

THE reorganization of the party necessitates that the party find ways and means of carrying on its work among the workers of divers languages. Workers' clubs are one of the means whereby this will be accomplished. These workers' clubs will be the social and cultural center of the life of the proletarian masses of the cities. These clubs with their dramatic, musical, athletic, educational and propaganda sections will attract large numbers of workers who today find no place to go to but the movies or poolrooms.

These workers' clubs mean a broadening of the party work among the workers and take due note of their national characteristics. In these clubs we can also develop children's sections, which will attract their parents and draw them away from the influence of the bourgeois politicians, who devote considerable attention to their compatriots.

The movement for the workers' clubs is growing in District 6. The district executive committee has paid particular attention to the question of workers' clubs.

Cleveland Begins Organizing.

IN order to bring about the organization of workers' clubs in District 6, the district executive committee called a meeting of the district committees of the federations, adding representatives of the various other language groups. Eleven language groups were represented at a conference on November 29. Reorganization of the party, workers' clubs and work of the party in these clubs were discussed. The reports of the comrades on the situation in their branches in Cleveland and outside in the district showed clearly what the workers' clubs will signify for the party work. In one of the language groups a club will be formed in the very near future with a membership of 250. The prospects for the growth of this club are splendid. In the weaker language groups the workers' club will be a great stimulus to general party work among the workers of this particular language.

THE district executive committee of District 6 is well aware that the aware that the comrades will readily and gladly perform the work in the clubs, since it falls in line with the work that some of the former federations have primarily devoted themselves to. It is clear that work in the shop nuclei will be difficult for some of the comrades until they get accustomed to it and have adapted themselves to the new situation and the new form of work. Nevertheless in order that the morale of the party members may not be reduced and that the present work may not be disorganized, the workers' clubs will be formed without delay, so as to enable the effective functioning of our language fractions amongst broader masses. They will be kept in hand by the district executive committee and given the proper attention. No comrade will be allowed to devote his energies to the building up of the clubs to the detriment of his nucleus work. On the contrary, the workers' clubs will play the proper role in the work of the party: they are to be auxiliaries from which the party will gain recruits.

The present outlook is that District No. 6 will set the pace for the rest of the party in the formation of workers' clubs.

THREE CORNERS PASSED; FOURTH MUST BE GAINED

Only $100 Today, with $10,000 Needed

Only three corners of The DAILY WORKER foundation for 1926 have been laid, while the job on the last corner remains to be finished before Dec. 15, the date set for the end of the campaign. Even the three-quarter corner is not completed, as the total reached to date is only $29,037.63. But $110.75 was added Monday.

Finnish comrades of the Workers Party keep on digging steadily to save the paper, the Duluth, Minn., branch adding its name to the "never say die" roll-call today with a donation of $90.00. Other "die-hards" on the list are following:
