out of work, and so many come here looking for work, that the public authorities, having occasionally to put up a meal or furnish shelter for the unfortunates have determined to get rid of them.

Hereafter "tramps" who are sent to jail in this country will be compelled to earn their bread by the sweat of their brow. This will cause no conflict with "union" labor, and the trades unions are ' labor, and the trades unions are

A considerable amount of pig iron will be purchased. The "tramps" will be coralled in the jail yard in the morning. and their task will be to carry pig iron. One gang will cart the iron to one side of the yard, and gang No. 2 will cart it back. They will each put in a hard day's work. The plan was conceived by the county commissioners, and there is little doubt but that it will act as a cure-all for the "tramp evil."

At present that are three dozen "vagrants" in jail, and the number is rapidly increasing. This morning Mayor Depinet sent over a dozen and a half. They all protested that they were honest working men temporarily embarrassed. Some of the "tramps" that annually congregate in Erie and are promptly lodged in jail, are let out when a vessel sends in for deck hands. It is well un-derstood that the men are rounded up for this purpose, and that officials get a rake off from hte sailing masters.

The pig iron "cure" will be put in motion in a couple of days. The "pigs" weigh from 100 lbs. up, and it will be a hard day's work for the unfortunate men. It is not likely that any one of them will serve more than one 30 days sentence. When it becomes generally known that a "tramp" in Erie jail must "There. labor, it will keep men out of work from coming here. One of the county commis-sioners said: "Several tons of pig iron "Several tons of pig iron will be purchased and the tramps be put to work as soon as the new addi-tion to the jail is finished. That will be in a couple of days.'

The majority of the co-operatives are in favor of closing May 29, and will submit a proposition to that effect to the other trusts which will, in all probability be accepted. The minority of the co-operatives are opposed to closing on that date for the reason, as they say, that they are not able to do it. Another conference will be held at

Pittsburg on Monday, and the matter will be further considered.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 4.—President
W. T. Gray of the National Window Giass Jobbers' Association has sent out notices to the members of the organization that an advance in the price of window glass will be made May 11. The new discounts are 85 and 20 on less than car load lots, or a fraction over 7 per cent of an advance on present prices. It is estimated in glass circles that future advances in prices are probable before the factories are ready to produce glass

KENNEY AT WORK.

SIGNS AN AGREEMENT FOR A WAGE RE-DUCTION-

Feeders of Jenkins and McCowan Printing Ce., Win the First Round-Franklin Association Prepared to Fight for Its Members.

Mr. George Kenney, who, under cover of Number 6 of the I. T. U., has been working with the bosses for a reduction of wages, scored another point yesterday when he signed an agreement for lower wages. His work in this line has been steadily progressing, and it is now evident that his intention is to kill off the Franklin Association of which Walter Stokes is president and Hubert D. Mulroy secretary.

Kenney seeks to work by allying himself with the bosses, and he does not care much what becomes of the men who have to do the work. Since he started his dirty task, he has pursued this policy, and he stops at nothing if it will serve to cause a reduction of wages.

The New York "Journal," in its so-The New York "Journal," in its so-called labor column yesterday came to Kenney's assistance. It carefully hides the fact that he has been furnishing men to take the places of the press feed-ers and seeks to make it appear that the contract between him and the firm is one that is advantageous to the feeders. The that is advantageous to the feeders. The contrary is true. What Kenney has done is to cause a wholesale reduction of wages. For this reason it is only natural that the bosses would sign an un-limited number of agreements.

Several of them are already in, and Kenney is looking for new additions to Kenney is looking for new additions to his list. The men get a reduction of wages out of it, and Kenney probably is not treated in an unfriendly manner by the firms to which he saves so much Money in wages, Yesterday the foreman of Jenkins and McCowan's Printing Company, 30 Green-wich avenue, told the feeders of the wich avenue, told the feeders of the Franklin Association, of which Walter Stokes is president, that in accordance with the $12 wage scale that Kenny had signed, and which he had been instrumental in introducing, the employing printers of New York would pay no more than $12 a week. The price formerly was $14 a week, thus there is a reduction of nearly 15 per cent. The men were also informed that their wages for overtime would be reduced from 39 cents an time would be reduced from 39 cents an hour to 30 cents an hour.

When this was made known, the men called a meeting and decided that they call not stand for the steal. They would not stand for the steal. They called on their officers, and President Stokes at once decided that he would call the men ont. He so informed the firm. On account of his uncompromising attitude the firm decided not to put the scale into effect. scale into effect.

As Kenny is actively pushing for a general reduction and for the smashup of the feeders' union, there is no doubt but that there will be some active fighting during the coming months. The Franklin Association is prepared for him, and im Association is prepared for him, and will defend its men. As he, of course, has the backing of the employers, his position is somewhat strengthened. A consistent fight on the part of the men will, however, drive all scab procurers from the field.

A Queer Admixture Ladled Out To Them as Socialist Doctrine by the Reverend Lecturer-Collection Did Not Pay Ex-

Tuesdaynight for the third time in Manhattan, the Reverend George D. Herron, man of many loves, threw his whiskers to the breeze, and uttered strange cries. It was found necessary to co-operate with a piano player, as the crowd has hitherto manifested much mpatience becuase the meetings do not commence at a specified time. At eight o'clock there were perhaps 500 persons in the hall. Some of them stamped and e of them chewed gum and looked shilosophical. Then a young lady wearing a tight-fitting smile and a Persian arden hat trotted onto the stage and ade a bow. She was applauded as it was instantly seen that she had design on the piano that goes with Cooper Union when you hire it.

The name of her first selection is unknown, as she had lost her music and was forced to do the best she could. As na apology she played "In the Sweet Bye and Bye" as her second selection, and a "Thunderstorm" with lightening var-

By this time it became known that s piano player was loose in Cooper Union and the crowd commenced to drift in. At 8.15 there were nine men and nineteen women on the platform, and the lody of the hall was two thirds filled. The ldies awho were on exhibition were a strange and variegated assortment. They were somewhat ill at ease on a platform, as most corner groceries are without that very useful article. The strangest sight of all was L. Dodunk Abbott, of the Social Democracy, wedgbetween two dowagers, wore a pair of specs on a pole and did not know how to use it. He held his hand to his throbbing, but somewhat diminutive mustache, and held back his deep and pensive thoughts.

ience, besides being smaller than the first, was also different in other respects. The old women who came to see Heron because he was a minister w stayed away because he was a bad of Allen street nd some unacanny gentle-men who seemed to be under the impression that Miss Rand was to do a Little Egypt dance, and Herron was to play the castenettes. In this they were disappointed, as Herron did nothing but disappointed, as Herron did nothing but talk and talk some more. He has very words to convey no sense whatever. At 8.30 Darwin Meserole stepped forward and introduced the collection basets. They were in the custody of wellness men, as it was thought able not to trust them to the So Democrats, who, moreover, had Crosby was allowed to speak, and oduced the Reverend Herron. The crowd was liberal in its applause. There ere anarchists galore, and an air of ee love pervaded the place. They had applauded so much earlier the evening, that when the collection sket came around they had not energy ough to put their hands in their pocks, and they had too much to allow Herers. An anarchist is not willto adopt any set rules so those preseut gave two cheers, and put the third

Herron has changed little since the un deluge that greeted him when his nt of his wife became known. he seems to like it, and there was face. In every way he is the same face. His feathers are all intact, sive glow of self-satisfaction on t he has developed an air of cynical indifference utterly out of keeping with his professions of love and humanity.

As you look at him you can almost picture his as a boy. He must have seen one of these good children, with a arge white collar, and a piece of apple of the man.

The peculiar chestnut-worm whiteness of the kidney-bean-shaped forehead was more pronounced than ever. His manner, however, is less restrained than formerly. He is off his guard, and he seemed to be more certain of his audience. The laxity and the evidences of laziness noticeable in his written work came out in full force last night. He lounged about, and leaned on his reading desk. He propped himself up and read in a motonous and unbroken morotone, without the former attempts morotone, without the former attempts at interesting his audience. His position must be so secure that he has no fear of

It is little wonder that Herron has

It is little wonder that Herron has himself pictured always in pro-file. When you look him full in the face you see a weak man that is crafty: a comardly man that is cruel: a covertuous man that can dissimulate: a treacherous in that can grasp by the hand the man he intends to do: and an unfeeling man t could mockingly pray by the bed of one whom he had hounded to death. You can read it in his satyr ears, his simian hair, and his rodent eyes. Such a man is in every way capable of doing all he has been accused of doing.

Parts of the audience seemed instinctively to cleave to him. There were, it is true, about a hundred men who slumbared comfortably through the whole show, but there were others who endured the towers of westigned for the sake of the torrent of mysticism for the sake of a "radical" bone or two that was thrown a "radical" bone or two that was thrown to them. One instance of the sleeping is typical. At the left of the hall, there were several men who had came in to rest from their wanderings. They fell asleep to Herron's droning slumber-song. When the audience became any way noisy they awoke and applauded violenly so as to disarm suspicion, and prove that they were really there to listen.

The collection, as in former cases, nct encouraging. It amounted to but $41, and the hall costs twice that amount, and there is much advertising done, Miss Rand, or some other good angel is being plucked to fill the pillow. A freak and a free-lover will applaud, but he will not pay for the privilege.

The speech of the evening follows: Man is a creative factor in the universe and not a victim. There is no seeming The wildest Utopians never imagined ticable ideals of the prophets of Kingdom of Heaven never foresaw in their most infinite gazings into the future possibilities of human fact that might be realized when the socialized man rises in the world. (Applause.) There is no conceiving of what men acting together in the world as one man, men acting in fellowship, men acting universally as one great socialized man, men acting as John Milton put it, as one huge moral personage—there is no dreaming of what the co-operative man might compel the universe to do. (Applause.) There is no conceiving, even the wildest Utopian dreams are but be put beneath human feet when a unwhen the real Son of Man rises up out of the ranks of the labor of the and commands the winds and the stars and the institutions and the forces nature to obey the co-operative will. (Applause.)

What is Tyranny? If we examine it, we will find it is the misused co-operative deal. Despotic power has always mis used the co-operative instinct in order to sustain itself. No despotism could ever stand for a moment without making those it crushed and oppressed thinking it was serving them. Cæsar, Cromwell and serving them. Cæsar, Cromwell and Napolean, each posed as a friend and deliverer of the people. The railway mag-nate must haul you over his railway, the industrial monopolist must furnish you with his products, the church must make you think it can save your soul. [Laughter and applause. Herron emits a watery smile.l And our national gov-ernment is convincing the Cubans that it is our business to fit them for liberty and self-government by perjuring ourselves and taking away what little liberty and self-government they have. [Great applause.] That is all despotism rests upon: a preversion or a betrayal of the co-operative instinct in man. The moment the most despotic power refuses altogether to be responsible, it refuses to listen to a single whisper it, that moment it ceases to be. Supdenly lay down their arms, what would become of the Russian Empire? Suppose the people of Germany suddenly refused to serve in the army co-operatively and together, what would become of the divinely anointed Kaiser? [Laughter and applause.] If the working classes should denly refuse for ten days to earn their bread in the wage slavery system, what would become of the capitalistic world? Why is the world dominated? Why is the world in its soul and body ground up as grist for a great capitalist mill? Why

Because it submits to it. Our French Revolutions, our American Civil War are our historic tragedies, are all collisions of the nations co-operative stinct working itself out, bringing about tragedy, because man collides with it. In other words, to use the old term it is because men in their ignorance are constantly bumping up against what we call "Go," and it isn't God who gets out of the way. (Langhter.) Ours is a universe of no compromises. Tho' compromise seems essential to progres, compre mise is none the less the mother of all tragedy. It is the long way round, and the promised laud always lies a few bours away, if we had the nerve of soul to go in. We compromise with the uni verse, but the universe never compromis es with us. It works on with infinite patience, but with infinite exactness. It uces our blind compromises but it never pe in the folds of his jumper. He must compremises with our blindness. Some-have been such a boy as tells on the times we imagine that the principle has other boys, and then placates them with a bit of candy if he is caught, or if he cannot, keeps out of the way. He must have been the sort of boy that plays with little girls, does fancy work, is good to the teacher, and rejoices in the name of "Sissy." Such he indeed was as a boy, and that boy was the real father of the man.

The peculiar chestnut-worm whiteness tion than we intended. What caused the tragedy of the Civil War? Not the demand for the abolition of slavery, be-cause slavery had to be abolished whether or no. It was the Missouri Compromise and all the compromise legislation which grew out of it. It is always tinkering, remedies, one might say it is always reforms and the conserva-tive adoption of reforms that are the cause of tragedy. (Applause.) To-day if the inevitbale Social Revolution comes peaceably—as we all seek that it may—if it comes as a great economic and moral revolution, as we all trust that it may, it will so come because the So cialist movement refuses to compromise. (Great appluase. A voice: "You mean the Socialist Labor Party!" Kangs hiss and Herron looks uncomfortable and doesn't answer.) A principle may absorb a compromise, but a compromise can never absorb a principle. It is idle when the great dis-inherited labor class of the world cries for the produce of labor, when the work-ers wark for what they make, when labor asks for justice in the form of all that it produces; it is idle for the dilettaute reformer or the religious reformer or the political reforme to say Well, we will get it in municipal water works. Laughter and applause.) We shall have to go the whole length of this co-operative ideal or do without it. We shall have a quarter of it, or any fraction of it: we shall have to have the whole truth about life at last or go without truth. We shall have to have the wholly co-operative world or go without co-operation. We shall have to acept the whole free-dom and logic of fellowship or go with out it and have the horrer of a loveless and fellowshipless world. There are no special privileges in the operative ideal. None are good enough to monopolize it, none evil escape its everlasting pursuit. This cosmic instinct counts every human soul, counts the com mon and the downmost man, a match for its own high endeavor and will belittle no man by giving him less than its world program as the measure of his individuality. Socialism proposes to make every man a world citizen, to make every man equally responsible with every other man for the life and destiny of th world. (Applause.) It proposes to make every man's life glorious by making it count for the uttermost and in the nature of the case the spirit of Socialism will raise up its ideals, its institutions from without itself, from out the common ranks and out of the common life. It is perfectly normal that socialist should be distrustful of institutions and of leaders coming out of the ruling class world, be cause the whole movement demands that every man's life shall count for its utmost in the great universal comrade ship, the program for putting all nations under the yoke of tenderness to those that are in need or in wrong, the program for fitting all, even unto the least, the program of putting on the strong the infirmities of the weak until there shall be no more weak.

Socialism is making ready for the way of the realization of what will ultimately be the love-life of the world, and that through unifying the interests of the world. The Socialist stage of development is a necessary stage of training men in mutuality of responsibility and service. Power is co-operation, lov co-operation, spirituality is co-operation; it is only through the Socialistic experence of the world that this co-operative er spiritual sense can at last its realization. It is only through socializing the economic interests of man that the will to love can socialize the spirit of A man said to me in arguing man. about this matter in Philadelphia the other night: "What we need is to socialize the spirit, the life of men, not their economic things; that will take care of itself." But how can there be a socialized spirit and socialized life, so long as some people own the things upon (Great applaute). It is only through the socialization of the economic world that at last we can have a socialization of the spirit of the world, so that we shall have a truly creative art and litteratoor (sich) and so that the life of the world may become a song, and it is for this reason that some of us are Socialists; not because we do not see a goal beyond Soism a constructive and truly conservative preparation of the way for the love life of the world at last as the basis of the world. That is, we are Socialists en route to the realization of the highest ideals of life of which man can conceive.

Now, even the class struggle, at which so many ignorantly take offense is at bottom, when you analyze it way down to its roots, a love struggle. The class consciousness of the Socialist movement is a profoundly spiritual experience, when you analyze it. The class conscious soli derity of the working class is an in-dispensable prelude to the united solidarity of the world, when there will be no class but a working class. applause.] For Socialism to give up its class conscious philosophy would be to sell out-to sell out- indeed, to sell out not only all that makes Socialism possible, but to sell out as well that ex-perience by which alone Socialism can train labor for this final love-world. Those who object to the class conscious appeal of Socialism on the ground that it is divisive and anti-christian, would do well to read their New Testament with open eyes, and the only place you can read the New Testament is to read it outside of a church door. [Laughter and applause.] For there is no such alignment of class against class, there is no such intensive class conscious appeal in human history as that made Jeecesus. There is no such class conms movement as that which Jeceesus initiated. First and last and all the time the disciples and friends of his ideal were told to stand together, to be true to one another. "By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples," he used to say, "if ye love one another." And so the Socialist says, shall all men know that ye are Socialists, if ye stand together, as workers true to one another, with a comradeship that cannot fail or be tray, asking no freedom from any master, but finding freedom in your own sodidarity and interest and faith and loyalty. [Great

Do you not see that the call of socialism a workingmen to unite is but the counterpart and organized appeal of Jeecesus to his disciples to stand together in love and unity of interests? Do you not see that the class conscious command of socialism is ethically identical with the class conscious command and experience of the early communities or brotherhoods of the sweet and brave Christian springon winged feet to conquer the world and make the Roman Empire tremble at the appeal of these solidified Christion com-munities when they were in their early

But there is a philosophical analogy that goes deeper into human fact than any mere identity of appeal. Jeeesus distinctly regarded the wealthy and governing orders as belonging to a robber class. (Applause.) Whether he was right or wrong about it, none the less we cannot escape the fact. We cannot escape the fact that to Jeeesus the HOR-RIBLE fact was that the robber class of the world not only lived off the robbed class, but that the robber or ruling class of the world made the laws to learn that we can have no part of any good without having the whole good. We shall have to go the whole length with liberty or go without any liberty. The world will never be organized by nine tenths of the truth or three-quarters or

MACHINERY.

WONDERFUL DEVELOPMENT OF THE MEANS OF PRODUCTION.

Its Terrible Effect Upon the Middle and Working Class When Privately Owned Middle Class Must Join With Working Class for Socialism.

The following is a paper read before the Montgomery County Horticultural Society at Shiloh Poultry Farm, Ohio, on May 1, 1901.

In taking up a subject of this kind be fore this society your essayist is aware that he is going far wide of the beaten track of what you have been accustomed to hear on occasions of these monthly meetings; and yet this is the question, above all others, that most vitually concerns each and every individual here, as well as in all the civilized world. If this age in which we are living is to be charicterized by any particular title it will be by that of the age of machinery. Living, as we do, in the midst of a wonderful mechanical development, and fairs and strifes, few of us have the inclination to ask, much less to take the time and labor necessary to intelligently inswer the question, whither is it leading us, and what will be the ultimate effect on the human race of the giant strides we are making toward mechanical perfec-Of all of the lessons taught your essayist in his boyhood days by his honored father, probably the one that struck the deepest root was contained in this trite saying:-"a machine is valuable just in so far as it throws men out of employ-ment; and no further." There are two other ways of saying the same thing that will perhaps make its full significance more easily understood, first: machinery is valuable just in so far as it cheapens he production of wealth; second: machinery is valuable just in so far as it ncreases the productivity of human labor. As a matter of fact, human labor is, to-day, on the average, one hundred and fifty times as productive as it was one hundred years ago. Let us try to grasp the meaning of this statement its completeness; one man, with the aid of machinery, makes a hundred and fifty of shoes, to-day, in the length of time it took a pairs of mar to make one pair one hundred years ago, he can weave one hundred and fifty yards of cloth, to-day, as against one yard one hundred years ago, he can transport a ton of freight one hundred and fifty times as far as he could one hundred years ago; and so on, on the average, all through the gamut. Your essayist has made one of seven men who cut, thrashed, cleaned and sacked an of wheat per day in a run of forty-four five hundred bushels per man per day, one men who plowed twelve inches deep from forty to forty-five acres of land per day. It costs the farmer of this state, with its farms averaging about forty or fifty acres, eighty ents to produce a bushel of wheat ready for the market. In the San Joaquin Valley in California, it costs the Nevada Bank, farming forty thousand acres, John Mitchell, farming ninety thou. sand acres, an average of eighteen cents to produce and put wheat on the mar Further than this, a properly equipped farm of, say 200,000 acres, and a mill properly located, could produce barrel and load on the cars flour twenty-three cents per barrel. This es imate was made six years ago and there is no doubt that, with the developme machinery since that time, it could be done considerably cheaper. One more point: that greatest of modern tools of production, the trust, with its vast, almost illimitable, resources of capital, its power of concentrating and organizing industry, eliminating all of the wastes of competition, including su-perfluous sets of office men, advertisers, constructors of numerous small plants, petty handlers of goods, as well as that borde of n adulterators of the food 'and other articles of consumption of the human race. One of the wastes of our pro-ductive system that is being eliminated by the trusts, that is called to our special attention at this time on account of the noise that is being made by the immediate sufferers therefrom, is the traveling man, the drummer. As a factor of production the drummer. As a factor of production and distribution under a properly organized system he is useless and he must therefore be gotten rid of.

Considering these premises, to what oncusions are we driven?

Let us reason this matter out, not in the light of what may be our precon-ceived notions; nor yet of what it may be that we think we would like to see let us take the cold facts as we have them before us, and treat them logically (Let us say here, in parenthis, that it is a peculiarity of the human mind to hate to be disturbed, to be moved out of the ruts in which it has been in the habit of traveling; but it is the minds that overcome this inertia and which think and study along different and original that count for something in world's progress toward a better and happier life for the human race: when this cut-throat demon that we call business shall have been overthrown and we shall be organized to produce wealth in fact, which no human language can de pict in all its horror, that one class pro-duces the things upon which the world lives and yet actually is denied the right to live (great applause), and that an-other class lives off that producing class, draws the life-blood (long pause), of its institutions from that laboring class and and imposes laws and customs and religions and governments upon that work ing class, and appoints standing armies and police and churches to keep that robbed class in order while it keeps on robblug them. (Frantic, long-continued and of, as now, a constant grasp after profits without caring what may become of the poor devil that goes under in the ably occur to us is that the small pro-ducer, whether in the lines of manufacture, trade or agriculture, is doomed; and, for the welfare of the race, it is right that he should be doomed. Hu-manity has a right to live a higher, fuller, more spiritual life than it under present conditions, with a small percentage of our people grasping for and attaining vast fortunes, the great majority with their faces constantly on majority with their faces constantly on the grindstone, producing that wealth for the aforesaid small percentage to gamble in, and the balance wearily tramping the road seeking for something to sustain life, at no matter what cost, even to that of health and honor itself. There are to-day, in the United States, over five million of people who 'don't know where the next meal is to come from; and the great majority of these come from the ranks of the small producers; from the class of the small produ-the Montgomery County Horticultural Society, and they were all forced into their present condition by the development of the tool of production, the ma-chine; and; friends, this development has only just fairly begun, and it will not cease; it cannot be checked until the last small producer is wiped off the face of the earth and the industry of the world is organized under one head; and, if ousied with our little individual petty af- taken in time, it is within the power of us, the voters of this country, to say in what shall consist that head; but one two things it must be, either Rockefeller and all that he stands for, the private ownership of the means of production by him and the abject slavery of all the est of the world to the tool owner; or, Socialism and all that is implied thereby.

We have been talking hitherto along somewhat general lines; but let us now bring the matter home to ourselves in dividually, let us look at our present conditions as horticulturalists and culturalists and compare them with what they will be under the conditions offered by Socialism; usually we have poor miserable little patches of land, from two to three up to one or two hundred acres, and this, more often not, ornamented with a mortgage that keeps up awake nights worrying about interest and with stooped backs in the day time striving for the wherewithal to pay it, working with poor little tools that we ought to be ashamed of and that are only from two to ten per cent as effective as those we should use, thus taking from ten to fifty times the amount of labor that should be required to create a given amount of wealth; and, moreover, at great expense of labor and mater ial, disfiguring and destroying the beauties of the landscape with ugly, disrepu table fences and hedges that tear our clothes and skin every time we inadvertently come in contact with them; beside wasting vast amounts of time and energy in half doing innumerable chores and household duties that, under a properly organized system will be much easier and better done in the mass. Contrary to all this, under the conditions that will be brought about by the Socialist Republic, the farmer will not have to worry about the ownership of the land; neither will he pay rent for it nor interest on mortgages; and neither will he work with poor ineffective tools, but with the best that the mechanical skill of the world can supply; and, furthermore, the whole of the product of labor will be his own; he will not be obliged to share it with the middleman realize the full final selling price of it.

One point more and we will finish: To the ordinary farmer the word Socialism is a bug-a-boo, a goblin to be fought instead of a friend to be courted and cherished; he imagines that the Socialist wants to take his land away from him, to reduce him to some vague common equality that will be lower and worse than his present condition; but let us try to understand just exactly what it is that the Socialist would take away from you. He would take away your mortgage and your rent bill; he would take away your antiquated machinery replace it with the finest in th world; he would take away your subjection to the middleman and replace that subjection with freedom to produce and sell without cost all that you may choose and be able to; he would relieve your wife of the largest part of the household and milk room drudgery of which she is now the victim; and, fin-ally, he would make possible the highest and best education for yourself and children in order that you could make the most of life of which you are capable.

If there are any here who may wish to go into this subject further, they are cordially invited to attend the meetings of Section Dayton of the Socialist Labor Party. This Section meets every Thursday evening in Rooms 33 and 34 Davies Building, corner Fourth and Main streets, Dayton, Ohio (third floor opposite the elevator). The meetings are open and we gladly welcome all who may that our position is on a scientific basis and therefor impregnable and we wel-come an attack as readily as we do an

Since writing the foregoing, when walking along Third street, your essayist noticed an open pamphlet placed for advertising purposes in the window of a prominent clothing store in that same thoroughfare; and the name of Andrew attention. On reading the matter on the open page it was found to be as follows: Andrew Carnegie says, "One essential for cheap production is magnitude: concerns making one thousand tons of steel per day have little chance against one making ten thousand. We see this law in all departments of industry.'

Instead of saying there that the small firms have little chance as against the big one he should have said that they have absolutely no chance at all.

Could a more open declaration of bit-ter, relentless war by Carnegie's class against your class, the middle class, the class of the small producer, be formu-order to consume and enjoy it, instead dustry under which we are living. The big capitalist don't come and, taking you by the throat, say, Give up to me your miserable little plot of ground and your antiquated machinery. He knows a trick worth two of that; the just simply procures an improved machine that is too big and costly for you to purchase and produces and sells commodities a little cheaper than you can do it and make a living. There is scarcely a meeting of this society but that our friend Jake Fromm gets up and makes his kick against the importation of commodities in his particular line, and the selling of them in the Dayton market at prices with which he cannot compete and live. The reasons for this condition of affairs is very easily understood, are localities particularly There fitted to the culture of, say the grape, where there are large vineyards, fitted with the best machinery and run with ill-paid labor; and they can send grapes into our market and sell them cheaper than we can produce them with our little farms and poor machinery.

Friends, it is utterly useless for us to try to antagonize the progress of the development of industry, and the only thing for us, as intelligent people, to do is to study and understand this development and get into line with it. There are only two alternatives: you may, if you have the opportunity, capital, the energy and unscrupulousness, get into the upper capitalist class; but to do this and maintain your position, you must wipe out all competitors them to the ranks of the proletariat, or peropertiless; or be reduced to that state yourselves by someone who has the above qualifications and opportunity. There is one point to which we would call your especcial attention: frequently men trying to talk up Socialism to a small farmer, we get something like this: The Socialists want to take away our land and divide things up, take away the products of our industry and divide ther Your essayist is in the abstract of little business, and reads every day the transactions in real estate in this county, and the following is a general synopsis of the story revealed therein: Originally the land was sold in large tracts by the government to individuals; these cut it up into small pieces. and sold it to our kind, and in a little while the sheriff comes along and takes it away from us and turns it over to a big corporation for a merely nominal consideration of which we get no part at all. The land that we toiled to acquire and imwe toiled to acquire and im-prove is taken away from us and we are turned out on the road to live or die as it may happen. This corpo-ration then sells it back to others of our class who yet have a little money think they have an opportunity to acquire some; and these, in their turn, go through the same round as their predecessors, and some more of the middle class has gone down into the ranks of the proletariat, so the weary, heart-

To the mind of your essayist the most hypocritically brutal thing about this matter is the Cain-like attitude of the religionists, the Theosophists, Christian Scientists, etc. When we undertake to talk to one of these on this subject and point out the victims of this hellish system, they say that these victims are the product of conditions set up by them-selves and must take the consequences. We can understand the "dog cat dog" attitude of the materialistic capitalist, whose only god is material financial suc-cess and whose only hell is the condition into which he is forcing his fellows in his mad scramble for wealth; those who profess to believe in the spirit-ual brotherhood of man should act in identically the same manner is an anomaly, though one that was clearly defined moment ago when we characterized it as hypocritical brutality.

The logical conclusion of all this is that the proper place for the middle class, which is being mercilessly ground that of the proletariat, is with the Re-volutionary Working Class Movement that is organized for the purpose of overthrowing the system that is crushing you and establishing on its ruins the Socialist Co-operative Commonwealth, "a com monwealth in which every worker shall have the free exercise and full benefit of his faculties, multiplied by all the modern factors of civilization."

EMPLOYER'S LIABILITY BILL.

A new workmen's accident bill has been submitted to the Belgian Chamber. As the law stands at present a workman has claim for compensation unless the accident is due to negligence on the part of his employer. The onus of proof lies with the claimant, who is naturally placed at a disadvantage in pleading a case against his influential opponent. This clause is suppressed in the new measure, which simply provides that for accidents giving rise to less than a fort-night's incapacity no claim shall be allow-able, but beyond that period compensation shall be paid by the employer even should the accident be traced to the fault of the claimant. The amount of indemnity is fixed at half the sufferer's average earnings in case of total disability, or in case of partial incapacity to half the difference in his wage-producing power for which the accident is respon sible. In another section of the bill the employer is offered the option of insuring himself either in the national Caisse d'Epargne or in a private company aproved by the State; and the contracting society is bound to take over all respon sibility on the score of accidents, the employer's liability ceasing entirely. If he decline to insure, the workingman' claim for indemnity becomes a first charge on his estate after the payment of ordinary wages; and he is further obliged to capitalize certain sums for future compensation and pay the amoun into a state bank or insurance company approved by the state. The law is mad to apply also to agricultural laborers injured by machinery of any kind.

The bill is heralded as a great benefit to labor. The Belgian Socialists point out that the two weeks exemption claus practically nullifies what good there is in the bill. There are many accidents lated. I tell you, friends, that your class in the bill. There are many accidents is doomed to destruction; as a class it that do not incapocitate for two weeks, will be annihilated by the forces at work and if a man is laid up for three weeks in the development of the system of in-

ANOTHER FRAUD EXPOSED.

THE NATIONAL CASH REGISTER CO., ORIGINATOR OF "WORKERS' BET-TERMENT" THROWS 2,300 MEN OUT OF EMPLOYMENT.

Refuses To Reinstate Four "Union" Men -Claims That It Has Stood "Dictation" Long Enough-The Fraudulen Pretensions of the Company In Favor of "The Mutual Interests" Between Capital and Labor Laid Bare.

DAYTON, May 5.-The fraud known as "The Workers' Betterment" was ruthessly exposed here yesterday by the originators of the scheme itself.

Twenty-three hundred men have been thrown out of employment by the National Cash Register Company here.

The trouble grose about the discharge of four union men in the moulding department. J. H. Patterson, President, and Robert H. Patterson, manager, say that they have stood the dictations of the unions as long as they intend to, and they will shut up the factory indefinitely. They allege that one or the other of the unions in the various departments of the factory always has a grievance and there is always a committee asking for a hearing.

In this individual case the four union men were discharged for cause, says Cash Register Company. The matter was appealed to the Shop Committee, which investigates every man who is hired or discharged. The Shop Committee is made up of men from the various unions. This committee asked the company to take the men back. The company refused. The moulders walked out and the metal polishers struck in sympathy.

Other unions were preparing to strike when the company closed the doors and dismissed all of the men. The office force was suspended to-day at noon. Several weeks ago trouble arose with the setal polishers and it was referred to ational President Lynch and Cice-Presi-ent Marlett, who came here and held treral conferences with the officers of company. A compromise was exat the time expected to be taken back, but the arrangement failed. Nothing was et the same fate as the metal polish-s; hence the trouble to-day. The mould-s and polishers say they must be treatd fairly and that their unions must be guized. The company says that it recognized. The company says that it will never recognize the unions and will can its own business in its own way, or will leave the plant closed indefinitely. The Manufacturers' Association is said to be backing the cash register company. The Retail Grocers' Association is said to have held a meeting this afternoon and decided not to let the strikers have recognized. The "Workers' Betterment" scheme, of nich the National Cash Register Co s the originator in this country, is based the idea, as it is put, an employer owes his employee "something more than wages."

As a result all sorts of profitable schemes are put in practice in shops, all of which is said to redound to the "mutual advantage" of both employer and employe.

The employees are provided with lunch and reading rooms, libraries, baths, swimming pools, recreation grounds, comortable chairs, etc. They are urged to reater productivity by prizes, premiums and shares in all profits above a certain gure. All these things, it is claimed, ead to the establishment of idyllic re-ations between employer and employee "who are thus brought to realize their mutual interests and dependence."

This concern was first organized here ineteen years ago. It is the pioneer annifecturer of cash registers. For the first few years of its existence it had a hard struggle to keep afloat. Debt and discouragement met it as the outset, but the officers, realizing that they had sood thing, kept on raising money and aproving the register, until now they laim to have a practically party.

new method, as they call it, or The new method, as they call it, or ow to make a husiness successful from the standpoint of the capitalist, and yet elude the employe into the idea that he being bettered, has been to a great exent successfully accomplished here. At one time, the amount of defective orkmanship and hie imperfections of the machine caused thousands of dollars out the company. This finally led the month of the output to be thrown back inpon the company. This finally led the company to a consideration of a change in factory methods.

The first thing was to endeavor to attract skilled mechanics by the offer of good wages, but this alone was found insufficient at that time to draw desir-ble men fro mthe big cities; then began ne modern methods.

The first step was to give the most complete information possible to all em-loyees regarding the details of the busi-less. This was accomplished by fre-quent meetings, by factory publications and announcements. Next, it was de-ded to educate the employees—each in his special line of work. Meetings were d for this purpose, at which topics business interest were discussed; s were compiled by practical mech-were distributed in the machinnery department; prospective salesmen were required to meet under a practical matractor for a six weeks' training be-ore they were allowed to go on the average of 4,000 suggestions are received each year. About one-fourth of these are available, which makes the average reward per each available suggestion a little over ONE dollar. Here are some results to company and workers: For six suggestions, cited as fair examples, $165 was paid. From the resulting im provements the company saves $855 year! Many suggestions are received whose money value cannot readily be comput-ed. In one case, for instance, a sugges-tion was adopted which led to the improvement of the device for printing advertisements on the backs of paper checks issued by a certain style of reg-ister. While this is valuable, its exact

Of suggestions offered by heads of departments and others who receive no prizes, two have recently been adopted which result in a saving to the company of about $8,000 a year. show cash returns; far above this, however, the company places the resulting tendency of the plan toward increased efficiency, interest and productivity by the whole body of employees.

As an evidence of how finely thing is figured here, take the lunch that is served at a cost of one cent per day to each girl. The girls take turns in preparing and serving it. The company has organized a cooking-class under the direction of an experienced teacher. The class now has about 200 members. It meets twice a week for lessons. The price charged for each meal—one cent— The s about one-fourth of its average cost to the company. Since the addition of the lunch-room the increased average out-put in all the women's departments has amounted to six cents per day. Reducing the working schedule of men from ten to nine and one half hours, and of women from ten to eight hours was heralded with a blare of trumpets. The pay remained as before on the basis of ten hours a day. More work was acomplished after the reduction than before. In one department, for instance, under the ten hours schedule eighty-nine employes produced an average output of fifty-two parts of a certain kind of machine: working eight hours per day, the number of women employed in that lepartment was decreased from eightynine to seventy-seven, and the average laily output on the same work increased from fifty-two to fifty-nine.

Another plan adopted for the "benefit of the employes" was the introduction of piece-work recently. Here is the result in one department, best shown by the RESULTS OF TIME-WORK AND OF

PIECE-WORK. Before Piece-work was Introduced. Av. Da. No. Av. Emp's Wages

In every department similar were obtained. The main point is that in order to obtain the desired co-operation, plans were adopted which made it apparently advantageous to employes while at the same time concealing the fact that it is a scheme, the sole object of which is to create a paying investment to the company. This idea—"mutual" advantage, without "charity"—is the foundation of preciped and tion of practical and successful betterment to the company.

The strike above mentioned has destroyed this idea-in fact thoroughly de-

English Coal Miners Tangled Up in the Meshes of Classic Pure and Simpledom.

LONDON, May 1.-At a meeting of the Miners' Federation, held in London to-day and attended by delegates from all parts of the United Kingdom, it was recommended that all miners quit work if the proposed coal tax is imposed. Another meeting was summoned for May 7 to finally decide the matter and to fix a date for the stopping of work should that step be resolved upon.

It is understood that the recommendation of the Miners' Vederation will be that in the event of the men approving, some 760,000 miners will lay cown their tools when the signal is given.

Whether or not the miners will actually strike depends largely on the trend of the discussion of the coal tax resolution which comes up in the House of Commons to-morrow. Although it is generally supposed that the coal owners have been backing the miners with the object of bringing pressure on the government to modify the coal taxation project, there are signs of a division of opinion since the federation reached its grave decision, and some of the influential owners, especially those not exporting coal, are counselling prudence.

The miners' reason for advocating a strike appears to be based on fear that the owners will recoup themselves from the tax by an equivalent reduction in

MEWS FROM M THE FIELD OF LABOR.

The news received from the Field of Labor for the week ending May 3, shows no diminution in the struggle that is waging between the capitalist class and he working class. As in preceding weeks there strikes for increased wages and decreased hours, and the recognition of unions, on the part of the workers that have been bitterly opposed by the employers.

These strikes have occurred in dustries in which the country is continually been informed "unexampled prosperity prevails." They involved the building trades, mechanics, railroaders, the miners, telephone linemen. leckouts and threats of strike that denote much smouldering dissatisfaction, showing that where there are no strikes there is still discontent and misery.

The building trades strikes include the strike at Waterbury, Conn., for an eight hour day and employment of union labor only, involving 150 carpenters; the strike at Yonkers, N. Y., of 700 bricklayers, plasterers, stone masons, and hodcarriers, for 55 cents an hour and half holiday Saturday; the strike at Trenton, N. J., of plumbers for eight hours and 3114 cents an hour (a strike of carpenters and masons, begun two weeks ago, still continues); the strike at Columbus, O., where the carpenters want an increase of ten cents an hour and an eight hour day; the strike at Grand Rapids, Mich., where plumbers seek to enforce a new wage scale; the strike at Youngstown, O., where the plumbers want pipe works now done by apprentices, to be done by journeymen, and the plasterers want an eight hour day with nine hours pay ($3), and finally the strike of 600 tar roofers in Greater New York and Jersey City for an eight hour day and the renewal of yearly contract.

On the railroads strikes occurred as follows: In Springfield, Mass., 110 freight handlers employed in the yards of the Boston and Maine, Boston and Albany, New York, New Haven and Hartford railroads, struck for an crease of wage from $1.50 to $1.90. The at Port Jervis, also struck, cause not given. The section men employed at williamsport, Pa., on the low grade di-vision of the Pennsylvania Railroad struck for higher wages; 300 men struck at the car shops of the Delaware and Lackawanna Railroad, at Dover, N. J., for the reinstatement of two discharged men; later this strike extended to the car shops of the same company at Scranton, Pa., where 1,000 men went out. A strike at the Ashley shops, near Wilkesbarre, Pa., of the Jersey Central because of the discharge of 15 men formerly employed there. There was a strike in these shops four weeks ago, which was "amicably settled" by the reinstatement of 30 men, with whom the 15 men now discharged were included. The men on the Canadian Pacific Railroad demanded an increase of five per cent; 800 engineers, brakemen, ductors, etc., employed on the Brooklyn "L" roads demanded the reinstatement of a discharged conductor and the ecgnition of the Lexington Association. in which they are organized. mands were not granted, and strike talk

It is for a minimum rate of $3 a day; 420 men employed by the Boston "L" and all the telephone, telegraph, and electric light companies are involved. The coal mines at Red Lodge, Mont. owned by the Northern Pacific Railroad, and at Bridger, Montana, owned by Senator Clark, have closed down, throwing 600 men out of employment. trouble is over an eight hour day, which Clark promised the miners in the advent of his election, a promise which he now repudiates. The East Helena, Mont., mines of the American Smelting Compary have closed down, throwing 1,000 men out of employment. The company refuses to grant "union" demands.

The machinists of Buffalo and vicinity to the number of 1,500 struck for the nine hour day. The machinists have prescated their demands for a nine hour day to the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company at Wilkesbarre, and the Illinois Central at Chicago, threatening a genenral strike in case the demands are not granted. The Lehigh Valley has the matter under consideration, the Illinois Central positively refuses to grant the demand, and a strike is said to be imminent.

The Anaconda Mining Company at Butte, Mont., has granted a nine hour day to machinists at its smelters. It will not "recognize" the union, however, and none of its strikers will be taken

The steel rail mill will be discontinued, and removed to the Illinois Steel Company at Chicago, These mills control of the United States Corporation.

Strikes are threatened in Newark, N where eight local carpenter unions want $3 a day wages; and on the East Side, New York, where 1,000 Hebrew bakers want a shorter work day.

And so the conflict rages all over the country, affording abundant evidence of the Socialist contention of the existence of the class struggle.

The man who asks a robber for a pittance of that of which he has been robbed, has a small chance of receiving anything; but he who asks for that to which he is entitled, has a moral force which imparts dignity to his demands. Labor is the producer of all wealth, and it is immoral, consequently, to permit the capitalist class to rob it f that wealth. No one workingman can be emancipated unless all the workers emancipated. And no emancipation of the working class is possible, unless it include the working classes of all no tions. It sends them a message to inform them that we, the working class, of America, the leading capitalist nation of the world, recognize our important position, and will do our duty accordingly.

The speaker then referred to the DAI-LY PEOPLE. Said he: "There is not in the whole English-speaking world, one English daily Socialist newspaper, except the DAILY PEOPLE. Despite the ear-lier capitalist development of other English-speaking countries than ours, despite ts absolute necessity in the teaching and guidance of the working class, such a newspaper has been lacking. We, here in America, have accomplished the task of launching such a newspaper within a brief period, despite tremendous obstacles. [Long and prolonged applause.]

ARTHUR KEEP. Arthur Keep was the next speaker. He Arthur Keep was the next speaker. He compared the cleanness of purpose manifested at this May Day gathering with those of the past. In the past it was customary to make a demand for eight hours only, while to-day a demand is made for the overthrow of the capitalist system and the substitution therefor of Co-operative Commonwealth, which the workers shall get all that they produce.

The chairman, Lucien Sanial, then brought the meeting to a close. In so doing he voiced the hope that ere next May Day, the ignorance of the working class in matters of economics will be greatly dispelled. He also mentioned the great work being done by J. P. Morgan and other trustifiers in hastening the development of the Socialist Movement by their vast concentrations. The meeting adjourned with three cheers and tiger for International Socialism.

THE FIELD OF CAPITAL.

The news from the Field of Capital for the week ending May 4, recorded much of interest and importance concerning capitalist concentration and absorption.

The dominating factors, directly and indirectly in this news, were the Morgan syndicate, the Standard Oil Company and the American Tobacco and Cigar Trust. The Morgan syndicate, by which is meant the financial interests headed by the firm of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., created a sensation during the week by inaugurating the first steps in the direction of the consolidation of some of the largest trans-atlantic shipping interests, by the purchase of the Leyland Line of steamers. The purchase of the Leyland Line is said to be tantamount to its consolidation with the Atlantic Transport Company The Leyland property was recently appraised at £15,000,000. It owns sixty-five vessels, that run from Liverpool and London to New York, Boston, New Orleans, Quebec, Montreal, the West Indies and the Mediterranean. The Atlantic Transport Company's fleet is estimated to be worth £4,000,000, making the total amount involved £19, 000,000, or near $100,000,000. This, it is said will give the syndicate control of the largest ocean tonnoge, and a means of sending the United States Steel Corporation's products to all parts of the vorld.

The Morgan interests have not stopped here, however. At Wilkesbarre, Pa., the Temple Iron Company, one of its properties, negotiated for the valuable property of the West End Coal Company. There is no doubt that the deal will be closed. With it will go a more absolute control of the anthracite coal industry in Pennsylvania by Morgan & Co. A despatch from Athens, O., during the week stated that practically the whole day Creek valleys would come under the control of the Morgan syndicate. Morgan & Co. were also reported during the week as being after the Steel Company's properties at New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, for the United States Steel Corporation. This corporation purchased the Aragon Iron Mine, situated near Norway, Mich., for $2, 500,000, thus absorbing another valuable property. Taking it all in all, it was a very busy week for the Morgan syndicate.

The strategic step of the Standard Oil Company, noted last week, will ,it is reported, compel many independent oil companies in the Beumont, Texas, field to consolidate into one company with a capital of either $50,000,000 or $100,000,-000. Thus does competition destroy consolidation!

The American Cigar Company, the Havana-American Company-both properties of the Tobacco Trust-were re ported as negotiating with five or six large Chicago firms, with the intention of forming a cigar consolidation with a capital of $60,000,000. In addition it is reported that other "deals" are under way, that will swell the capital to $100,000,000.

A despatch from Wheeling, W. Va., stated that three and probably other Wheeling stogie manufacturing concerns had been approached to enter into a consolidation that, it is said, will include the larger factories in Pittsburg as well as those in Wheeling. It is said that a syndicate of men interested in the American Cigar Company is pushing the consolidation. From Louisville came the information that the Continental Tobacco Company (another Tobacco Trust property) had purchased the three large warehouses of the Southern Warehouse Company of that city.

Many new trusts were formed during the week. First, in capitalization, was the ship building trust of shipyards on the Atlantic and California coasts, with $70,000,000 capital. Following came a Straw Hat Trust known as the American Straw Hat Manufacturing Company, and composed of fifteen New York and three Baltimore firms, capital $12,000,-000; an Upper Leather Trust, with Pitts-burg as headquarters, and $10,000,000 capital; a Stove Trust, made up of principal manufacturers of the country and organized on lines similar to those of the United States Steel Corporation; a Piano Trust with $50,000,000 capitalization, and headquarters in New York; a Cali-fornia Raisin Trust, representing 90 per cent of seeded raisin, and 75 per cent of raw product, capital $300,000; and finally Southern Ice Trust (the Hammond Ice Company of Baltimore), capital $2,-000,000. A Farm Implements Trust and 000,000. A Farm Implements Trust and a Gas and Gasolene Stove Trust, capital not given, were also proposed. In addition there were many absorptions by the Union Lead and Oil Company; the Foundry Trust; the Mount Vernon-Woodbury Cotton Duck Company, and the Samoset Corporation, at Pawtucket. Thus ends a week of big consolidations.

A NEW MILL

THAT SHOWS THE DEVELOPMENT OF MODERN CAPITALISM.

One of the Largest Buildings of its Kind in the World-Lesson It Should Teach to the Working Class Necessity for the Ownership, by Society, of the Means of Production.

In Ure's "Cotton Manufacture." 1878. there is an interesting description of a cotton mill, and a contrast drawn be ween it, and the mills that preceded it. It is hailed as a giant, and its dimension are given as 160 feet long, 50 feet wide. and two stories high. Contrast that with the one described in the Manchester, N. H., "Union."

The huge mill of the printing departnent of the Manchester corporation wibch is approaching completion and which is one of the largest buildings of the kind in the world, stands on the east bank of the Merrimack river, below Granite street, and viewed from any is a most impressive structure. Not as five architectural piles are impressive, but having the dignity which attaches to It is essentially a big mill and speaks of ment under the entire structure. The total floor space of the mill is 706,953 square feet, something over sixteen acres.

The work of construction has been necessarily protracted owing to the magnitude of the undertaking. tions and laying of the foundations required months of time, the former being carried to a depth of thirty feet in some places. All kinds of deposit was struck by the workmen, and in some places piles were driven before the foundation stones were laid. Eleven thousand cubic of stone were used in the foundation and 2,000 cubic yards of cut ston have been used for window and doo sills. The best of lumber has been put the structure to the amount of 4,000,000 feet, and 8,000,000 bricks have been used in the walls.

The equipment of the mill will be in every way up-to-date. Use will be made of steam, water and electric power; the steem being generated north of Granite street and conveyed to the several points big things. Its west wall stretches along the river front for a distance of 774 feet, while its north and south wings are each 330 feet long, making a total length of 1430 feet. Then, largely hidden from view are color shops department and engraving and sketching rooms, projecting from the east side of the body of the mill, between the wings. These are 120 x 120.8 feet; and 50 x 100 and 50 x 106 eet respectively, and one story in height. The main building, including both wings is four stories in height and has an average width of 100 feet. There is a base brough the subway under the thoroughfare, the water power being that of two turbines, and the electric current being furnished by the Manchester Traction Light and Power Company. The machinery will be taken from the mills now running, which are seriously congested The heating will be by hot air, two 111/2 feet and two feet13thirteenrnlikegker h feet and two 13 feet Sturtevant blowers having installed into this work. These will be run by two engines, one of seventy-five and the other of 100 horse power. The entire structure is equipped with automatic sprinklers.

Such a development could occur only under capitalism. The tendency to-day is to create larger and ever larger structures, and as the size of the plant grows, it follows that the number of persons participating in its ownership decreases. It also follows that the workers in such a mill are subjected to newer and more grinding conditions. They must work for smaller wages, and they must be content with a smaller proportionate share of their product.

Vast changes have come since the days when the New England woman spun and weaved in the little New England cottage. She was the mother of a fam-ily that was independent and self-supporting. Its members did sot have ask anyone for an opportunity to work. They controlled what they produced and the return for their labor depended diy on the extent of their labor. the conditions under which they lived may not have been the most pleasant They were pioneers in a comparatively new country, but they were able to pr cure through their own endeavors cough to eat, and enough to wear. Contemporary history pictures them as a contented, happy, healthy race. New conditions have changed all this, and the descendants of the New Englanders are the reverse of happy and contented. They live in the most carious way. They must enter that new mill, of which a description is given above, and they must beg for a chance to work. In order to obtain that chance, they must submit absolutely to the conditions that the mill owners see fit to impose. That those conditions are degradng and brutalizing the mill population of Manchester bears witness.

They will continue to be brutalizing and degrading until the working class takes back the instruments of produc-tion that have been stolen from it, and uses them for its own benefit, instead of using them as now to its detriment.

A DEMONSTRATION.

More than once comes the wail to this office that "success is impossible": "the enemy is so strong," his "wiles are so numerous," and " the masses are so unsoshisticated" that "confusion will ever Trust factories is Union labor! reign supreme," the "truth of Socialism can not reach them," "the Socialist Labor Party can never be appreciated." The men and women of little faith, who are so readily discouraged by appearances, should gather some little courage from a recent striking event that has thrilled with joy and nerved the already amply enthusiastic and nerveful hosts of the S. L. P.

When, 22 months ago, the crash of July 10 took place, the National organ of the S. L. P., THE PEOPLE, then a weekly only, was suddenly confronted with an exact imitation as far as external appearances could go. Not until the bogus publication was looked into could the false ring of the counterfeit be distinguished: in name. ette, size of paper, nad distribution of the articles, the counterfeit followed closely the genuine paper.

Nor was that all. Altho' the assailwere ignominiously driven from THE PEOPLE'S editorial room, and all he paper's archives, correspondence, etc., was saved, there remained, nevertheless, ir the hands of the Kangaroos the paper's mailing-list, P. O. permit, exchangelist and all such other parts of THE PEOPLE'S essential machinery of distribution, that had been confided by the Party to the worthless "Volkszeitung."

A completer instance of power to confuse, a completer opportunity to blanket the Right and give a chance to the Wrong, can hardly be imagined. On the orning of July 11, 1899, THE PEO-PLE had to start to rebuild its own mechanism of distribution, so as to be able to reach the public, and in the doing of this it encountered the added difficulty of crossing that gate to the public-the P. The Kangaroos had invoked the aid of the capitalist government in the behalf of their counterfeit. For four days THE PEOPLE bundles lay stacked up in the P. O. It was not until the fifth known as "The Bogus," had this full time thelead of THE PEOPLE, and it could fly from the start fully equipped with THE

PEOPLE'S mailing-list, etc. And yet, what happened? Were the masses taken in? Was the desired confusion reached? Was the Truth blanketed and the Lie swallowed? In short, did "The Bogus" prosper and did THE PEOPLE pine away? If, indeed, the power of the foes of Socialism were what k souls judge from appearances, andif the masses were the gullible beings they are rashly taken for by the superficial observer, the answers to the above questions would have to be a series of emphatic affirmations. Yet not so! One hatic NO is brought out by the facts: Within a few months "The Bogus" bagan to betray decided signs of decomposition: the signs of decomposition increased and multiplied: from being selfsustaining, the day it started its pirate career with THE PEOPLE'S property, its deficit grew and gathered size, until its last official report, aitho' visibly doctored, registered a weekly deficit of 698.61, and finally, it curled up and died. dropping the name that it had usurped. Hand in hand with this negative demonstration, a positive demonstration was taking place. THE PEOPLE beat its way through all obstacles; it steadily rebuilt its machinery of distribution, which speedily became larger than the old one: its circulation gained with rapid strides; ithin a year it gave birth to the DATLY abandoned name, the waters at the bottom of which the crazy craft of "The Bogus" lies wrecked.

No! Neither is the enemy the irresistible power that Pusillanimity imputes to it, nor are the masses the hopeless "stuffees" that Ignorance takes them for. Thoroughness in principle, firmness in tactics is THE power of the day. Subservient thereto the spheres ever have moved.

As with THE PEOPLE, so with the S. L. P. Its imitators must go under, one after the other. Space in Sociology has no more room, than has space in Nature, for the absurd, because incoherent, or for the incoherent, because absurd.

HOISTED BY ITS OWN PETARD.

The Buffalo "Express" expresses great indignation at a "trick of trade" resorted to by certain tobacco dealers, who "are not in the Trust." to advertise their own goods. The trick consists in a circular, bearing the pontifical unction: "Allied Printing Trades Council" of Milvaukee, denouucing in the usual populistic vein "the octopus that stands in the way of success to the common citizen," declaring that "it is to the interest of every good American citizen to purchase only such tobacco that bears the Union Label,"—and closing with a puff for certain firms. The "Express" is indignant at such an "unscrupulous method of advertising"; and its indignation boils over at the thought that "the plea in behalf of the firms puffed hangs on the fiction that there is no Union labor in the tobacco factories controlled by the Trust." whereas the labor in the mouthling, hoisted by its own petard. The facts have been piled mountainhigh that prove the label of the pure and simple Union is, on the one hand, ar advertising medium for capitalist firms, and, on the other hand and as a result thereof, itself an article of merchandise on which the Labor Fakir traffics. Unions untold have placed Fakirs untold at the service of firms-for good round salaries, of course,-to travel through the country, "to announce that suchand-such a firm is a 'Union firm.' sanctified with the label." The "Unionism" of the shop, attested to by the label, in one and all cases cured and covered all the Union violations that continued in the respective shops: the wages and the treatment of the men continued to cry to heaven; but the "label," sold and bought, was used by the labor-fleecing firm to stop the mouth of opposition, and thereby to puff itself,-of course at the expense of competitors, who, "Union" or no "Union," "label" or no "label," had either been previously chicaned by the Fakirs, or were being dieted for future "negotiations." All this has been proved over and over again; it has been proved with greatest frequency in connection with just the International Cigarmakers' Union and its "label," not to mention the Harry White Garment Workers, the Phillips Hatters, etc., and, what is more, none better know the charges to be true than the capitalist firms themselves.

In view of all this, the cause of the bitter tears shed by the "Express" is not indignation, but rage at seeing that a "trick of trade," pursued by itself, is now turned against it. Indeed, bizarre is the posture of indignation on the part of a capitalist concern, like a capitalist newspaper, that sells its advertising columns with even-handed imparday that that barrier was cleared and tiality, taking in puffs for pay from THE PEOPLE could reach the outside firms that cut one another's throat,struck by such a practiser of capitalist business harlotry, at the identical practice indulged in by the nasty imitator of the capitalist-the Labor Fakir.

THE CUDARY AFFAIR DEVEL-OPING.

One may well imagine the annoyance felt by Judge Baker, the magistrate who presided in Omaha at the trial of James Cellahan for alleged complicity in the Cudahy kidnapping affair, when the jury, testimony brought in, as they were bound by their oaths and common intelligence, a verdict of "not guilty." The conduct, however, of the magistrate was so shockingly undignified, one may almost say criminal, that it opens vistas for conthe "elite" conspiracy, now commonly known as the Cudahy Case.

From the time of the kidnapping it was pointed out in these columns that the it would be pure abstractions. It is matter bore intrinsic evidence of being a when in power that a party should be plot planned, engineered, and executed criticised, if it deserves criticism. A by men skilled in the daring exploits of party in power is the trustee of the pubthe legalized crime, called Stock and Pro- lic moneys put in its hands. It is there duce Exchange "transactions." It was also to administer these according to the will, pointed out that attempts to throw sus- not of office-holders or their political orpicion upon workingmen, unlettered and ganization, but of the people, in the holunpractised in the making of such per- low of whose hands are those officials, fect combinations, was but a blind to together with their whole party. So protect the evil-doers. The malefactors, far from "being in power" being a rea who, beyond a doubt, are of the Cudahy PEOPLE,—the first daily Socialist paper "elite" set itself, and who, accordingly, its "being in power" justifies criticism, the English language, and the pride of are themselves past-managers of the ma-puted, with its old respected and never in motion in a direction opposite to their own. Their tracks would be covered if a victim could be found. The arrest, indictment and prosecution of James Callahan, a poor workingman, was intended to furnish the needed victim. But the victim escaped, thanks to the sturdiness of the jury in the case. No wonder the Cudahy set of "elites" is violent with rage. And that explains both the antics by the baffled police and the still worse antics of the more baffled Judge Baker.

When Judge Baker recovered his breath, knocked out by the verdict that told him as clear as clear could be that his manipulations to convict an innocent man had been seen through, he is reperted as having gasped out:

"If Callahan had made his own choice of a jury, he could not have selected twelve men who would have served him more faithfully. If the State for its part had made the selection. I know man it could have named who could have been less careful of its interests. pliments of the Court, and the prisoner I presume to continue the criminal practices in which you have failed to check him. I do not know what motive actuated you in reaching this decision but I hope none of you will ever ap-pear again in this jury box."

Is there on record a worse exhibition of judicial indecency and arrogation of rights? A jury insulted; and a prisoner, just acquitted under the laws of the land that this Judge is sworn to bow to, has his charatter smirched by an "obiter dictum !"

The conduct of Judge Baker goes far to confirm the theory that the kidnappers in the case are of his own set. His conduct shows the criminal and inhuman lengths to which individuals of that set of labor-fleecers, together with their lackeys in government, are capable of going; and the mental condition that this reprobate magistrate betrays at the escape of his victim clearly denotes, not the self-possessed indignation of a Judge, but the fury of an official malefactor. who had staked all upon success, and who, having failed, finds himself out of

When, at the time, the Cudahy affair was taken up in these columns, it was pronounced an incident that marked an epoch in the evolution of class-development in the nation. Judge Baker's indecency places a cap-stone on the affair. It also justifies the expectation that the affair may yet develop into monumental proportions.

IS CITY'S MONEY CROKER'S MONEYP

While the self-respecting element of this city is on the alert against the insult of charity that the social plunderers not infrequently seek to heap upon it, it awoke yesterday morning to discover that, at least in the eyes of some folks, it has been the object of charity at the hands of Mr. Richard Croker.

The students of the College of the City of New York have a college publication, "The Review," administered by a set of officers chosen by themselves out of their own ranks. The last issue of the publication contains an article by a student critcising Mr. Richard Croker. So soon as informed thereof, the president of the College, Mr. Alexander S. Webb, summoned the managing Editor of "The Review" before him, condemn ed his course in permitting such an article, and ordered the edition called in. And what was the reason for all this? Perchance that the article was the article did not lie open to such a and the edition called in because the attack was false? Yet, again, No! The reason given by President Webb for his course was, now mark you:

"An institution supported by the peo-ple's money can't afford to antagonize the party in power."

Translated into the vernacular, and cleansed of verbiage, the "reason" means that the students of the College of the City of New York are considered to be the beneficiaries of the charity of Mr. Richard Croker and his party. And after a short night's consideration of the this, in turn means that the city's money is Mr. Croker's and Tammany's money.

Away with the stated and the implied affront done to the working people of this city by President Webb! Away with the ignoble and youth-emasculating policy that his stand would set up! jecture infinitely more incriminating to Away with the absurd political or social theory implied thereby! A party in power is not master but servant. Out of power, criticisms upon son why a party should not be critcised. age, makes it a duty on the citizen to socio-political theory, upon which Pres. Webb proceeds, stands upon its head.

From time immemorial Colleges have been considered the fosterers of noble sentiments, and of the manhood needful to express them. The student's heart is proverbially the heart of generous impulses. If Mr. Richard Croker's public conduct or career has ought in it that is repulsive to civic virtues, whose heart, if not the true and pure student's is to throb the first note of condemnation? To repress this instinct is to chill the noble ardor of youth. To promote the instinct should be the care of those filling the responsible position of superintending the education of the future citizen. In throwing a wet blanket upon this instinct by rebuking "The Review," Pres. Webb has seriously failed in his calling. Finally, it is not thanks to Mr. Croker or his party that the moneys are there with which to support the College of the City of New York. The College is supported with wealth produced by the Working Class. If consideration is due to anyone for those funds, such consideration is due exclusively to the Working Class. It is an affront to the Working Class-the class that raises this wealth-to place the College of the City of New York in an attitude of gratitude to the Richard Croker class-the class that clubs and shoots it.

President Webb missed an opportunity, not merely to vindicate the right of a free press, but to shield and thereby promote the noble instincts of the student world.

A Norwegian, Odilon Hanneborg, of Christiana, has invented an apparatus for lighting dark rooms, mines, forts, ships, etc. It consists of a mirror. mounted to turn towards the sun in its laily course, by clock mechanism or by hand; a vertical tube, lined with mirrors and having a refracting bulb at the lower end, conveys the rays of light into dark room.

Now, servants should not expect to have this invention applied in the dark little rooms where they have to sleep. They don't need it. They get up before light and work till after dark. It will probably be chiefly used for trunk rooms, store rooms, etc.

The "records" that are being made on the Stock Exchange are sure to have another side before we commence to pick our summer fruits. Everybody knows that the present quotations are the result of a mania that will prove as disastrous as the South Sea Bubble, as the mad speculation of 1873, or the wise and conservative policy" that led to the disaster of 1894. All the symptoms are present; nothing is wanting excepting the first crash, and the "di-rective genius" of the financial interests in this country have that in preparation That the coming panic will be more farreaching and more disastrous than for mer ones there can be no doubt. Capital ism is a nervous wreck, and is impotent to help itself when one of its "dizzy spells" comes on. Because it grows hysterical, because it crams its maw with water, because it is sending victims to take a post-graduate course in lunacy, t does not follow that it will be abl to bear up under the weight of its own idocy. It is consoling to know that the higher they build, the harder they fall, and that our astute financiers reached a point where we may expect a arger crop of gentlemen who did not know that our industrial system is

Those who object to the action of the Passaic policemen, who violently assaulted the girls on strike at the American Cigar Factory, seem to forget that he policemen were doing the very thing that they are there to do. They were not placed on the force to protect the girls They were not selected because not couched in academic language? No; the rights of the working class were being trampled under foot. On the con-trary, they were selected by the factory owners, who, in turn, were placed in power to do the selecting, by the "no politics in unions" theory, to protect factory owners, to enforce laws passed in the interests of factory owners, and to fight off, by force, if necessary, all at tempts on the part of the workers to advance their cause. A policeman dragging a girl around by the hair is no more inhuman than is the fact that Pierre Lorillard drains the life's blood out of those girls in order that he may increase the number of his fast horses and spend a little more money on his yachts. Pierre Lorillard is the one to say what the policeman shall do, and whom the policeman shall club. The courts recognize this, and when the girls were fined $50 for being clubbed, and the courts, in their turn, did the work assigned to them, and which they are given an opportunity to do by the "no politics in union" Labor Fakir slogan.

The commissary scandals in Manila have ripened sufficiently for someone to get a coat of whitewash. The governmet was robbed in almost every depart ment, but the major portion of the steal ing was done here in this country. little that was taken in Manila-it was only a matter of fifty or more thousand dollars-would not have caused a breath of opposition had it not been for th fact that the men at this end of the line wished everything that was going. The Armour Company, with its canned hoofs and entrails. Wanamaker with his sheepshoes, the clothing manufacturers all-wool suits made of cotton have all they can do to take everything they lay their hands on. A government job of any kind, because of the fact that it is not everlasting, must be used for all it is worth while it is on. For this reason those who hold government jobs almost invariably push things while the the S. L. P ..; and to-day it sails undischinery of the law, set all its wheels criticise it, if it is open to criticism. The sun shines.

ANNUAL EXHIBITION OF "RE-FORMERS."

Citizens of the country, particularly those of this city, are accustomed by this time to the annual exhibition of the mentality of the "reformer." Every year, towards this season, he turns up. Mayoralty campaigns, however, are his forte. It is then he comes out strong. Accordingly, the article is just now blossoming forth in all its splendor in this city, where a Mayoralty campaign is to be fought out next November. The circumstance that these splendors are annually in view may cause some to imagine that they would cloy upon the palate of the observer. Not so. It is a feature of the reformer that his splendors always offer new surprises; accordingly, always furnish at least one new "horrible example" with which to point a moral and adorn a tale. It so happens this year again. The "Citizens' Unhaving solemnly met and promulgated a platform, by virtue of which (if successful), purity of government, with all its incidental blessings, is to descend upon the city like a refreshing shower, the surprises, or "horrible examples" above referred to, are as thick as huckleberries on a bush. Let's pick out one, to begin with.

The platform "arraigns" the present government of the city of New York as "a disgrace." Correct! The Citizens' Union proposes to remove the disgrace. A laudable ambition. And now as to the how. The following passage gives an idea: it runs thus:

but no more than ten lines further down. the "bulwark" is knocked down, as fol-"They corrupt the police force, however ready is the rank and file to do its There goes the "bulwark," heels over head! It is a recognized fact that in no de partment of the city's service are civil service rules more closely applied or rigorously enforced than in the police department. If civil service rules are even approximately the "bulwark of efficient administration," the administration of the police department must be next says that department is corrupted. Either the Citizens' Union is a body of slanderers or it is not. Now, whatever else the Citizens' Un'on may be (and the Lord only has scope of vision broad enough to take it all in), it does not slander in this particular case. The corruption of the police is one of the estab lished monuments of the land. Accordingly, we have the reformers in the Citizens' Union setting up a "bulwark of effective administration" - the civil service rules— and with the next breath theri "bulwark" is pronounced a thing of air. And there stands the impaled as usual, on the horns of his own spineless tenets.

Civil Service rules are no bulwark, either of efficient or of any other sort of administration, no more than carpets or frescoes inside of a building can be said to be bulwarks of the building.

Honesty cannot be "ruled" or legislated into man. Honesty, with masses of men, is the result of material conditions, and these, in turn, depend upon the social system the people live under. Accordingly, the bulwark of efficient ionest government can never be "rules; the bulwark must be the certainty of a livelihood, independent of the will, whim or caprice of auvone else.

ion collection of reformers have not a word to say against the capitalist system-a system that by the day ren ders more and more precarious the independent livelihood of the masseswhen, on the contrary, the gentlemen, by indirection, accept that system as the groundwork for their reformatorial acivity, and they then propose civil ser vice rules as a bulwark of good government, they betray an ignorance that is crass concerning the weighty subject that they presume to handle, and they thereby betray a levity of mind that would set to shame the giddiest-headed school girl.

Moreover, it follows that when the Citizens' Union collection of reformers are capable of such a feat as to rais an incidental, like civil service rules, to the rank of a "bulwark," nay, "the bulwark" of good government, and in the same breath a lmit that the department that most closely adheres to civil service rules is corrupt, the gentlemen betray the fact that they are incapable of recognizing facts, incapable of reasoning: or too intellectually dishonest to draw the right conclusions from the facts that bang them over the head.

Of such material are the "intellectuals" that would lead the workingman through the wilderness of to-day! It is well that they tire not of exhibiting themselves. One may forget the warning that their lives convey.

Political and Economic.

"Citizen and Country," of Toronto, Canada, in commenting on the Herron indecency, ventures to hope that the act of the reverend brother in the Lord will not injure his efficiency as a "socialistic worker. It condemns him, and, then cites several Canadian cases in which the political life of the debauchers was not ruined, and it believes that the same will occur now. It says that Herron is like the prophets of old, and that his voice will ring through countless ages. This may be a joke, because the bible tells us that the prophets of old had many wives, and it may be that Herron is simply trying to imitate that phase of their existence. His voice may ring through ages, but just at present his voice is simply ringing the changes on the old thread-bare ideas that have been used by every clerical freak that ever made a bid for notoriety.

IS DEPEW AN IDLER?

People who are inclined to look upon Chauncey Depew as an idler should study the matter more closely. If they do they can not but reverse their judgment. Chauncey does not work very hard in production, but he is a mighty consumer. What he turns out is not very great in quantity, but what he turns in is great both in quantity and quality. The proof of this can be drawn from many different sources. First, from patent medicine advertisements; second, from recommendations of articles in the eating and drinking line ; third, from accounts of the banquets at which he leads the unterrified in their attempts to scale the heights of the menu, and plant their flag on the tiny glass of liqueur, that is the "well done, thou good and faithful servant" of the industrious diner.

While Denew spends his days and nights attending the funeral rites of good dinners, it must not be thought that he can expend all this energy without due preparation. A cursory glance at the advertising pages of the magazines and newspapers reveals the source of his gigantic powers as a · m. -mir特別を He' recommends various table waters that improve the conplexion, unclog the liver, polish up the kidneys, sharpen the appetite, and brighten the eyes. Then he takes a Pail of Pills for Pink People to accomplish the same end. They are scarcely in his midst when he the sake of the Anglo-Saxton Alliance. he indulges in a few of those imported dainties known as Screechem's Pills. But man liveth not by pills alone, and. though trusting to the pillular news, we might be led to believe that Depew lives on them, further examination reveals the fact that he does not.

He takes stomach bitters, nerve tonics sarsaparillas, and various stimulants. He indulges in hair tonic. He even washes himself with various soaps, and he tells others to "go and do likewise." He takes the bitters and the tonics so that he will get up some inclination for the pills, but before he takes them he indulges in a little solid food. There are over thirty articles on the list, Aver's, Hood's, Vin Mariani, etc., and they are all taken in the great and noble endeavor to keep his receptive interior up to the requisite.

What would the world do if Depew refused to take his regular morning course of appetizers so that he could wade through the exhausting course of the day's eating? What would the world do, if he refused "Red Raven Splits." that "leave no bad effect," so that he could make room for the next morning appetizers? What would the world he to discontinue the rain work, the intense were application of alternately gorging by and then disgorging force? What, in a word, would the world do, were Depew to revert to the primitive stages of humanity where a man eats what he needs, instead of eating what he can force himself by the hydraulic and pneumatic pressure of a saline laxative. Why, the world and a stomach irritant? would eat itself into a comfortable feelng of pleasure that is so disastrous to civilization, instead of going hungry as it does at times, But Depew does not spend all his time on eating. He also drinks. How many times we have stopped at a page to admire his sleek, smooth, butler-like face as it headed the announcement that his nerve had been improved by taking fourteen bottles of Paine's Celery Compound, and that he is now able to sleep since he absorbed nine bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura! He finds their restful, soothing, bracing effects last long enough to enable him to get his pills again. Before he took them he was wasting away, he had become as pale as one of his own jokes. but after taking them he picked up wonderfully, and among the things that he picked up were several jokes that other people had been unmanly enough to tell many times before, which were entire ly new to him. He feared that something was the matter with him, because people fell asleep when he talked, but thanks them see the beauty of the whole Coto the great discovery which he has the operative honor to recommend, he is now able to keep his audience awake by hiring a brass band. Then in the lighter walks of life he has done good service. In the vicinity of THE PEOPLE office there is a large sign which recounts the beauties of a drink known as Benedictine. It is not good to put in the bottle of an infant, even though the bottle is advanced enough to be graduated, but it is one of the toys wherewith men set the earth spinning. On the roof above there is a por done in oils, of the same Depew, only this time he is advising people to try a certain brand of cigars. along the street there is a grocery store, and Depew is pictured at and Depew is pictured at a banquet beard earnestly exhorting his cheering listeners to try an imitation coffee-sub-stitute. In the same grocery store he stands erect, dressed in the regulation evening costume, and he holds in his hands a box of anchovies, and these also he recommends.

We have never seen him advising people to try a "temperance" drink, o to indulge in ordinary food. He always has some strange, delicate thing, that workingmen are accustomed to provide for others. His pills, tonics, appetizers, cigars, cordials, etc., are evidently his mainstay in life. What a lucky man! He is so abstemious that he eat bread. He is so good that he leaves that to the "industrious poor" sacrifice their sons', mothers', daughters' life in order that they may provide him with the few things that are necessary

Uncle Sam and Brother Jonathan

BROTHER JONATHAN.-I like the Socialists well enough but for one thing. UNCLE SAM .- And what is that?

B. J.-They won't help any movement that leads their way; they won't take one thing at a time; they want the whole loaf or none. B. J.-Do you mean to say that if they could get half a loaf they would refuse it? B. J .- I don't mean that.

U. S .- Do you mean to say that if they could get one thing of the many they are after they would refuse it? B. J.-I don't mean that either.

U. S.-Then what do you mean? B. J.-Take, for instance, the munic-ipalization of the railroads; do you imagine they would join that? U. S.-I guess not. B. J .- Well, there you have it; that is what I meant and that is what don't like in them. U. S.-Would you support a movement to go to Europe across the Atlantic by rowing in that direction? B. J.-Not so long as I am sane, U. S .- Would you have supported a movement to march with an army for the capture of King George's Hessians one by one? B. J.-Nary. U. S.-Would you have favored the idea of marching with one man to capture Cornwallis? B. J.-No! What are you driving at? U. S .- Now, then, for the same that you would not do any of these things, the Socialists wont go into any one idea movement; right they are. B. J.-But to try to do any of the things you asked me about insane

U. S .- So would the attempt to municipalize the railroads by a movement that demands only their nationalization. B. J.-Insane?

U. S .- Yes, insane. Do you believe that only railroad magnates hold railroad stocks?

B. J.—No; I guess most other capitalists hold stock of some kind in railroads. U. S .- Do you believe any of them would like to have his concern nation-

B. J.-Nixey. U. S .- The attempt to nationalize any one of those industries would, seeing that all capitalists have stock in all or most of all, forthwith meet the opposition of B. J.-Guess so; the scalawags would combine in one solid body.

U. S.—It follows that, attacking one industry at a time, would not divide enemy. B. J.-No it would not. I don't dispute that. It wouldn't be any easier as far as the enemy is concerned, to attack one industry than to attack them all.

U. S.—Then nothing is gained by go-ng for "one thing at a time?" B. J.—Nothing is gained as far as the enemy's conduct is concerned.

U .-But--B. J.-But a good deal is gained as far as the people are concerned. U S.-How?

B. J.-Don't you see it would be easier fo make the people see the beauties of nationalizing an industry than to make Commonwealth?

U. S .- To carry to victory a movement you would need the vote of the working would you not?

B. J.—Yes. U. S.—If the movement is to nationalize the railroads you would need the votes of the miners, shoemakers, telegraphers, weavers, farm hands, labor-

B. J.-We would need the votes of all the workers.

U. S .- Would the striking weaver see the benefit to him of nationalizing the shoe factories as quickly as he would the benefit to him of nationalizing the mills in which he works?

B. J.—N-n-o-o! U. S.—Would a striking miner of the Bull Pen of Idaho see the benefit to him of nationalizing the railroads as quickly mines, which, in the hands of the boss, are making him old at thirty? B. J.-N-n-o-o! U. S .- Would a striking longshoreman see the benefit to him of nationalizing the railroads as readily as he would see the benefit of nationalizing the docks? B. J.-N-n-o-o! U. S.-Carry this on with all other industries; what is the result?

B. J.—It looks blue.

U. S.—The result is that when you go with a proposition to nationalize industry only you virtually deprive yourself of the aid of the workers in all others, all of whom you need. B. J.—That IS insane! U. S.—And as the Socialists are not insane, they don't try such insane tac-tics. The nationalizing of any one of the idustries will be the work of that political party only that demands the nationalization of all. Once in power, it will take them up "one by one." But it can't come into power except upon a whole-loaf platform

Another Instance-

To THE PEOPLE.—An instructive inrident occurred last week in the cigar Tactory where I am at present working. There are a number of "Volkszeitung" Kangaroos in the shop and about as many Socialist Labor Party men. The great majority of the men, however, are pure and simple trades unionists, neither Kangaroo nor Socialist.

This pure and simple element is composed very largely of honest but unen-lightened men who are opposed to So-cialism and who do not understand the Socialist Labor Party and still cling to the union superstition. Mixed in with these honest pure and simplers are some of the inevitable scamps, fakirs and skates who are training to become fak-The Kangaroos do their dirtiest keep alive the lie that the Socialist Labor Party is trying to smash trades unionism and that they, the Kangs are good friends of the "yoonion." The only activity they show is in truckling to the head fakirs in the shop and even to the head fakirs in the shop and even abasing themselves to curry favor with the cheaper skates. Does this fawning on the crooks and cowardly lying to the honest rank and file of the pure and simplers gain their support for the Kangs? The vote last fall said "No," and what happened in our shop Wednesday, April 10, said it again. On that day the DAILY PEOPLE had an account of the whiming the S. I. P. gave to the "Volks." whipping the S. L. P. gave to the "Volkszeitung' gang of Kangs in Justice O'Gorman's court. The news spread through the shop in the manner known The news spread to eigarmakers and the DAILY PEO-PLE was in great demand. Then from the lips of pure and simplers, who regard the S. L. P. as an enemy but an honest fighting one, rolled out the song:
"Oh Kangaroo! Oh! Kangaroo,

We didn't do a thing to you. Along the benches and through the "Give us the words of the next verse," a pure and simpler would say to an S. L. P. man. "Ask that "Volkszeitung" friend of the fakirs for it, he knows it well" would be the ensurer and the unlucky Kany be the answer, and the unlucky Kang would be pestered for the rest of the song. The Kangs were made to feel the blow the S. L. P. had just dealt their corrupt leaders; the contempt of the pure and simplers in the shop for the Kangs could be heard and felt as the refrain: "You tried to grab the S. L. P.

The S. L. P. grabbed you, and she, Oh! Kangaroo, Oh! Kangaroo, She didn't do a thing to you." was taken up by the scores of voice

That these honest pure and simpler hate the S. L. P. is true. They do NOT understand our Party and its tactics. But they respect us as every honest man respects a straight-forward, fighting enemy "ho scorns to stoop to deceit and lives true to the S. I. P. motto: "Never truth to make a friend no compromise truth to make a friend nor withhold a blow at error lest you make an enemy." This respect will bear good fruit when the clouds of ignorance and prejudice are dispelled. But they DO nderstand the Kangs and DESPISE nem. The sugar-coating the Kangs give to their Socialism (?) and their catering to the corrupt misleaders of the pure and simple unions only disgust the rank and file whom they seek to win. J. R. M.

So he took the hint and got out. the innocently gulled rank and file are asking what is the Union going to do? Mr. Fakir is alarmed. "Justice" in Troy.

To THE PEOPLE.-We of Troy have the seat of Justice of Rensslaer County here and last two weeks, we have had the article doled out. The Assistant District Attorney is of the Goo Goo stamp. He tries to make the people think that he is out for Justice at all times.

A Social Democratic Victory.

THE PEOPLE.-Wisconsin is stamping ground for freaks. Yesterday a Populist, to-day Sheboygan is a Social Democratic stronghold; 1,442 votes at the last election, 72 more and the town had been captured for—Socialism? non-sense! for the Hon. Charles A. Born, outgoing Republican mayor, and candidate for re-election on the Social Democratic ticket.

Whence this conversion, this su change of heart, on the part of the Hon. Charles A. Born, Republican politician and saloon keeper? Hereby hangs a tale and a lesson for the unthinking unity shouters. The great American "Social ist," Mr. Debs, came to Sheybogan in 1807. Quite a crowd went to see the show. Mr. Debs pointed out that So-cialism was on its way and just about to turn the corner; so a number volunteered to grab it as it passed. Such was the origin of the Sheboygan Social Democracy.

Various fortunes attended the career of the new-born party, when along came of the new-norn party, when along came the local election of 1898. Born was the then Republican mayor. Artful, crafty, and ambitious, the perfect type of the cross-roads demagogue—he, Born, a "friend of Labor"—he was, much to the disgust of the silk-stocking element, the then local Benublican boss. The curthen local Republican boss. The cry "keep partisan politics out of local elections," was and is as fashionable at over one another to place the Born "friend of Labor" at the head of their ticket. The Social Dems got there first, when their committee waited upon Born to inform him that he had been nominated by them for mayor. His cool re-ply was that he could not accept the mination just then. "until I have been nominated by the Republicans, then you may endorse my candidacy." Wonderful to relate the Social Dems. got mad, went out and nominated another man. Born made the race on the Republican ticket and was re-elected. The Social Dems received about 400 votes. Born considered that vote, and having in mind the Populist sky-rocket vote deemed it wise to con ciliate the Social Dems. No one could tell what might happen. He tried, however, to ride too many horses at once, and tho' pretty slick, got a heavy fall. He was out for the Republican nomina-His hold as local Republican boss to the was broken, something had to be done, was accepted, and a few weeks after ward placed at the head of their local ticket.

Born was on his mettle. Science is quite a factor in Sheboygan. Its adherents number several hundred these people had to be won over. So Arthur R. Bangs, son of the local Christian Science big mogul, was given sec ond place on the ticket, and J. Witte, another Christian Science apostle, was also placed upon the ticket. Then the sails were trimmed to catch every wind that blew. In their platform, adopted at Concordia Hall, Sheboygan, March 23, 1901, we are informed that they "ad vocate and endorse American Socialism, and a little further along it is stated that "American Socialism does not propose to interfere with private property

On a platform of which the above is a sample, this galaxy of freaks went before the people, and Born the "friend of Labor," polled 1442 votes, and the Social Democratic Herald threw a fit and told us what a great victory Socialism had won at Sheboygan.

Against all this mass of confusion coached and urged on by a broken-down 2x4 Republican politician, stands out a compact, determined little Socialist Labor Party Section of 12 stalwarts. These boys are holding high the banne of the uncompromising S. L. P., and while bestirring themselves to their utmost are biding the time that is surely coming when the workers opening their eyes shall smite, hip and thigh, the crooks and designing politicians who are trying to use them as stepping stones.

I had a talk with Born. He is strongly in favor of unity, oh, so much so that Section Sheboygan S. L. P. is a thorn in his side. He can't hitch it to his chariot. As he put it: "If it were not for those sore heads we would all be united in Sheboygan." One does hear some droll things at times. I was trying to make it apparent to the gentleman that all the Socialists were united in the S. L. P., when one of his satellites, a very excitable German, cut short all attempts at conversation an endless tirade in which now and again

I would catch something about and "unity." J. I Sheboygan, April 20.

Election Frauds By Kangaroo

To THE PEOPLE.-It is with sadness that Section Jacksonville, Ill., has to Comrade, Joseph W. McGlothlin, which occurred Saturday, April 20, of a complication of diseases, in his thirty-fourth

Through the workings of the capitalist system our comrade's occupation was a varied one. Being a devoted husband and a loving father, when denied the right to work at one thing he sought another. For the last four years he had been employed as a cutter in a clothing establishment, where he worked, up to Saturday noon, April 13th.

By his death a wife and three small children are left to mourn his loss and nherit "a proletarian legacy," i. e., the right to struggle for an existence and be exploited, through no fault of the father ind husband, who was a wealth producer from boyhood.

This misfortune removes from the S. L. P. and Section Jacksonville one who was in the harness for about two years Very few sections ever had a more faith ful or valiant member. A little over two years ago, he, then a Prohibitionist, challenged Section Jacksonville to a de hate, affirming that intemperance was remedy. The challenge was accepted with the result that Prohibitionism was defeated, and its exponent grasped the cable of the Labor Movement. After attending our meetings and reading our literature, he thrust Prohibition ism aside, and joined the S. L. P. The duties (financial and otherwise) of the duties (inancial and otherwise) of the militant were always cheerfully borne by him. He was our financial secretary and candidate for Alderman at the time of his fatal illness, elso the Party's first Congressional candidate in this (the 16th, Illinois) district. He was a close student and a deep thinker with firm condent and a deep thinker, with firm con-victions of right and wrong, and the courage to back them in public or in private, and an orator of no mean ability.

When trimming a freak or fakir, "Mack," as we called him, was in his glory. This was notably so last fall when he had a joint discussion with the Prohibition candidate for Governor. In de monstrating that self-interest was th motive to action, and governed the minds of men consciously or unconsciously, he said: "Should a Prohibition landlord have a building suitable for a saloon, b would rent it for that purpose, for a good rent, and on election day he would vote for his saloon rent, Prohibition and religious protestations to the contrary, notwithstanding." his thirty was taken up he had hit the chairman so hard that he (the cairman) demurred at "Socialism being talked at a Prohibition meeting." To the DAILY PEOPLE .- The enclosed received by the Illionis State Committee was found of such interest as to forward it to you for publication.

JOHN HELLGREN. Chicago, Ill., April 30. [Enclosure.] Marissa, St. Clair County, Ill. April 15, 1901. Mr. John Hellgren:

Dear Comrade-I received to-day you letter which was addressed to Chatham, and I will now endeavor to answer it a task which affords me great pleasure From a financial point of view, I did no care to sell my labor power to the Virden Coal Company, because, as you know coal-mines are much better and safer than others, and as Comrade Malson and I have worked in over a hundred mines, we know a good one when we

I will give you a description of this town, which is a wage-slave town, of which there are several on the Illinois Central. Prior to 1894 the miners in Scuthern Illinois were not organized at all. When in that year the miners' strike occurred, they organized into that union which we call the "Organized Scab-Then McKinley and his abnormal conditions came along and economic conditions became better: they used to get 28 or 29 cents per ton, whereas now they get 49 cents. Marissa has 400 miners and six mines. None of these six is a very large producer, but there are two large seams of coal here, of which vage-slaves here are so prosperous that there are twenty-five houses contracted for, and nearly all of them belong to mine-slaves. You can readily see that under such conditions we can only reach the thinking men here, so we can not expect much numerical strength in these ocalities.

Comrade Malson and I came east for a rest. For about two years before coming here, we were active in Colorado. especially in Boulder County. There we fought so hard that on the day after election we were notified at the mine that our services would be no longer needed

In the West the miners have demonstrated their revolutionary spirit in every strike, but they have been misled by the Western Trade and Labor This organization seems good to n workingman who is not class-conscious, but it is every bit as corrupt as the U. M. W. The Western miner gets more experience than Eastern men, by travel. I stopped off at Virden to see the place where seventeen of my class murdered by the assassins of Capitalism This crime has a distinct value, because we can point to it, and show the worker here that a class hatred and a class struggle DO exist, and that profits are more sacred to the capitalist class than human life. But, Oh! what feelings are aroused by visiting these historic places; visiting the loved ones of the murdered men, and finding them still in the cess-pool of ignorance, and still voting to perpetuate like outrages. Although the miners do not like us to get after Mitchell and his gang or robbers, still when we prove to them that a class such as Goeble are requested to attend struggle exists, and if some cock-roach

A Card From Mr. Stokes-

To THE PEOPLE.-In last Satur day morning's edition of the DAILY PEOPLE there appeared an article stating that the firm of Jenkins & Mc Cowan, No. 30 Greenwich avenue, attempted to reduce the wages of the members of the Franklin Association of Pressmen Assistants, As President of the Franklin Association I wish to deny that any such attempt was made, as none but the most amicable feeling ever existed between this firm and the Franklin Association. I also wish to state that the DAILY PEOPLE, having published the communication of Saturday last in good faith I make this state ment in justice to the firm of Jenkius & McCowan, the DAILY PEOPLE and the Franklin Association.

Yours respectfully, WALTER STOKES, Pres. Franklin Association.

New York, May 2.

[Upon investigation in this office it appeared that the report referred to in the above letter came from the office of the Franklin Ass'n itself. Mr. Walter Stokes ought to know, however. Accordingly, his statement is hereby published. Incidentally, let Mr. Stokes be complimented upon having found a short-cut to the liberation of the work ers in his trade. Seeing that "none but the most amicable relations" exist be tween the men of his organization and their employer, his organization must have solved for istelf the problem of the Labor Question, which is planted on the undeniable principle that not only does the capitalist rob the worker of the lion's share of the latter's product, but that the plunder grows and is bound to grow, and the worker must, in consequence, find his nose ground ever flatter against the capitalist grind-stone. Now, then, "amicable relations" cannot exist between the grinder and the ground. Seeing, however, that according to Mr. Stokes, "none but the most amicable relations" exist between his or-ganization and the firm in question, he must have solved the Labor Question Why does Mr. Stokes keep the secret of how he did it? Why don't he take th rest of the workers into his confidence? Why don't he initiate them in the trick of enabling the sheep to maintain "none but the most amicable relations" with the wolf?-Ed. #### Mr. Coeble of the I. A. of M. Bitchforked.

To THE PEOPLE-A communication was received April 30 from Buffalo, stating that a certain F. Goeble, business agent of the International Association of Machinists, has "ample proof to show that the Socialist Trade & Labor Alliance machinists of New York City have informed the machinist bosses that an open war existed between the I. A. of M. and the S. T. & L. A.," and that the latter would "immediately fill the shops if the I. A. of M. went out on strike."

Before going any further we will state that this accusation is a deliberate lie as well as many others. It would be worth the while for Mr. Goeble, as well as others of his calibre, to ascertain rhether such damnable statements as the above mentioned are true or not. afraid to admit the truth, and does all e possibly can to injure the growth this bona fide labor organization. The I. A. of M. will evaporate, and, consequently, Mr. Goeble will find himself without a job. He further knows that at a mass-meeting of machinists in Arlington Hall one of the business agents of I. A. of M. asked George Warner. "the bluffer," that, as a Local of the S. T. & L. A. had been organized in Buffalo, whether it would not be advisable to recognize them, and that Warner's answer was: "No, fight the g-d d-d to a finish!" Knowing this it is no wonder that statements of this kind are made. He also knows that the arguments laid down by the I. A. of M. lo not hold water, that being reason why the members of the S. T. & L. A. are always sat upon at the I. A. of M. meetings. Mr. Goeble's statement one is yet undeveloped. The is ridiculous when one looks at it right. f the L. A. of M. had been accused of it, it would to a certain extent be true. How about that wonderful agreement between them and the Metal Trades Association? And how about the L. A of M. men that left a position in order to scab it in the United States Butter Extractor Company in Newark, N. J. This is denied by the local organization of the I. A. of M., but we will, to show the truth, mention some of their names. Tobin, Voerner and Cooper. These men are known to be members of the I. A. of M., but there are more of them working there with the full knowledge of the organization. All the accusations that are hurled at the S. T. & L. A. can be proved to be false, and hurled back at the I A of M and proven to be true. The stand taken by the S. T. & L. A. machinists is not known to the rank and file of the I. A. of M. The officers of said organization are careful not to read any communications from us, as they know that to debate a question of the labo novement with us would mean death to the fakirs. We have a challenge out that has stood since the 19th of November, 1899, but although Mr. Goeble and others have had more than one year to study up the subject, the business agents have clearly shown that they are in the movement for what they can make out of it and not for the betterment of the working class,

When it comes to better the condition

"ARM," SCHENECTADY, N.Y.—What, in "ARM," SCHENECTADY, NY,—What, in your opinion, militates against a Socialist's joining a secret fraternal or benefit society? Have you not some concrete case in mind which may not necessarily establish a rule? If what you have in mind is the "saving folly" by people who have little enough to put into their marrows, you would be right in condemning the joining of such societies. But it should not take a Socialist to perceive the folly of a process of saving that begins with undermining one's health and thereby lays up a store to swallow up one's savings.

C. C., NEW YORK.—The Kangaroos were allowed to ask questions at the Forker meeting. They did so ask, and they got answers too. Some of them asked four questions. The questions-asking and answering portion of the meeting took over an hour. Your Kang, informer lies, as usual.

T. O'S., CINCINNATI, O.—The Lyons Congress was called in France by the office-holding or Kangaroo or Dreyfusard So-clailsts under the pretext of unifying the So-ialists of France. The Socialist Labor Party (Parti Ouvier Francais) of France declined to be caught in any such capitalist traps. ist trap.

F. B., NEW YORK.—It would not be wise to drop your two $10,000 cases against the "Volkszeltung" for criminal libel. Ten to one you are right that by the time the cases are decided, though that may be this year, there will be no "Volkszeltung" to collect damages from. You will not be worse off if you have stuck to your cases. Just stick. They will soon be reached on the calendar. If by some miracle the paper still is there you will get something, even if it can't pay the whole, and you can have the gratification of having contributed your direct share to the ripping up of that dirty nest.

H. Y., PHILADELPHIA, PA .- The H. Y., PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The S. L. P. develops in the fire of circumstances. Opposition is the breath of its nostrils. If not pounded and banged and sassiled its organization could never acquire that coherence and vigor necessary to accomplish its task when the day shall have come to storm the capitalist fort. The S. L. P. seeks not to corral a mod that can be scattered, it seeks to form and drilt an army that will be irresistible.

J. G. S., ST. LOUIS, MO.—The paragraph in which you express your just indignation at what you justly call the "Kautsky snivel," and your applause at the straightforward stand taken by the S. L. P. in the matter, should be ample to answer your question. How, do you imagine the S. L. P. could have done this with its striking arm weighted down by the Kangaroo, especially the Tinbooctoo Kangaroo? J. G. S., ST. LOUIS, MO .- The para-

"H.— N.." MILWAUKEE, WIS.— We know not, and care not whether the S.L.P. will be THE party or not. This much, however is certain. If an other party will be necessary, then the birth, vigor and efficiency of that party will depend upon the good work put in now upon the only party that holds and lives up to, practices and preaches, the principles essential to the emoncipation of the working class. As the lightning that goes up in the east is immediately seen in the west, so also, should the necessity for such an other party rise above the horizon, that necessity will find none to dispute it. Until such time, however, the present scanning of the horizon for the new party can have only the effect to promote the individualistic conceit of petty minds, each of whom will try to set up his party in the gambler's hope that it may chance to be the right future one. Intuitively, however, his sow soul knows that the club of power is felt less heavily by him who is close to those who wield it. F. H., PLYMOUTH, MICH.-Class con-

F. H. PLYMOUTH, MICH.—Class-conconsciousness implies the knowledge of one's economic class interests, and the pursuing of these. For instance:

1. A Hanna is class conscious, being an upper capitalist, when he seeks to "extend the markets" of the country: that will enable him to sell his goods and realize on the unpaid labor crystallized therein.

2. A small groceryman is class conscious when he is up in arms against the taxes on, say, his Bermuda potatoes and Egyptian onlons: the lower the taxes the larger the margin of profits.

5. As to the wortlingman. The term class consciousness is generally applied to him. What are his economic interests? To have the full share of the fruits of his labor. Can he get that? No! Why not? Because he does not own the machinery of production. So then, his economic class interests are to put himself, his class, in possession of the machinery of production. Consequently, a class conscious workingman is not caught in the tangle of taxation, Glasgow municipalization, etc., etc.; he knows that all that affects the question of his getting possession of the tools of production as little as a mustard plaster will raise a blister on a wooden leg. He hews close to the line; the unconditional surrader of the capitalist class.

Dependent Children in State Institutions

The Kings County Committee of the State Charities Aid Association held its special meeting Friday evening at the Barnard Club house, 132 Remsen street. Brooklyn "high society" was well represented at the meeting. Homer Folks, secretary of the State Charities Aid Association, spoke of the placing out work and showed pictures of some of the homeless children that had been placed in Christian families, showing also photographs of some of the homes.

He said:

"There are more than 35,000 dependent children in institutions in New York State, almost as large a number as are in the children's institutions of all the other States in the Union. While many of these children have worthy parents who are temporarily destitute and will be able in time to resume the care and support of their children, there are more than 3,000 orphans among the number and also very many others who have been deserted by their parents, or whose parents and relatives are so degraded as o be unfit to care for them. this class of friendless children, that the State Charities Aid Association, in co-operation with its county committees selects children to place in good homes where they will be received as members of the family.

Regular meeting of May 3, held at headquarters, 2-6 New Reade street. Rudolph Katz in the chair. Minutes of last meeting were adopted with correction of an error which had made action relative to inquiry of Section Dayton appear the reverse of what it had been.

The financial report for week ending April 27 showed receipts $51.39; expenditures, $35.53.

The sub-committee on drafting answer to invitation of the Social Democracy (Chicago) reported that some amplifica-tions will yet be made and that answer will be ready at next meeting.

The following communication was re-ceived from Section New York: "To the Members of the National Exec utive Committee:-

"Committee:—
"Commades—Thomas A. Hickey who was expelled from the Socialist Labor Party, sent a letter to the City Executive Committee of the above Section tive Committee of the above Section stating, that he will appeal to a General Vote of the Section, against the decision of the General Committee, and asking for 'copies of the charges and all evidence upon which he was expelled, so that he may be able to prepare his case.

"After a thorough discussion of the states he the City Evecutive Committee.

"After a thorough discussion of the matter by the City Executive Committee, it was decided to recommend to the General Committe: "That in view of the fact that Hickey had twice ignored the summonses of the Grievance Committee to appear in reference to his case, he has thereby waived all rights of membership."

"The City Executive Committee based

The City Executive Committee based its recommendation upon the following grounds:

"1. The decision reached by the General Committee in expelling Hickey was based on the evidence given by Comrade Julian Pierce (the plaintiff), and his witses-he (Hickey) having ignored summonses of the Grievance Committee thereby refusing to answer the charges against him and state his case before proper committee duly elected for

2. That he asks to be enabled to prent his case on his appeal to the Gener-Vote. This would submit to the Genal Vote. This would submit to the local vote matters that were not before erat Vote matters that were not General Grievance Committee or General mmittee. A General Vote passes judg-nt on the action of this General Comment on the action of this General Com-mittee, and there can be no General Vote on an appeal, on matters that this body did not have before it. To allow Hickey to take a General Vote on HIS presenta-tion of HIS case is therefore obviously wrong. The anomaly of the situation lies in a state of things that has never before occurred. Other members of the Party have heretofore ignored the sum-monses of the Party to appear before monses of the Party to appear before the Grievauce Committee, and have there-by placing themselves outside of the Par-ty, but they never, after doing that, laid any claim to any membership rights, and the matter ended there. But in this case we have a Party member ignoring the summonses of the Party to appear be-fore the Grievance Committee, thereby waiving his rights of membership, and then turning around and claiming such wishts by asking for a Garanal Vate on asking for a General Vote on rights by asking for a General Vote on his case; and he goes even further; he does not ask for a General Vote on the stimony and arguments that were be-pre the Grievance Committee and Gen-al Committee, but he demands a Gen-al vote on the case that HE IS TO

"This recommendation and the afore-aid arguments of the C. E. C. were laid before the General Committee at its meeting on April 27, 1901, and it was unanimously decided to indorse the same and refer the question to the National Executive Committee for a ruling as to the correctness of the Section's attitude. "For the General Committee of Section DAILY PEOPLE had not been published. Gecretary reported that such report was published on April 24 and that he had sent clipping to Cincinnati upon receipt of letter.

Organizer John R. Pepin sent report on his work in Wisconsin.

Chiago reported having diligently distributed the issue of THE PEOPLE containing the speech of Max Forker.

The disturbances in Section San Francisco was then taken up. In connection therewith, communications were at hand (1) from the California State Executive Committee: (2) from Section San Francisco.

(1) from the California State Executive Committee; (2) from Section Sau Francisco, and (3) from G. C. Wright.

The .etter of the State Executive Committee demanded the suspension and reorganization of Section San Francisco on the ground of insubordination consisting in failure to amend its by-laws in conformity with the National Party Constitution, refusal to submit A. C. McGinty's appeal to a general vote of the Section and refusal to admit N. L. Griest on transfer. brmity with the National Party Concitution, refusal to submit A. C. Mclinty's appeal to a general vote of the section and refusal to admit N. L. iglest on transfer.

The letter of Section San Francisco

encloses a copy of their by-laws, announces that upon the reversal of the Section's decision in the McGinty case by the State Executive Committee, they at once notified the said McGinty of his reinstatement and they also decided to accept the card of N. L. Griest as demanded by the N. E. C. The Section is also considering abolition of General Committee form of organization.

The letter of G. C. Wright encloses a set of by-laws under which Section San Francisco had been working prior to January 1 and alleges that a number of members had been expelled from the Section without proper trial, failing to notify the accused and refusing to permit two of the accused, who happened to be at a meeting, to remain in the hall while under charges.

The by-laws under which Section San Francisco practically has been working since January 1, were then taken up and examined. It was found that the General Committee of the Section has never been properly formed and never constitutional existence. most glaring defects may be summed up as follows: (1) The by-laws fail to fix a definite basis of representation to the General Committee; instead they fix, definitely, the size of said committee. Inasmuch General Committee in order to be constitutional, must be a delegate body, the growth or decline of the member ship in the branches that send the dele gates, makes of it a body that must re-flect the numerical strength of the Section's membership. To be representative, each delegate must represent a given number of members, said number to be expressly fixed by the by-laws.

(2) The by-laws provide for the filling of vacaucies by the General Committee itself, instead of ordering the branches to send other delegates in the place of such as may have created a vacancy for any cause whatever.

(3) The by-laws provide for resignation from the General Committee upon which the said committee is to act and fill the vacancy, whereas a delegate can only re-sign to his constituents, that is to say to the branch he represents in the General Committee. 4. The by-laws provide for the suspension of members of the General Com mittee who are under charges, pending the investigation of such charges, in plain violation of Section 2 of Article XI of the national party constitution.

The by-laws provide for the trial of charges in a manner indicating cumvention of the plain and explicit stipulations of the national party constitution, limiting the right to prefer charges to branches and committees and thus denying such right to individual members and placing the trial of such charges in the hands of a committee clearly disqualified under the constitution by its very designation.

For all these reasons the N. E. C. concurs in the action of the State Executive Committee refusing to pass favor-ably upon the said by-laws and in so far as this alleged General Committee of Section San Francisco has acted in the capacity of a Section as provided in Article IV, Sections 1 and 2, such action is herewith declared null and void, the N. E. C. refusing to recognize as legal the expulsions of members recently re-

The N. E. C. also finds that there is neither rhyme nor reason for a subdivided Section in San Fancisco in view of the present size of membership and that the creation of a General Committee is, therefore, not a necessity resulting from inability to transact the section's bus-iness properly in one body, but is pure-ly artificial and, in the case of a General Committee such as S. F. had, positive menace to the interests of the

In view of the expressed willingness of Section San Francisco to ahide by the rules and regulations of the party, the request of the State Executive Committee asking for the suspension of the Section is denied, but Section S. F. is ordered to at once reinstate all mem-bers illegally expelled by a General Com-mittee that had no power to act as the Section.

The course of late pursued by the Section gives color to the charge that there has been willful violation of the constitution and that the Section, or the General Committee rather, was fully aware of the unconstitutionality of its New York, S. I. P.

Communications were also received from Detroit, Indianapolis, Northport, St. Louis, Pittsburg and the Secretary instructed to reply.

T. Robert of San Francisco, formerly a member of Section S. F., prior to its suspension in 1900, sent a communication asking in the name of the members tion asking in the name of the members then suspended that the N. E. C. rein-state them. The letter sets forth that they had been forced into the position that led to the suspension of the section by the intrigues of Kingsley and that subsequent events, the treasonable conduct of Kingsley and his expulsion from the party by Section Seattle have shown that they had been right in their opposition to him and his methods. That not one of the men then placed outside of the party had Kangarosed but all had continued to work for the S. L. P.

General Executive Board S. T. & L. A.

The regular meeting of the General Executive Board was held on Thursday evening, May 2, in the Daily People Building. Members present: Murphy, Wallberg, Ebert, Gilhaus, O'Rourke, and Brower. Absent: Katz. Comrade Gilhaus was elected chairman.

Communications: One from L. A. 279, Cloakmakers, of Cincinnati, O., stating that the firm of Bishop , Sterne & Stein had locked out their employes on Monday, April 15, for refusing to work under the team system, and asking for indorsement and appealing for financial aid.

Action: Indorsement granted, and the secretary instructed to send out an appeal for financial assistance. (The Board has since been notified that on May 3, L. A. 279 Cloakmakers Union, decided to withdraw from the S. T. & L. A., and Fall River, Mass. 2.00 join the American Federation of Labor, Lawrence, Mass. 5.00 and that this action was brought about by members of the Social Democratic Somerville, Mass. 6.25 party, the Kangaroos. Until the matter can be investigated all moneys should be sent to W. I., Brower, General Secretary, S. T. & L. A.

One from L. A. 339, Iron and Metal Workers, of Buffalo, N. Y., sating that Fred Goebel, business agent of the I. A. of M. had reported that the S. T. & L. A. of N. Y. City had informed the machinists' bosses that open war exists between the International Association of Machinists and the Socialist Trade & Labo Alliance, and should the I. A. of M men go out on strike, the S. T. & L. A would immediately fill the strikers places.

Action: Secretary instructed to notify L. A. 339 that this statement is a damnable lie, and that at no time had members of the S. T. & L. A. ever taken the places of the men who went out on strike; but the same cannot be said of the members of the International Association of Machinists, for it is a well known fact that in the strike of the Alliance men in the U.S. Butter Exractor Co., of Newark, N. J., the International men filled the shop.

One from Charles Heine, of Baltimore, Md., applying for membership at large. Action: Application granted. One from James de Vries applying for charter for a Mixed Alliance for San Francisco, Cal.

One from John Laffey, applying for charter for a Mixed Alliance for Newark, One from L. A. 344, St. Louis, Mo.,

At the last regular meeting of the above State Committee W. H. Wherry presided. Reports were received about the work of the circuit. The Financial Secretary reported that the following contributions had been received for the Circuit Fund during the month of March:

Section Portchester ...... 2.25 Utica ..... 2.00 Rochester ..... 2.00 Receipts ..... $187.90

regular in supporting the Circuit plan. A special meeting of the State Committee was held for the purpose of con-sidering an appeal received from Thos A. Hickey against his expulsion by the General Committee of the Section. A discussion arose as to the construction of those sections of the Constitution bearing upon appeals to State Commit-tees. The majority of the Committee held that a member of a sub-divided Section could either appeal from the degeneral vote of the membership of the ection or take his appeal directly to the State Committee. The minority held that the appeal must first be taken general vote has been had.

It was decided to refer the question to the National Executive for a decision HUGO VOGT, Secretary.

A Holyoke Stalwart Gone.

After spending Sunday afternoon among a circle of friends at the Springdale Turn Hall, Henry L. Schroeder, apparently in the best of health, went to home at 39 Vernon street, and while to the general vote of the Section and eating supper, suddenly collapsed and that an appeal to the State Com-mittee is permissible only after the been a landmark in Holyoke, for many years, having conducted a small cigar factory on Main street. He was Holyoke's pioneer Socialist and most steadfast supporter of the Socialist movement in Hamburg, Germany, when a young man, and unfalteringly supported it ever since.

He was a well informed man; noble-minded and generous to a fault. He had host of friends who always esteemed and respected him because of his excellent qualities as a true man. He was about fifty-six years of age, and leaves a wife and three grown-up children.

Section New York, General Committee Regular meeting held Saturday, April 27, 8.30 p. m., at 2 to 6 New Reade street, Manhattan.

Chairman, Max Rosenthal; vice chairman, Emil Miller. Seven new members were admitted. The Entertainment Committee report-ed the arrangement of an excursion on August 11, 1901, to Forest View Park on the Hudson, for the benefit of the DAILY PEOPLE and the ABEND-BLATT; and that three barges have been chartered with a carrying capacity of 5,500 people.

O. Thiede and E. C. Schmidt declined their nomination as candidates for the New York State Committee and Max Rosenberg was nominated in their stead The nominees therefore are Max Rosenberg and Justus Ebert.

The City Executive Committee reported it had denied T. A. Hickey a copy of the charges against him and the Grievance Committee's report so as to prepare his case on appeal. The action of the Committee was indorsed and its action referred to the National Executive Committee for a ruling as to the correctness of its attitude. Adjournment followed. A. C. KIHN, Sec'y.

May Day Celebration in Braddock, Pa

The celebration of International Labor Day, the First of May, by Branches Braddock, East Pittsburg, and Homestead was a grand success from every point of view.

Financially there will be about $100 cleared. In numbers there were about 700 in attendance and the enthusiasm was practically unbounded.

If there is one thing more than another that Branch Braddock is proficient in, it is getting up an entertainment of any kind, and Section Allegheny County is proud of this local branch. Comrades Mura and Clever are a host in themselves, and their efforts are ably seconded by about a dozen of stalwart revoletionary Socialists, who are each and all terrors to the reactionary and kangar-

Part of the money realized will go to the DAILY PEOPLE, part to the Dal-ton agitation fund, part to the Section nd the three participating branches. The summer campaign has begun and will be prosecuted with vigor known only to the militant Socialist. Live the Socialist Republic!

International Day of Labor. A "HARMONY" INVESTMENT.

Fallacy of Butte Miners Co-Partnership With Capital Scheme.

A news item appeared in the DAILY PEOPLE of Friday, May 3, in the Field of Labor that is interesting in view of the many schemes of "co-partnership" and "co-operation" between oapital and labor that are now being advocated by both the capitalists and the labor misleaders The item in question reads:

TO PROMOTE "HARMONY." BUTTE, Mont., May 2.- The Butte diners' Union has invested the stock of the Amalgamated Copper Company. The investment is calculated to promote harmony between the miners and the company. As a concrete illustration of the fallacy of "co-partnership" and "co-opera-tion" of capital and labor the idea contained in this item is very good. Amalgamated Copper Co. is capitalized at many millions of dollars and like all stock companies is controlled by a vote of the majority stock. It is a fact that has recenty provoked much discussion in financial circles, that the minority stockholders in all capitalist corporations are ecoming nonentities, even vestiges of power being taken from them. A poll of their shares is not taken and they receive dividends or not, as the majority stock decides.

This has gone so far according to such a thorough-paced capitalist paper as "The Evening Post," that even directors and executive officials have been ignored in pending "deals." This tendency found legal expression recently in the bill of Senator Carter, made a law by the legislature and executive of New Jersey, at the wish of the Billion Dollar Steel Trust, to change the necessary votes from a majority of the stockholders to two-thirds of a majority, thus concentrating the controlling power in the hands of still fewer men than ever before. In view of such tendencies, from which the Amalgamated Copper Co. is which the Amagamated Copper Co. is not exempt, what becomes of the invest-ment that "is calculated to promote har-mony?" What becomes of all those schemes that bring the worker closer to the employer in order that he may be fleeced all the closer? They become frauds and delusions, with the avowed aim of side-tracking the class-conscious aspirations of the working class, and of making that class still more than ever the victim of the capitalist class.
