LABOR PARTY RULES LONDON

Battle

By William M. Feigenbaum

ONE after another the great cities of the world are being swept for Socialism. Following only a few days after the triumph of the Argentine workers in carrying Buenos Ayres by a plurality of 100,000 comes the greatest municipal victory in the history of the Socialist movement with the winning of London for the working class.

With the blackening ruins of Red Vienna still smoking after the bombardment of the workers' homes by the big guns of Little Assassin Dollfuss, the workers of London defiantly marched to the polls and voted themselves into power.

Thus is continued a remarkable series of Socialist victories that began almost immediately after the accession to power of Adolf Hitler was supposed to have sounded the death-knell of Socialism. City after city, nation after nation registered magnificent Socialist victories, the London triumph being but the latest and the most spectacular.

It is as if the workers, beaten down by brute force in Germany, sprang up in defiance in the cities of Switzerland and in Norway, in Finland and in the cities of Eng-land and Scotland; and that the workers of Argentina and of Lon-don flung back into the teeth of the reaction their answer to the murderous violence of Dollfuss and Fey and Starhemberg.

[An article with details of the triumphant march of Socialism during the past year will appear next week.]

The London County Council elections of last week gave the Labor Party complete control for the next three years over the lives and welfare of over five million people.

The Labor Party took over the government of London Wednesday amid the passionate enthusiasm of amid the passionate enthusiasm of the workers who jammed the galleries. Upon motion of Herbert Morrison, so-called "Prime Minister of London," Lord Snell of Plumstead—the trusted and beloved Harry Snell—was elected chairman. Lewis Silkin, elected chairman of the Housing Committee, announced that the £35,000,000 slum clearance scheme of the Torries would be scrapped as totally Tories would be scrapped as totally

The situation is known to be wrinkling the brows of NRA officials and is perhaps their greatest worry just at present. The Socialist Party and the labor move-

Money Bags Have Oodles of Cash, While Breadline Awaits Little Fellows Whose Assets Are Pledged More Than 50%

SMALL merchants and shopkeepers are doomed unless the government makes them objects of charity, D. R. Doty, a Texas banker, told a group conference of code authorities in Washington. He had heard some people say that "all you can get from a banker is a sympathetic attitude and two glass eyes." He disagreed, but said that his bank had several million dollars that it would lend to those who could convince him that the loans w

Chairman Riley observed that "the small retailer cannot get loans, and we are told he must go out of business unless he can get credit. What are we going to do? Tell all these small merchants they've got to go broke?"

The banker: "I can't figure any way, except charity. How can anybody, banker or individual, lend money unless he thinks he has assurance he will get it back?"

Riley: "Don't you think that with, admittedly, the banks full of money and these small businesses facing the bread line, they'll find a way to get it?"

The banker, gravely: "That is a serious thought." Chairman Riley observed that "the small retailer

"The small merchant has already pledged more than 50 per cent of his available assets, the banker will not lend him any more, and the government cannot help if it requires the same security the banker wants."

"Is the backbone of the nation"? Look at the spinal column now. High above these merchants and shopkeepers are the big masters of capital and finance organized into the greatest combinations ever known. They are sapping the "backbone."

Do these little fellows believe that they are going to recover their places in capitalist society? Forget it. They are losing to the exploiters. The workers are under the boots of big capital and so are these little fellows. Neither can obtain security under capital land.

In some countries the little fellows think that they can find hope in a fascist heaven. Look at Germany, where they tried it. The fascists put a rope over their necks and handed it to the big magnates. They are worse off than before.

A Socialist commonwealth is the only way out.

Join the working class movement, for you are on the road to the jobless army.

Art J. Smith, self-styled con mander-in-chief of the Khaki Shirts, under indictment for per-jury because of testimony he gave at the trial of Terzani, is a prisoner in the Raymond Street Jail, awaiting trial.

Calling of Thomas before the Grand Jury is the result of charges by Thomas and Arthur Garfield Hays, chief of Terzani's counsel, that the prosecution mishandled the investigation of the murder of Fiero. District Attorney Charles S. Colden invited Thomas and Hays to appears before the and Hays to appear before the Queens County Grand Jury and offer whatever evidence they might have which the district attorney did not have.

The invitation was not accepted and Hays requested an investigation of the case by the State Bar Association. Judge Samuel Seabury and Mr. Hays were appointed members of the committee. Immediately thereafter Frank Moffer, who confessed the Fiero murder, and Smith were arrested.

the price situation to the fore.

Evidence cited by speakers at ode authorities group meetings code authorities group meetings indicated that many codes are little more than price-fixing setups, under which employers are making hay while the sun of Government money is giving some semblance of life to business, industry and agriculture.

The NRA Consumers' Advisory

The NRA Consumers' Advisory Board, which is specifically charged with the duty of protecting the nation from price gouging under the recovery program, is waking up from a long sleep and every-thing indicates that it will be forced very soon to go on the war-path. Whether it will take any profiteers' scalps remains to be seen.

Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey, chairman of the board, says that board charts and indexes strongly indicate that while there have been net increases in purchasing power since inauguration of NRA, rising retail prices have partially offset the increase and retarded the recovery plan by increasing prices have increased. She points to other more rapidly than wage payments dangers as follows:

SOCIALIST GAINS IN MASSACHUSETTS

Encouraging news comes f Massachusetts as a result of recent town elections.

Easthampton, an industrial town of about 10,000, which in 1932 cast -according to percentages—the second highest Socialist vote in the state, entered the municipal elections on March 12. The Socialist local is less than two years old and this is only the second election in which it has entered a ticket. Nevertheless, the average ticket. Nevertheless, the average vote for the Socialist candidates in-creased 40% over last year despite a 9% decrease in the total vote cast.

In Methuen, in spite of the fact In Methuen, in spite of the fact that the local was handicapped by lack of funds and no transporta-tion facilities to enable it to cover the 32 square miles that comprises this town, the Socialist Party waged a splendid battle. Considering the fact that it was the first party ticket ever presented to Methuen voters, the 1,067 votes registered fosters strong hope for future successes.

The local members trekked long miles through bitter storms, slush and deep snow to deliver campaign literature and pamphlets.

Prophets of Freedom

THE community that does not have a prophet THE community that does not have a prophet of industrial redemption today is out of luck. The woods are full of them. Not a week passes that The New Leader does not receive one or more "plans" guaranteed to cure all ills. Some are illustrated with charts, diagrams, figures and mysterious signs. Never were there so many money prophets. The zodiac has been helpful to some in outlining their plans for social perfection. Some see God's hand in shaping social destiny over long eras, and they prove it to their own satisfaction by quoting Scripture. destiny over long eras, and they prove it to their own satisfaction by quoting Scripture. Here and there a new type of Fascism appears, sometimes announced with trumpets, and then disappears.

The break up of capitalism is, of course, responsible for these mental disturbances. The whole tragic collapse is so mysterious to some people that without any training in economic history they turn to brooding and planning. The outcome of this brooding is pathetic, and we have no doubt that thousands of publications are receiving samples of this output. No doubt the authors are profoundly disappointed when the authors are profoundly disappointed when their plans do not appear in print and feel that they are neglected by an unkind world.

Our New Landlord

S Uncle Sam eventually to own most of the homes and send his agents once a month to collect the rent? That is a possibility. The government mortgage refinancing program, involving 4 billion, 400 million dollars, when completed will make Uncle Sam the holder of mortgages on one out of every seven homes. Through two government agencies the government already holds mortgages on 223,933 city and 1 arm homes, one out of every 62 in the nation.

In addition to this the government has financed.

In addition to this the government has financed and taken over 118,939 farm mortgages at a cost of about 189 million dollars in bonds or cash. The program for all this investment in mortwill aggregate 4 billion dollars.

Unless the NRA drags capitalism out of the ditch, many homes and farms will eventually come into the hands of one landlord, Uncle Sam himself. This is a striking example of economic collapse bringing a marked change in property relations.

Poverty Empire

INVENTORY of one state in the Poverty Empire, better known as the United States.

From November 1, 1931, to the end of last October New York State and the cities have combined their resources to feed and house the bless. One out of every five persons in the ate at one time or another has received aid. bout 600,000 families, including 2,500,000 iobless.

persons, 1,100,000 of these children, have received aid.

In New York City nearly 100,000 families are on home relief and 160,000 persons on the payroll of the CWA will be turned over to the city on April 1. Federal allowance to the city will be reduced several millions a month.

It is impossible to comprehend this vast sea of misery in one state alone. It is the most fearful indictment of capitalism that could possibly be drawn. And to think that intelligent and class-conscious action by the working masses can end this Poverty Empire when they will it! end this Poverty Empire when they will it!

Nervous NRA Officials

THE licensing provision of the National Recovery Act will expire on June 16 and it is proposed to extend it one year. It has not yet been used. It empowers the President to issue licenses to industries and those without a license cannot be operated.

Why has this issue risen? Because the codes have not bruoght sick industries out of the hospital. Last week President Roosevelt insisted on Administrator Johnson hinted that force would be used if the owners of industry do not reduce hours 10 per cent and increase wages the same amount. It is within the power of the President to bring a criminal action against owners who do not comply with codes.

All this implies that the industrial situation is far from satisfactory and that the Administra-tion is getting nervous. Over what? Unknown the but feared consequences of failure to make good. There is seething discontent throughout the country among the masses and if it were only enlightened it would aim at the extinction of capitalism, the source of all our miseries.

What Is This?

A DIRECT Credits Society has been founded in Michigan with 50 Major-Generals, 200 Brigadier-Generals, 400 Colonels, 600 Majors, 1,000 Captains and more than 16,000 Lieutenants. No privates are mentioned. Want to join the army? You can be any one of the officers mentioned by getting applications for membership, 50 makes you a Major-General, and so on up the list of boross.

What is it? A member is required to "stand for capitalism with improved finance," harmony of "Capital and Labor," and all orders come through the Commander-in-Chief. It makes a hot attack upon the big bankers, something similar to Hitler's propaganda in Germany before he came into power. All this may easily become an American Fascism. Look out for it!

Watch Spain

OUR readers may well read every news item coming from Spain, as that country has all of the factors that make for a powerful Fascist movement. Remnants of the old nobility, the monarchists and clericals, and a large peasant population provide the background. The revopopulation provide the background. The revolution was carried out by the Socialists leading, but the republican revolt also contained large numbers opposed to the Church-State of the monarchy, but with that state out of the way they were certain to part with the working class. This is always the course of revolution in nations of this type.

The drawing of the new class lines leaves the working class without its former allies and the working class without its former allies and the Socialist representation in Parliament declined. However, the Socialist Party and the trade unions have the best disciplined organizations and they are aware of the shifting of class forces against them. The third Lerroux Cabinet is a minority government, and last week the Socialists charged that a military plot was under way to restore the monarchy and a "state of alarm" was declared throughout Spain. The Socialists also asserted that the government intended to outlaw asserted that the government intended to outlaw Caballero, Socialist leader, declared that if the government attempted this "we will fight in the streets immediately, and a long, bloody civil war will begin."

Meantime, Gil Robles, Catholic leader, states that an attempt to "recapture power by violence will force us to take an anti-democratic attiwill force us to take an anti-democratic atti-tude," a hint at fascism, while the employers' association, with more than 52,000 members, threatens to organize fascist vigilance corps to fight strikers. Watch Spain. The workers may be involved in a conflict there soon.

OUR LABOR SUPPLEMENT

WITH this issue The New Leader issues a Labor Supplement which we hope to continue as a permanent feature. We are bone and sinew of the working class and know that Labor must be the basis of a satisfactory social order. Capitalism is in decline and Labor must be on the move, alert and ready to fight in disciplined solidarity against the limitless greed of the exploiters. If the Labor Supplement contributes something to this spirit we shall feel repaid for our efforts. Get it into the hands of workers and also let us know what you think of it.

Remember April 6!

Remember April 6!

Remember that Anti-Militarist number we will publish for the demonstrations throughout the country against war on April 6. We are going to make this a smashing attack upon the black forces that are again moving towards a blood-bath for the workers. Get your bundle orders in as soon as possible.

The Anniversary Number

A letter has been sent to all party branches throughout the country regarding greeting ads to appear in the Anniversary and May Day number, the biggest we have ever issued. It is important that we get returns on this letter as soon as possible as our pages have to be planned several weeks in advance. Be prompt; let us hear from you soon!

State Secretary Higgins of West Virginia sends "congratulations for the Red Vienna edition. It is fine. Contains the best write-up on the heroic stand of our brave Austrian comrades that I have yet seen."

Important Conference March 29

THE NEW LEADER has called a special conference of representatives of all party branches in New York City to meet in the People's House, 7 East 15th Street, March 29.

Every branch in the city has been invited to send three dele-gates, and elections are already being held by the various party sub-divisions.

James Oneal, editor of The New Leader, State Chairman
Louis Waldman and Norman
Thomas will be present and address the conference.

MEMBERS of the Socialist Party have, during January, organized the People's Cooperative Society. Although it is organized like the famous Rochdale cooperative movement in Great Britain, it has features similar to the cooperative movement in Belgium and in Berlin.

and in Berlin.

For a while its membership will undoubtedly be composed predominantly of party members. In fact, it has been definitely organized so that party members may, through their cooperative, help support their party financially. It support their party financially. It is time to stop subsidizing capitalism, and instead, to use the economic power of the money we spend to subsidize Socialism. This we can do by joining the People's Cooperative Society, and doing as much of our buying as possible through the People's Cooperative Society has already been accepted as a member of the Eastern States Cooperative League and is also a member of Cooperative Distributors.

A PERSONAL NOTE

By Gns Tyler

AN article which I wrote entitled A "The United Front" and appearing in a publication, "Hear the Other Side," has created a misimpression that I should like to correct.

Several weeks ago, Comrade Abraham Cahan, having read my pamphlet on "The United Front," printed last year, asked me to write an article on the same sub-ject, bringing the matter up to

It was my general impression that my article would merely ap-pear as a contribution to a magazine containing various articles of a widely diverse nature. As Comrade Cahan's publication appears in print, however, it gives 'he impression, not of being a periodical, but of being a factional pamphlet. This impression is confirmed by the very unfortunate title of "Hear the Other Side," which might be a good title for Comrade Cahan's article but certainly not for all the articles in the brochure.

To avoid any misimpression, therefore, I should like to state:

The Upper West Side Branch—Its Unit System By Which Dues Are Collected

This is the third of a series of articles on our Socialist Party Branches. The material is based on facts gathered by the Committee of Survey and Statistics, of which Gibson is chairman.

THE Upper West Side Branch is one of the oldest in the city.

ating back almost raif a century to the old S.L.P. At that time its territory extended as far north as Branch Spuyten Duyvil Creek. Today, limited to the 7th and 9th Assembly Districts (known as the "silk stocking" district) its boundaries are 58th to 102nd Street and

Central Park to the Hudson. Its the Hudson. Its inhabitants consist of fairly prosperous business men (75%), "white collar" workers, and the proletarian type (25%). The many apartment houses and apartment hotels employing Leon Gilb and elevator boys make difficult, if not impossible, canvassing and the distribution of literature.

The Branch maintains an office at 100 West 72nd Street with facilities for conducting forums, Branch meetings, executive com mittee meetings and YPSL activ ities

The facilities for street-corner meetings in this section are excel-lent. For instance, from May 25th to November 6th no less than 82 meetings were held. The audiences totaled about 17,500, and about 5,200 pieces of literature were sold or distributed with the result that 15 new members were secured. The chairman of the street meeting prepares a report covering the date, the location, the speakers' names, the attendance, the number of pamphlets sold and distributed. He secures the names and ad-dresses of persons sufficiently in-terested to be placed on the mailing list.

The report as of December 31, 1933, shows a membership of 153, with 81 in good standing.

The executive committee consists of 15 members who are active in both branch and party work. Among its 14 speakers or lecturers some enjoy city-wide reputation.

This Branch issues a bi-monthly publication, "The Comrade," which appears two or three days prior to a meeting. It carries general party news and announcements. The editors are Alexander Kuhnel, David Fenwick and Paul Linson. Up to the present, this publication has actually been self-sustaining.

A recent innovation of the Branch is the Unit System. If it proves successful it would be well to have other branches study the system. The method follows: A number of active members known "unit heads" are held respon sible for maintaining contact with five other members. These heads are furnished with dues collector's cards issued by the national office. The cards give the member's name, address, telephone, dues _ecord, occupation, financial statue, time for calling, and his political opinion. The unit head becomes well acquainted with the member and discovers his situation as it affects party relationships, brings him into those activities for which he seems best fitted, sees that he is kept in good standing through dues or exempt stamps, and generally acts as party contact for him, and personally sees the mem-bers of his group at least once each month to report the result such call.

With regard With regard to dues, assessments and other financial matters, the unit heads will_receive assign ments from and report to the Membership Committee.

In addition to routine work, the heads maintain records of subscriptions to party press and attempt to build it up. They protempt to build it up. They provide complete branch coverage for pecial events such as a theatre party or bazaar.

The system is intended to be extremely flexible. Members will be shifted from one unit to another to equalize work, and as the branch grows, additional units will be formed.

MANY UNIONS AID RAND SCHOOL CONCERT

Never have the trade unions of New York City given heartier cooperation to the Rand School of Social Science than is shown by their support of the school's big annual concert at the Metropolitan Opera House, Sunday evening, March 18th. The New York Joint Board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, the Joint Board of the Cloakmakers and the Joint Board of Dressmakers, both of the I. L. G. W. U. have taken large quantities of tickets to sell and also boxes for their members. Individual locals, Locals Nos. 10

Woolworth Prosperity In Hitler Germany

The chain store system, bitterly doomed to immediate extinction after the Hitler victory in Germany, seems to be doing quite well in the New Germany.

The German company of the in-ternationally known chain store concern F. W. Woolworth reports a total investment of $7,900,000 a total investment of $7,900,000 at the end of 1933, a net increase of $1,500,000 over the corresponding investment figure of 1932.

The steady growth of the Woolworth chain throughout Germany continues uninterrupted. The number of Woolworth stores climbed from nine in 1928 to seventy in 1932. At the end of the first year of Nazi rule, a new climax was reached with $1 stores.

English Branches of Workmen's Circle Meet

The English speaking section of the Workmen's Circle held its second general membership meeting Friday, March 9, at the Rand School Auditorium. The report of the activities, growth and prospects of the E. S. Section was given by the chairman, Frederick Shulman of Branch 650.

The meeting received with in-

Shulman of Branch 650.

The meeting received with interest and enthusiasm the address of General Secretary Baskin. He sketched certain pertinent phases of Workmen's Circle history, especially those illustrating the fighting, radical character of the organization. His spirited Socialist speech cleared away any doubt concerning the position of Workmen's Circle, and he exhorted the branches to conduct a membership campaign, promising them every aid of the National Office.

The musical program, consisting

moved by the magnificent and tragic struggle of the heroic Austrian workers.

They did not enter the fight out of frivolity. Hemmed in between Mussolini's Italy and Hitler's Germany, Austria has become the scene of Fascist advances of every variety. During the past year the Austrian Social-Democratic Party, in loyal association with the free trade unions, has swallowed the most monstrous provocations from the Dollfuss Government because it was conscious of the full significance of the decision that was at stake. It made the heaviest of the decision that was at stake. It made the heaviest sacrifices in the hope that it would succeed, in spite of the Fascist wave, in preserving the most essential parts of the democratic constitution and the hardlywon rights of the workers. But just as it was always determined not to allow itself to be provoked, so was it also determined not to allow itself to be intimidated. And when it became clear that the old plans of the Heimwehr Fascists to destroy the constitutional State and establish a clerico-Fascist regime in Austria were finally accepted by the Dollfuss Government, and that the international situation was considered by Dollfuss to be suitable for the immediate realization of his plans, the Austrian workers, knowing that only a revolutionary struggle could offer any prospect of success, had recourse to the last remaining means—the general strike and an armed struggle. They did not by any means underrate the armed force of the State and the hordes of Heimwehr bandits, but they were determined that they would rather die for their cause than go down into Fascist barbarism without a struggle.

In former days the "Vienna Commune" was the official title of the municipal administration of the Austrian capital. The old name has now received a splendid confirmation, for the Red Vienna of 1934 may proudly take its place alongside the most glorious example of the fighting spirit of the workers, the Paris Commune of 1871. Just as the Paris Commune was for decades a beacon for the progress of the international working class, so will Red Vienna be a torch for future struggles, and a warning signal for international Fascism. The days of fighting in Vienna have given this message to the world: Democracy is not sacrificed without punishment; the workers will have given this message to the world: Democracy is not sacrificed without punishment; the workers will not allow themselves to be defeated without a struggle. The fate of the wonderful municipal houses of Red Danube Waltz

THE waters of the Danube Once blue, are running red;
The time-beat of her sea march
Is in tempo with the dead....
The blood-bespattered masters
Conspire in sullen dread.... They hear their doom approaching On relentless tread.

THERE was freedom in Vienna When Vienna's flag was red. . . There was laughter in Vienna, A clear sky overhead;
The children of Vienna
Were warmly clad and fed,
Before the tyrant's minions Unleashed the scourge of lead.

THERE is waltzing in Vienna In Vienna, once so red. . . . Workers dancing on the gibbet
With a slow and dangling tread,
In Vienna, black Vienna,
Where embattled comrades bled, hear the sound of waltzes, But the dancers are the dead...

YET from Danube's bloodied billows
To Missoure's watershed
The music from Vienna
Is a call to heart and head.... The final word for freedom

Is never writ nor said

And the light the torch is giving Remains forever red. . . .

Vienna is a symbol. The constructive work of the Socialists created them, the guns of Fascism have reduced them to smoking ruins. But if the workers should ask in the future, how will Socialism fashion the world, we shall be able to point with pride to what was achieved during the fifteen years of constructive work in Vienna,

We greet the heroes of Red Vienna. We greet the intrepid fighters throughout Austria.

We bow our heads in respect before the men and We bow our heads in respect before the men and women who have given their lives for freedom. And, as it was once said by the International of the fighters of the Paris Commune, it will also be said in future of the fighters of Austria: "They remain enshrined in the hearts of the international working class."

But we, who have to go on working and fighting swear that their sacrifices will not have been made

New and difficult political problems will arise for the labor movement as a whole as a result of the heroic struggle in Austria. But today, in considera-tion for the victims of these struggles, the most urgent and immediate duty and privilege of Socialists throughout the world, and of all free and upright people, is to help the widows and orphans of the heroic Austrian fighters Austrian fighters.

The executioners of the Austrian workers, Dollfuss and Fey, who caused more destruction in the working class quarters than the enemy during the war; who have used cannon to shoot at women and children; whose hands, dripping with blood, betray the shocking crime committed against the Austrian working class, which desired nothing but peace and freedom, may be certain of the hatred and contempt of all civilized people. people.

The Dollfuss gallows have been set up, the courts martial are handing over desperately wounded men to the executioner. The realization of the Christian to the executioner. The realization of the Christian State has become the Dollfuss Government's program, the most barbarous massacres are at its first work. The Socialists of all countries, true to their old convictions, will protest against the bestial death penalty.

The dead of today will be the avengers of tomorrow. On the smoking ruins of Vienna a new Red Vienna will arise.

Long live the Vienna Commune!

Long live the world struggle against Fascism! Long live the Austrian Social-Democratic Party! Long live international Socialism!

The Administrative Committee of the Labor and Socialist International.

Max Winter Winning Much Support for Austrian Victims

WITH increasing fervor, the working people who crowd meeting after meeting addressed by Max Winter of Vienna are dedicating themselves to the cause to which the martyrs of the February battles gave their

the February battles gave their lives.

Max Winter was but a name to most New York Socialists before he arrived here after the tragic events that began February 12th. Within a few days, as more and more people came within the range of his winning personality, demands for lates began to flood the party offices and the difficulties of party officials began to consist mainly in selecting those at which the most good can be done for the women and children of Austria. Austrian Labor Funds Saved By Successful Ruse

The money was used for the purchase of large stocks of foreign bonds and securities which were deposited in foreign banks. Especially authorized labor representatives abroad were then ordered to withdraw these deposits in order to forestall a possible countermove of the Austrian authorities. Thus the former president of the Austrian Rallroad Workers' Union, now a fugitive in Switzerland, has been able to save 1,800,000 schilnow a fugitive in Switzerland, has been able to save 1,800,000 schillings for his organization. Review of and Comment on Events Here and Abroad. Critical and Otherwise By James Oneal.

The Detroit Convention

THERE is little doubt that we are in the period of the definite decay of capitalism all over the world. The workers, farmers, middle classes and professional groups face a hopeless future. In this country, the rapid reduction of millions to proletarians is amazing and that is one important test of the NRA. "Emergency decrees" may face us before the Detroit convention meets and we should not take anything for granted.

Considering our poor financial resources, we should do two things, adopt a Congressional platform for all districts and get a group of working class agitators to go direct to workers and farmers in flivvers that can be obtained very Unless we reach large sections of workers have little hope for the future.

A new type of platform should be adopted. Instead of a A new type of platform should be adopted. Instead of a short introduction regarding basic aims, this section should be the longest and the detailed measures should be reduced to a few fundamentals that correlate with the long introduction. It should indict capitalism in terms of the class struggle and state our fundamental aims. The measures should be a few, including socialization of banking, railroads, power and other basic industries such as steel, automobiles, coal, etc.; collective farming, with all the advantages of electric power, and reduction of the hours of rural labor.

"Ve should warm the professionals and the middle classes."

Ve should warn the professionals and the middle classes that Fascism has yoked them under bondage to the big magnates and that their future is bound up with the emancipation of the working class. We would thus yield nothing of our fundamental principles while at the same time call attention to the fact that Fascism really places the interediate classes more securely under the power of the upper

The platform should leave a blank space for the insertion of the name of the Congressional candidate, and be printed in a large edition at a small cost. This would also be a big financial saving for the national and local organization.

The Policy of the "Lesser Evil"

OUR Communist "friends" have raised another question in relation to the proletarian insurrection in Austria and to tactics in general. They call it the policy of choosing the "lesser evil." Their condemnation is sweeping but it lacks logic and even forgets Communist history.

Here is the problem. You strive for a basic aim which is not yet within your reach and there arises two alternatives. You are compelled to choose between the two. You therefore choose what you believe to be the "lesser evil."

If the "lesser evil" is your fundamental view of action you are an opportunist. In politics you choose a Roosevelt, a Smith or a Hoover. It is pragmatism, the philosophy of opportunism. You have no basic philosophy, or, if you have one, aim is made subordinate to method, instead of method subordinated to aim.

But even where a movement has a fundamental goal and the movement cannot, for the time being, realize it, the "lesser evil" often must be chosen because of objective con-ditions. Both Socialists and Communists have faced such ditions. Both Socialists and Communists have faced such situations and have acted in accord with the policy of the "lesser evil." When Trotzky negotiated with the German generals at Brest-Litovsk, the Communists were divided as to which was the "lesser evil," peace with German imperialism or refusal to sign. Trotzky took one view and Lenin the other. No matter which course was taken the basic aim of Communism would not be realized. Communists faced a choice growing out of objective conditions. Lenin wrote that "it was a compromise with imperialists, but it was a compromise which, in the given surroundings, was imperative." The same thing was true of the New Economic Policy. Each decision was a matter of choosing the "lesser evil."

Inconsistent Reasoning

HOWEVER, the Communists as a rule regard each decision not as a compromise but as a "strategic retreat." Where Socialists make a choice under "imperative" conditions the Communists never make allowance for conditions but denounce it as "betrayal." For themselves, they plead material necessity but for Socialists they argue on the basis of free will.

A movement may choose wrong in an "imperative" situation but that situation compels a decision. It cannot be otherwise in that situation. The same thing occurs in strikes when the workers cannot realize their full program. They may be approaching exhaustion with government power hurled against them and a compromise must be reached to realize part of their program or to even save the organization itself.

Our critics manage to keep two philosophies in their heads, a materialist realism for themselves and a free will in in the formation of glass work-dogma for all others.

INTELLECTUALS WHO JOIN TO

capitalism has caused the desertion of large numbers of its intellectuals. During the past four years there has been a flight of intellectuals into the left-wing political parties. In some cases the suddenness of transformation has been startling. In many cases one type of class-consciousness has been hastily shed for another. The word-madness of Joyce has been discarded for the revolu-tionary dialectics of Marx. Mos-cow has been substituted for Paris as the cultural center of the universe. Epater le bour-geois? No! Crush him!

This picture is probably exag-gerated. The crisis in capitalism has, however, driven many intel-lectuals to the radical classics,

THE severe crisis in American They May be to Often Lured by the Gli Function for and for the first time many have seen something of the logic of working class movements. As a y its left-wing, has received erous recruits. The men of letters have made a most flourishing debut, but they have been joined by all types of creative and pro-fessional workers. Perhaps the majority have gone Communist, attracted by the strange glitter of that exotic movement. Many,

There is, of course, nothing new in this movement of intellectuals within the range of labor activity. Ever since Robert Dale Owen and the fascinating Fanny Wright led one faction of the Workingmen's Party in New York a hundred years ago the intellectual has iplayed a part in the American labor drama. He has planted utopian colonies, agitated for free land, written pamphlets for the teight-hour day, supported ventures in cooperative production and exchange, defended trade unionism, and fought for Socialism. Through change, defended trade unionism, and fought for Socialism. Through more than a century of changing activity his contribution has, on the whole, been valuable.

Inevitably, however, certain problems arise concerning the relation between the intellectual and the social movement in which he tries to function. These problems tries to function. These proble tries to function. These problems are most acute, during periods like the present when old ideologies crumble in the debris of the economic system that gave them validity.

Sudden disillusionment and despair foster a rapid leftward movement among intellectuals. The rapidity of this movement alone produces a dangerous instability among the new recruits. With the renunciation of an old world they wish to press quickly. world they wish to press quickly to a new. They glow with extreme revolutionary ardor, an ardor that often has few roots in an understanding of social processes. It is an ardor, moreover, which cools before obstacles and reverses.

But, excelsior! we returned alive and well, and ever so much richer for the trip. Perhaps the movement also benefited. Here is a brief summary of what we

Both the machinists and the metal trades council invited me to ad-dress them, and though I sharply dress them, and though I snarply criticised the NRA and spoke as a Socialist, they applauded my remarks. The educational work of making these NRA "babies" unionists in earnest is not being overlooked by some far-sighted laborites and Socialists. In Pittsburgh a comrade w come up to me after my meeting and casually remark that he—a and casually remark that ne—a well-known Socialist—had organized several locals of rubber workers in his city, about 20 miles outside the steel town. In Jeanette and Greensburg other comrades would just as naturally tell me—as if it were not news and was to be taken as a matter of course. of helping organize the unorganized. This is one of the most cheering things we found.

We spoke at organizing meetings, union assemblies and stranger gatherings. Robert Lieberman, chairman of the Unemployed union assemblies and strike the of chairman of the Citizens' League Allegheny County Pa.

how a mass body can really function for and reach the rank and file. Thousands attend the weekly meetings of the 40-odd locals. We attended a few. We found an unusual warmth, comradeship and old-fashioned democracy. There were singing, comradeship and old-fashioned de-mocracy. There were singing, dancing, a genuine community feeling. Somehow the officers had learned the trick of making the organization a living thing. Per-haps one of the reasons is that they are all on unemployed relief them-selves, in the same boat as the membership. The idealism, good sense and rich humor of the leader-ship of the Unemployed Citizens' League was a tonic to one dis-tressed by world events.

Those Socialists and Yipsels who were doing solid, substantial work of organizing the unorganized and the unemployed did not talk about it, did not attack others for not doing it, but they took it as a matter of Socialist duty to do it.

From the first stop we made to the last we encountered the paucity of hard workers, Jimmy Higginses of the Ben Hanford type, and we also ran into petty quarreling. Cities like Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Detroit of course have well-established branches and a great deal more influence than their numbers would indicate. They are generalled (Continued on Page Six)

The New Labor Supplement

WITH this issue, The New Leader begins the regular publication of a Labor Supplement. In a sense "Labor Supplement" is a misnomer because The New Leader itself exists for the purpose of fighting the battles of labor, organized and unorganized, employed and unemployed. However, in view of the recent tremendous growth of the recent and labor movement in spirit recent tremendous growth of the organized labor movement, in spirit and in numbers, we feel that a more detailed chronicle of its struggles is necessary. This need we will attempt to fulfill in the Labor Supplement.

Now is a time of great opportunity for labor, but it is also a time of great responsibility. NRA implies dangers for the workers which they must scrupulously avoid. The right to strike and the principle of the closed shop, two vital and bitterly won weapons of organized labor, must be preserved above all else.

So far as the alleged benefits of

So far as the alleged benefits of NRA are concerned, it is a case of now you see it and now you don't. The right of collective bargaining is still subject to the evasions of employers. Company unionism is having a field day. Intimidation during polls among workers for the election of their own representatives shows the bosses at their worst. With labor representation on code authorities a rarity, minimum wages and maximum hours become just another difficulty which corporation lawyers. is still subject to the evasions of corporation lawyers have to get around—and do get around.

Assuming, even, that labor, through its own collective efforts, does eke out some gains from NRA, we are still far from Utopia. And not only will these gains be small, but they will also be ephemeral. When organized labor in America makes up its mind that it must express its economic aspiramust express its economic aspira-tions through a political party of its own, it will make gains which it can justly consider as permanent. More than that, it will move on more steadfastly towards the ulti-mate gain: the cooperative com-monwealth.

The New Leader rededicates itself, through this Labor Supplement, to the task of serving the working class in its efforts to build up a strong, clean, vigorous and class-conscious labor movement.

Workers to Protest CWA Stoppage in Washington

A delegation of several thousand CWA workers and unemployed are planning to go to Washington next week to protest against the discontinuance of the CWA program. This demonstration is being organized by a joint committee of the Association of Civil Works Employees, the Associated Office and Professional Emergency Employees, the Emergency Workers in Adult Education, the Workers' Unemployed Union, the Associated Office and Professional Emergency ers' Unemployed Union, the Asso-ciation of Unappointed Teachers, and the Citizens' Committee on Relief.

A trainload of workers will leave New York City in the early morning and will be met there by delegations from cities as far west as Pittsburgh and Chicago, according to the present plans. With the limited time available to plan the "march on Washington," it is expected nevertheless to rally several thousand workers there to march to CWA headquarters and the White House and demand the continuance of the CWA.

The fare will be $4 round trip per person. The trip will last only one day. A mass meeting is planned in New York for the day following the return from Washington to hear the report of the delegation.

Meanwhile, according to the Association of Civil Works Employees, the lay-offs of CWA workers are proceeding rapidly. Thousands are to be dismissed this week, and the dismissals are scheduled to increase until April 1, when the CWA officially will pass out of existence. What will be the method of providing for the unemployed after April 1, no official is prepared to say.

It is a great satisfaction to greet the appearance of the Labor Supplement to The New Leader. If we do not all of us take advantage of present opportunities to organize labor, and organize it right, they may not come again. This was an attack both upon the organized farmers and the wages of the 1,000 milk drivers who are members of the Milk Drivers and Dairy Union. These organized workers knew that in the event of a price war the cut in the end would come out of their wages and the price the farmer was paid for his milk. Postal Workers Protest Sweatshop Conditions Under Farley

LAY-OFFS, pay cuts, compulsory furloughs, speed-up, stretch-out and starvation wages—all the vicious tools of the worst pre-war sweatshop bosses—constitute the basis of the labor policy of the greatest boss in the world—the United States government. the United States government.

the United States government.

James A. Farley, mentor and aide of President Roosevelt, has consistently pursued this policy towards 325,000 postal employees since his assumption of the Pestmaster Generalship as part of his direction of the political aspects of the "New Deal."

Apparently to please his personal vanity, Farley has undertaken to balance the postal budget at any cost. In line with this ambition, he succeeded in saving $100,000,000 during the fiscal year ended June, 1933. But about $80,000,000 of this "saving" came out of the wages of postal workers.

out of the wages of postal workers.

Faced with another deficit for the coming fiscal year, Farley has ruthlessly proceeded with further reductions. Under the latest dispensation of this "New Deal" potentate, 25,000 substitute post office employees are completely deprived of the meager living they were making, four 24-hour furloughs during the next four months are imposed on all postal workers, all vacations are discontinued and the regulars will be required to do all the work heretofore performed by the substitutes. tutes.

That section of the organized labor movement which works for private employers will hail enthusiastically the efforts of the postal workers to defend themselves. Last Tuesday the National Association of Substitute Post Office Employees staged an impressive protest. Wearing their blue uniforms, 2,000 subs marched through the streets of New York to make known their plight.

In a strong letter to Farley, the National Association of Letter Carriers, the National Federation of Post Office Clerks and the Railway Mail Association point out to the Postmaster General that "public usefulness and not a balanced budget is the sole test of postal success."

The government's exploitation of the "subs" is in the oldest and best sweatshop tradition. The average wage of these skilled and faithful public servants is $7 a week. Although they have to report for duty daily sometimes ten days go though they have to report for duty daily, sometimes ten days go by by before they get any work. And now they are even denied the opportunity to make starvation wages. Many of them had worked for years in the vain hope of being made regulars.

New Rochelle Socialists Picket for Striking Drivers

As Wages Go Up (a Little) Prices Go Up — a Lot

IT'S no secret, even to those men who wouldn't for love or money go shopping with their wives or girl friends, that the cost of the apparel with which we hope to make ourselves beau-tiful for their sakes has risen precipitously. That cute little precipitously. That cute little dress at Macy's with lots of style and whatever else it takes to make us open our pocket-books is marked $11.74. You books is marked $11.74. You look at it closely and find that it's the same type of dress that was marked $6.74 a season ago. And you just know that it's going to fall to pieces after a short time in exactly the same way.

Well, maybe you sigh and say to yourself, "At least the peo-ple who made these dresses are getting the advantage of the increase in price." But here's the pay-off; the increase in the

I have a lot of facts and figures, names of stores and everything, in a survey made by Julius Hochman, manager of the Dressmakers' Union, which have made me turn to a frenzied study of patterns, materials and sewing machines. Hochman has a lot of skeletons hanging in one of his offices, too, the garments in question, duly receipted, which he will show to any authorized individual. Together with affidavits from important manufacturers giving the wholesale prices of the garments, these form an exhibit which proves conclusively that we poor consumers, as al-I have a lot of facts and figures with affidavits from important manufacturers giving the wholesale prices of the garments, these form an exhibit which proves conclusive- profiteering, they ought to go hide ly that we poor consumers, as al-

The went to those ways, are being given a pretty run-around and the productive workers are left holding the bag. Take that $11.74 dress at Macy's, since we started with it. (This is an actual dress, actual price and real name of the store.) It is No. real name of the store.) It is No. 882. The wholesale price is $4.45 net. A normal mark-up of 35% would bring the price of this dress to $6.01. At the present retail price of $11.74, this shows a mark-up of 141%. But wait—that isn't all. On the wholesale price of $4.45, the cost of making the dress is $1.10, or 25%. On a fair retail price, a mark-up of 35%, the proportionate cost of labor amounts to 18½%. And on the actual sale price of $11.74 the percentage of labor cost $11.74 the percentage of labor cost is only 9\%%.

It isn't necessary to give a long list, but one or two more examples are interesting. McCreery's sells a dress for $19.95 on which the markup is 102%; the labor cost is 12½%. Betty Wales, on a dress selling at $13.75 has a mark-up of 160%. That is, the dress, at wholesale, cost $5.29 and the labor cost sale, cost $5.29 and the labor cos is 7\%\%.

This gives the absolute lie to those industrialists who wail loudly in the public press, at NRA hearings and elsewhere that buying is being curtailed because of labor costs. This story, which we have in detail through the survey wade by the through the survey made by the Dressmakers' Union, is a common one in almost every industry and I hope to have the facts and figures on some of the other industries soon.

As far as the dressmakers are oncerned, work ended abruptly concerned, work ended abruptly after a short season of five weeks, throwing 80,000 dressmakers completely out of employment and bringing misery and hardship for themselves and their families.

Coming to the Point

The play and talking picture, entitled, "Death Takes a Holiday" has nothing to do with the adjournment of the Disarmament Conference.

Eugene Grace, President of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, re-ceived a total compensation of $1,635,753 for his services during $1,635,753 for his services during 1929. The Pointer was at a loss to explain why Mr. Grace should want all this money until a leading editorial in The New Yor "Times" cleared things up. A Grim May Day Gift

ACCORDING to present plans, the Civil Works Administration program will come to a close on May Day. This proposal was supported in the House with only one dissenting vote. Workers are already being discharged and this will continue at the rate of about 250,000

Does this mean that private employment is in-creasing? It does not. There is a slight upward trend of business, automobile production shows a sharp rise, steel output is higher, car loadings are heavier, but there is less soft coal mined and commodity prices are higher. There is nothing to justify the release of 250,000 workers each week from CWA employment for even the general business index does not indicate the re-employment of more than a fraction of these discharged workers.

It is a grim May Day gift that the CWA Administration is preparing for masses of illpaid workers.

Program of Socialists For N. Y. Dressmakers

Following is the text of a mesto to tage from the Dressmakers' Sor cialist League to its fellow-memor of bers in Local 22, New York, of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. This local contains 27,000 members and is one of the biggest in the I.L.G.W.U. The message exemplifies the policy which Socialist groups in trade unions are carrying out.

SISTERS AND BROTHERS:

THE Dressmakers' Socialist League, like all other Socialist leagues recently formed in the trade unions, will open a new chapter in the history of the Socialist and trade union revenent.

Too many groups and grouplets are now operating in the various unions. The Communists. masare now operating in the various unions. The Communists, masquerading under innocent names, are organized for the purpose of demoralizing the existing unions and making them an easy prey and target for their Industrial Union. There are other groups that claim they are fulfilling a certain mission in the union. But most of them are organized primarily for capturing administrations and holding offices. Some groups are organized by questionable characters with questionable ends.

The Dressmakers' Socialist League and all Socialist leagues within the trade unions are organ-ized for a much more far-sighted purpose than capturing power and holding jobs. The Socialist leagues have a background, a philosophy and a policy which, if carried out, would permanently advance the would permanently advance the interests of workers. The chief aim of the Socialist League is to propagate Socialism in the trade unions and make them a class-conscious instrument for the working class

IMMEDIATE PROGRAM

The Dressmakers' Socialist League will not confine itself to propa-gating the ideas of Socialism, but will also actively participate in the daily struggle to advance the immediate interests of the workers.

The following is a brief outline of the program of activity of the Dressmakers' Socialist League:

1—For a militant, aggressive and class-conscious union;
2—For a union democratically managed and controlled by the

3—For immediate attention and proper adjustment of the complaints and grievances of the workers;

4—For independent political action of the working class;

5—Against bureaucracy and bureaucratic methods;

6—Against racketeering in any ape or form; 7—Against dual unionism which breaks the unity of the workers and makes them impotent in their struggle against the employers; 8—Against discrimination, p ticularly as to the job; the right of the workers to earn a liveli-hood should be considered sacred. In short, the Dressmakers' Se-cialist League stands for a clean, democratie, militant, aggressive, class-conscious union which should serve uncompromisingly the inter-ests of the working class.

ELECTION POLICY

There will be two major tickets in the field in the coming elections of Local 22. One, the administration ticket supported by the "progressive group." The other, the left-wing ticket sponsored and supported by the Communists.

For the preservation of our union, the League feels that Communist control must be avoided.

order to assert ourselves as a unified force in the coming elec-tions, the Dressmakers' Socialist League had to consider the advise of supporting the present administration.

Wha is the composition of the present administration?

The progressive group that placed the administration ticket in the field is composed of a combination of forces consisting of Lovestoneites, Anarchists and So-

Although the great majority of the progressive group are Socialists, who, on election day, vote the Socialist ticket, the leadership of the group is in the hands of Lovestoneites because they act as a disciplined faction within the group. In justice to the Lovestoneites it must be said that, though professing to be Communists, for the present at least they are violently opposed to the official Communist policy of dual unionism. The Anarchists in the progressive group with whom they Although the great majority progressive group with whom they differ politically are, in the main, good trade unionists.

The trade union policy of the progressive group, with minor exceptions, is a policy to which the League has no serious objections. But to carry out even a correct policy, stable elements are needed. To assure such stability and con-sistency the Dressmakers' Socialist League feels that it should have had greater representation.

The Dressmakers' Socialist League was organized recently, and we feel that by nominating an independent slate we would be playing into the hands of the Communists. One election does not determine the life of a union.

For the present we have no alternative, and the Dressmakers' Socialist League decided to support the present administration in the coming elections. The immediate danger of the Communists capturing our union has to be avoided.

The Dressmakers' Socialist

League League calls upon its members, sympathizers and all workers of Local 22 to support in the coming elections the present administrater admitting that the bankers' limitation was an 'informal and oral agreement.' Do Mayor La-Guardia and Commissioner Hodson mean that the city will be bound by an informal and oral agreement made between the discredited Tammany administration and the discredited bankers of the city? Do they use this as an excuse for limiting relief expenditures?

"This agreement, if it was made, was never given the light of day so that the people of the city could pass or it. It has no validity in law or social justice. We will demand that LaGuardia and Hodson cease using this 'bankers' agreement' as an excuse for not fulfilling their obligation to the unemployed."

In the meantime, Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee, Socialist, wired from Washington as follows:

"Unless unemployed make demands strongly felt both by mass demonstrations and communications to President and Congress, funds will be weefully inadequate

An International Review of the Socialist and Labor Movement of the World

By Mark Khinoy

New Light on Austrian "Mistakes"

"WE have made mistakes," declared Otto Bauer, leader of the Austrian Social Democratic Party, in his now famous interview with foreign correspondents. "Of this there is no doubt. I can admit it more frankly since I am responsible." And he went on courageously analyzing these mistakes, among which the most important was not taking up arms at the beginning of the Dollfuss dictatorship in March, 1933, before the reaction was further strengthened and the working class for their weakened.

And in this case Bauer demonstrates once more his excep-

March, 1933, before the reaction was further strengthened and the working class further weakened.

And in this case Bauer demonstrates once more his exceptional loyalty to the Socialist cause and his rare ability to shoulder other men's responsibilities. For neither Bauer nor his partner in the historic drama, the valiant Julius Deutsch, were responsible for the delay of the general strike. The two were against the delay and fought in the inner circles of the party leadership for a general revolutionary offensive against the budding reaction—fought and lost. The majority of the Central Executive Committee, led by Seitz and Renner, opposed this step. Even at the last moment, when the Socialists in Linz struck, Bauer and Deutsch had a hard job in convincing the highest party council. They finally won their point, but by the narrow majority of one vote...

These sensational facts came to light a few days ago in a letter written by the well-known Russian Socialist N. Tassin, now residing in Vienna, to his paper in Paris. [This correspondence was published in toto in Russkoe Slovo of New York.] Since Tassin is a reliable journalist, an opponent of the general strike and a political ally of Renner and Seitz, we have no reason to doubt his statements.

Why the Delay?

Why the Delay?

COMRADE TASSIN tells us that at the secret sessions of the Central Executive Committee, Otto Bauer and Deutsch insisted that a call to an armed struggle must be issued immediately. "Otherwise," they said, "the fate of the German Social Democracy will be ours. Since we possess arms we must use them and without delay. To defer will be suicidal."

The so-called concillisters on "converturality".

The so-called concilliators, or "opportunists," continues our correspondent, a represented by Seitz and Renner, warned against revolutionary fireworks that might be too costly to the Austrian workers. They analyzed the military forces of the Government and the Heimwehr and came to the conclusion that "in an armed struggle we shall be the conclusion that "in an armed struggle we shall be crushed."

"But Deutsch, Bauer and their followers did not tie all their hopes exclusively with the armed uprising; they decided to call simultaneously a general strike and were certain that if the attack would be made on both fronts it would be possible so to disorganize the government machinery that victory would be inevitable!

"The 'opportunists' shook their heads. They reminded their adversaries that there are in Austria 400,000 unemployed (an enormous army for such a small country!), and that many of them would be only too glad to take the place of the strikers—if the call to a general strike should be answered. . . ."

In passing let it be noted that, in the light of later events, the fear of the "Rights" appear to have been justified. The majority of the workers did not answer the call of their leaders. Grudgingly, with bleeding souls, they continued their daily tasks, leaving the Socialist leaders with their 20,000 armed Schutzbund members to carry the gigantic

The Origin of the Arms

THE same author tells us that the armed uprising was not an accident. It was prepared by Julius Deutsch. After the armistice of 1918, when the Hapsburg Empire collapsed, the Social Democrats were temporarily at the helm of the new Republic. Karl Renner, Karl Seitz, Otto Bauer and Julius Deutsch were in the Government. Deutsch was the War Minister and he made use of his position to accumulate an enormous stock of arms for future emergencies. With the help of specially selected and trusted comrades he built secret depots for the guns and the ammunition. He even went to the trouble of buying arms from soldiers returning from the battlefields. And thus the party came into possession of an enormous quantity of guns, hand green des and ammunition, ufficient for a whole army corporates.

grenades and ammunition, sufficient for a whole army corps.

But when the real test came, the valiant leader of the Socialist Schutzbund had only the 20,000 members of his "army" to back him. They fought a losing battle, but they fought it with such determination and self-sacrificing heroism that they will forever remain a source of inspiration for the workers of the world.

In discussing the New Deal,

Our business is to agitate, edu-cate and organize. And if Socialists don't get the proper appreciation it is often their own fault.

In Alleghany County one finds a remarkable illustration of how to do the task right. The Unemployed Citizens' League has 62,000 members in seven districts with 58 Locals or Units. It has a County Central and an Executive committee and has given aid to organization in other counties and is help-

And the great joy, methinks, is not only in the getting of this relief, but in the heck of a good time this army of scrappers has in successfully getting what it wants!

has in successfully getting what it wants!

The scope of its activities includes a wider range beyond relief, although this is the all-important service. It handles housing and eviction cases. The Child Welfare committees of the Unemployed Citizens' Leagues (I have just seen their report) has taken care of their report) has taken care of 3,600 cases during the past two weeks. Their Entertainment Committees enliven the local meetings with labor plays and guide the singing features. Their Mutual Aid committees straighten out many personal problems. Most interesting is the work of the Educational Committee. Holding weekly conferences, comparing experiences, they are doing a great job. They train group leaders, prepare study course bulletins, conduct classes in English and Public Speaking, send speakers to local meetings and constant forums with social and ecoeakers to local meetings and con act forums with social and eco nomic topics.

3. Average purchasing power per employee, industrial and commercial, has declined with rising prices, and while new workers employed at minimum wages necessarily pull down the average, it appears that the low average means some gains in re-employment at the expense of those previously employed.

Mrs. Rumsey asys that evidence

Mrs. Rumsey says that evidence gathered by her board shows that arrangements to fix uniform prices have been made in the case of numerous products. This has been done, she says, in cement, chem-icals, electrical equipment and equipment and supplies, ice, coal, lumber and supplies, ice, coal, lumber and building materials, machinery and tools, office furniture and supplies, petróleum and supplies, rubber, scientific apparatus, steel and fabricated metal products, and and supplies, rubber, apparatus, steel and metal products, and some other items.

"We have reason to believe," she declares, "that these products represent only a small part of those affected by uniform price fixing. We also have evidence indicating that a number of industries have increased prices more than can be justified by increased wage payments under the NRA."

Industries which studies by the Consumers' Advisory Board indicate may have retarded the pro-"by increasing prices more rapidly than they have increased wage payments," Mrs. Rumsey says, include the lumber industry, where price increases on sawmill products appear twice as large as justified by increased wage payments; the paper and pulp industry, in which price increases seem two and a half times the increase justified by wage costs; the petroleum industry, in which the February 13.

"The tendency in some industries is to forget the recovery program in their own interests is strengthened by any arrangement to make the determination of prices a matter of agreement among an industry's members. This board feels it is vital to the success of the program to reconsider with the greatest care the arrangements authorized by the codes which have this effect and to move quickly for appropriate revisions.

"Provisions which we think should be critically re-examined include those relating to open price systems, cost provisions and cost accounting systems, restriction of output by allocation or by limita-tion upon machine hours or plant operation, or upon installation of operation, or upon installation or new machinery, systems for arti-ficially determining freight charges and market areas, arrangements to establish fixed price differen-tials for different classifications of customers, re-sale price main-tenance, and specific code authori-zations of price fixing."

Added point to Mrs. Rumsey's remarks is given by the latest report on retail food prices of the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. The bureau found that prices rose by 2.4 per cent during the two weeks ending Feb. 13. This was weeks ending Feb. 13. the fourth consecutive increase in a two months' period. The Nature of Fascism

On the one hand the Socialist novement will grow, for workers will realize there is no other way out for them; on the other hand, the capitalists and middle classes will not surrender without a fight. The middle classes will not be

But they will gain little from Fascism. Berenberg quite correctly maintains that while the middle classes form the mass base for any Fascist movement, the control rests with the big industrialists and financiers. authority rigidly. If it does, working class organizations will go the way of the unions and working class political parties in Italy and Germany; they will be crushed.

There is no chance, Berenberg believes, for the growth of a dic-tatorship on the Russian model in America. Furthermore, he cor-rectly points out, the Russian dic-tatorship is not a working class dictatorship, it is the dictatorship of the Communist Party over the

The Future of Socialism

The problem then remains: can be Socialist movement succeed, can it develop rapidly enough by democratic methods to ward off the Fascist threat? It is no secret that in many quarters democracy is sneered at today. What is its future? Berenberg answers:

New News

The all-newsreel show at the Pathe Embassy continues to be as pleasant a way as one can see, of keeping aware of the world. The ice-jams along Cape Cod, the bathing-suit show in Florida, the Hitler mock-trial in Madison Square Garden, the indoor national Square Garden, the indoor national championship foot-races, the utboard motorboat races; the pleasures and thrills, the troubles and ills, of all the human races, are filmed in weekly review. Quick shots show special items in rapid capture, as this week the "Golden Glove" finals were on the screen the day after the matches as part capture, as this week the "Golden Glove" finals were on the screen the day after the matches, as next week we may watch a fire or flood or fashion-show in action. Indeed, after the snow of this winter, there is every prospect of a flood spring. Meantime, serenely every week old Skipper Bill ploughs his way through the frozen North, showing us new places and speed. showing us new places and creatures—including the eaglets now on view in feather and flesh at the Bronx Zoo. The Embassy habit is weekly wisdom.

At the St. James.

Under the general direction of W. de Basil, the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe, another of the famous foreign companies or personalities imported by S. Hurok, is exhibiting its work at the St. James Theatre. With many graceful performers, the company is at its best in the traditional ballet forms, as in the delicately sensitive and gay "chardelicately sensitive and gay "char-acter ballet" to the music of Johann Strauss" "The Beautiful Danube." acter ballet" to the music of Jonahn Strauss' "The Beautiful Danube." In this we watch the progress of young love, interrupted by a breath of old jealousy, checkered with the bright gaiety of a public garden, all in fluid flow of pretty costume and light-footed danging. Andre all in fluid flow of pretty costume and light-footed dancing. Andre Derain's ballet of the competition between two tailors, with modern "The Six"), is better in sound than in choreographic detail; the story leaves many opportunities for humor untouched, and lacks decision and smooth transition. There is more successful work in the dance interpretation of Tchaikows-ky's Fifth Symphony, where the abstract flow of dance design at times rises to patterns of moving music by Georges Auric (one of

"Yellow Jack" Should Prove Catching at Martin Beck

The Week on the Stage

By Joseph T. Shipley

FEVER ON-STAGE

"YELLOW JACK." A history by Sidney Howard and Paul de

The stirring story of man's fight against yellow fever, as told in Paul de Kruif's "Microbe Hunters," has every gorm of the dramatic de-has every germ of the dramatic de-veloped in Sidney Howard's play. The result is an intensely interest-ing dramatized lecture, making vivid and vital the personality and the earnestness, and the tremendous importance, of man's struggle against disease. The hunt that we watch was especially eventful, involving a doctor who for nineteen years had been deemed a crank, the mosquitos he guarded, and the American Army—though through the clever stage effects of Jo Mielziner (which he calls essentialism, though in parts it's but shrewd makeshift) we journey to London and West Africa and Cuba, and watch action of 1900, 1927, and 1929. and vital the personality and

The four privates who volunteer, two for the bites of infected mosquitos, two for the "dirty house" where they sleep in blankets and wear clothing of victims of the fever, are the most fully developed forces though we are all the state of fever, are to oped figures—though we may suspect a slight movement toward caricature. Two of them, volunteering, refuse the proferred $300; one accepts it to go back to his Southern home and find him a wife; the other, a son of Israel and a disciple of Marx, accepts the money to go back to Chicago and print radical literature. And their volunteering made possible the Panama Canal. And of this bit of history, Sidney Howard has built a powerful presentation, interest--though we may susa powerful presentation, interest-ingly and vividly produced.

Dancing Looks at Life

The dancing of Belle Didjah, as seen at the Forrest last Sunday, reveals a talent growing more aware of its powers. A winsome personality, with a gentle but effective humor, marks her moods, especially in her "Moving Creatures," from wood sprite to "subway angel" a greature of logs and way angel"-a creature of legs and

In our age the dance deftly suggests the culmination of the several urges of the past, with the jazz rhythm and pace that seem to mark a basic restlessness, a fundamental lack in our civilization. It is strange to recall that the Soviet dancers recently seen here performed gymnastic 19th century ballet modes, when dancing is, as Belle Didjah's work shows, inevitably a comment

The educational value of the news, and the newsreel as a spreader of general information, and an antidote to the gossip-and-scandal tabloids, is esphasized by the Scholarship Contest to be held by the Madison Ave. and 59th St. Trans-Lux Theatre. A number of varied scholarships, to professional schools, to summer-camps, etc., will be awarded to the girls and boys—from 8 to 25—who show fullest recognition of significant news and ability to express their opinions of current events.

Miss Sophie Kerr, of the Sponsors' Committee, comments: "I think we all agree that perhaps now is the most important time in many years to seriously direct the attention of young people to the study of current events, especially in view of the rapidly changing economic, social and political conditions of the entire world. I sincerely trust this conworld. I sincerely trust this contest will help to further interest in current history through the study of the printed word, the voice of the newscaster, and the visual impact made possible by the newsreel to clarify and fix in people's minds the conditions under which they are living today."

ECONOMIC STABILITY

Throughout the sixteen years of its existence, the Soviet Union has met all of its obligations without resort to moratoriums, "stand-still agreements" or reductions of any kind.

It has displaced leading powers of the world in point of industrial production and now stands second only to the United States. The First Five Year Plan involved an expenditure of $26 billion at par for the national economy.

With a gold production in 1938 of more than $50 million and a gold reserve in the issue department of the State Bank of the U.S.R. of $416 million, the total bonded gold debt of the Soviet Union is less than $15 million—less than that of the average small American City. Its commercial indebtedness, of $250 million, is less than even the funded debt of any one of several American cities.

These achievements are due di-

FOR THE FORESIGHTED INVESTOR

THE foregoing facts serve to emphasize the desirability of Soviet Government 7% Gold Bonds. Here is a bond whose principal and interest payments are based upon a fixed quantity of gold, payable in American currency at the prevailing rate of exchange. Interest is paid quarterly at The Chase National Bank of New York.

The bonds, issued in denominations of 100 gold roubles, are priced at par and accrued interest. (A gold rouble contains 0.774234 grams of pure gold). Their cost in American currency is based on the daily quotation of the dollar in terms of gold. Naturally, any further depreciation in the dollar would enhance the value of these Gold Bonds.

In order to insure long-term marketability, the State Bank of the U.S.S.R. has agreed to repurchase these bonds on demand of the holder at par and accrued interest at any time after one year from date of purchase.

Circular . 1 fully describing these bonds will be sent upon rea Soviet American Securities Corp.

These achievements are due directly to the State Planning System—in control of every factor affecting Soviet national economy.

The New Mexico Socialist Convention

The New Mexico Socialist Convention

By Leon A. Cousens, State Secretary
The most successful convention in the history of the party in New Mexico was recently held. The delegates represented live and active locals in many parts of the state.

The convention was called to order
by State Chairman Hale S. Duncan after which the keynote address was delivered by the state organizer. The entire convention proceeded with excellent efficiency. The committees reported in the afternoon session and the principal debate was on the question of immediate demands in the platform. By a vote of 12 to 6 the convention adopted the "single plank platform" presented by the Southwest Socialist Encampment
last September at Pine Crest, Colorado.
It was the sense of the convention that immediate demands ought to be expressed by the organization of the oppressed workers and farmers at the precise point of exploitation.

C. Frank Powell was elected state chairman, and his wife is state secretary. Others members of the new S.E.C. are Ann Webster of Santa Fe, Maureen Sigler of Albuquerque, W. C. Tharp of Clovis, Dr. E. R. Frost of Hot Springs,
C. W. Cole of Hatch, Hale S. Duncan of Clovis, Dr. E. R. Frost of Hot Springs.

For the fall election Dr. E. R. Brost of Hot Springs was named for Governor,
G. W. Lawrence for Lieutenant Governor, and Mrs. Maureen Sigler for U.S.
Senators the convention named W. C.
Tharp for the long term and T. N.
Hutchinson for the short term. Excellent front page publicity was received from the press, the news going over the press, wires to all papers in the state.

It can be said without exasgeration that the Socialist Party in New Mexico is already a factor that the eld parties will have to contend with in the coming election.

David Rinne of the Pennsylvania S. E. C. and Milton Weisberg, National organizer of the Y.P.S.L. addressed the convention and were with us during its whole period. Their presence was an inspiration to the delegates and both were accorded a vote and a voice in all the proceedings.

At 4 p.m., Sunday, the delegates departed, many of whom had to cross three mountain ranges. All were enthused and prepared to carry the message of Socialism to the electorate of the "Mountaineer State" in the cam-that it would be put into effect.

The victory is the more significant because of the fact that all cant because of the fact that all parties are wiped out except the Labor Party of Socialism and the so-called Municipal Reformers, the party name under which the Tories operate in municipal elections. The so-called Progressives—the name under which the Liberals contested municipal elections—disappeared in the avalanche of Labor votes.

The new London County Coun-consists of 69 Socialists and 55 Tories, replacing the out-going Council of 80 Tories, 38 Socialists and six Liberals.

Socialists and six Liberals.

The victory is the more remarkable considering that for the County Council there is no universal suffrage. Only "householders" may vote, lodgers and "service occupiers" (that is, servants, butlers, etc., who sleep in their places of employment) being disfranchised. If there were universal suffrage the Socialists would have won by a landslide.

Even East Fulham went Labor.

Even East Fulham went Labor. That constituency had always been a Tory stronghold both for Parliament and for the L.C.C. When last October John Wilmot, Socialist, won the parliamentary seat a hy-election by a majority of at a by-election by a majority of 4,840, overturning an anti-Labor majority of 14,521 at the previous election, it was considered a "freak" result. That the section is a solid Socialist gain is indicated by the victory of Isbor in ed by the victory of Labor in L.C.C. elections.

Herbert Morrison, leader of the Labor Party in the L.C.C., and Minister of Transport in the sec-ond Labor government, announced the program of the Labor govern-ment of London to be inaugurated the moment the new Council took possession of the beautiful County Hall directly across the river from the Houses of Parliament.

Slums will be cleared and 100,000 separate workers' homes will be built, he said. Hospital service will be overhauled and all hospitals will be equipped with service to the taxicabs, in I masses as the main objective. Old schools will be rebuilt, teachers' sidered the salaries will be restored to the level that obtained before the MacDonald government began Government.

slashing them, and the "ignominious atmosphere" will be removed from the system of relieving poverty. The L.C.C. under Labor Party control, said Morrison, now has "definite moral authority to adopt a forward policy."

The London County Council is the body that most closely corresponds to a municipal government in America, although there are important differences. In England all government consists of single chambered legislatures, the Council or Parliament, as the case may be, selecting executives by the cabinet system, or employing executives as experts responsible to the majority of the Council. The London County Council is so-called despite the fact that there is no London country. The jurisdiction of the Council covers schools, hospitals, relief, and especially housing. Police and fire protection are covered by the Home Office, headed by a member of the Cobinet, and street cleaning and rates—or local taxation—are cov-Cabinet, and street cleaning and rates—or local taxation—are covered by the separate governments of the 27 boroughs that make up London, a number of which have Socialist governments. The County government covers the metropoli-tan area in which dwell some 5,000,000 people, next to New York the greatest city in the world.

Ever since the establishment of the L.C.C. in 1888 Socialist mem-bers of the minority have urged bers of the minority, measures of social reform, and many leading Socialist and labor received their first many leading Socialist and labor statesmen received their first training in public work as mem-bers. Herbert Morrison, who will occupy a position roughly corresponding to that of Mayor in a great American city, is considered one of the ablest of the younger Labor leaders of Great Britain. As Minister of Transport he did remarkable work in coordinating all transportation services, elevated, subways, trams, buses and taxicabs, in London under a public Authority. The local Communist paper. The The local Communist paper, The Daily Worker, came out lately with a triumphant announcement that Paul Loebe, former Socialist president of the Reichstag, is becoming a Nazi. This news should be taken with a barrel of salt. For it comes—and the Communist sheet knew it when it wrote the distribe—from the same Berlin. Walter Otto, ex-president of the Communist faction of the Bezirkstag in Leipzig, and Fritz Basecke, ex-president of the Communist aldermen in the Lame city, just terminated their evolution from Stalin to Hitler. What to Fight For

SOCIALISTS, trade unionists, and all friends of labor and justice should fight for all they are worth for the following measures in Washington:

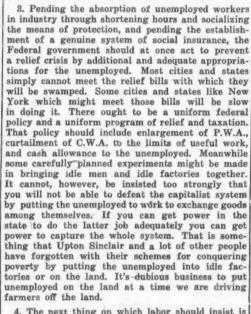

1. The Wagner Bill to abolish company unions. This bill can be improved with regard to the composition of the Labor Board and by adding protections against any possible drift to the danger of compulsory arbitration.

Nevertheless a bill outlawing the company union is ing the company union is vital to any possible suc-cess of the machinery of the codes as a protection for labor.

2. Better unemployment insurance. In a Socialist paper in this brief cata-logue of bills it is needlogue of bills it is need-less to repeat the argu-ment for the absolute necessity of a comprehen-sive scheme of social in-surance which should cover, among other mat-ters, unemployment. It is impossible now to apply what are called sound ac-tuarial principles to an tuarial principles to an insurance bill and have it adequate. That is to say, a sufficient reserve fund cannot be set up in an emergency. The Federal government will therefore have to provide for startan outright grant. The cost of unemployment insurance with an outright grant. The cost of unemployment insurance should be borne by employers and by the public and not by underpaid workers.

4. The next thing on which labor should insist is the passage of the Nye resolution calling for an investigation of the criminal role of armament makers in fomenting fear, suspicion and hate in order that they may get the benefit of fat contracts for war preparations. Again I urge everyone who can to go to a library or wherever he can get hold of that expensive capitalist magazine "Fortune" for March and read there the amazing exposure of the March and read there the amazing exposure of the crimes of the armament makers.

5. All labor should be behind the demands of the post office employees that Postmaster-General Far-ley's boasted savings will not be increased or continued at their expense. It is outrageous that the government should advocate higher wages in private industry while it reduces the wages of its own employees, in some cases, as in the case of substitute postal clerks, to sweatshop levels.

Finally Socialist and labor men and women in Finally Socialist and labor men and women in New York—yes, 'the whole body of consumers—should actively demand the passage of the public utility bills giving municipalities the right to make and distribute power. We Socialists have demanded that for years and now that bills are in the Legislature they can be pushed by us. The objection of the public utilities companies is precisely what ought to be expected. It may be a little expensive to beat to be expected. It may be a little expensive to beat the private utilities companies by municipal competition but it is an expense we can well afford rather than a continuance of their arrogant, monopolistic extortionate control over us.

Socialists in Memphis and across the river in Arkansas are doing a grand job in carrying on the fight I started when I was in Arkansas concerning the plight of share croppers. It may be necessary for them to issue an appeal for the help of some of the evicted share croppers. The Boston family, which perhaps unfortunately for its members got some publicity in connection with my visit, has been evicted. A telegram from Professor Amberson of Memphis tells me that the family is temporarily taken care of. We are bringing all possible pressure on Washington for action to stop a wave of evictions of share croppers from the huts they are obliged to call home by landlords who get paid by the government for not planting cotton and then drive share croppers out on the road. There is no legal protection that is at all adequate in the contract and the enforcement of the contract is worse even than the contract. Unless Secretary Wallace and his associates find something better than the pious wishes they have heretofore been expressing in behalf of the share croppers, some five to eight hundred thousand are likely to be driven out on the road to add to the ranks of the migratory workers who are unemployed or to city unemployed. The Air Mails

IT is a great pity that apparently someone in the Army told President Roosevelt that army fliers could do what they couldn't do; namely, carry on mail deliveries on short notice in bad winter weather. It is a pity because this mistake will be used to hit public ownership and to defend the kind of profiteering that was carried on by the subsidized air mail lines.

We should remember the facts. It was the gov We should remember the facts. It was the government itself which pioneered in opening air mail lines. Only after they were safely developed were they turned over to private companies plus a great subsidy. The policy of the Hoover administration was to encourage the big companies. President Roosevelt did right in striking at this immense system of subsidies to profiteering interests. The unfortunate thing was that his plans for substitute action were not in good shape and that neither unfortunate thing was that his plans for substitute action were not in good shape and that neither Farley nor the War Department seemed to have advised him well. His present plan for turning mail back again to private companies with more competition is not good. Instead the government should set up as a branch of the postal service, under the competent direction of a non-military board, mail and passenger services on air lines. At a time when we are thinking of nationalizing railroads it's an outrage to build up great vested interests in air travel. As for the Army, even militarists might admit that before we keep spending a lot more money on the army we should find out just how well based are its excuses for failure in competence, though not in courage, in the matter of air mail distribution.

The Party's Drive
THE deep abiding impression I get from my almost continual traveling is the opportunity we have now for Socialist organization and the desperate necessity for it. We can get the jump on fascism by acting vigorously now. We can't get the jump on fascism unless we have organizers. We can't have organizers unless we have a little money to pay them. Hence the vital importance of the United Socialist drive. Every Local should come through one hundred per cent.

Our Party's Literature

ONE cause for encouragement is the improvement in Socialist literature. In this connection I want to say a somewhat belated word of praise for David P. Berenberg's thoughful, well written, and easily understood text book, "America at the Crossroads." It ought to be of great use in lots of classes. Moreover it's good reading. Especially I want to praise the "American Socialist Quarterly," 7 E. 15th St., New York City. We have long needed such a publication and we have one now of which we need not be ashamed. The current number is of high grade. Every Socialist ought to familiarize himself with the arguments C. D. H. Cole puts forth in his article "Socialism and Monetary Policy." There is a very great danger in a great many parts of the country that monetary reforms or alleged reform will be put in the place of Socialism as it was in the old days of the Populists. In "Socialism and Democracy" Andrew J. Biemiller starts a useful line than the ONE cause for encouragement is the improvement line of inquiry, a much more useful line than the dogmatism for and against democracy of which we have been inclined to have too much. The rest of the articles are up to this high standard.
